Dawson Citizens bid to acquire historic Mississagi Lighthouse Gets MTA, Fisheries and Oceans backing

by Robin Burrige

MELDRUM BAY—Representatives of the Manitoulin Tourism Association (MTA) met with the Dawson Citizens' Improvement Association (DCIA) last week to look at ways to support the association in acquiring the Mississagi Lighthouse from the Department of Fisheries and Oceans (DFO).

"We met with Shelba Millette (MTA director of operations) and Ron Berti (MTA president) last week," DCIA Chair Rick Bradley told The Expositor. "They explained their current role with the lighthouse and discussed ways they might be able to assist us or support us with the acquisition of the lighthouse."

The MTA has a longstanding agreement with the Canada Coast Guard to maintain and use the lighthouse property, which was built in 1873 by the Department of Transport of Canada as a tourism attraction for Western Manitoulin.

"The discussion was quite positive," continued Mr. Bradley. "They offered to partner with us to assist with grant applications (to improve the lighthouse) and if we are successful in our acquisition, to assist us with marketing."

Mr. Bradley explained that DCIA is currently in discussions with the DFO regarding the possible transfer of the Mississagi Lighthouse to the association, but the process is on hold as both parties await an appraisal of the lighthouse and property by the Federal Department of Public Works, which is scheduled for this November.

Pilot archery program at Lakeview seeks to reintroduce students to the great outdoors

by Robin Burrige

M'CHIGEENG—Lakeview School in M'Chigeeng First Nation is one of 13 schools in Ontario to introduce the National Archery Schools Program (NASP) pilot project as part of its in-school, phys-ed curriculum in partnership with the Ontario Federation of Anglers and Hunters (OFAH) this fall.

"The OFAH will lead Ontario's first NASP program, starting with a NASP teacher certification program this summer and 13 pilot schools this fall," explained Galen Eagle, OFAH manager of communications. "The idea to introduce the program came from its success in Kentucky. In 2001 the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife was in crisis with a significant loss of anglers and hunters. Their solution was to reach out to the youth and they introduced NASP, which had an immediate impact. It has also had great success in Saskatchewan since it was introduced several years ago—they now have the program in more than 200 schools. We are hoping for similar gains."

Since the introduction of NASP in Kentucky in 2001, it has blossomed, reaching nearly 12.5 million youth annually in 12,000 schools in 10 different countries.

"We believe this exciting curriculum-linked, in-school archery program has the potential to spread across the province,

Ontario government extends studded tire season for Northern Ontario drivers

NORTHERN ONTARIO—Drivers who live in Northern Ontario can now put on studded tires earlier and keep them on longer, providing motorists with more options to stay safe during severe or extended winter weather.

Northern Ontario residents can now use studded tires from September 1 to May 31. Previously, studded tires were only allowed from October 1 to April 30. The change is based on advice and recommendations from the Ontario Provincial Police (OPP).

Studded tires can be used on vehicles that have an ownership address in Northern Ontario, which includes the districts of Algoma, Cochrane, Kenora, Manitoulin, Nipissing, Parry Sound,

M'Chigeeng students demonstrate environmental stewardship Volunteer fish hatchery the ultimate goal for Lakeview School students

by Robin Burrige

M'CHIGEENG—Throughout August, while other Island youth were still enjoying summer vacation, Lakeview School students in M'Chigeeng were not only back at school, but also hard at work with Manitoulin Streams and members of the Jr. Rangers program, helping complete work on M'Chigeeng Creek to improve water flow and increase spawning in the waterway.

"Lakeview School has a long-term partnership with Manitoulin Streams and the Manitoulin Stewardship Council," explained Lakeview School Prin-

Lakeview Grade 8 students working alongside the Ontario Junior Rangers and Bob Florean of Manitoulin Stream, directing where to place the spawning gravel.

icipal Neil Debassige. "We embarked on a project a few years ago to improve the M'Chigeeng Creek."

Mr. Debassige explained that between proposals from the school and Seija Deschenes (project coordinator) on behalf of the Manitoulin Streams Improvement Association, the group received funding to complete work on the creek this summer.

"We did what is called bio engineering and rearranged the flow of the creek to allow for fast moving water and added spawning gravel," continued Mr. Debassige.

