Island cycling highlighted in Toronto

Tourist cyclists sought

by Michael Erskine

TORONTO—Manitoulin Island and the surrounding LaCloche Mountain foothills provide some of the finest cycling opportunities to be found in Ontario, but an information vacuum exists about what the region has to offer to the greater cycling community. Manitoulin Island Cycling Advocates (MICA) representatives Maja Mielonen and Guy Nielsen stepped up to fill that vacuum at the 28th annual Toronto International Bicycle Show.

The show ran from February 28 to March 2 and is the largest bicycle consumer show on the planet. This year's show featured new bicycles, accessories and apparel available from over 150 manufacturers, distributors, retailers, touring companies and cycling clubs displaying their most up-to-date wares for the thousands of cycling enthusiasts attending the show to review. The show provided a unique opportunity for MICA to showcase the virtues of the Island to literally thousands of potential visitors.

"This is the first time that Manitoulin has been represented."

Community helps as winter threatens deer

by Alicia McCutcheon

MANITOULIN—While many landowners and volunteers have stepped up to do their part for Manitoulin's deer population, the harsh winter is catching up with the herd and the weakest are starting to die from malnourishment.

Ian Anderson, a member of the Manitoulin Area Stewardship Council (MASC) and deer management committee, explained that in the area of his Kagawong home over the course of the last two weeks, he has seen two dead fawns, one dead yearling and one fawn within a day of dying—the result of a record-cold and snowy winter on Manitoulin Island.

"This is too early to be losing deer like this," Mr. Anderson said. "This is the earliest I have seen it since I've been on Manitoulin."

Thanks to donations rolling into the MASC-sponsored deer save program from concerned citizens and the Little Current and United Fish and Game Clubs, a bulldozer, manned by Aaron Corbiere of Corbiere Enterprises, was currently at work in Kagawong, breaking trails for the deer.

"Right now we're using the bulldozer in the Kagawong area on five different 100 acre lots," he explained, adding that not more than three hours is spent on any one property so as to get as many trails as possible. "As money permits, the bulldozer will be on the move."

Mr. Anderson was effusive in his praise for Mr. Corbiere, who has been generous with his rate and has thrown in his travel with the dozer as his own personal donation.

Mr. Anderson said it is heartening to see deer tracks on the bulldozer tracks immediately following the trails being opened. The blade on the bulldozer, he explained, isn't lowered right to the ground so as not to disturb the land.

"We're trying really hard to create no disturbance and to use existing trail systems if at all possible," he added.

Different areas of the Island are reporting varying states of distress with the herd, Mr. Anderson said, noting that the snowfall patterns on the Island also differ, and this is likely related to the state of the individual herds. Many in Billings and Allan report seeing the telltale sign of a deer in distress—a big fuzzy face indicative

Animal Welfare aids 100+ pet owners in '13

by Michael Erskine

MANITOULIN—Abandoned, but not unwanted, pets arrive at their new homes sometimes in need of medical attention, often malnourished and ill. But thanks to the efforts of a visionary individual 10 years ago, veterinary bills need not be a barrier to adoption.

The Manitoulin Animal Welfare Fund helps to fund veterinary bills, taking a significant portion of the burden off of the prospective adopter of an abandoned animal, especially to spay or neuter the pet. It also helps lower income people keep their pets when the animal becomes ill.

Administered by the Township of Central Manitoulin, the Manitoulin Animal Welfare Fund is entirely donation driven and although it has teetered close to the brink a few times over the past decade, it has always recovered enough to meet the need.

"It's certainly doing its job," said Central Manitoulin CAO Ruth Frawley, who estimated that the fund deals with between 100 and 150 animals each year.

The fund pays one-third of the veterinary bill, the adopter/owner pays one-third and quite often the veterinarians themselves will step up as well. But the fund is not a shelter.

"There are some misconceptions out there," said Ms. Frawley. "Somehow people got it into their heads to think we take animals. The municipality has an animal control officer who fills that role. This fund is just for sick and injured animals. If someone has had an animal for more than three days, we consider that they have adopted the animal."

There are some exceptions, if an animal is adopted ...continued on page 12

Gore Bay Theatre nails Crime and Punishment down cold

by Michael Erskine

GORE BAY—Taking a massive tome like Dostoyevsky's 'Crime and Punishment' and whittling it down to a 90-minute stage production is an incredible accomplishment, and Marilyn Campbell and Curt Columbus pulled it off in award winning style. But taking three characters, bringing them to life and developing the key storyline takes incredible dedication, hard work and talent. In the two productions delivered onstage this past Saturday and Sunday, the cast and crew of the Gore Bay Theatre simply nailed it down cold.

This isn't comedy. There were no laugh-a-minute diversions or slapstick routines to leaven the loave in this production. The action was gut wrenching, raw and emotional, with each of the actors laying bare the souls of their characters in a manner that captured the attention of the audience, riveted it to the stage and did not relinquish its hold for a single moment of the 90-minute run.

Chris Cayen's Raskolnikov ripped the flesh from the skin of the main character, laying bare the soul of a tortured brilliant young man under the glare of the stage lights.

Vincent Belenson's relentless detective Porfiriy Petrovitch was played with exquisite understatement, helping to define the character of Raskolnikov and rounding out the edges with the skill that only such a well-seasoned

thespian could bring to the role. Mr. Belenson's facility at filling in the role of Sonia's father and the accusatory role of conscience were adroitly performed with such smooth transition that there was no interruption or interference with the suspension of credibility.

Jessica Lajoie's Sonia drew further nuance on the canvas that was Raskolnikov, lending pathos and likability to a misguided young man who committed so heinous a crime. Ms. Lajoie's portrayal of the evil pawnbroker and her saintly sister proved the impressive range of her character skills as well.

The stage was set in simple style, with the more complex set pieces designed by award winning stagecraft maestro Richard Gamelin having to be left out of this production to await their turn on the larger QUONTA stage.

The original music composed and performed by Jean Lavalle complimented the production beautifully and sound technician Dylon Whyte ensured the timing was impeccably executed.

Co-directors Andrea Emmerton and Walter Maskel have created a masterpiece in this work that certainly deserves wide recognition and stands as an outstanding credit to all of the Gore Bay Theatre company.

Towers family of Sheguiandah rebuilding after family home destroyed by fierce fire

by Alicia McCutcheon

SHEGUIANDAH FIRST NATION—The Towers family of the Sheguiandah First Nation, who recently lost their home to a blaze, has been relocated to a new home in the community thanks to the fast acting staff of the band, Shannon Towers is pleased to report.

While she has not heard definitively the cause of the fire, Ms. Towers said she is fairly certain that the fire's cause was electrical in nature. The March 1 fire completely gutted the home while Ms. Towers was away at a youth retreat at Anderson Lake. Her two sons, Cody and Phoenix, were home at the time of the fire and each suffered from some smoke inhalation.

When she got the phone call stating that her house was on fire and upon learning that her sons were okay, Ms. Towers said she felt "relieved."

The Towers family is known in the community for looking after cats and dogs, of which there were many in the house. UCCM Police took one cat and one dog to veterinary hospital following the fire. The family's mother cat, which was missing after the fire, reappeared when Ms. Towers visited the house the morning after, peering out from the wreckage. "She's okay," she was glad to report.

The family is in need of virtually everything and an account has been set up to assist with recovery at branches of the TD Bank. The account is in Ms. Towers' name and is numbered 6041287. Donations of clothing are also greatly needed and can be dropped off between Monday and Friday at the Sheguiandah First Nation Health Centre. The boys require sizes XL and L while Ms. Towers and her mother, who also lives with the family, need sizes L and XL.

"My sons are okay and happy," she said of life after the fire. "We're getting a lot of help—we're lucky. All in all, we're so lucky."

Ms. Towers said that although the reason may not be evident right now, she's a firm believer in "there's a reason for everything" and she continues to look ahead with a positive attitude.

Assiginack Public School secures $10,000 grant for musical instruments

by Michael Erskine

MANITOWANING—Assiginack Public School teacher Ray Scott didn't try to contain his enthusiasm when contacted about the news that his school had just received a $10,000 grant from MusiCounts to purchase new musical instruments for the school's music program.

"It's pretty fantastic," he enthused. "A lot of people applied for this grant. It is amazing that out of all of those applying, we were among those organizations chosen to receive the grant."

Mr. Scott explained that the school has musical instruments now, but that those pieces are nearing the end of their lifespan. "We have had instruments which have been generously loaned to us by other schools," he said. "But those instruments are very old and are starting to show their age. That was the impetus for seeking the grant."

The school wasted no time in ordering the new instruments, which Mr. Scott said he hoped would be in place following the March Break.

Most of the instruments are smaller brass, like flutes, trumpets and clarinets, but there will also be some lower brass, including three trombones and a tuba-like instrument. The variety of instruments is important to the success of the program. "Different people thrive on different instruments," explained Mr. Scott. "Some people's lips are shaped differently or their jaws might be a different size."

Each student tries out the different instruments to determine that which they are most suited to. "The student chooses three instruments," said Mr. Scott.

MusiCounts is a program administered by the Canadian Academy of Arts and Sciences, the same people who bring us the JUNO Awards. "The program is part of their outreach to communities," said Mr. Scott.

Over 300 schools applied to the program, but only 70 schools were successful in being awarded the grant. "Out of those 70, we got the maximum amount possible," said Mr. Scott. "We are very grateful."

"Music is the universal language that transcends all barriers," said Melanie Berry, president and CEO of CARAS/The JUNO Awards and MusiCounts in a release following the awards. "Making music makes you smarter and through the power of music, we can make a difference."

The grants are provided as part of the MusicCounts Band Aid Program, which distributes $600,000 in grants to schools across Canada. The program is conducted in conjunction with Music Canada. Music Canada is a Toronto-based, non-profit trade organization that was founded in 1963 to represent the interests of companies that record, manufacture, produce, promote and distribute music in Canada.

Manitoulin municipalities struggle with shifting blame at Good Roads conference

by Robin Burridge

TORONTO—Representatives from the Northeast Town and Assiginack Township attended the Ontario Good Roads Association (OGRA) and Rural Ontario Municipal Association (ROMA) joint conference in Toronto last month. Though the Northeast Town was able to make some headway on its issues with the Manitoulin Planning Board, Assiginack was unable to have any of their concerns addressed or even snag a one-on-one meeting with a minister.

Northeast Town Mayor Al MacNevin said he was pleased with his meeting with the minister of Municipal Affairs and Housing (MMAH) Linda Jeffrey at the conference and said she offered her ministry's support in dealing with the Northeast Town's ongoing issues with the planning board.

"We were also invited, along with 17 other municipalities, to a breakfast meeting with Minister of Transportation Glen Murray," said Mayor MacNevin. "We discussed the issues around the canceling of the Connecting Link program. We, along with a lot of the other municipalities, talked about how the program cancellation was going to greatly hinder future development. For us, the meeting was really important because they (the MTO) cancelled the program before phase three of our highway project in Little Current. We were there to discuss solutions with the minister, but Minister Murray said it was really an issue with reduced funding."

The excuse of reduced federal funding was something Assiginack clerk Alton Hobbs also heard throughout the conference.

"We were unfortunately unable to get any minister meetings," said Mr. Hobbs. "We discussed concerns about the costs associated with our water treatment plant (the need to replace water filter membranes at both the Assiginack and Sunsite Estate plants) at the NDP Northern Caucus, but we got the sense that all four parties are in election mode and are more concerned with the election than the municipalities' needs."

Mr. Hobbs said that in general, he heard that there was little provincial funding available due to federal cuts.

"The leader of the Green Party, Mike Schreiner, had the best quote of the conference," said Mr. Hobbs. "He said 'there is no magic pool of money to solve your funding problems,'" noting that this was something most municipalities heard repeatedly.

The Orenda appropriate 'Canada Read' and 'Island Read' too

It's no surprise that the Joseph Boyden novel The Orenda was the winner of last week's annual CBC 'Battle of the Books' event, Canada Reads.

It's unsurprising because, in spite of the merits of each the final five contenders in the event where a winner is determined through a five-hour broadcast debate (over as many days) among panelists (each of whom champions one of the novels in play), The Orenda was determined to be the book that best informs Canadians about a topic of national importance.

Although The Orenda is set in the mid-seventeenth century, it is also set close to Manitoulin, along Georgian Bay's southern shores, and its three main-protagonists represent the players in Canada's early history: a member of the Huron people, a member of the Iroquois people and a French Jesuit missionary whose character is deemed to be inspired by the historic character Jean de Brebeuf, (one of the two martyrs to whom Midland's Martyr's Shrine is dedicated; the other Jesuit martyr, Gabriel Lalemont, is memorialized on Manitoulin through the church at Birch Island that bears his name).

Brebeuf and Lalemont were missionaries in the Midland area and, from that same mission, a cadre of Jesuits came to Manitoulin Island as the region's first European residents, remaining at Wikwemikong for about two years (1648 to 1650).

So The Orenda's story is in many ways Manitoulin's story, once removed.

In the period in which The Orenda is set, the Odawa nation (which would have hosted the Jesuit missionaries at Wikwemikong over three and a half centuries ago) were firmly established on Manitoulin Island, along the present-day Bruce Peninsula and along eastern Georgian Bay. Hunters and gatherers, research shows that many Odawa groups traditionally over-wintered in the more agriculture-based and permanent Wendat communities, part of the large Huron nation of the day that is the focus of The Orenda.

The Odawas and the Hurons/Wendats was clearly allies and, for each, the Iroquois were the traditional enemy as this large nation had its own "manifest destiny" whereby it was continually expanding its territory (whether by warfare or alliance) beyond its traditional base along the north and south shores of Lake Ontario.

As a result of continuous Iroquois incursions together with a tremendous toll taken on its population by European diseases such as smallpox and measles, the Huron people were reduced to only a few scattered and small settlements dispersed through present day Canada and the United States and the Huron language is sadly among those First Nations languages that have been declared to be extinct.

The Huron people's traditional adversaries, the Iroquois, are still largely settled along Lake Ontario, east to Montreal along the St. Lawrence and west to the large Six Nations community near Hamilton.

The Hurons'/Wendats' allies the Odawa (and now the rest of the three Fires Confederacy, the Ojibwe and Potawatami whose languages all stem from common Algonquin roots) are the successors to their Lake Simcoe-Georgian Bay territories in modern-day terms so it's certain that many of the children enjoying the annual Little NHL tournament this March Break week in Mississauga have Huron ancestry and, ironically, will be competing in friendly play with Iroquois players descended from the Six Nations community as well as from other Iroquois and Allied Indians communities in Ontario.

The Orenda is an especially good choice for the 2014 CBC Canada Reads book-of-the-year for Manitoulin people (of First Nation and European descent alike) simply because this early story of First Nations nationhood leads directly, (via alliances at various times with colonizing French and English interests) to the nineteenth century treaties (1836, 1852, 1862) with which we're familiar and which shaped Manitoulin Island into the series of communities we know today.

The Orenda sets the scene for modern times, introducing the European influence through the Jesuit priest.

As a slice in time very relevant to the history of our own Island, it is an important book indeed and, hopefully, is available in all of our public libraries and school libraries and also as a reference text when local history is taught in our schools.

Congratulations Joseph Boyden and congratulations as well to the CBC for giving national and international prominence to a book that successfully takes a moment in our history and develops it in a way such that it is now much easier to look backwards and see a little more clearly how we've become the unique community we are today on Manitoulin Island, complete with members of the Jesuit order still carrying out their priestly duties in virtually all of our Roman Catholic parishes here, a nod to the first priests/first Europeans to settle on Manitoulin and on this fact we can further look both forwards and backwards into history for Fr. Poncet, SJ, the priest who led the mission to Manitoulin in 1648 was called away less than two years later following an Iroquois incursion on his home base near present day Midland that not only destroyed the mission and saw his contemporaries Fathers Brebeuf and Lalemont tortured and killed by the invading force, but also foresaw the end of the Huron/Wendat people as a nation.

Writer stands firmly against fracking on Manitoulin

A well researched opinion backed by references

To the Expositor:

I am a seasonal resident of the Manitoulin Island and I want to go on record that I vehemently oppose fracking on the Island for the following reasons:

1. It completely destroys the ground water for eons to come as a result of the pollutants that are released.

2. There is evidence to prove that as a result of fracking the incident of earthquakes increases dramatically

3. www.nbcnews.com/science/science-news/confirmed-fracking-practices-blame-ohio-earthquakes-f8C11073601

4. http://commonsensecanadian.ca/REPORTED\_ELSEWHERE-detail/yukon-fracking-threatens-groundwater-safety-hydrologist/

5. <http://www.huffingtonpost.ca/2013/07/09/athabasca-river-oily->

sheen-fort-chipewyan\_n\_3568305.html

6. My family dates back to the earliest settlements on the Island and I have instilled in my children and grandchildren the true value and natural beauty of the Island and I would be saddened by this affront to the pristine quality of the Island.

For the above reasons I stand firmly against fracking. Look at the damage to the environment that has been going on for years as a result of fracking. And as they admit they do not understand ground water. And that is what this is all about.