Patsy Corbiere returned as chief in AOK

by Michael Erskine
AUNDECK OMNI KANING—The Aundeck Omni Kaning band elections on August 30 saw Chief Patsy Corbiere returned to office along with Mike Abotossaway, Ryan Corbiere, Karen McGraw and Marvin Assinewai. Newly elected members Irene C. Altman, Beverly Wilson and Joyce Madahbee will join the reelected incumbents at the eight-member council table.

Chief Patsy Corbiere

Chief Corbiere said she had been pleased with the entire timbre of this election campaign, congratulating all parties for conducting respectful and positive campaigns and welcoming the new faces around the table.

"I think we have a very good mix of old faces and new people," she said. "New people can bring new ideas to the table, but there have been very positive messages put forward and we will be working together as a team."

That team includes members of the community and Chief Corbiere said she hopes that the community will bring their issues to the council table to be dealt with rather than sniping on social media. "I asked people 'does social media address your concerns?'" said Chief Corbiere.

She noted that a lot of the candidates did not actively campaign. "They are who they are 52 weeks of the year," said Chief Corbiere.

This council will have a great blueprint going forward, noted the chief, pointing out that the previous council, in conjunction with a great deal of community consultation, had formulated a five-year strategic plan earlier this year.

Aundeck Omni Kaning First Nation is taking full advantage of the federal housing and marketing credit, a hitherto underutilized federal program "that will help band members get mortgages and loans," said the chief. "There are already band members taking out mortgages."

Historically it has proven challenging for First Nations members to gain mortgages and loans. Through the program, loans are guaranteed much like mortgages from Canada Mortgage and Housing, making dealing with lending institutions much smoother.

Under the program, participating First Nations band members can attain mortgages up to $250,000 for new construction and up to $50,000 for renovations.

Overall, a primary goal for Aundeck Omni Kaning is to become more self-reliant. "There are so many government bills out there that are making things more difficult for First Nations," noted Chief Corbiere.

The band is coming off of a couple of key court victories, one involving a centuries-old dispute over two $500 payments made to ineligible band members. That issue traces its roots back to when the Ojibways of Sucker Creek reserve was first set up, when two families were awarded $500 each as part of the settlement. In the course of the intervening 100 years, and with the magic of compound interest, that $1,000 has expanded meaning that one court victory alone could mean as much as $3 million for the band coffers. A government offer to settle for $100,000 was previously turned down by Aundeck Omni Kaning.

The council will be reviewing its policies and procedures to bring them up to date, and the issues of decommissioning the band's old landfill site and dealing with the community's waste will be among top priorities going forward.

"We also have to look at a new elder's complex," noted Chief Corbiere. While Aundeck Omni Kaning has a relatively young population "we have a lot of people 50-plus coming up," she said. "Our current elders' centre was built in the 1980s."

Chief Corbiere said that among the things she would like to revisit in the comprehensive review is the way committees operate their portfolios, providing a clearer delineation between governance and management. Chief Corbiere praised the band staff for their professional and focussed work ethic. "The staff have been the backbone of the community," she said.

"We are a well-managed and well-organized community," noted Chief Corbiere. "We are always looking for opportunities and partnership possibilities."

The overriding perspective Chief Corbiere said that she would like to see dominate the council table is a simple maxim: "Don't forget who you work for," she said. "Without the community, we don't have jobs."

The results of the poll for chief were Patsy Rita Diane Corbiere, 142 votes, and Peter Nahwegahbow, 67 votes. Council results were Daniel Craig Abotossaway 73, Kelly Ray Abotossaway 78, Michael Lorne Abotossaway 90, Terence Stanley Abotossaway 70, Irene Carrie Altman 110, Marvin Reginald Assinewai 126, Cynthia Mary Behm 57, Darrell Patrick Paul Corbiere 39, Ryan Christopher George Corbiere 112, Christine Anne Phyliss 68, Trevor Evans Esquimaux 70, Anna Marie General 36, Ingrid Joan Madahbee 73, Joyce Beatrice Madahbee 80, Alfred Bradley Nahwegahbow 57, Karen Teresa McGraw-Shokan 129 and Beverly Annie Gail Wilson 91.

Government Road bridge update

A confirmed date of October 31, 2014 has been received for the completion of the Government Road bridge, which crosses the Manitou River at Michael's Bay. The delay was largely caused by a shortage of steel. It is expected that the steel will now arrive on September 19. An updated report from Kresin Engineering has yet to be reviewed by Tehkumma council.