I would like to be helpful in whatever way I can be.

Get off Rob Ford's back

Politicians at all levels are finding ways to steal our money—at least he isn't

To the Expositor:

Nobody wants to get off Mayor Rob Ford's back. Well take a look at it this way: at least he was not stealing taxpayers' money to have his fun and he did save taxpayers' money in Toronto. Take a look at provincial and federal government politicians, they're stealing taxpayers' money to pay for their luxurious ways because they do not like somebody who is trying to do good for the citizens, especially when it comes to your tax dollars. Hydro One is gouging money off citizens and I bet it was the energy minister behind this, giving orders to Hydro One to do this.

Rob Ford has other ideas how to save money for taxpayers and these other politicians do not like that idea. They would rather pocket taxpayers' money because all levels of government are like that. They always have a way to steal your money and there is nothing you can do about it because they have the power and you gave it to them. They say bullying is against the law, but that's what they're doing, they're self-breaking their own laws—how stupid can you be?

When corporations and industrial companies are getting so many tax breaks, when they should be paying their share of the taxes according to their profits yearly, and no more tax breaks for them, this country would do a lot better and citizens would have more money to spend.

Relief expressed for 'at capacity' rating for Manitoulin

Gratitude that the Ontario government is protecting our natural environment

To the Expositor:

I am glad to see the Ontario government's bill to further protect our natural environment from invasive species ('Anglers, hunters support proposed legislation for invasive species eradication' March 5, page 1).

One of the greatest immediate dangers is the potential invasion of Asian carp into the Great Lakes. Our native fish population has already been through devastating invasions. The first sea lamprey in Lake Huron was spotted in 1932, and quickly became the scourge of the Upper Great Lakes. By 1945 the trout catch around Manitoulin Island was down to just two tons. There's a connection between this invasive species story and Lake Manitou, because Lake Manitou, so far, is a safe haven for lake trout. It is free of sea lamprey! That's one reason why it is so important not to pollute this special lake trout lake.

I am relieved the Ministry of Natural Resources is declaring Lake Manitou as "at capacity" ('MNR ends Lake Manitou development, March 5, page 1) to try to prevent further deterioration of the lake trout habitat there. Despite the top headline, 150 existing lots will be developed, which still sounds like a lot for a lake that currently has dissolved oxygen levels below standard for lake trout habitat.

Thank you,

'Inspiring change' was the theme of this year's Women's Day

by Betty Bardswich

MINDMOYA—Manitoulin Family Resources (MFR), a non-profit agency seeking to enhance the lives of individuals and families, partnered up with the Seeds of Joy organization to celebrate International Women's Day at the Mindemoya Missionary church on March 8. A good number of women attended the session which marked the seventh annual event for Seeds of Joy and the sixth for MFR.

The Seeds of Joy group was started in 1999 by Ciann Strickland of Little Current. "There was a time in my life when I couldn't afford to go to retreats," Ms. Strickland explained, "so when I had money I put some in to get it started for women for healing renewal and personal growth." As the literature explains, the association is a not-for-profit community organization that supports women in various community events and activities, is non-denominational and believes strongly in the concept of women helping women. The Mission Statement talks of supporting women both spiritually and financially, offering them opportunities for renewal, healing and personal growth and enabling them to nurture their bodies, minds and spirits.

Ms. Strickland welcomed everyone to the celebration and spoke of the official declaration of International Women's Day on March 8, 1913. "We are inspired today to light up women's worlds," Ms. Strickland continued as she introduced women who light up her life and thanked Marion Knopp, Linda Willson, Holly Burnett, Joan Bell, Mary Ellen Bailey, Chris McCartney, Lucy Halla, Kerri Lattimer, Dagmar Werkmeister and Jane Hubbard. "This is my team," she said, "and they are responsible for this event today. And I also thank Brenda Clark. We probably could not do this without Manitoulin Family Resources."

Ms. Clark, the violence against women prevention (VAWP) program director for MFR, offered a welcome to those in attendance on behalf of the agency. "It is nice to see so many women here today," Ms. Clark said, "and with all the activities going on, it is almost International Women's Week."

The special guest speaker was Barb Tate, who said, "The theme this year is inspiring change and women do that. We have to be able to go inside and see our flame and acknowledge our flame and know our self. Women light themselves when they gather together. We emanate. We share our light. We empower each other's light when we gather in a circle because the circle is strong. We all have a beautiful flame inside and it is important to emphasize that flame and to share that flame always. We may never know how we light someone's life up."

The Seeds of Joy organization also holds day workshops and two weekend retreats scheduled for March and October. The day events include mask making, mandalas, journaling, labyrinths, collage, circle dancing and drum making and are held by request. The retreats are held at the Anishinaabe Centre on the outskirts of Espanola. Holly Burnett, who lives in Little Current, has been to a retreat. "It is a very relaxing weekend and very informative," she explained. "Women are getting together and are able to bond and work on their personal growth." The cost of the retreat is $240 and begins Friday after supper and ends Sunday after lunch and includes meals, accommodation and all supplies. Or two women could share a room and pay $195 each. For more information, call Ms. Strickland at 705-368-3030.

Brenda Clark, Violence Against Women Prevention Program Director with Manitoulin Family Resources, and Ciann Strickland, founder of the Seeds of Joy organization, welcome women to a celebration of International Women's Day held at the Mindemoya Missionary Church on March 8.

International Women's Day is celebrated every March 8 with over 100 countries participating in celebrations for gains made and demonstrations to further empower women whose rights are less than those of males. Here in Canada, it was a blow to all women when, just days before Women's Day, the federal government, through the Special Committee on Violence against Indigenous Women tabled a report that says there should be no inquiry. It is believed that there are over 800 cases of murdered and missing aboriginal women in this country.

Island community rallies against gender violence and promote self-care and healing

LITTLE CURRENT—There was overwhelming participation and support for the Women's Wellness Day and One Billion and Rising for Justice events that were held by the M'Nidoo Minissing Coalition Against Domestic Violence last Wednesday in Little Current in honour of International Women's Day.

Organizers reported that there were over 70 participants at the

The over 70 individuals who attended the Women's Wellness Day had the opportunity to explore booths from local organizations and business in addition to participating in workshops.

"It is a really wonderful day and we are so lucky to be here in a country where we can have a day like this because in many, it would be illegal," began Ms. Albers.

Ms. Albers went on to share how she had been a victim of sexual violence as a child and how the experience shaped her life.

"I am a survivor, not a victim," said Ms. Albers. "Not everyone gets through what I did alive."

When asked, she explained that she speaks about what happened to her as a way to turn something terrible into something that might help someone else.

The Women's Wellness Day was a focus on self-care and healing with yoga, a catered lunch, guest speaker and workshops.

After breakfast, a morning yoga session and an opportunity to explore the vendor marketplace, guest speaker Tammy Albers bravely shared her personal story of gender violence.

Congratulations on the creation of the Aboriginal Country Music Association

It was four hours of great music and stories

To the Expositor:

We would like to congratulate Roger Daybutch for starting the Aboriginal Country Music Association and also to those that were the first inductees of Wikwemikong.

What a tribute it will be to the many aboriginal musicians on and off the Island to be recognized for their talents.

On Saturday, March 1 we had the opportunity to enjoy some of this talent at the awards in Wikwemikong.

Thank you to all those who assisted Mr. Daybutch with this evening. It was four hours of great music and stories.

Hopefully, the people of Wikwemikong will band together and see Hardy Peltier's suggestion of a special place being provided to show case the musicians awards, pictures etc. of all those who have provided entertainment in the past and those of the future.

Thanks again for a great evening.

Hunting on private property without permission nets $1,500 in fines

MANTOULIN—A Walford area man has been fined $1,500 for hunting offences under the Fish and Wildlife Conservation Act.

Ronald Sangster pleaded guilty to two charges for hunting white-tailed deer on a property without landowner permission. His firearm was seized at the time of the offence and will be returned once the fine has been paid.

Court heard that in November 2013, conservation officers responded to a complaint of a hunter trespassing and killing a deer on private property. Upon investigation, it was found that Mr. Sangster had killed two deer without the required written permission.

James Bubba heard the case in the Ontario Court of Justice in Gore Bay on February 6, 2014.

People who want to hunt white tailed deer on Manitoulin, Barrie and Cockburn Islands must have written permission from landowners to hunt on their property. For further information on hunting regulations, please consult the 2013-2014 Hunting Regulations Summary available at ontario.ca/hunting.

To report a natural resources violation, call 1-877-TIPS-MNR (847-7667) toll-free any time or contact your local ministry office during regular business hours. You can also call Crime Stoppers anonymously at 1-800-222-TIPS (8477).

OPP asking for public's help with distracted driving campaign

Irresponsible driver behaviour has the Ontario Provincial Police (OPP) concerned about the fate of many road users this year as officers prepare to launch their next campaign against distracted driving.

In 2013, distracted driving fatalities surpassed both impaired and speed related fatalities in fatal motor vehicle collisions investigated by the OPP. A total of 78 persons died in distracted driving related collisions com-

Panthers take silver!

Congratulations to the Manitoulin Bantam Panthers who represented the Island well as hosts and competitors in the NOHA Tournament of Champions for the B level teams this past weekend. The team outclassed most of the competition all weekend long. In their first game on Friday afternoon, the locals whipped the best Sault B team 13 – 1 with Mike Megwanabe taking first star honours with a couple hat-tricks plus! Friday night the lads jumped out to an easy 6-goal lead in the first period and then made things interesting as they held on for a 6-3 win against the north's Iroquois Falls. The Panthers repeated that results against the Porcupine Jr. Gold Kings on Saturday morning. On Sunday Morning the home squad drew Kirkland Lake and the Panthers earned a championship berth with a close checking 1-0 over GM City. On Sunday afternoon the Panthers met Nickel District League foe Elliot Lake. In a well played match the Panthers were edged 3 – 1 and picked up the silver medal. Way to go: Braedan Case, Patrick Snowdon, Tait Wallace, Mike Megwanabe, Adam Goodfellow, Ethan Corbiere, Nathan Debassige, Dakotah Hare, Chandler Yashuk-Clark, Cole King, Mason Pine, Noah Moreau, Greg Doane and Jalen Wain-dubence.

This coming weekend it is the Panther Midgets to turn play hosts! Their first game is slated for 8:20 this Friday evening, March 14 at the NEMI Rec. Complex.

Thunder storm in Walden

The Mindemoya Thunder Peewees took in the annual Walden Friendship Tournament in Walden last weekend. Very fresh off their dramatic series win over M'Chigeeng to win the Island Championships, the Grade 6/7 group was poised for big things. The Orange and Blue, who has played in the annual Lively March Break tournament for years, pulled off their best showing yet. The powerhouse squad was undefeated in the round-robin portion of the event and then needed overtime in the championship game to decide. With just seconds in the extra frame, Chris Haner secured the trophy with a great goal.

Congratulations on an amazing season to: Teigan Seabrook, Taylor Smith, Jasen Millette, CJ Wilson, Connor Mack, Quinn Coker, Sean Orford, Ethan Smith, Chris Haner, Hunter Cranston, Matthew Redmond, Jonah Gilmore, Marjorie Scott, Maddy Niven, Avery Sheppard, Morgan Wall-Varey and Trinity Leeson. The Thunder team staff includes: John Coker head coach, Al Haner assistant coach, Lori Leeson manager and Anne Marie Scott is their trainer.

Island Basketball Championships

The annual elementary basketball championships took place last Tuesday with the boys facing off at Lakeview and the girls meeting in Little Current. In the boys' event CMPS and Lakeview went into their final game (against each other in the single round-robin, no-playoff format) both undefeated with CMPS having 8 points in 4 wins and Lakeview had 7 points from their 3 wins and a tie. In their showdown, CMPS came out of the first half with a 6-2 lead. After a well played second half and a few timeouts called by the coaches from both sides, Lakeview came out on top with a 16-10 win. Congratulations to Lakeview's coach Travis Corbiere and team members Danny Feir, Niihge McLeod, Kyle Debassige, Jacob Genereux, Joel Trudeau, Pierre Debassige, Shannon Debassige, Maverick Bushey, Alyx Sego, Johnny Bushey and Nyron Panamick-Hare and to all the teams who demonstrated sportsmanship and played hard.

In the girls' tournament, Wikwemikong took the title with strong play all day long. Congrats to Shawl Eshkibok, Delaney Webkamigad, Harmony Rivers, Dehmin Eshkawkogan-Recollet, Peyton Manitowabi, Aurora Ominika-Enosse, Summer Trudeau, Shyaya Shawanda, Apryl Pangowish, Darlene Mandamin-Turner and coach Deana Debassige.

Babstock earns another accolade

For the third time in her illustrious career, senior forward Kelly Babstock (Wikwemikong First Nation) was named to the All-ECAC (Eastern College Athletic Conference) Hockey First Team. This is the fourth All-ECAC Hockey honour and her First Team selection for the third time. Kelly leads the team and ranks eighth in the country with 49 points (19 goals, 30 assists) in 36 games in 2013-14 became the first Quinnipiac women's ice hockey player to reach the 200 career point club and helped guide the Bobcats to an undefeated season thus far and sit 4th in the 12-team Ivy League. Good luck in the playoffs, Kelly.

Active Adults

This week's spotlight is on three women who have been working hard at improving their fitness levels. On top of their regular active lifestyle, the trio is part of the weekly Mellow Movers program hosted by Friends in Fitness trainer Deb Graham in Little Current. Congratulations to Betty Turnbull, Ursula Paxton and Denise Organ. Keep up the good work, ladies!

Wikwemikong and Whitefish athletes vying for spot at Indigenous Games

by Sharon Lavallee

OTTAWA—Wikwemikong Unceded Indian Reserve teamed up with Whitefish River First Nation to provide an opportunity for youth to partake in the track and field tryouts in an effort to represent Team Ontario in the upcoming North American Indigenous Games (NAIG).

These tryouts took place in Gloucester, Ontario on March 1. NAIG will be taking place from July 20 to 27 in Regina in a multi-sport event involving indigenous North American athletes (ages 13-19) that has been held every three years in various cities across North America since 1990. The NAIG event includes an intense week of friendly sport competition and serves as a showcase for a range of cultural events and activities that are held throughout the games. The games bring together 21 regions to participate in 16 sporting events in various age divisions, each hoping to win the gold, silver or bronze medal for their region.

The youth's adventure started on Friday, February 28 when they departed Wikwemikong with Derek Assiniwe of Shegtown Bus Lines in the driver's seat and a brief stop to pick up the Whitefish River First Nation youth. Then it was off to Ottawa for a good night's sleep in preparation for the day's events. Their initial intimidation by the caliber of expertise was quickly diminished, and they all gave it their best in an effort to gain a spot to represent Team Ontario. They demonstrated excellent sportsmanship, team effort and provided each other with encouragement, as did the visiting Ottawa relatives who came out to cheer them on. The youth participated in a variety of events such as the 100 metre, 200 metre and 400 metre sprints, the 1500 metre, high jump, long jump, triple jump and shot put.

Our youth fared quite well considering they were competing with adults in this open track meet. Peyton Manitowabi shared, "It was a really good experience because not a lot of kids get to go to these types of things and I was proud of myself for what I did."

Shyaya Shawanda said, "My highlights included running on the big open track, getting to learn new techniques for sports and I got to meet new people."

Delani Rae Trudeau shared, "I had a really great experience on the trip to Ottawa to tryout for NAIG and I think more kids should go a tryout—meegwetch."

The results from this track meet will be compared to the rest of the other tryouts that took place over Ontario and whether or not one made the team will not be known until April. This experience not only gave these athletes an opportunity to demonstrate their talents, but was also a chance to build friendships with other First Nation youth.

Ontario is nearing the end of its search for potential athletes. There are still a few more events that will be hosting tryouts such as soccer in mid-March in Sudbury, basketball and badminton at the end of March in Rama First Nation, and canoeing later in the spring in southern Ontario. For more information search Facebook for Aboriginal Team Ontario, Wikwemikong Active Youth or visit q.

The athletes send a big meegwetch to Wikwemikong Unceded Indian Reserve, Whitefish River First Nation and Andy's for their financial contribution to make this endeavour possible.

Rivermen secure No. 3 playoff seed with OT triumph over Nickel Barons

ESPAÑOLA—Mack Boyce's first goal of the season, 3:11 into the first overtime, propelled the Espanola Rivermen to a 4-3 come from behind victory over the Sudbury Nickel Barons Friday night in Northern Ontario Junior Hockey League play at the Regional Recreation Complex.

With the win the Rivermen secured the No. 3 overall seed in the upcoming playoffs and confirmed that they will meet the same Nickel Barons in a best-of-seven quarter-final series.

Sudbury struck for two tallies from Jonathon Lavigne in a 34-second span to go up a pair before the midway mark of the opening period.

After Espanola's Daniel Robertson connected on the power play at 13:25, the Nickel Barons' Austin Veleke chased Rivermen starter Marc Terriault after just 20 minutes as he found the back of the net late in the frame.

Kevin Labelle came in to start the second and the move paid off as Connor Gilmartin started the come back for the home side scoring twice, once in the first minute along with another in the final minute, to level the proceedings.

After a scoreless third extra time was required when Boyce buried the game-winner and his first marker in an Espanola uniform to give his side the triumph and nail down the third seed and a postseason date with Sudbury.

Blake Peavey and Brennen Dubchak dished out a pair of assists to aid the cause of the winning side.

Labelle registered the win in relief stopping all 19 attempts he faced.

Andrew Lefebvre turned aside 24 of 28 he saw in a losing cause in which his club picked up a point.

The NOJHL announced Sunday its schedule for the quarter-final playoff series between the Espanola Rivermen and Sudbury Nickel Barons.

Due to a number of arena conflicts and ice availability the best-of-seven affair will actually see No. 6 Sudbury serve as the home team for the opener even though No. 3 Espanola is the higher seeded squad.

Game 1 will go today, Wednesday, March 12, at McClelland Arena in Copper Cliff at 7:30 pm.

The Rivermen will in turn then host games 2 and 3 on Friday, March 14 at 7:30 pm and Sunday, March 16 at the Espanola Regional Recreation Complex.

Game 4, which goes at 7:30 pm on Wednesday, March 19, also features another potential ice issue with the contest either being held at the Davies Community Centre in Walden or back at McClelland Arena.

The venue for that match-up will be confirmed as soon as it is finalized.

The Northeastern Manitoulin and the Islands Recreation Centre in Little Current will be the site of game 5 in the series if required. It will be held Friday, March 21 at 7:30 pm.

If necessary, game 6 is slated for Sunday, March 23 at McClelland Arena at 7:30 pm. Should a seventh and deciding game be needed, it will be staged back in Espanola on Wednesday, March 26 at 7:30 pm.

In other NOJHL matchups, the No. 1 Soo Thunderbirds are set to meet the No. 8 Blind River Beavers while the No. 2 Kirkland Lake Gold Miners will take on the No. 7 North Bay Trappers. The No. 4 ranked Abitibi Eskimos going up against the No. 5 Elliot Lake Bobcats.

Thunderbirds take division win

The M'Chigeeng Thunderbirds Bantam division won the Island A Championship on Tuesday, March 4, defeating the Manitowaning Wolves in a best of five series. The Thunderbirds had an amazing record of zero losses in the regular season and one loss in the playoffs. Pictured are, back row, from left, Coach John Ense, Brandon Debassige, Niihge McLeod, Danny Feir, Maria Hare, Jacob Genereux, Colt Bennett, manager Paula Corbiere and trainer Gary Genereux, middle row, Oha Cada and his younger brother Chase, Cassandra Bisson and her younger brother Brian, Meeshen Corbiere and Brett Ense, front row, Brandon Anwhatin and Kyle Debassige. Congratulations Thunderbirds on another successful season!

The team includes Danny Feir, Niihge McLeod, Kyle Debassige, Jacob Genereux, Joel Trudeau, Pierre Debassige, Shannon Debassige, Maverick Bushey, Alyx Sego, Johnny Bushey and Nyron Panamick-Hare.

Elliot Lake Jr. Bobcats win the NOHA Bantam B Tournament of Champions

by Robin Burridge

LITTLE CURRENT—It was a great weekend of hockey last week in Little Current with the Manitoulin Panthers hosting the Northern Ontario Hockey Association (NOHA) Bantam B Tournament of Champions. Though the Panthers lost the championship to the Bobcats in a tight championship game Sunday, friends, family and fans were on the edge of their seats throughout the weekend, enjoying some of the best hockey in the North.

Kelly Timmermans was the weekend's master of ceremonies, entertaining the large crowd Friday night at the opening ceremonies. The event opened with a procession of the eight teams in the tournament including the Elliot Lake Jr. Bobcats, the Porcupine Jr. Gold Kings, Cochrane Blues, the Kirkland Lake GM City, the Sault Major Personal Touch Auto, West Nipissing A-1 Mats, Iroquois Falls and the Manitoulin Panthers.

"Welcome to all the teams and their families this weekend," said Ms. Timmermans. "They say when you cross the swing bridge it changes your life forever."

A First Nation traditional drum group honoured Manitoulin's heritage, followed by Little Current's Katie Harper singing the national anthem.

Northeast Town Mayor Al MacNevin also said a few words before the game got underway between Iroquois Falls and the Panthers.

"On behalf of the community, I would like to welcome all the players, coaches, family and fans," said Mayor MacNevein. "I look forward to a great weekend of hockey. This tournament is also an opportunity for both yourselves and us to get to know each other. I would also like to thank the organizers for bringing this great event to our community. Thank you."

The ceremonial puck drop was overseen by NHL legend Reggie 'the rifle' Leach, who took the opportunity to remind the tournament players how lucky they were.

"It is great to see all these hockey players," said Mr. Leach. "You are so lucky because you get to play the best game in the world. This is the best time of your life! People say that hockey is dead, but I just see it getting stronger and stronger. The game of hockey is very special. Welcome, and while you are here enjoy yourselves and do the best job you can do."

The Manitoulin Panthers started the weekend off strong, beating Sault Major 13-1. In their next game against Iroquois Falls they kept their energy strong and powered out another win 6-3.

On Saturday morning, the Panthers continued their winning streak, crushing West Nipissing 6-3.

Sunday morning's game was a little more of a challenge for the Panthers, but they still came out the winners 1-0 against Kirkland Lake.

The final championship game between the Elliot Lake Jr. Bobcats and the Panthers had everyone cheering loudly. The teams were head-to-head, tied at zero until the Panthers finally scored at the end of the second period. Moving into the third, the Panthers seemed like the obvious victors, but the Bobcats came back strong scoring three goals. Not even removing their goalie in the last minute could save the Panthers, as the Bobcats kept them busy defending their net.

Though the Panthers seemed disappointed as they skated off the ice, with hoots and hollers from the Bobcats as they threw their helmets and gloves on the ice in the background in triumph, the Panthers played the best they could and came in a respectable second in the North.

Little Current will also host the Midget B NOHA Tournament of Champions this upcoming weekend, Friday, March 14 to 16 at the recreation centre. The action will get underway with the Blind River Midgets versus the Cochrane Rush at 6 pm on Friday followed by the Manitoulin Panthers versus the Timmins Flyers at 8:20 pm.

All are invited to attend the opening ceremonies at 7:50 pm on Friday night.

Lakeview School wins Biidaaban Classic Hockey Tournament

SAGAMOK FIRST NATION—Lakeview School from the M'Chigeeng First Nation once again demonstrated its ice hockey prowess by winning the A division championship at the 25th annual Biidaaban Hockey Classic. Hosted by the Biidaaban School from the Sagamok First Nation, this annual tournament features hockey teams from various elementary schools along the North Shore and Manitoulin Island. Lakeview's team, coached by John Roy and assisted by Travis Corbiere (trainer), Lorraine Corbiere-Debassige (Manager), Mitchel Payette and Rising Sun Hare (assistant coaching staff), went on to beat a strong team from the Biidaaban School with a score of 9 to 6 in the A division championship.

The Lakeview School hockey team were the A division champions at the Biidaaban Classic Hockey Tournament. The team includes Kyle Debassige, Noah Hare, Danny Feir, Ashlyn Hare, Jacob Genereux, Dakota Hare, Shannon Debassige, Oha Cada, Alyxander Sago, Randi Lynn Lovelace, Cassandra Bisson, Caleb Blackbird, Johnny Bushy, Maverick Bushy and Nyron Panamick.

Manitoulin Island artists cultivate creativity through new group

by Robin Burridge

MANITOULIN—A new group for Island artists, born out of the Manitoulin Cultural Symposium and Action Planning event held last year, held its second meeting recently, inspiring discussion and future collaboration among participants.

Organizer Kate Thompson, a M'Chigeeng writer and artist, explained that the group was started by several individuals who attended the symposium and wanted to continue the great energy and discussion through creative drop-in sessions around the Island.

"These informal drop-in sessions are open to any person involved in any form of creativity and culture, from any community on Individuals discuss what they want out of the new group focused on connecting individuals on the Manitoulin who are involved in creative or cultural activities.

Manitoulin Island or Birch Island," added Ms. Thompson.

Individuals are encouraged to bring something to work on and share with the group.

"We plan to hold these gatherings every month in different communities around the Island," she continued. "We see lots of possibilities for them, which we can shape together as time goes along."

The diverse group at the last meeting included writers, quilters, fiber artists, painters and actors.

Ms. Thompson shared with the group that she was pleased with the turnout and that "the word must be spreading about."

She said that through meetings she hoped the group could address the ever-changing landscape of arts and culture on the Island through workshops, discussion, networking with other artists and learning new skills or techniques.

A unique element of the drop-in sessions is that they are being held in different artists' homes across Manitoulin, giving individuals the chance to visit communities they don't often get to.

The group established they would like to continue holding the drop-in sessions once a month on Sunday afternoons with an informal agenda.

For more information, or to be added to the group's emailing list, contact Ms. Thompson at katej51@yahoo.ca.

Northeast Town Council Notes

Country Fest organizer requests extended beer tent hours

Country Fest organizers Kelly and Craig Timmermans made a deputation to council last week, requesting an amendment to their site plan agreement with the town to extend their beer tent hours from 11 pm to 1 am on the Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights of Manitoulin Country Fest in August.

"As you may recall, we spoke about this with council back in 2012 with the hopes of extending it at that time," said Ms. Timmermans. "There were concerns expressed, especially considering the venue was new and there was so many unknowns going in."

Ms. Timmermans explained that for the past seven years, they have hired OPP and in the past few years even supplemented that with private security to "ensure we have a safe, family friendly environment."

She also noted that the change would help keep the "party crowd" to a more controlled environment (the beer tent) and away from campers who wish for a quieter time at their tents and trailers and which would allow the OPP to better supervise the crowd, with the private security company patrolling the camping area as well.

Councillor Marcel Gauthier told the Timmermans and council that he had "no problem supporting the request," but suggested that temporary permission be granted to extend the beer tent hours just for this year and that if it goes well, discuss making the change permanent.

"I'll also support this," said Councillor Bill Koehler. "They (the Timmermans) have held Country Fest now for eight years without incident (with the OPP)."

Mayor Al MacNevin told the Timmermans that it looked like extending the beer tent hours "wouldn't be a problem," but explained that council had to wait for its next meeting on Tuesday, March 18 before a motion could be put on the table due to council's new procedural bylaw (that prevents council from making motions based on deputations on the night they are made).

Town to hold community picnic

The Northeast Town council carried a motion based on a recommendation from the Community Services and Public Works committee to hold a community picnic in July.

Many councillors were concerned with the high price tag of the picnic at $4,000, leading to a stipulation in the motion that the children's entertainers at the picnic would only occur if the town secured the funding to cover the cost ($2,000 of the $4,000 total picnic costs).

Northeast Town request spring bear hunt be expanded to include municipality

While reviewing a letter from David Orazietti, Minister of Natural Resources and a map outlining the areas in Northern Ontario which will be included in the spring bear hunt, the Northeast Town council carried a motion requesting that the MNR expand the spring bear hunt to include all of the Northeast Town due to past problems with bears.

Council declares October Lupus Awareness Month

The Northeast Town council carried a motion last week recognizing May 10 as World Lupus Day and October as Lupus Awareness Month.

"Be it resolved that October 2014 is hereby designated as 'October is Lupus Awareness Month' during which lupus organizations around the globe call for increases in public and private sector funding for medical research on lupus, targeted education programs for health professionals, patients and the public and world-

...musical instrument grant

"Music education is a gift that keeps on giving—from the obvious benefit of inspiring our future generation of musicians, some of whom will go on to become ambassadors for Canada around the world, to preparing students for careers in a variety of disciplines including technology and science, to instilling respect in the creative process," said Amy Terrill, vice president public affairs at Music Canada in a press release. "Music education is as important as the three Rs and we are proud to do a small part to ensure it remains a priority."

Mr. Scott noted that the Rainbow District School Board has been very supportive of music programs within the schools, but when a school is as small as Assiginack Public School there are many challenges of scale to offering the music program. "There are always competing pressures and challenges (on funding)," he said. "Not everybody has the comfort of being able to offer everything they would like to." That is part of what makes the MusiCounts grant so timely.

wide recognition of lupus as a significant public health issue," reads the motion carried by council.

Northeast Town supports renaming of Highway 6 in honour of veterans

The Espanola Royal Canadian Legion Branch 39 sent a request to the Northeast Town council, asking for their support in the renaming of Highway 6 from the junction of Highway 17 and 6 to Little Current, as the "LaCloche Foothills Veterans Memorial Highway."

"The members of the Espanola Royal Canadian Legion Branch 39 is desirous of renaming the above noted portion of Highway 6 south to a name that would show our continued respect, appreciation and support of all who have served in the Armed Forces to preserve the rights and freedoms of this great county," states the letter from branch president Jack Fraser.

Council carried a motion to support the Legion in its endeavour of renaming the highway.

Council approves financial reports

Town CAO Dave Williamson reviewed the Northeast Town's financial reports with council at last week's administration and finance committee meeting as town treasurer Sheryl Wilkin was away.

The committee recommended to council that the financial report be approved.

Canada Post to reduce office hours

Mayor MacNevin shared a letter with council from Canada Post, informing the town of its intent to reduce the hours of operation at many of their locations, including Manitoulin Island, across Canada.

"Their rates are up, coupled with massive reductions to service," said Councillor Michael Erskine. "This is privatization by stealth. I am not happy."

"The post office in Sheguiandah is very important to the community," added Councillor Dawn Orr. "I won't support this."

The administration and finance committee recommended to council that they carry a motion opposing this change that would then be forwarded to Canada Post.

Town land sale completed after 30-year gap

The Northeast Town council reported after an in camera session last week that it had carried a motion directing staff "to complete the sale of Howland Concession 1 Lot 37 to Evert and Barb Jansen as per the letter dated December 8, 1982 at the established price of $192.50 and on condition that the purchaser covers all legal and survey costs associated with the disposition. ## NOTICE TO TRUCKERS 2014 SPRING LOAD RESTRICTIONS

Under the Highway Traffic Act, the province enforces reduced load restrictions on trucks to protect Ontario's highways during spring thaw, when road damage is most likely to occur.

Restriction on permits issued under the Highway Traffic Act:

All annual and project permits for moving of heavy vehicle loads, objects or structures, in excess of limits set out in the Act, unless otherwise specified, are not valid on any highways during the months of March and April in the southern portion of Ontario, and March, April and May in the northern portion.

For this restriction, the province is divided, west to east, by a line formed by the Severn River to Regional Rd. 169; Regional Rd. 169 from Washago to Hwy. 12; Hwy. 12, from

py with the process."

The workforce on the wind farm project in mid-summer swelled to over 100 people employed by White Construction with roughly half that number of workers currently. Mr. Kaminski explained that White also had over 20 subcontractors employed at the site. Once the project is completed, Northland Power will employ three people in full-time jobs, including the manager's position, with General Electric, the turbines' manufacturer, employing an additional two people.

"We are very pleased that with that many workers performing daily activities for an extended duration, the project safety record continues to be very good," Mr. Kaminski added.

The collector system, located along the 20th Sideroad in the Green Bush, is also nearing completion and Mr. Kaminski reports that the Northeast Town, Rick Bond of the Manitoulin Snowdusters and the lead contractor with White Construction met last week and, in time for an expected increased use of the Snowdusters' trails for March Break, equipment has been cleared out of that section of the Island's trail plan.

While work along that section of trail is finished, the heavy equipment has left the trail too rough for safe use, he added.

...expert cautious in predicting seasonal rise

"It's too early to say what the seasonal rise will be like," Mr. Southam said, emphasizing his cautious nature. But reports that Lakes Huron and Michigan will rise up to 36 centimetres may not be true, he said, as not all this snow will result in runoff directly impacting the Great Lakes. The best option is for rain to melt the snow, which would lead to runoff, he added.

"I am more optimistic that water levels will likely be higher than last year," Mr. Southam said, but not as optimistic as some news agencies are leading us to believe.

Cooler waters due to ice cover will mean less evaporation this spring, but this, he said, is not the key factor in seeing a rise in levels. "The most important thing is how much runoff and rain we will see this spring," he reiterated.

"If the snow sublimates (the conversion of snow to vapor without the intermediate liquid stage), it won't help the rise," Mr. Southam said flatly.

The water levels expert encourages Islanders to watch the snow in their backyards or driveways to determine whether it's runoff or sublimation.

However, he laughed, "I'm definitely happier and more optimistic than I was at this time last year."

"It's just a matter of wait and see."

"The act of jumping up and down and getting excited is not a very useful approach," said Colin Dobell, founder and executive director of Stop the Drop, a non-profit campaign to raise the profile of low water level issues in the Great Lakes, who explains that people would be setting themselves up for a 'Chicken Little'-like scenario.

"If you use the long term (lake levels) average, at this moment we're below by 33 centimetres," he added. "It's important to be happy and see this as an improvement, but we're still 33 centimetres below average at a time when every other Great Lake is at or above its long term average."