Favourite children's ditty theme of 138th Manitowaning Fall Fair

by Michael Erskine
MANITOWANING—The Manitowaning Fall Fair has been running strong for 138 years and this year Northern Ontario's oldest agricultural fair shows little sign of slowing down. The theme for the fair this year is 'Old McDonald had a Farm, E-I-E-I-O.'

Running from 7 pm Friday, September 5 through to 3 pm Saturday September 6, the 138th Manitowaning Fall Fair has something for all ages thanks to a small but dedicated cadre of volunteers who organize the event and a larger core of volunteers who come out to help with the judging.

"We are really looking at the horse show and horse pull events as major parts of this year's fair," said Manitowaning Agricultural Society secretary Denise Villeneuve, "but the dunk tank is going to be a lot of fun as well."

Ms. Villeneuve has succeeded in recruiting Algoma-Manitoulin MPP Mike Mantha as one of the dunkees for the tank, along with Assinack Councillor (and 2014 candidate for reeve) Paul Moffat. "I wanted to get an educator, the reeve and councillors lined up for the dunk tank," she said. "Mike Mantha said he would be delighted to take part. I am just working out the schedules now." So if you want a crack at the MPP, or your favourite councillor or educator, drop by the arena at 7 pm to find out when they are on the dunk tank plank.

The arena opens for entries to the fair on Thursday, September 4 and the judging takes place from 12:30 pm on Friday until the job is done. The gates open for public viewing at 7 pm.

Inside the arena you will find the prize-winning exhibits, a bake sale, silent auction, 50/50 draw, a door prize, penny table, vendors, displays, Hot Wheels races, the canteen and a fishpond. The opening ceremonies are slated to begin at 7:30 pm.

Following the opening, Robbie Shawana will provide entertain-

Northeast Town council awards public works building tender after insurance interference

by Robin Burrige

LITTLE CURRENT—The Northeast Town council accepted a bid from Sheppard Custom Building Ltd. for $672, 300, plus the cost of in-floor heating, for the new municipal public works building.

While a large portion of the garage's rebuild will be covered by insurance (AVIVA Insurance will cover the amount to rebuild the building up to existing building code regulations), the town also approved an additional $273,650 to be taken from the working capital reserves (which is currently sitting at over $900,000) to update the garage.

The updates will include in-floor heating throughout the entire building, a change in its shape for increased utility, rebuilding the garage with larger, automatic doors that open on both sides and cement floors.

"A couple weeks ago we retendered the project to comply with the municipal act," explained project engineer Ian Whittington of Whittington Engineering at a recent Northeast Town council meeting. "The tender process closed yesterday (Wednesday, August 20) and we received 10 requests for drawings and four bids, however one bid did not conform."

Sheppard Custom Building Ltd. had the lowest bid and completion time (18 weeks), which led to council awarding the Rockville business the tender.

"It's nice to see a local guy coming in the lowest," commented Councillor Paul Skippen.

Council reviewed four different heating options with Mr. Whitting-

Reg Leeson Named Tehkumma 2014 Senior of the Year

by Lori Thompson

TEHKUMMAH—Reg Leeson thought he was attending a going away dinner for his grandson at Garden's Gate restaurant in Tehkumma on August 19. As it turned out, Mr. Leeson himself was the guest of honour. The surprise celebration was organized by Mr. Leeson's wife Noreen after she received a telephone call from the municipal office.

"They called a month before to tell me Reg had been named Senior of the Year, and asked if I could put something together," said Ms. Leeson. "I said I think I can come up with something. To get Reg out to dinner is like pulling teeth. Our 58th wedding anniversary is coming up September 15 and I was going to try to do something for that."

"It was really a party for my grandson," explained Mr. Leeson. "He's just starting as an OPP officer. He's going to Aylmer for three months to finish his course. This was a total surprise."

Ms. Leeson agreed. "He was absolutely thunderstruck."

Each year the municipal council chooses a recipient for the award, someone who is over the age of 65 years and is an inspiration for other seniors and community members. There was no doubt that Mr. Leeson deserved the award for 2014.

Councillor Lydia McKenna stated, "Reg is always willing to help. I've never known him to turn down someone in need of help."

Paul Bowerman echoed that feeling. "Reg has helped out on a lot of building projects around the township, including the church and the marina. He's just an all around good guy. If he sees something to be done or someone that needs a hand, he's there."

Mr. Leeson was born and raised on a farm in the Slash but chose carpentry over farming and moved to South Baymouth in 1966. "I was a carpenter for 62 years," he said. He has never regretted that decision. Over the years he became known as the handyman around town. When things needed repair, especially on a weekend or after hours, people would call Mr. Leeson.