Mr. Dobell said a balanced approach is necessary when dealing with Great Lakes water levels. "Where we can absolutely stand firm is that the increase in climate change is causing a huge amount of volatility."

It is this volatility that caused some Georgian Bay municipalities to shell out $26 million in shoreline improvements such as dredging and the same municipalities also had to deal with flooded roads when the April rains came last spring.

Mr. Dobell said we should be concerned about our lack of resiliency when dealing with volatility.

"From that viewpoint, the International Joint Commission's recommendations make a lot of sense," he said, adding that Canadians need to find a balance between instituting tools

(for example, underwater sills or 'speed bumps' such as have been suggested for the St. Clair River to slow down the outflow from Lake Huron into Lake Erie) and adaptive management.

Currently, Mr. Dobell explained, Carling Township north of Parry Sound is working with Stop the Drop on its own adaptive management plan that will see a digital model created of its shoreline, from underwater to above shore, using lidar technology.

Once the lidar information is collected, software will be used to create and develop different scenarios of decreased water levels by visualizing the potential shorelines of the future. Stakeholders can then see what's vulnerable and the best plan of action to locally mitigate the problem.

Over the fall and winter months, Stop the Drop has been working in the background, urging its members to contact their local MPs, asking them why they aren't being proactive on

Managing Your Money

Tax Deductions: Don't Get Carried Away

by Daryl C. Heinsohn, CPA, CA, CFP

Carrying charges generally represent costs that you incur to manage your investments (and potentially your business). Reported as a deduction on your personal tax return that can be applied against all your sources of income, carrying charges can save you some big dollars this tax filing season. Unfortunately, these costs are often missed by many taxpayers.

The following summarizes some of the more common deductible costs to consider:

- Amounts paid to your personal tax preparer where you have income from business or property (i.e. rental activities, investments, etc.);

- Fees paid to your investment professional to manage your investments and provide advice. Information reporting these costs are not provided to taxpayers in a consistent format: Some institutions issue an annual statement, some mention the cost on your last December reporting statement for the year and some report their fee on your T-slip. As a result, these costs can be missed if you are not diligent in your record keeping;

- Interest paid on money that you borrow for investment purposes. 'Investment purposes' generally refers to investment that will yield interest, dividends and rental income. If your investment were to be a (say) a vacant piece of real property and you borrow $100,000 to purchase that property with the anticipation of 'flipping it' at a later date for a higher price, that resultant income would constitute a capital gain. As a result, interest on that loan would not be deductible.

While RRSP loans are fairly common this time of year, it is important to note that interest on these loans is not deductible. Similarly, interest paid on a student loan is not deductible (however, it may qualify for a personal tax credit);

- Legal fees paid to collect (or determine the amount of) support payments. Interestingly enough, from the payer's perspective, legal fees paid to minimize the amount of deductible support payments being provided

ed to the estranged spouse are oddly not deductible; and

- Finally, safety deposit box fees (while fully deductible in prior years) are no longer a valid deduction after 2013.

Perhaps the largest (and most hotly debated) carrying charge deduction is 'interest.' Disputes between individuals and the taxing authorities on this topic have resulted in countless court cases. However, if carefully structured, your tax professional may be able to convert interest on your (say) personal mortgage to a deduction on your personal tax return.

Consider the following simple scenario: Bart owns shares of Duff Breweries Inc. that have a value of $100,000. He also has a $90,000 mortgage on his $300,000 house in Springfield. Where Bart 'cashes' in his investment, he could utilize the proceeds to pay down the mortgage that is generating non-deductible interest. He could then borrow again (possibly the same amount if he wishes) and this time use the loan proceeds to purchase another investment. While this form of 'shuffling' results in debts and assets being the same amount, it converts formerly non-deductible interest to deductible.

In performing a maneuver similar to that as described per the above, the use of a professional tax advisor is strongly recommended. There are a multitude of pitfalls that can occur to the unwary taxpayer who attempts to 'go it on his own.'

Very generally, there is currently no requirement that your interest 'income' exceed your interest 'expense.' Regardless, there may be a concern where you are deducting interest on a rental property where you (or another family member) reside in the rental unit.

I hope you found this article 'interesting'. In seriousness, the emphasis on attention to detail is critical in structuring your interest deduction. A failure to do so could inadvertently trigger a tax problem at a later date.

Manitoulin lifestyle magazine makes debut

by Sharon Jackson

GORE BAY—"So far so good," commented Carmen Runnalls when asked about the success of the premier edition of Manitoulin Mornings—the 32-page full colour magazine that sold out of its first 100 issues very quickly. (The April publication goes to press on March 31 with 500 copies to be printed.)

Social media has played a part in getting the word out, the publisher explained. Ms. Runnalls is on Facebook and has recently launched a website, which, in only four days, has seen 3,000 hits.

While the first issue was free, the cost to publish the magazine is not. It is her intent that "no part of this magazine should ever have to leave the Island for production." The cost to purchase the magazine is $7.

Thirty readers have subscriptions to date and several have contacted her about the magazine, both to express interest in being a contributor and share feedback, which has been "really good," Ms. Runnalls said.

The challenge will be to get the magazine "built up all over the Island," shared Ms. Runnalls. "I don't want people to feel left out."

Ms. Runnalls, who is originally from the Island, returned last summer after being in China for more than a dozen years.

Along with husband Jefrem Dorosch and daughter Cheyenne, the family makes their home in Gore Bay. "A lot of people who contact me (about the magazine) knew me from when I used to live here before."

"As the magazine gets more well known the advertising base will grow. Everyone is equal," shared Ms. Runnalls.

"I am interested in what's happening in the communities. It is my goal to see east and west become interested in each other."

Presenting a new and wonderful way to promote the people and lifestyles found on Manitoulin Island, Ms. Runnalls has been busy interviewing local artists, business people and volunteer groups while at the same time offering creative writers, professionals in their field and local historians a venue to present their knowledge and expertise.

"I want to focus on the good things happening here; make people feel a sense of pride and to help motivate and inspire tourism; and to feature artists and writers," she said. "There is no room for negative content. Perhaps it will encourage people to move back (to the Island)."

"When I came back to the Island," shared Ms. Runnalls, "I found tourism on the West End slowly dying in a big way—the little shops, gas stations and convenience stores were closing their doors. This led me to believe that I wanted to do something to bring tourism and culture back. Culture never left—perhaps people were just unaware that what they were doing was saleable and interesting to others."

"These are the things that I want to bring people's attention to so it gives everyone a sense of pride that they are making a contribution," she continued.

The April issue contains many features including an opportunity for high school students to enter a writers' contest entitled 'What does Manitoulin Island mean to me?' The top three winners will receive a free issue of the magazine and an exclusive Manitoulin Mornings t-shirt.

Check out the magazine online at www.manitoulinmornings.com.

while too young to spay or neuter, then the fund will consider assisting later when that animal is old enough to undergo the procedure.

Veterinarian Dale Scott recalled the day Alexander (Sandy) McGillivray of Little Current called him up with the idea of establishing the fund. "Sandy came to me and asked how we could make this work," said Dr. Scott. After some discussion with the municipality of Central Manitoulin, the Manitoulin Animal Welfare Fund was established.

"The fund is basically self-sufficient," said Dr. Scott, who noted that Mr. McGillivray provided the initial seed money to start the fund, but that it now operates through the kind donations of people all across the Island. "The township looks after the fund, but every dollar that comes into the fund goes toward the placement of cats and dogs."

In the entire time the fund has been in operation, noted the veterinarian, "we have never had to euthanize an animal that could be adopted."

Although the administration of the fund is done by the Township of Central Manitoulin the fund is an Island-wide project. "We get donations from all over," confirmed Ms. Frawley. "We provide a tax receipt for any donation over $10 and we quite often get bequests when someone passes away. When that happens we send a letter acknowledging the gift to the family."

Dr. Scott noted that the fund is a co-operative effort and located in Central Manitoulin largely because that is where Manitoulin's two animal hospitals are located. "Mary Yett (The Island Animal Hospital) and I (Scott Veterinary Services) both administer the fund," he said. "We don't want the cost of adopting to act as a barrier."

The Township of Central Manitoulin will accept donations for the fund. "Just make sure that it is marked for the Manitoulin Animal Welfare Fund," said Ms. Frawley.

...Community helps as winter threatens deer

Donations to the deer save program cover the cost of running the bulldozer and also the fuel for the volunteers with snowmobiles who break trails on participating landowners' properties.

"This is essentially what we have been predicting since early February," Mr. Anderson said of the deer mortality. "This is the worst winter since 1995-1996, if not longer. With the passing of every night when it's below zero, it just adds to the severe winter index (which judges the animals' chances of survival). And the long range forecast is not good—March is predicted to be seven degrees colder than average each night."

Mr. Anderson explained that this is the time of year, when the days become longer, when the deer's metabolism naturally picks up, meaning their nutritional requirements increase too.

"It becomes critical for a quick breakup and greenup, but I don't think that's going to happen by April," he added.

He said that while he has seen some dead deer, there will be the deaths that are unseen, such as the unborn fawns and the yearlings, but it won't be until the fall hunt that the impact will be obvious.

"I would be shocked if the number of antlerless tags doesn't go down this year," he said, explaining that this decision will be made by the MNR later this spring.

Sue Meert, the Manitoulin deer save coordinator, said she is pleased with the numbers of landowners and volunteers who have come forward but said they are still looking for more. Currently, almost 60 landowners have signed consent forms for the 24 volunteers to break trails and cut browse on their properties. Another 25 landowners are doing this themselves, bringing the total acreage to over 4,000.

"I've been doing a lot of educating too," she said, noting that she has fielded more than one phone call from people wanting to get involved, saying 'I'm going to buy a couple of bags of corn.' "I tell them 'no!' and encourage them to visit the MASC website and watch the 'how to feed deer video,' which has been incredibly helpful."

"I'm hearing from a lot of people that they're seeing the deer, seeing them malnourished and have a lot of concern," Ms. Meert said. "I'm hoping we've made an impact. We are expecting losses, but what we've done will help."

Mr. Dobell has also been offering to meet with MPs to explain the situation to them, should they require further information. In fact, on Monday Mr. Dobell had met with the MPs for Stratford and Brampton and had met with nine MPs the week before.

This month, there will be a continued push for constituents to call their MPs to continue asking the question of what is to be done about Great Lakes water levels.

"We have to be careful, though; we are not a lobby group, but an education and resource group," Mr. Dobell said.

...Manitoulin Island cycling highlighted at Toronto Bicycle Show

 ed at the show," said Ms. Mielonen. "This is the place where, if you need a bike, every manufacturer is there." Ms. Mielonen said that their experiences at the show were "totally validating."

The Destination Manitoulin concept and the opportunity to utilize the Chi-Cheemaun ferry in conjunction with local resorts and the many cycling options available on Manitoulin elicited a lot of interest from the attendees at the show.

Expressing those advantages took quite a bit of effort on the part of the volunteer ambassadors, however. Although cycling would seem intuitively serene and quiet, cycling shows are filled with pumping dynamic energy and a lot of sound.

"It was pretty noisy," laughed Ms. Mielonen. Never mind the collateral sound of several hundred people milling about, the show was also the venue for a Mountain Bike Dual Race and Stunt Competition that featured "big air and heart-stopping racing for cash prizes." The race, with thumping music accompanying heart-pounding action, saw mountain bike wielding pros weave through amazing wooden obstacles that created an awesome stunt and dual-cross race course.

The super high ceilings at the venue allowed for spectacular air, as each contestant vied to reach exciting new levels. Last year's champion, Norco rider Mike Hermanovski, had set the bar literally high. Last year's stunt champ, Braydon Barrett-Hay, thrilled spectators while the Friday night of the show featured the Pro-only Tim DaSilva Challenge Race.

Added to the mountain bike action was the Toronto BMX Jam 2014. Touted as "the world's best professional street course," BMX riders battled for over $20,000 in cash and prizes for the 14th year in a row.

Adding to the cacophony was the Great Lakes Winter Classic Bike Polo Tournament, the first major event of the bike polo calendar 2014. Bike polo is an innovative team sport, combining the bike skills of trials riders with the fast paced action of hockey. Teams and players from all over Canada, the US and Europe are invited, including some from as far away as San Francisco, Vancouver, UK, Germany and France. The majority of players have played in the North American and World Championships. The show event featured Nick Kruse, the current third in the world, and Chris Proulx, the world champion for 2011.

"The polo event was really something," said Ms. Mielonen.

The duo handed out more than 1,500 pieces of 'This is Manitoulin 2014' which features an in-depth article on cycling on Manitoulin and discussed plans for the Georgian Bay Cycling Route with hundreds of interested cyclists.

"There was great interest," said Ms. Mielonen, "particularly amongst the baby boomer group." The cycling advocate noted that many cyclists will spend more on their bicycles than most people in Northern Ontario spend on a used car.

Among the draws to Manitoulin and region is the particularly safe and well-suited run between Espanola and Little Current through the LaCloche Hills for those training for hill climbing races.

"It is a fantastic place to train for hills," said Ms. Mielonen. She explained that cycling across flat roadways is not good for those training to take on hills in races. "You need to build the muscles in your legs and especially calves," she said. "You also need the right training ground if you are going to develop the lung power and leg muscles for climbing."

The show attracts many different types of cyclists, explained Ms. Mielonen. "There are roadies, Guy and I would fit into that category," she said. The typical mid-sized ride for roadies would be 32 kilometres. The route around Lake Minde-moya would fit that bill, it is about 32 kilometres and takes about three to four hours."

The long distant roadies will tackle routes that run well over 30k, even past 75 kilometres. "Roadies are the experienced cyclists. They like the paved shoulders and are the kind of cyclists you will find with the $6,000 bicycles that weigh two pounds," she said.

The really serious roadies will cycle a minimum 100 kilometres to 180 kilometres a day, often reaching land speeds of over 35 kilometres an hour, and will plan out week-long cycling tours. "These are the cyclists that the Georgian Bay Cycling Route will really appeal to," said Ms. Mielonen. She explained that the proposed cycling route would run all the way from Parry Sound and travel around Georgian Bay.

The Island itself is just broad enough to meet the needs of the serious roadie, featuring plenty of safe paved shoulder roads.

Another category of cycling altogether is the mountain bike enthusiast and for them the trails at Manitowaning or Bebamikwe Trails in Wikwemikong offer a unique wilderness cycling experience, noted Ms. Mielonen. "These cyclists want off-road experiences and we have those here on Manitoulin as well," she said.

On the return trip, the duo stopped by a trail symposium where they gave a presentation on the Georgian Bay Cycling Route to the 70 participants at the symposium.

There are three challenges presently facing the route due to the advancing four-laning and the restrictions on non-motorized traffic.

fic on 400 series highways, noted Ms. Mielonen. The first is found south of the Killarney junction, between the Highway 522 intersection (Grundy Lake turnoff) to Pickerel River Road. "You can ride it right now," said Mr. Nielen, "but once it is four-laned that will be a problem as there is no alternate route."

"We hope that the MTO will maintain a service road parallel to the highway," said Ms. Mielonen.

The second challenge lies north of the Killarney turnoff. "We will need less than six kilometres of new non-motorized infrastructure to be able to connect to existing country roads," said Mr. Nielen.

The final challenge is the need for a pedestrian bridge over the Spanish River on Highway 17 just north of Espanola.

"The Spanish River bridge would also benefit the Lake Huron Cycling Route and the North Channel Cycling project," said Mr. Nielen.

Ms. Mielonen noted that the province has identified cycling as a major component of both health and tourism promotion in the province and that they hoped the relevant ministries would put money where their policy statements are to put Ontario on the global cycling map.

"So there are three challenges of less than seven kilometres, probably 17 kilometres to create a signature Ontario cycling route," said Ms. Mielonen. "We hope that the province steps up to make this very doable dream a reality."

M'Chigeeng Knowledge Symposium stresses that decolonization of First Nations must take place in order to move ahead in healing

by Betty Bardswich

M'CHIGEENG—The annual M'Chigeeng First Nation Knowledge Symposium was held March 3 with a large audience in attendance at the community complex. The purpose of the workshop was to give participants an opportunity to learn about their unique attachment to culture.

Estelle Simard was the keynote speaker at the conference and represented the Institute for Culturally Restorative Practices (ICRP), which is situated in Fort Frances. Outlines of the organization state that ICRP seeks to ensure that individuals, as well as families and communities, understand their own unique cultural teachings and rebuild communities through the language, teaching, customs, ceremonies, roles and responsibilities as well as societal structures.

The knowledge symposium workshop started with a smudging ceremony and prayer by elder Geraldine McGregor and drumming and song by the M'Chigeeng Drum Group after an introduction by Ron Kanutski of Thunder Bay who served as master of ceremonies and all-round comedian. Mr. Kanutski then introduced Chief Glen Hare to the audience for introductory remarks. Chief Hare is the Deputy Grand Chief of the Anishinaabe Nation and he is not one to mince words. "I travel 10,000 kilometres a month to see how people are doing," he said as he went on to remark that he is not shy to speak of how the First Nation communities look great during the day but it is a different story after the sun goes down. He also talked of how he promotes jurisdiction and authority when he travels. "We belong on Mother Earth," Chief Hare told his audience, "and First Nation people, including children, are being restricted to a certain area of the province."

Another topic raised by Chief Hare was the announcement by Prime Minister Harper of federal funds for First Nation education. As Chief Hare pointed out, the money is promised for 2016 and if Mr. Harper loses the election or forms a minority government, it will probably be gone.

Chief Hare also expressed his horror about the appalling things that were done to First Nations people who were forced to attend residential schools.

Ms. Simard, who was next to speak, is the executive director of the ICRP which evolved from her experiences around child welfare and childhood mental health. She is from the Treaty Three locale, which includes 27 reserves in her area, especially around Fort Frances, and began her talk by saying, "I want to share some ideas on what cultural attachment theory means. This is my PhD in progress."

Ms. Simard first talked about the importance of the First Nation members on Manitoulin. "You are a powerful people," she said. "You are talked about in our legends and in our stories and in our lodges," as she went on to explain what cultural attachment theory means. "Remember a time in your life," she told her audience, "when you really thirsted to know what it was like to be Anishinaabe—to know who you really were. Cultural attachment is all about connecting to that spirit of who you are. Cultural memories are inside you right now. It is in your blood. And the teachings that I give you today have been given to me over 27 years. There have probably been about 10 different elders who have molded me. I am just a vessel—a teacher telling you about the teachings of these people."

Manitoulin Secondary School hosts 'Bridges to Inclusiveness'

M'CHIGEENG—Community members and parents/guardians are invited to 'Bridges to Inclusiveness,' an equity event focused on education, entertainment and nourishment at Manitoulin Secondary School. Hosted by the School Council, the event will take place on Thursday, March 20 from 5:30 to 7 pm in the school cafeteria.

While participants feast on local cuisine, four guest speakers will take centre stage to talk about relevant topics aimed at reducing barriers and promoting inclusion. Topics include autism, aboriginal perspectives, mental health challenges and sexual orientation.

"We are truly proud to host this presentation for our students and community members," says Laurie Zahnow, principal of Manitoulin Secondary School. "This is a time when students are trying to figure out who they are. During this period of growth, it's imperative that they become aware of supports that are available to help guide them along the way."

Bridges to Inclusiveness is being made possible thanks to a Ministry of Education Parents Reaching Out Grant and generous contributions from local businesses.

Manitoulin Secondary School's parenting class will provide free childcare services.

All those who wish to attend and/or contribute a potluck dish for the feast are asked to RSVP by calling Manitoulin Secondary School at 705-368-7000.

This event builds on Rainbow District School Board's focus on equity and inclusive education, which aims to create and enhance school-based supports for students.

to Ms. Simard talk about colonization. "Colonization is a distinct period in which Indigenous tribes across the world experienced horrific constant and chronic loss of land, home, resources, family and even self identity. Indigenous scholars have referred to this memory as the soul wound." As Ms. Simard spelled out, based on the work of scholars colonial tools include control, psychological strategies, the forced removal from sacred lands, massacres, slaughters, laws, separation of families, child welfare and policies and regulations designed to control as well as the introduction of alcohol and the purposeful introduction of disease. Consequences of colonization, again defined by scholars, include increased suicide rates, low mortality rates, mental health illnesses, poor housing, overcrowded housing, poor educational outcomes, unresolved grief and trauma, loss of stability and loss of identity. The ICRP believe that in order to be liberated from colonization and its effects, decolonization must take place. This process means that Anishinaabe leadership is investing in defining the cultural structures, language, teachings, customs, beliefs and traditional ceremonies of their people.

In truth, knowledge is a veritable treasure for man, and a source of glory, of bounty, of joy, of exaltation, of cheer and gladness unto him.

World Day of Prayer focussed on Egypt with ‘Streams in the Desert’

by Michael Erskine

LITTLE CURRENT—The annual ecumenical World Day of Prayer was held at St. Bernard’s Roman Catholic Church in Little Current and was focussed on the storied nation of Egypt, whose recent trials have been the focus of much media attention these past few years.

The theme of this year’s World Day of Prayer was ‘Streams in the Desert’ and was prepared by the World Day of Prayer committee of Egypt.

The celebrants, who were mostly women, although the World Day of Prayer is no longer referred to as the “Women’s World Day of Prayer,” were greeted at the beginning of the worship service by organizer Gisele Ferro.

“Welcome to this World Day of Prayer service, prepared this year by Egypt,” said Community of Christ celebrant Madeline Charlton. “In the minds of many people, Egypt in the Bible is associated with the pharaohs who treated the Isrealites as slaves, until Moses led them out of slavery. Often forgotten is the heroic role of Pharaoh’s daughter in the Biblical story of salvation. That great woman dared to contradict her father’s command by rescuing the infant Moses from drowning. She also collaborated with other women to protect him, bringing him up as her own son.”

Ms. Charlton went on to relate how remarkable the early story of Christianity in Egypt was, with St. Mark organizing the first Egyptian church, establishing the first theological school that went on to produce as graduates the great Christian thinkers Origen, Athanasius and Clement of Alexandria.

The iconic Nile Delta and the ancient grandeur of the pyramids are stereotypes of that ancient country, but the women of Egypt sought to remind celebrants that Egypt is also a “living, breathing country which is experiencing rapid shifts.” In the atmosphere of protest and revolution which has engulfed that nation, events in which women have played a prominent role, women experienced a rise in sexual assaults, particularly at mass protests in an effort to dissuade them.

Anglican minister Reverend Sherry Dejonge delivered the homily, interspersing commentary with anecdotes of her own personal challenges in life. The story of the Jesus at the well with the Samaritan woman featured prominently in the ‘Streams in the Desert’ service. Rev. Dejonge noted that the Samaritan would not only have been anathema to a Jewish man during that time, but even speaking to an unaccompanied woman would have been unthinkable. “For Jesus to talk to this woman would have been seen as scandalous,” she said.

The woman was in her sixth marriage and would have endured a life of depressing routine. “She had relationships, but none of them had worked out,” she said. “She might have been living in resignation, stuck in a dead-end job, quietly waiting for the time to pass. She might have been a little cynical, five men would do that to me.”

Rev. Dejonge noted that the Samaritan woman had “gone to the well of promise five times, now six, only to find that this well had run dry.” But the living waters of which Jesus offered her to drink do not run dry. “The water of the stream is aerated, full of life, not the stale tepid waters of a desert well,” she said. The Samaritan women must have been strong, noted the minister. “She had to be strong to patch things up five times. Worship is the place where we can come to God to be patched up; where we change on the inside.” Interacting with the living God, she said, would not leave us unchanged. “Jacob’s well was an assurance that the Living God is going to look after us.”

The celebrants were encouraged to share a time when they had experienced a life changing intervention in their lives and given a strip of coloured paper upon which to write down that experience. “Describe a moment when you were seen by God and you could recognize God by the well,” she said. “Talk about your experience of living in a desert. What or who is your spring, your stream that brings life? Together explore ways the living water which you have received becomes streams in the desert to the communities.”

The service consisted of four readers following the order of service. Along with Ms. Charlton were St. Bernard’s parishioner Linda Richer, the new United Church minister Pastor Jane Blannin-Bruleigh and St. Bernard’s parishioner Donna Wuksinic.

Following the service, the celebrants gathered for a social time with foods reminiscent of Egypt and maps and literature describing the history, symbols and life in that nation.

Barn quilt tour proposed for Manitoulin this fall

by Alicia McCutcheon
ASSIGINACK—Assiginack events coordinator Jackie White has decided to take the success and popularity of The Expositor's harvest Glory Days challenge (which Assiginack won for best large community) and continue with another Island-wide challenge, this time in the form of a barn quilt tour.

During the March 4 meeting of Assiginack council, council read a proposal from Ms. White for an inaugural barn quilt tour.

"A barn quilt is a quilt block design painted on a four foot by four foot sign-board and then hung, traditionally on an old barn," Ms. White's report states. She said that it is a popular fall tourist attraction in some parts of North America. "And for residents, it provides a bit of colour and art on an otherwise old barn."

The barn quilt tour would correspond with the Island Quilters Guild September quilt show, being held at the Debajehmujig Creation Centre. The guild, she said, was also pleased to announce it would be bringing the 'Quilt of Belonging' to Debaj—a 120-foot quilt that consists of 263 11-inch fabric squares, 70 of those representing Canada's First Nations people and 193 squares signifying all of Canada's immigrant nationalities.

This churn dash pattern barn quilt block will proudly hang on the Maud and Jack Dewar barn.

Ms. White suggested challenging other communities, groups and families to get involved and make and display a barn quilt. A list of all participating barns would then be listed on the municipality's website.

The pre-primed barn quilt pieces would be purchased from the municipality at a suggested cost of $35 with individuals supplying their own paint and time. (A Google search gives hundreds of barn quilt block patterns.) Once the finished product is hung, a $20 rebate would be offered by the municipality, Ms. White suggested.

Ms. White noted that such municipal buildings as the public works garage, arena and Burns Wharf could all have their own barn quilts.

"I think this sounds like an amazing idea," Councillor Leslie Fields exclaimed. "I think it's a perfect fit for Manitoulin."

Both Councillors Bob Case and Brenda Reid said they would be placing barn quilts on their barns.

"I think this will work out as well as the fall (Harvest Glory Days) challenge," Councillor Fields added.

Ms. White supplied council with a sample barn quilt which, she explained, will hang at the barn belonging to her late grandparents, Maud and Jack Dewar, in Providence Bay.

"The quilt block pattern is a churn dash pattern, which my grandmother used often in her quilts, and the colours—yellow and purple—are from my grandfather's favourite flower: the pansy," Ms.

White explained. "The blue is the colour of the sky, as they no doubt are looking down."

Debaj hosts CHIR Café Scientifique on Healthy Living with Technology

by Robin Burridge

MANITOWANING—The Debajehmujig Storytellers, in a joint project with the Manitoulin Central and Aassinack Family Health Teams (FHT), held a Canadian Institute of Health Research (CIHR) Café Scientifique titled ‘the mysteries and challenges of seniors and healthy living with technology’ last month at the Debajehmujig Creation Centre in Manitowaning.

The event was well attended with almost 20 individuals present including seniors, community members and area health care providers.

Nick Head-Petersen, a Masters of Public Health candidate at the Northern Ontario School of Medicine (NOSM), moderated the event, while the expert panel included Marion Maar, geriatrician Janet McElhaney, Debajehmujig artistic producer Ron Berti and elder and cultural advisor Josephine Pelletier.

The first half of the café was comprised of presentations from the panel, followed by a question and answer period.

Ms. Maar, an associate professor of Medical Anthropology at NOSM, was the first to present. Ms. Maar discussed a pilot project she was working on called Dream Global, which is looking at the possibilities of cellphones to connect health care providers with their patients and their health care information.

“With the project we are looking at the use of cell-

Elder and cultural advisor Josephine Pelletier speaks at the Canadian Institute of Health Research (CIHR) Café Scientifique titled ‘the mysteries and challenges of seniors and healthy living with technology’ last month at the Debajehmujig Creation Centre. Ms. Pelletier, who was one of four experts on the panel, spoke about life as a senior in Wikwemikong and her role in ‘Elders Gone AWOL.’

phones and SMS technology to reduce blood pressure,” said Ms. Maar. “Dream Global is an international project designed to address health inequality in hypertension.”

The pilot project is currently being conducted on Manitoulin Island as well as Tanzania. Participants are either using their cellphones or being provided with a cellphone for the project which texts patients about their blood pressure along with reminders to take medication and health and lifestyle tips.

“We hope to implement the project in different countries and a community and see if it is applicable for them,” said Ms. Maar.

The next individual to speak was Ms. Pelletier, an elder and cultural advisor from Wikwemikong. Ms. Pelletier gave a first hand account of what life is like for seniors in her community and walked the audience through a slideshow of Debajehmujig’s production ‘Elders Gone AWOL,’ which showcased the talent of area seniors, including Ms. Pelletier.

Mr. Berti presented the audience with an innovative idea, which could be a reality in the future, using the present technology of touch screen televisions, combined with webcams to create an interactive smart system for seniors to connect them with their neighbours, families and doctor.

The final presentation was from Ms. McElhaney, a geriatrician who discussed the current state of seniors and staying in good shape as you age.

After a short break and refreshments, an open discussion was held allowing the audience to ask questions and have discussions with the panel of experts.

Following the café, Manitoulin Central FHT Executive Director Lori Oswald spoke with The Expositor about the café and how it came to fruition.

“This is our second café,” explained Ms.

Oswald. “Our first one was held last November and it went very well also. “Doctor (Maurianne) Reade told us about the project and we applied for the funding. We were very pleased when we were selected. We wanted to have a local element, which is how we got involved in our partnership with Debaj.”

“We hope it is really interesting and that we are engaging people to think about and discuss the concept of how health care is evolving and do so in a creative and interactive way,” added Ms. Oswald.

The Expositor also had the opportunity to speak to some of the seniors who attended the café such as Mary Stacey of Wikwemikong.

“It was great,” said Ms. Stacey of the café. “Really interesting. I have high

Northeast Town council votes down referendum questions 7-2

by Robin Burridge

LITTLE CURRENT—At last week's administration and finance committee meeting, the Northeast Town council voted down three motions for proposed referendum questions which would have seen questions concerning changes to the tax rate, council representation and municipal ward system on the electoral ballot this fall.

Ward 4 Councillors Paul Skippen and Bruce Woods proposed the three referendum questions, the first being 'Should there be only one residential tax rate in NEMI,' followed by 'Should representation on council be by voter population per ward,' and finally, 'Should the ward system be changed to one ward only.'

"Before we move forward on debating these motions, we need to keep in mind that we are debating if these questions go on the ballot," Mayor Al MacNevin said to council. "We have already discussed all of these points as a council, so the discussion should stick to if we put the questions on the ballots or not. We also need to be mindful that if 50 percent of voters agree to one or more of these questions then we would be compelled to act on the response. I am not in favour of this as we would be essentially taking these decisions, which we have already discussed and held a public meeting for, out of council's hands."

"My point is, and why I'm bringing this forward, we never heard from the people of the community on what they feel on these issues," said Councillor Skippen of the motions. "I think this would encourage people to vote too."

"This is the same as what is happening with the OPP (Ontario Provincial Police)—we are trying to make things equal," added Councillor Wood, referring to the upcoming changes to the OPP municipal billing model, which is attempting to balance police billing among municipalities more fairly."

"We have debated these issues at great length," said Councillor Michael Erskine, pointing out that a public meeting was held on the topic of a one ward system and tax rate last summer and that council had equally discussed council representation and makeup on several occasions. "At the public meeting I didn't see public support for this at all—in fact, I saw the opposite. The public has had its opportunity to speak on these subjects, decisions have been made and I think it is best to just move on now."

Councillor Erskine added that if people wanted to run in the next election with platforms based on the three referendum questions they were entitled to do so, but added that he wouldn't be supporting adding the questions to the ballot.

"Everyone needs to understand the legal ramifications if we add any of these questions to the ballot," said Councillor Dawn Orr, asking town CAO Dave Williamson to further explain. "We have an agreement with the Bay of Islands (Ward 1)."

Mr. Williamson explained that the municipality had a minister's (Ministry of Municipal Affairs and Housing (MMAH) order from the amalgamation with the Bay of Islands in 1998 that is very specific and that any change to the ward system or tax rate distribution would require approval from the minister of MMAH.

Since the amalgamation of Howland Township, Little Current and the islands, now referred to as the Northeast Town, the municipality has been divided into a four-ward system—Ward 1, the islands; Ward 2, Little Current; Ward 3, the area around Little Current on Hwy 540 and Hwy 6 including White's Point; and Ward 4, Sheguiandah, Honora Bay and the rural area of the municipality.

All residents of all wards pay a common levy, but in addition, some wards pay for additional services that their wards receive/use.

The shared services that make up the common levy include general government (council, property assessment and administration), protection to persons and property (policing, Ministry of Natural Resources fire protection, bylaw enforcement, building inspection, animal control and emergency planning), the airport, environmental services (water quality study, landfill and recycling), health services (health unit, land ambulance and cemeteries), social and family services (Haven House, District Services Board and the Centennial Manor), parks and recreation (the parks, recreation, library and museum) and planning and development (planning, tourism, downtown enhancement and economic development).

On top of the common levy, Ward 1 pays for the roadway maintenance of Burnt Island (near Silver Water) and recycling removal. Ward 2 pays for sidewalks, street lighting, crossing guards, curbside recycling, landfill closure, financing and garbage collection, while Wards 3 and 4 pay for civic addressing, street lighting and landfill closure on top of the common levy. Wards 2, 3 and 4 also pay for basic fire services, 911 response, roadway maintenance and the docks/marina.

"I pay taxes in both Wards 1 and 4," said Councillor Christina Jones. "I think our current system is fair so I can't support these motions."