One of his most rewarding accomplishments was the time he assisted a family by organizing a work crew and building an addition that was handicap accessible and included outdoor ramps. After several days the work crew dwindled to just two or three men, but they continued working for seven weeks until the job was complete.

He also spoke proudly of his participation in the renovations at Michael's Bay. "We had to take

'A' is an important letter for aspiring all students

A fable for starting school time. (For parents, and anyone, to read to children of every age!)

The letter 'A', in either capitals or lower case, is an especially important (some will say propitious) one for ants.

It is THEIR LETTER and as there are so many of them in and on the world (above it as well, for some species are flying ants) their letter is referenced over and over and over.

When a young ant is sent off to school for the first time in its tiny life, to that part of the ant colony (or ant hill or giant ant mound, depending on the part of the world they live in or on) where ant learning takes place, the ants' very own particular letter is given much attention by their ant teachers.

"A is also important for Attention," the very youngest ant children are gently taught in their first days of ant school (for it is in the nature of an ant to be always busy and turning this way or that especially with the youngest ants who have yet to harness this seeming boundless energy).

And then, as the young ants journey quickly (for they are small and so their education is similarly compacted in time) through JK to Senior Kindergarten and the primary grades, they learn more of their As: Achievement is an important A-lesson, and so is Attitude, for ants must learn to cooperate and work together for the common good of the ant colony/hill/mound so that it can continue to thrive and flourish and be the best of all ant hills anywhere.

The right Attitude combined with the spirit of Achievement leads directly to the fulfilling sense of Accomplishment for being a part of a job well done, and the young ants are encouraged in this way by their teachers and the other caregivers in their young lives.

As adult ants participating in the hard work the colony needs to keep going, the young ants must learn that physical fitness is absolutely necessary to their wellbeing (and also because all work and no play makes Jack and Jill very dull ants indeed) so then Athletics becomes another important A word in the educational regimen at ant school.

As young ants progress (quickly) from the primary section of ant school to the intermediate schoolrooms in their ant hill, their teachers and other older ants of importance to them will help them to develop their particular Abilities so that they can be as good and Accomplished at the tasks to which they are best suited. Some will have a natural nurturing ability and so these ants may well go on to the all-important career of tending to the queen ant.

Others may like to build things and so they will learn the engineering and construction trades necessary to build and maintain the all-important and ever-expanding tunnel networks within the anthill.

Still others will show an ability for gardening or hunting, and so they will learn to become the farmers and hunters whose job it will be to keep the ant colony's population fed. Others will like the military life and so will be trained in guarding the ant colony and protecting it and its resources from marauders.

When ants complete elementary school and move on to high school, they will have all the Attributes to make them all members of the colony's A-team, keeping the community healthy, safe and well fed as they become Adult Ants and take their places, according to their unique and individual ant Accomplishments, Achievements, Abilities and Attributes. They will be successful in their ant world because they have paid Attention to their teachers and other role models and are prepared for the physical challenges of Adult Anthood because they've taken part in and enjoyed Athletic opportunities at Ant school.

And so, as many of us begin a new cycle of learning, some of us beginning school for the very first time, we hope this Expositor fable proves a useful reminder to all of what goes into the nurturing of individual lives and of our society.

Deer tags and licences seem to confound the MNR

Allocation system needs a complete overhaul

To the Expositor:

Again (as in the August 22 edition of the Manitoulin West Recorder), we are hearing of Manitoulin farmers and landowners being very upset with the MNR's unfair allocation of antlerless deer tags for our annual deer hunting seasons. As you read through the article you can get the sense of frustration from the very people who, in a lot of cases, are "stewards of the land" and provide many deer with the nutritious alfalfa (and other various farm crops) that the deer consume year after year. It is their private land that they pay healthy taxes on and they cannot even be guaranteed an antlerless tag!

Now, by the looks of things, the MNR has screwed up again and apparently some of the tags issued for this year's upcoming hunt have no indication on them as to whether they are for antlered or antlerless deer. Some hunters may remember a few years back of another major mistake when they issued extra tags to individuals to take antlerless deer in all three of our seasons (rifle, bow and muzzle loader). Should make for interesting conversation with a CO!