"I agree," added Councillor Orr. "We debated this last summer with the Taxpayers' Association and Ward 1. Everyone got a chance to say their peace at the public meeting and we voted against these changes."

Councillor Bill Koehler said that he was annoyed that the motions had even been brought to council.

"Two councillors (Councillors Skippen and Wood) went to a taxpayers' meeting and then came back with these motions in March, when there are no representatives from Ward 1 here," Councillor Koehler said, noting that Ward 1 was composed of mostly seasonal residents. "They are going through the back door (the NEMI Taxpayers Association) so they don't need to look at the people in the face who this will affect."

"I agree with everything

my fellow councillors have said," added Councillor Marcel Gauthier. "Everyone has already had a chance for their say on this and I agree—I don't like how this is being done either."

Last summer during the public meeting to discuss the Northeast Town ward system and tax rate distribution, the NEMI Taxpayers' Association took a stand that there should be one ward system with one tax rate for the Northeast Town.

Ward 1 representatives were outraged at the suggestion, stating that the current system was already a compromise, with the majority of the seasonal residents that make up the ward contributing to year round services.

Councillor Paul Skippen defended his motions, explaining that if the questions were on the ballot "there would be no fooling around and it would be fair to everyone."

"This has nothing to do with the people in the audience (the NEMI Taxpayers' Association)," continued Councillor Skippen. "We feel this is important to Ward 1 too if they want to pay fair tax."

"Again, you aren't understanding the ramifications of this," said Councillor Orr. "What's going to happen if we go to a one ward system and tax rate and Ward 1 gets permission to leave the municipality? What is that going to mean for the rest of the municipality? In addition to the possible legal ramifications if Ward 1 left the municipality as a fallout from moving to a one ward, one tax rate system, it would mean a huge tax increase. That just won't be fair to the people of this municipality."

"Councillor Orr is right," said Councillor Koehler. "At the time of amalgamation everyone was talking about getting the islands as getting the golden egg—getting the increased tax revenue."

Councillor Skippen requested a recorded vote for each of the motions. In the recorded vote for the first motion—if the question 'Should there be only one residential tax rate in NEMI?' be added to the ballot, Councillors Orr, Gauthier, Jones, Koehler, Erskine, Melissa Peters and Mayor MacNevin defeated the motion, while Councillors Skippen and Wood voted in favour of it.

The discussion shifted to the second motion, for the referendum question 'Should representation on council be by voter population per ward?'

Councillor Woods justified the motion by citing the example of how the Northeast Town was currently working towards having the representation on the Manitoulin Planning Board changed to reflect municipal population.

"First of all, I don't believe in questions on the ballot," said Mayor MacNevin. "I think it's a way for someone who can't get their own way to try and run the municipality. As for the comparison to the planning board, we have been having problems with them choosing to venture into our zoning by not only refusing to accept an application from one of our residents, but also then taking us to the OMB (Ontario Municipal Board) when we made a decision on our zoning that they didn't like. This is the only reason we are fighting them now and we wanted to leave (the planning board), but the MMAH is encouraging us to work with them which is where the suggestion came in for representation based on population instead of every municipality having one representative like it currently is."

"The minister's order at the time of amalgamation ensured that the agreement was fair for the islands and not just a tax grab," continued Mayor MacNevin. "Now someone doesn't believe council should be making these decisions, but there are historical reasons why we have a ward system and why the taxes are the way they are. I don't think we should dredge everything up because someone wants a cheaper tax rate now."

In another recorded vote, the motion for the second proposed referendum question was defeated again, 7-2, with only Councillors Skippen and Wood voting in favour of the motion.

During discussion of the final motion concerning the referendum question, 'Should the ward system be changed to one ward only,' councillors continued to express frustration.

"This just won't work," said Councillor Gauthier, "for a lot of reasons. One thing is, one ward could just to get together and just pick whoever they want. It's just too wide."

In the final recorded vote, the motion was defeated again with only Councillors Woods and Skippen voting in favour of it.

Before the meeting continued, McGregor Bay Association President Gerry Quinn stood up and thanked council for their decision, adding that he had had conversations with MMAH Minister Linda Jeffery.

"Thank you for your decision tonight to stay with the current system," said Mr. Quinn. "If this comes up again next year I might not come and will take a different route. This is a very complex issue and if it persists—we aren't sure if we would be able to leave (the municipality)—but we might be able to or be given a much lower rate."

Irene Callaghan of the NEMI Taxpayers' Association was given the opportunity to speak too, and chose to address a few of the comments made.

"On behalf of the association I would like to thank Bruce and Paul for their support," said Ms. Callaghan. "And just to say, the reason we chose now to have these issues brought forward is that we were given this time frame by the CAO (Dave Williamson) if the questions were to appear on the ballot. This isn't being done maliciously."

March is Nutrition Month: Healthy eating tips from a registered dietitian

by Brooke Noble, registered dietitian
MANITOULIN—The Dietitians of Canada have named March Nutrition Month, with this year's theme 'Simply Cook and Enjoy.'

Cooking is important because it often means that meals are more nutritious and less processed. Luckily, healthy cooking can be simple. Use cooking as a fun family event, while passing on important skills to children.

To get started, stock some healthy convenience foods to make healthy eating easy. A few ideas include: light canned tuna or canned salmon; pre-cut butternut squash; drained and rinsed canned legumes such as chickpeas or lentils; canned diced tomatoes; shredded cheese; eggs or cartons of egg whites; plain frozen fish fillets; frozen vegetables and fruit; fresh or frozen whole wheat tortellini; whole grain pizza crusts, whole wheat pitas or whole wheat naan bread.

Cooking great meals can be quicker than getting take-out. Try quesadillas filled with lean meat and vegetables, whole grain pita pizzas topped with left over chicken and vegetables, stir fry shrimp and frozen vegetables with your favourite herbs and spices or a quick salmon burger on whole wheat bun with salad. Add a little zing with red pepper flakes, limejuice, garlic, ginger, cinnamon, cheese, pesto or vinegar.

Cook once, eat twice

Make many portions and eat leftovers on busier days or package individually and freeze for a quick meal on hockey night. Breakfasts that can be made in large batches are, whole grain pancakes, long-cooking (large flake) oats or vegetable frittata.

March has been declared Nutrition Month by the Dietitians of Canada.

While making one meal, grill extra chicken for a sandwich or burger for another meal. If roasting vegetables, make plenty to toss into tomorrow's pasta dish or to top your pizza. Chili for supper? Cook a large pot and use leftovers for enchiladas. Salad with supper? Make a large container and put in the fridge for lunch tomorrow or top with your extra chicken for supper later this week.

One-pot meals make dinner and clean up simple. Go quick with simple skillet fajitas or slow with hardy slow-cooker stew full of different colours of vegetables.

Some tools to simplify cooking are good pots and pans, a crock-pot, a silicone steamer, sharp knives, a box grater, a steamer basket and an instant-read thermometer.

Eating on a budget and need a few ideas? Try eating vegetable proteins instead of meat. Add cooked orange lentils to spaghetti instead of (or with) ground beef or stir black beans and chickpeas into soup.

Make meal preparation fun

Give kids tasks such as stirring. Choose easy recipes with tasks that kids can do. Prepare some ingredients ahead (eg. leftover chicken or vegetables). Have a cooking challenge with older children or allow them to blend their own frosty using frozen fruit, bananas, yogurt and milk. Encourage them to be adventurous by adding spinach or carrots.

Invite friends and family over for a cooking party. Cook a large amount of a few different meals so everyone has food for days. Bulk cooking can save money while cooking with friends will share the workload and fun. Relax and enjoy a meal together afterwards.

For nutrition information, recipe or meal ideas check out www.dietitians.ca or speak with one of your local dietitians. Dietitians in your area are available to help with all of your nutrition needs. Who are local dietitians? Natalie Hastings, Crystal Morra, Julie Rochefort and Sabrina Legault at Noojmowin Teg provide nutrition services to all of the First Nation communities on Manitoulin and Whitefish River First Nation; Laurel LeConte provides diabetes services and care to those in hospital; and Brooke Noble provides nutrition services to the Northeast Town, Assiginack, Central Manitoulin and Espanola Family Health Teams and Western Manitoulin Medical Centre.

Pelagic fish populations steady in North Channel, according to Geological Survey

by Alicia McCutcheon

LAKE HURON—The United States Geological Survey's (USGS) research vessel Sturgeon and her crew were again visitors to the Port of Little Current last fall, carrying out the annual Lake Huron-wide survey of the Great Lake's pelagic fish and the results are less than surprising.

Tim O'Brien, a USGS biological science laboratory technician, told The Expositor that the Sturgeon plied Great Lakes waters between September 10 and October 9, sampling the pelagic column of the main basin of Lake Huron, working counter clockwise through Georgian Bay and the North Channel.

The term pelagic refers to the mid to surface depth of the water column and the fish that dwell here are rainbow smelt, chub, alewife and emerald shiners.

"The alewife are still quite rare in all of our surveys," Mr. O'Brien reported, noting the alewife collapse of 2003. "They just haven't returned. We saw an increase in small alewife, but that was restricted to the Michigan side of the main basin (and relative to last year)."

He continued to say that since the collapse, the survey has seen small increases, but the fish do not survive to reach older, adult, sizes, probably due to prey.

The USGS did see a small increase in smelt, but a considerably low number compared to previous years, Mr. O'Brien added. Larger smelt saw a slight decline. However, he continued, there has been no real trend since 2004.

Another slight increase was found in chub. However, he said, compared to 1997, there has been an increase in small chub over time. For larger chub, any trends have remained stagnant since 2010.

Mr. O'Brien noted that emerald shiners are typically only caught in the main basin and a modest increase was seen with these fish.

As for the North Channel, it has the "highest fish biomass" out of all of Lake Huron, he said, followed by the main basin and then by Georgian Bay.

"Despite the high biomass, we did see a decrease in numbers (in the North Channel)," he said, likening the chart to a "saw tooth" pattern of ups and downs. "This type of fluctuation is normal in the North Channel."

Mr. O'Brien said he was unsure how the thick ice cover over Lake Huron would affect this year's fish populations, as this has yet to be studied in any significant capacity.

Tehkummah Talk and Times

Saturday—Funny looking morning sky yesterday. I walked to the post office early and it must have been a balmy -4 in the sun. Have we ever seen an above minus temp since mid November? What a winter.

I thought I heard a Sandhill crane, but where would it land, where would it stand, what could it eat?

What do you say about the carnival rides, open now? Should be good for shakin' off the weight or bouncing it off. And I do have a little 'ahem' to shake. The roller coaster rides almost free. I guess could be hard on the vehicle? Boy, there's some beautiful frost heaves in the roads. 'The pot holes of life?' Actually our minister did an excellent sermon on that same topic a few years back.

I went to Mindemoya Friday to do some laundry. I was starved by the time I finished, after a little visit with my niece Mary (at the bank), I had my favourite meal at the Roosterant (chicken fingers and sweet potato fries). When don't I talk about food, eh?

I wish I could get my act together. When I have a pen in hand and paper in front of me I don't 'see' what needs to be done. For me, a good thing, I guess? I've got a sweet little Ginger cat beside me on the bed as I write. Sings to beat crazy and she's so soft!

Mum's been winning at cribbage, although Susan called and said she whomped Mum. Mum claims she was at a disadvantage as she had fallen down. Apparently got some bruises for that little trick?

Mum, Pauline and Wayne were in Mindemoya for appointments, shopping, and had supper out on Wednesday.

Thursday I picked Mum up for Bible Study. It was at the home of Coral Collins. Sunshine to drive in! Kathy had made a good cake and oatmeal cookies. We don't just go for food and drink. Also a 'little' food for the soul.

I hear Dot Watson has got the bug now. Andy has just got out of the hospital. Andy Bowerman was in too. Seems to be a lot of illness around.

Keep well folks! 'Spring is nigh' we hope. How are the foot and leg folks doing, Joey and Terry? Hopefully moving about painless.

Ross carried a bag of sunflower seeds across the road for me yesterday. I best get moving and fill the feeders this morning. There's been a big line up there all winter.

Don't know what it will be like when the spring birds come?

Nothing like misinformation in my column. I apologize for any inconvenience to anyone, but the pancake euchre chili I copied from our church bulletin as a fact, until Margaret phoned me and said no such thing was booked at the hall. 'Whoops' after the fact. Wonder how that happened? We do have an after Fairview Church potluck booked for March 23 at 1 pm. Everyone welcome.

Monday morning. Just popped in to Tara's and was surprised to see Jacob and Skylar. I had forgotten mid-winter break is already in full tilt. I guess Sherry had fun with them? She took them back to the camp for a winter fun experience (snowshoes, toboggans, etc.). Sounded adventurous. Jacob had his friend Billie with him and Skylar had her friend Libby.

Sherry and Dave were late coming in to Carol's and Earl's last evening, but we sure had a lot of laughs after they arrived. We were sharing table space with Fred and Sheila Armstrong. Later a card game saw Cal the loser, while Cole and I were top dogs. Cole just learned cribbage last week but he's sure caught on quickly! I beat Mother good after church. I told her that's what happens when you play cards on Sunday. Ha! Though the sermon was on prayer and what it can do for you.

I asked Cal to slow down at the rock cut just before Lakeshore Road. I want to show you something I said. Well there it wasn't! When I brought Mum home I saw a deer laying in a clump of trees. I thought it was dead. I saw all the snow up around it. Well the marks were there but the deer was gone. A mystery. There was a strange gouge in the snow as if it had hit the snow. Was it knocked out/stuck? Anyways, another one of life's little mysteries. Strange? Did someone hit a deer there?

Thank you Ruth Leeson, our messages must have crossed?

Watch for deer! I saw the first dove since last fall at the feeder on Sunday.

Poppy doesn't seem to be feeling too well. Perhaps age related?

Lori and Rick were away for a couple of days of snow fun (snowmobiling, ice fishing).

Please be safe all those who are checking out the ice caves! Better still, do as I do, and look from solid land/snow.

Darlene, happy St. Paddy's Day to you too. Message received.

Happy day to all!

BROWN-In loving memory of Goldwin (Goldy) Brown, March 12, 2010. There is a bridge of memories From here to heaven above, That keeps you very close to me It's called a bridge of love. As time goes on without you And days turn into years, They hold a million memories And a thousand silent tears. To me you were very special What more is there to say, Except to wish with all my heart That you were here today. Sadly missed and always remembered by your wife Joyce and Muffin.

TRIMMER-In loving memory of Bill Trimmer, a wonderful husband, father, grandfather and great-grandfather who left us March 15, 2013. Life is not the same without you The sun still rises in the east and darkness falls at night, But nothing now seems quite the same; each day is not as bright. The birds still sing, the flowers grow The breeze still whispers too, but it will never, ever be The same world without you. It's so sad you had to go Your leaving caused such pain But you were very special And earth's loss is heaven's gain. ## You can make a Difference As a member of Health Sciences North Board of Directors Health Sciences North (HSN) is committed to delivering the highest quality patient care, research, teaching and learning to our region and beyond. Our Strategic Plan sets the course for our future as we aim to build a system that better responds to the needs of our patients and communities and to become a leading and innovative academic health sciences centre.

The HSN Board of Directors is seeking talented, engaged members of our community to join in the pursuit of this vision by participating as voluntary members on our Board. As Board Members, your role will be to share in the governance and leadership of our organization.

The Board of Directors includes 12 elected members who must reflect the geographic, cultural, ethnic and linguistic characteristics of northeastern Ontario. Guidelines for the selection of Directors specify the range of professional skill, expertise and personal attributes required to make informed governance decisions in a complex and dynamic environment. HSN is seeking four new Directors - one must be a member of the French speaking community and one a member of the Aboriginal community.

ROLES AND RESPONSIBILITIES

Applicants will demonstrate an understanding of the roles, responsibilities and commitment this appointment will entail. Applicants will also demonstrate a commitment to dedicate the time required to attend Board meetings; participate on various committees; attend annual events such as the Annual General Meeting and Board Plenary; an understanding of the role of governance in a large and complex corporate environment; the knowledge to participate in informed and critical discussions about policy issues and the ability to offer expertise in specific areas; effective communication skills, and the absence of a real or perceived conflict of interest.

APPLICATION PROCESS

Every applicant must complete an application form supported by personal references. The Selection Committee will review all applications and select a short list for interviews. Only those applicants selected for interview will be contacted.

To assist you in considering this position, the Application Form, Principles of Governance, Roles and Responsibilities of the Board of Directors, Roles and Responsibilities of Individual Directors and Guidelines for Selection of Directors are posted on the hospital's website www.hsnsudbury.ca. You can also contact Sharon Antoine, Board Liaison Officer, for more information at (705) 523-7114 or santoine@hsnsudbury.ca.

MCCULLIGH--In loving memory of husband, father, grandfather Elwood F. McCulligh, May 11 1950 to March 12, 2013

I feel a warmth around me Like your presence is so near, And I close my eyes to visualize Your face when you were here. I enjoyed the times we spent together And they are locked inside my heart, For as long as I have those memories We will never be apart.

BROWN—In loving memory of Goldwin Brown, March 12, 2010.

Dad, every day in some small way Memories of you come our way. Your smile has gone forever, Your hand we cannot touch, But memories are a special thing That can never be taken away. Miss you Dad, Papa. Love Peggy, Ken, grandchildren and great-grandchildren. XO

Spirituality*Spirituality*The sanctity of the 7th day Sabbath

Sabbath) Friday sunset till Saturday sunset) is the chief mark of the True church, one of the main conditions for becoming the bride of Christ, of being in the Rapture and for entering the Kingdom of God. And that is "Thus saith the Lord". The Kingdom I am talking about is the period of one thousand years when Jesus has returned to reign of earth. During that time Satan will be in the abyss and not deceive the people like he is doing today with lies, stealing, drugs, sexual immorality etc. It will be a period of peace and blessing. This Kingdom Age is also called The Messianic Age, The Millennial Sabbath (Rest), The Time of Restoration of all Things, The Holy Mountain and The day of the Lord because it is the day (period) of Jesus' reign. This day of the Lord starts with the outpouring of God's wrath and cleansing the world of all evil. Most Christians just refer to this period as the millennium, Rev. 20. The weekly Sabbath is (present tense) a shadow of the Millennial Sabbath, the time to come (future), Col. 2:16-17, K.J. Just as the weekly Sabbath is preceded by 6 days of hard labour, so the Millennial Sabbath is preceded by 6000 years of hard labour (Bondage to Satan). The 6000 years are almost over, since the sin of Adam and Eve in Gen. 3, Satan has been Lord over the world. But the time of his rule is almost over (see Is. 14, The King of Babylon is symbolic for Satan). I want to make very clear that Sunday is not God's Sabbath. Sunday is often called the first day of the week; God specifies that his Sabbath is the 7th day. The Bible makes very clear that the day of resurrection is the day of first fruits and the morning after the Sabbath. (1 Cor. 15:20, Lev. 23:10-14, Math. 28:1, Mark 16:1, Luke 23:55, 24:1.) There is no evidence in the Bible that God changed the day of rest from Sabbath to Sunday. But there is evidence that God allowed the Fourth Beast (Satan), of Dan. 7:25 to change it and so bring the Saints into bondage (in Mystery Babylon). A Christian can go to church on Sunday and not sin by doing so, as long as he sanctifies God's Sabbath too. To sanctify means to set it apart (separate). You separate the Sabbath from the other 6 days of the week by not labouring on it or not doing any commerce (buying or selling) on it, Ex. 20:9-10, Neh. 13:15-20. Some people call me a false prophet (or even a cult) because I advocate God's Sabbath. But then they should be consistent and call Moses, Isaiah (56), Nehemiah, (13:15-20), Ezekiel (20), Jeremiah (2 Chron. 36:20-21) false prophets too, for they all advocate God's Sabbaths. Even Jesus honoured it, for if he did not he would be a sinner (Transgressor of the Law, 1 John 3:4) and then he would not be the spotless Lamb of God. That Christians who do not keep God's Sabbaths, but love God in any other way won't enter the Kingdom (Millennial Rest), does not mean that they will be eternally damned, for at the end of the Millennium the Book of Life is opened, and when their names are in it, they will not be cast into the Lake of Fire, Rev. 20:23-24. So just like the Babylonian captivity was a temporary punishment (Lev. 26:33-35, Neh. 13:15-20, 2 Chron. 36:20-22, Ez. 20:23-24). Even so not being in the Millennium is a temporary punishment for Christians who do not honour God's Sabbaths. By keeping the Sabbath, I advocate that God is the Creator; Ex. 20:8-11, I also advocate that God is my Redeemer, Deut. 5:15, but the main reason to keep it is in anticipation of entering God's Rest. And that Rest starts when Jesus returns from Heaven with his Holy Angels to punish the disobedient, 2 Thes. 1:7, K.J. See also Hebr. 3+4 (read this with Ez. 20). The warning here is: "Don't make the same mistake Israel made". Do you understand that the main reason why Israel was not in the Promised Land during the Babylonian captivity was that they rejected God's Sabbaths? Daniel, who was 10 times wiser than the wise man in Babylon, Dan. 1:20, only understood this when he had been about 85 years in Babylon (around 520 B.C.), see Dan. 9:1+2. Why not learn from Israel's mistakes and don't make them? Being in the Millennium is only for those who obey God's Commandments (Sabbaths). JACK EMERSON MCDERMID

Jack Emerson McDermid passed away peacefully with his family by his side at Lakeridge Health Oshawa on Wednesday, February 26, 2014 in his 79th year. Jack, beloved husband of Audrey McDermid of 43 years and loving father of Lorrie (Jerome Diotte), Rudi Nelson(Theresa) and Shelly(Rick MacFarlane). Proud grandpa of Daniel (Crystal), Courtney (Zac), Britney and great-grandpa of Parker, Lundyn and Abigail. Dear brother of Doug, Daurene, Patricia, Madeline, Mary-Lou, Joan, Donna, Max, Bev and the late Garry. Jack will be lovingly remembered by his many sisters-in-law, brothers-in-law, nieces, nephews, family and friends. Family and friends were received at Mount Lawn Reception Centre, 21 Garrard Road, Whitby (North of Hwy 2) 905-443-3376 on Monday, March 3, 2014 with service in the chapel. Cremation. In memory of Jack, donations to a charity of your choice would be appreciated. Memories may be shared at www.mountlawn.ca

God Saw You Getting Tired
God saw you getting tired
And a cure was not to be.
So He put His arms around
You and whispered
"Come with Me"
With tearful eyes we watched you suffer
And saw you fade away.
Although we loved you dearly,
We could not make you stay.
Each time we see your picture,
You seem to smile and say, "Don't cry,
I'm in God's keeping,
We'll meet again someday."

ORTON WILLIAM ELDER RUMLEY
SEPTEMBER 16, 1927 - FEBRUARY 21, 2014

With sad hearts the family share the passing of Orton William Elder Rumley at Manitoulin Health Centre, Mindemoya on February 21, 2014. Orton was born in Silver Water, Ontario on September 16, 1927 and was in his 86th year. Beloved husband to Ruth Rumley; nee Richards, for 57 years. Loving father of Eldene Rumley and fiancé Brian Shepard, Mary Lou Reynolds and husband Alan, and Morris Rumley. Loving father-in-law of Frances Willis, sadly predeceased by son (William) Bill. Cherished grandfather of Gye and wife Bianca, Devin, Brett, (William) B.J., Dawn, Jennifer, and Wilfred. Dear great-grandfather of Wyatt, Hunter, Journey, Joey, Brittney, and Mia. Special uncle to many nieces and nephews. Lovingly remembered by sisters Margaret Burch and Sheila Marshall. Predeceased by parents William and Margaret Rumley, sisters Janet Sigudson, May Radford, Yvonne Vardy, Nelda Armstrong and by brothers James (Jim) and Roy Rumley. A long time resident on Rockville Road outside Mindemoya, Orton retired in 1989 after 12 years as lighthouse keeper with the Canadian Coast Guard. Lighthouse keeping began for Orton as a young man with his father on Great Duck Island and Cape Robert and was a career shared with his younger brother Jim, one time keeper on Great Duck Island. First Gros Cap Reef, then Lonely Island, Slate Islands, Trowbridge Island and back to Lonely Island with his wife Ruth alongside him as assistant lighthouse keeper. The business of keeping light stations required a skilled knowledge of diesel engines, compressors, radio and electronics, timely weather reporting, and a singular dedication. Orton was a licensed automotive mechanic and an accomplished welder. He operated a garage in Mindemoya and then one at his home, where he provided exceptional service to the local community. He could turn his hand to a variety of tasks and smilingly referred to himself as a jack-of-all-trades. Orton's innate mechanical ability; especially with diesel engines, was a great benefit to the K.V.P. Company; later the E. B. Eddy Forest Products Ltd., and in the 1960s he worked on heavy forestry equipment in Jerome Mines. He served on the school board, and was the individual people turned to for first aid in that isolated community. With his calm demeanor, caring manner and gentle hands he truly missed his calling as a family physician. Prior to meeting the love of his life Ruth and their marrying in 1956, he worked in the engine department of the freighters on the Great Lakes. He never seemed to stray too far from water, always had a boat and outboard motor to go fishing with and would clean and cook the catch for his family. His Sunday morning pancake breakfasts were the stuff family stories are made of. A talented musician, Orton played violin, guitar and clarinet. The love of music was a family legacy, his maternal great-grandfather Benjamin Smith was a Professor of Music at the University of Dublin. An avid gardener, he enjoyed the annual cycle of planting, caring for and reaping the produce from his vegetable garden, raspberry bushes and fruit trees on his 50 acre hobby farm. As at home in the woodlot as the garden, the fall of 2013 saw him cutting, using his own custom-made wood splitter, and stacking his winter wood. Orton was first and foremost a gentleman. He was a devoted husband, a caring, loving father, a valued brother, a good neighbour, a great dancer and someone you could count on in your corner. Some people come into our lives, leave footprints on our hearts and we are never the same. He will be truly missed. The family wish to extend their gratitude to the doctors, nurses and staff of the Manitoulin Health Centre, Mindemoya for their caring support in his final days. Orton was a long standing member of first, the Gore Bay and then, the Little Current congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses and strongly devoted to his faith. Honouring Orton's wishes, a memorial committal service will be held at the Silver Water Cemetery in the spring.

Gore Bay farmer shares story tractor mishap

by Alicia McCutcheon

GORE BAY—When contacted by The Expositor for an interview for Farm Safety Week, Berend "B" Hietkamp didn't hesitate to share the tale of his tractor accident, which took place on the Hietkamp family farm just outside of Gore Bay last July.

Mr. Hietkamp grew up on a dairy farm in the Netherlands, milking cows from the tender age of nine-years-old, which was still done by hand at the time. "That was right at the end of the war," he recalled.

The Hietkamps moved to Canada in 1953 and immediately began dairy farming on a southeastern Ontario farm near Harriston. Then, in 1961, a farm came up for sale near Gore Bay that came complete with a small dairy processing plant. The farm was called Clover Hill and three couples, Mr. Hietkamp's parents, his brother and sister-in-law and he and his wife Debbie, all moved to Manitoulin to begin a new life on the farm.

In 1973, the Clover Hill dairy operation was bartered with Wagg's Dairy—their dairy for Wagg's cows and quota—and Mr. Hietkamp's parents moved back to Harriston.

He lamented that this was the time when the dairy industry was thrown into chaos and "small dairies went like the dodo bird." When the Milk Marketing Board was created, he said, prices then stabilized.

Mr. Hietkamp said he never had an incident on the farm—that is until July of last year.

"I was helping Jeff cut hay," Mr. Hietkamp said, referencing his son Jeff, who now owns and operates the family farm, now a beef operation, with his wife Wendy.

He said he had just had a coffee with his son before heading back to the field to help finish the haying when he realized that the swather wouldn't lower itself.

Mr. Hietkamp explained that the farm's acreage is slightly hilly and so, before investigating the problem, he parked the tractor down one of the slight embankments, leaving the machine running.

"I got out to see what was wrong," he continued, explaining that the pin had fallen out and the lever of the cylinder would not go down as a result. Mr. Hietkamp then went back to the tractor to search for a spare pin but, without finding one, decided to cut a piece of rope to use in the meantime.

"That's when things started to happen," he said.

Either through the momentum of the tractor's engine, the cutting of the rope, or a combination of both, the tractor began to move and Mr. Hietkamp attempted to stop it with his hip. The 78-year-old was knocked down and the tractor rolled on top of his leg—he was in trouble.

"I hollered, hoping someone would hear me, as I was near the road, but no one came," he said. Suddenly, the farmer remembered the conversation he had with his wife Debbie that morning when she called out to him before he left, asking if he had his cell phone.

"I remembered my cell phone and called home and, miraculously, Debbie answered," he said.

Within minutes, Debbie and his daughter were by his side. Mr. Hietkamp told his wife she would have to drive the tractor and so, with instruction from her husband lying pinned below, Ms. Hietkamp slowly drove the tractor off her husband's leg. Then they waited for the ambulance to arrive.

"I was so scared," Ms. Hietkamp shared.

After arriving at the Minden Hospital, x-rays confirmed that Mr. Hietkamp had a broken leg and he was in need of surgery. The following day, and another ambulance trip later, Mr. Hietkamp found himself at Health Sciences North and being prepped for surgery.

Healing has been a long process for the farmer, with a one-month stay at the Manitoulin Lodge following surgery and daily physio on a stationary bicycle. Mr. Hietkamp says the pain is still with him and he requires the use of a walker these days.

"That is the stupidest thing I have ever done," he said of his accident. "I thought I had the tractor parked correctly. What you should do is shut it off, or put the brake on."

And always carry some form of communication, such as a cell phone. In Mr. Hietkamp's case, the timely urging by wife Debbie to bring his mobile phone as he left for the fields that day was, truly, miraculous.

Berend ('B') and Debbie Hietkamp are happy to be alive and well in their home in Gore Bay after Mr. Hietkamp badly broke his leg in a tractor rollover last July.

Talking to your kids about farm safety is critical

by Glen Blahey

ONTARIO—You would probably do just about anything to keep your kids safe on the farm. That's what over 90 percent of Canada's farmers said in a farm safety attitudinal survey conducted by Farm Credit Canada in 2011. But how do you know what to do?

From 1990 to 2008, Canadian Agricultural Reporting (CAIR) recorded 248 agricultural fatalities of children under 15 years of age. That's an average of 13 deaths a year. Approximately 44 per cent of those fatalities involved children under the age of five. The most common causes of fatalities included being run over by equipment, drowning, or equipment rollovers. In many cases, these fatalities were work-related, though the child wasn't necessarily ly performing the agricultural task at the time of the injury.

So what can you do to raise your children to celebrate farm life, while keeping them safe? You'll need to have a really good handle on child development levels, abilities and limitations, as well as when and how to set clear rules and boundaries, so that everyone stays happy, healthy and safe.

While you can't completely childproof your farm, creating a safe play area can limit their exposure to hazards including traffic, agricultural production and environmental concerns. A safe play area is a carefully planned location with safe, age-appropriate play equipment designated by physical boundaries such as fences, gates or shrubs. Establish any necessary play rules and supervise your children appropriately.

Next, identify areas on your operation that are off-limits to children, such as confined spaces including grain bins or silos, pesticide or fertilizer storage facilities, bodies of water and manure pits. Can a fence be installed to barricade a hazardous area? Can materials be stored inside locked cupboards or locked buildings? Do it. When it comes to visiting the barn, storage buildings or bin yards, establish age limits for entry. For example, if a child is younger than 10 years old, establish a rule that they have to stay in the fenced yard area; if a child is 10 to 13 years old, they can enter these areas if they are accompanied by an adult.

When it comes to farm chores, the ability of a child to carry out an agricultural task is dependent on several factors, including age, motor skills, cognitive function and awareness of the world around them. Children under seven years of age are dependent on adults to provide them with a safe environment and should not be engaged in agricultural tasks. A seven- to nine-year-old child generally doesn't have good hand-eye coordination. They have a short attention span and need parents to demonstrate a task each time. For this age group, short tasks that don't require a great deal of accuracy such as yard and garden work or feeding the animals would probably be okay, as long as they are under constant supervision. Contrast this with 16- to 18-year-old youths who can usually begin adult tasks, but may have a tendency to be a bit reckless and easily distracted. However, every child is different, so be vigilant and adjust tasks based on your day-to-day assessment of their abilities.

And when it comes to youth employment, whether you are hiring your own child or another youth, be sure to check legislative requirements to ensure you are operating within the legal parameters of your area.

Guide your child through the farm workplace and protect them from the obvious, often overlooked, hazards on the farm. It will help keep them safe while setting them on a path to become a safety-conscious farmer in the future.

West Sudbury Dairy Producers annual general meeting briefed on dairy issues

By Michael Erskine

LITTLE CURRENT—The Dairy Farmers of Ontario Manitoulin West Sudbury Dairy Producers annual general meeting took place on March 7 at the Little Current United Church hall. Representatives of the nine dairy quota holders of the region, dairy farmers mostly, gathered at a nice roast beef luncheon to learn about development in their industry, honour those of their compatriots who have received awards of recognition for 2014 and to network with each other.

Manitoulin West Sudbury Dairy Producers president Keith Emery opened the luncheon meeting with grace before the assembly sat down to eat and discuss lighter subjects of friends and family before weighing into the heavier issues of concern facing the dairy industry.

Following the meal, Ministry of Agriculture and Food Agricultural Development Advisor Brian Bell delivered a presentation on the Rural Agri-Innovation Network and the drainage subsidy program being delivered by the Ministry of Northern Development and Mines, Northern Ontario Heritage Fund.

"This is not an Agriculture and Food program," explained Mr. Bell, but he delivered information on the project.

Under the program, which has a $300,000 maximum grant cap, new producers can access funding of $500 an acre for tile drainage and $500 an acre for land clearing. Existing producers can access the fund as well, but the funding would be 50 percent grant and 50 percent loan. For those Mennonite farmers who do not accept government grants, the pro-

One of my favorite salads is the winter slaw. The offerings in the fridge were pretty scant: half a white cabbage, one beet and some carrots. But as so often is true, less is—or at least can be turned into—more. I thinly sliced the cabbage, grated the carrot and beet, and tossed in some items from the cupboard (sliced almonds, dried cranberries, olive oil, cider vinegar, a little honey or maple syrup) and voila, a crisp, loaded with flavours colourful salad for dinner.

Any winter vegetable that can be thinly sliced and eaten raw works well in slaw. You can add beets and parsnips and grapefruit. So the slaw that is usually served in the summer can become a mainstay for us all winter long.

Beet, Parsnip, Radish Slaw

Orange zest and juice add the zing to this salad. As you toss the slaw the beets will "bleed," colouring the parsnips and radishes. I always double the dressing. The recipe calls to julienne the vegetables (slicing very thin with a chef's knife) but I find using the box grater works faster.

1 navel orange
1 lemon
1 small onion finely chopped
2 cloves garlic minced
1 tsp honey or maple syrup; more to taste
Fine sea salt and freshly ground black pepper
1/3 cup olive oil
3 medium beets, peeled and cut into a julienne
1 medium parsnip, peeled and cut into a julienne
5 medium radishes, trimmed and cut into a julienne
1/4 cup or whole package 1/2 inch long snipped chives

Finely grate the zest from the orange and the lemon. Use the juice from half the lemon. In a large bowl, whisk the zests, lemon juice, onion, garlic, honey, and 1 tsp salt. Let it stand for about 10 minutes. Whisk in the oil and add a generous pinch of pepper.

Add the beets, parsnip, radishes, and chives, and toss to combine. Add more salt, pepper, lemon juice or honey for taste. Serve right away for a crunchy slaw or let it sit for up to 2 hours for the beets to soften a bit.

Cabbage, Carrot Slaw with Cranberries, Mint and Honey

Cabbage and carrots are typical slaw ingredients but this salad has a few extra spices that will make it different. You can use white cabbage and instead of the almonds I used pumpkin and sunflower seeds. I find that by letting the salad sit out for a couple of hours before eating enhances the flavours into the cabbage.

3/4 cup dried cranberries or apricots
3 Tbsp fresh lemon juice
2 tsp honey or agave syrup or maple syrup plus more to taste
1/2 tsp ground cumin
1/8 tsp cayenne pepper
Fine sea salt
1/3 cup olive oil
4 cups thinly sliced red cabbage (about 1/2 medium head)
1 large carrot, peeled and cut into julienne
1/2 cup thinly sliced fresh mint leaves
1/4 cup sliced almonds, lightly toasted

Put the cranberries in a small bowl and cover with hot water. Let soak for 10 minutes. Drain, and pat dry. In a large bowl, whisk the lemon juice, honey, cumin, cayenne, and 3/4 tsp salt. Whisk in the oil. Add the cabbage, carrot, cranberries, mint, and the nuts, and toss to combine.

Season with salt. Serve right away or let sit for up to 2 hours.

gram can be accessed on a loan-only basis, Mr. Bell explained. "Just write across the bottom of the form 'loan only' before sending it in."

The program will run until 2017, but it is not a multi-year program, noted the ag rep. "You can delay the implementation of the work up to 2017, but it is only over one year, you can complete the work in 2014, 2015 or 2016," he said. "But the work itself is over one year."

Dairy educator Leigh Swinimer gave a short presentation of her work in the schools this year. She noted that getting bookings from teachers has proven a little challenging. "I sent out a lot of information in October and November, but I did not get a lot of feedback," she said. "I even emailed messages to the teachers directly. I still did not get a lot of feedback." Ms. Swinimer finally settled on going to meet the teachers directly one-on-one and that is proving to be more fruitful.

Promotional work by the Manitoulin West Sudbury Milk Producers committee was somewhat limited last year. The committee's promotional efforts were largely accomplished through booths at hockey tournaments and Island Skate and the milk producers are getting involved with an Island bi-athlete. "She made the Ontario team," said the secretary. "We put $250 toward her expenses. We might want to consider a logo."

Alex Anstice of Tehkummah, suggested that the Canada

Cup bike races may be a good venue to explore as well. "There are 500 racers there," he said, noting that it would be an ideal event for the 'Recharge Milk' promotion, where volunteers hand out chocolate milk to racers at the finish line as a recharge drink. "It's nice for us to get involved in some new events."

The committee also donated funds to local food banks. Split between the Massey and Manitoulin food banks, the funds supplied 27 families with milk for three months.

Producer Jim Anstice noted his concern that there have been no educational meetings for the milk producers themselves. "I notice there is nothing in the budget under information meetings," he said. "It begs the question, why not information meetings for our own members," he asked. "We need to have information meetings, but there is nothing set aside for them in 2014. It is our money, it should be spent on our projects."

Spring Bay Rural Route

March 10—Last week was much warmer and not so windy.

A number of ladies attended the World Day of Prayer at the United Church in Mindemoya on Friday. The topic was Streams in the Desert written by the ladies of Egypt. Following the service they served a tasty lunch.

Happy belated birthday wishes to Bill Montgomery and George Popowich who celebrated last week. We hope they had a good day.

Royce, Tracey and Lexis Young spent the weekend in Sudbury.

Many are still sick with the cold and flu.

A number of people enjoyed the men's breakfast at the United Missionary Church in Spring Bay last week.

I watched the Brier, it was played for gold and silver on Sunday. The Koe's Alberta rink won the gold and BC won the silver. Stoughton won the Bronze. A lot of good games to watch.

I had a busy birthday weekend. Lavina, Sheila Fogal and Lillian G. came on Thursday and brought birthday cake and goodies. We had an enjoyable afternoon. Thanks girls!

Friday after the World Day of Prayer service in Mindemoya I went to the Anglican Church in Little Current for a lovely roast beef dinner. Had birthday cake after with the Eaglesons and David and Connie.

Providence Bay men's curling bonspiel was held on the weekend. The winner's of the Peter McAllister Sr. plaque were Gordon Gilpin, Chris Gordon, Jim Gilpin and Don Orford. These names will go on the plaque. The runner's up were Terry Addison, Jack Clark, Mark Addison and Bill Reich. A lot of good curling. A lovely banquet dinner was served on Saturday. It was an enjoyable weekend.

I want to thank everyone for the lovely gifts, cards, flowers and so many phone calls. I was overwhelmed, it was just beautiful to hear from so many people. Thank you so much for everything, Erma.

General agreement on the concept saw the budget adjusted to allow funds to be set aside to provide information meetings for the membership.

DFO Field Service representative Jean-Guy Seguin presented awards to a number of local producers, including a 2013 Certificate of Merit to Jim and Alex Anstice of Oshadenah Holsteins "In recognition of maintaining Grade A farm premises and shipping milk of above average quality."

DFO Region 12 director Steve Runnalls delivered a presentation on the impact of the provisions of the Trans-Pacific Partnership and the Comprehensive Economic and Trade Agreement (CETA) agreements with the European Union. Mr. Runnalls noted that government information on the deals was largely political during representations with the ministry. "It is their deal and they just sold it," he said. "We get a different story with each email that comes in." Information at this point is very contradictory. "(On the TPP) we get a lot of conflicting stories," he said. "One Conservative MP told us it was at least five years out," he said. "Then he came to a reception that night and told us it was a done deal."

The DFO repeatedly expressed concerns to the government of the impact the trade deals would have on supply management, noted Mr. Runnalls. But the government repeatedly assured the producers that they were committed to supporting supply management.

Under the European agreement, a significant amount of new import quota on cheese has been allowed to the Europeans and a large amount of new access was put in place for Canadian cheese producers in Europe. The DFO assumes that the new room for cheese will be filled with higher margin cheese products.

As to the still developing Pacific trade agreement, the deal is more difficult to reach due to the larger number of players. Mr. Runnalls noted that key concerns are greater access for Canadian products in other markets, including tariff reductions. "In trade, success is measured in gaining access to other markets and protecting your own," he said. "New Zealand, the US and Australia all want greater access."

Central Manitoulin Chatter

I think spring has sprung! The sun is shining and the thermometer shows it to be +1°C. My geraniums are all in bloom, soaking up the sun on the windowsills. We all deserve this lovely touch of spring as it has been a long cold winter.

The Mindemoya peewee team was victorious in the tournament held in Walden. Congratulations to the team and their coaches and families.

The men's curling bonspiel held in Providence Bay over the weekend was another great success.

The roast beef meal on Saturday night was delicious and well attended. The junior curlers put on the breakfast in the mornings, "manned" by the Dawson family. The first event winners were the Gord Gilpin rink from Sudbury with Gord Gilpin, skip, Chris Gordon, vice, Jim Gilpin, second and Don Orford, lead. The winners of the second event were the Kenny Cranston team from Sudbury beating the Jack Clarke rink from Gore Bay. Dave McDermid's rink won the third event over the Bob Cadel rink from Providence Bay. The rink of Bob Cadel, skip, Jack White, vice, Angus MacDonald, second and Fred Johns, lead, with an 8-ender against Lew Lanktree's team. The ice was in excellent condition for the brier. Thank you to everyone involved, all the volunteers and the wonderful camaraderie, helping to make the weekend a fun time!

The Providence Bay Curling Club roundup for the year will be the last weekend in March. The fish fry will be held on Saturday night. It has been a long winter of curling fun!

Many are still successful in catching fish while withstanding the cold on the ice. The children's perch derby at Wolsey was a huge success with many perch caught. Prizes were donated by local businesses with one I know of being Alyssa Cranston winning a new fishing pole courtesy of the Up Top Sports Shop in Mindemoya. Tim Horton's supplied the coffee and treats.

Dairy educator travels to local schools to provide industry insight to students

by Michael Erskine

MASSEY—Dairy Farmers of Ontario (DFO) dairy educator Leigh Swinimer of Massey loves her job, spending evenings and weekends giving riding lessons at Rock Island Horses and travelling to local schools during the daytime to provide education on the dairy industry to local students.

"It really is a great job," she said of her DFO gig. "My children are in school during the daytime and my horse riding lessons are after school in the evenings and on weekends, so it gives me something interesting to do during the day."

Ms. Swinimer has five main topics that teachers can choose from when she delivers the DFO program, basically tailoring her presentation to their curriculum needs. The topics include dairy farming, dairy goodness, careers ("great for Grade 7 and 8," she said), processing (cow to fridge) and technology.

The DFO program is a free service for teachers and provides interactive, curriculum-connected in-class workshops for elementary schools across Ontario. "It offers an exciting and interactive learning opportunity for students," she said. "Teachers can depend on our program to help students acquire an insight into various aspects of the dairy industry."

There are five good reasons to book the dairy education program, noted Ms. Swinimer. "It comes right to your classroom, you can choose the topic best suited for your classroom, it links directly to the Ontario curriculum, it's interactive and it's free," she said.

The territory covered by Ms. Swinimer stretches from the west of Sudbury across Manitoulin and the North Shore. "Most of the schools I work with are smaller," she said. "I go to meetings with other educators in Toronto and they will have 10 large schools with hundreds of students."

Although the schools she deals with tend to be smaller, the course material is much the same and important for students to understand Ontario's dairy industry.

"When students think of a farm, especially in the urban centres, they think of Old MacDonald in his overalls and plaid shirt," she said. Today's farms are as likely to include high technology with robotic milking machines. "It's about updating the image," she said. "We are not out there milking 100 cows by hand any more. It is very high tech these days."

Ms. Swinimer normally works in the classroom, providing teachers with 45 minute sessions that allow them to work on the other things in their classroom that needs to be done while she delivers a program that links in well with the Ontario curriculum, but she also delivers education at local agricultural fairs as well.

"I don't know if you have seen the big plexiglass cow that you can actually milk," she said, recalling one display at the Massey Fair. "Sometimes I will go on field trips with the students to local farms to deliver the programming."

When it comes to getting the message out, Ms. Swinimer is always happy to interact with schools and teachers and she delivers programming to about five to seven schools per year. "I give a lot more presentations than that a year, but a lot of them are at the same school to different grades," she said.

Ms. Swinimer's email address is rockislandhorses@gmail.com. "The horse reference sometimes throws people off a bit," she laughs. "Of course horses give milk too, I hear it is popular in China." But the address refers to her other gig as a riding instructor.

More information on the OFA educational programs and accompanying course material and resources can be found at www.milk.org.

Providence Bay News and Notes

The Community of Christ pancake breakfast was a great success. Thank you to everyone that came to the event.

Pat McFarlane has her sisters visiting with her—Betty Christiansen from the Sault and Sylvia Mann from Hawk Junction.

We had Blair for supper on Thursday and afterwards we talked about old times.

Friends of Mary Oliver are invited to a 'coffee break' on Tuesday, March 18 from 1 to 3 pm at the Community of Christ Providence Bay. All are welcome to come and share memories and enjoy a visit with ZuZu.

Donations to the Manitoulin Pet Save will be accepted if you desire.

We still have lots of snow but it is nice to see the sun once in awhile.

Remember our seniors and our veterans. Check on them if you live near them.

If you have any news at all feel free to call me at 705-377-4449.

Remember to be kind to one another. God Bless. We hope everyone will have a great week.

'Island time' phenomenon good for not rushing and being safe

by Alicia McCutcheon

MANITOULIN—Beef farmer Dave McDowell, one half of the Manitoulin Livestock Exchange, credits the Island pace of life with the small amount of farm-related incidents taking place on Manitoulin Island.

"One thing I'm really impressed with here on the Island is I've been here five years and I hear of very few farm accidents compared to the south (Ontario)," Mr. McDowell said.

"I think part of it is the Island time thing—they aren't in as much of a hurry," he continued. "Accidents generally happen when people are rushing."

Mr. McDowell said farm safety is mostly common sense, but there are things that people forget. "And you can't legislate safety," he said. "People need to be responsible for their own mistakes."

Equipment manufacturers can also be thanked for making farming safer over the course of the last 10 to 15 years. He gave the example of a new combine which, when the farmer gets off of the seat, automatically turns off the header, or the safety blocks now found in a modern round baler.

Farm safety is all about awareness, he added, noting that the Farm Safety Association and Workman's Safety Insurance Board and Ministry of Labour all do a good job in giving farmers the tools they need to stay safe on the farm.

A safety feature that Mr. McDowell is now making a regular practice on his farm, and also during sale days with the Manitoulin Livestock Exchange, is dealing with cattle behind the gates instead of in front of gates. For example, if a calf runs by kicking, not doing it to hurt the farmer or farm workers but because it's playing, being behind the gate doesn't hurt so much if it's kicking as it goes by, he said.

Mr. McDowell said he grew up on a dairy farm, which later transitioned to a beef farm with cash crops.

Safety, he said, began with his grandmother. "I wasn't allowed to ride on a tractor unless it was inside of the cab, and now I do that too," he said.

While he has never had a close call with farm tragedy, he has witnessed one. One summer Mr. McDowell was working for his uncle, picking and washing peas and beans. This work was being done during the night with a machine working alongside them to wash the peas in a drum. One of the workers, a young man, stepped backward and lost his footing and ended up in the drum. A strong worker, the young man was able to wrestle his way out without too much damage, but it could have been much, much worse, Mr. McDowell reminisced.

"Up here on the Island, the guys do a tremendous job, even with the older equipment that is prevalent," he added.

As for words to the wise, Mr. McDowell shared "big gates, high gates, strong gates—the more the better," adding that any form of communication, from cellphone to walkie-talkie, for farmers out in their pastures or fields, is critical too.

Safety in the farm shop

Many farmers will be spending extra time in the farm shop before heading out to the fields. Whether shop time means routine maintenance or repairs to major equipment, make sure safety is priority. It's easy to rush through a job when the weather is just right and time is running out, but short cuts often result in accidents. Start the season by making sure the farm shop is in order, with everything in its place and operating properly. Check electrical cords carefully for holes and excessive wear. Wrap or coil electrical cords so that they don't become damaged or create a fall hazard. Shops should be equipped with ground fault circuit interrupters (GFCI) and arc fault interrupters (AFI) to prevent shock hazards. Newer buildings that have been constructed for the sole purpose of serving as a farm shop are usually well-lit, but older buildings that have been converted to serve as a shop sometimes have poor lighting. Dim light and shadows create a safety hazard, especially if the operator is tired. Make sure that the shop is well-ventilated, especially during activities such as painting, fluid handling and welding. No matter what the surface, keep floors as clean as possible; free from litter, cords, equipment and tools that aren't in use. Clean up spills as soon as they occur, and make sure slippery surfaces are demarcated until they are no longer hazardous. There should be some means of temperature control for the shop—people who are uncomfortable due to excess heat or cold cannot perform routine tasks safely. The fire extinguisher should be mounted properly and easy to access. Large shops might require additional fire extinguishers so that a unit is always accessible from within 30 feet.