It was very interesting to read remarks made by Keith Beasley (Canada in the Rough) at the Whitetail Deer Show in Manitowaning (August 27 edition of The Expositor). When asked about the tag system on The Island he replied, "The system is broken...a buck tag should never be over the counter, a doe tag should."

Also when asked if there was a possibility of a filming of an episode of 'Canada in the Rough' on Manitoulin, his reply was, "People don't watch Bob Izumi to see him catch a 1 lb. bass, likewise people don't watch Canada in the Rough to see a small buck harvested!"

For many, many years now a small core group of Quality Deer Management advocates here on the Island have been trying to get their message out as to their feeling on what needs to be done to improve the quality of our whitetail herd here on the Island, but the concepts do not seem to have been accepted by the majority of Deer Advisory Committees and certainly not by the MNR. Now we see Keith Beasley sending out basically the same message to the deer hunters of Manitoulin. If we could succeed in changing the tag allocation system to a buck tag draw with the antlerless tags being available over the counter (keeping in mind that the antlerless tag could not be used to harvest a buck) it would automatically solve many of the present problems. Firstly, all farmers and land owners would then have the ability to get an antlerless tag. Secondly, it would prevent a high number of young bucks from being taken (which is exactly what the present system of reducing antlerless tags does!) and most important of all it would help lower the doe to buck ratio in the herd which is imperative to maintain healthy quality herd!

It is clear that there are a lot of factors working against Manitoulin's whitetail population: the tag system, increased coyote numbers and a very hard past winter with the potential of further hard winters to come.

Basically it comes down to Island deer activists either taking a proactive approach to bring about change to the present tag system or do we just continue to allow the MNR to mismanage it to the point where Manitoulin will fall off the map as one of Ontario's top whitetail destinations (keeping in mind the economic value the annual deer hunt brings to this area!)

In ending I would like to throw in the following stats about our newest deer predators roaming the Island:

According to wildlife biologists, an adult male cougar will kill a deer every nine to 12 days, eating up to 20 lbs at a time and burying the rest for later. The average lifespan of a cougar is 12 years. Female cougars have one to four kittens every other year.

You do the math to estimate the consumption of deer for one year by just one cougar. Remember what Cheryl Seabrook saw that cougar chasing (in her Cougar Tails story). These 'puddy tats' don't live on rabbits and squirrels!

Larry Killens cites Fraser Institute study on taxes

"A penny saved is a government oversight"

To the Expositor:

I often use the quote: "A penny saved is a government oversight." Nothing validates that statement more than a recent article attributed to the Fraser Institute. (The Fraser Institute is a recognized and independent non-partisan research and educational organization, think tank, based in Canada.) This organization is often quoted by major media.

Here is a comment coined to the Fraser Institute last week: "The average Canadian family spends more on taxes than on food, shelter and clothing combined." Who spends our tax money? Who do we see abusing our tax money in the media up to and including criminal activity?

Let me guess, your first thought will be, 'No, I am not surprised.' You should be disgusted!

While the first question asked of me will be, 'What choice do we have?' Excellent question, the answer will be, 'not much,' and I agree. In response to ongoing bad management what we can do is make a wholesale change of governments in our system on Election Day. While not a guarantee of the return of responsible and ethical government, it will give the losers four years to work on convincing us we should return them and as well four years for the elected incumbent to convince us they should stay. No movement? Let's try another party. I have no better suggestions as even ethics committees are not changing anything.

Elections are upon us shortly. Who is currently registered as a candidate? Who is a Johnny-come-lately and yet to register, not wanting to be accountable until the last moment?

I support the old cry! Make sure you vote. Bad persons get elected by those who do not vote!

Injured workers group president takes premier to task over changes

An appeal for a personal reply without any passing of the buck

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is an open letter to Premier Kathleen Wynne reprinted in this newspaper at the writer's request.

Dear Premier Wynne:

After watching your pre-election television advertising stating how much you stand for the people of Ontario, I am amazed that you can make such claims with a clear conscience. As soon as you were re-elected, you continued to sweep the needs of injured workers, or those suffering work related diseases under the carpet, also ignore the poor living in despair on the streets of our cities, as if they did not exist or their plight is not important enough for all party debate in the legislature.

As injured workers experience nearly four times the rate of poverty in Ontario, recognition of those statistics may not be something you wish to publicly acknowledge. But without you so much as making any mention of the plight of injured workers (who are living in various states of poverty in Ontario or the homeless living on the streets of our cities), besides our seniors trying to just make ends meet on meager pensions, your failure to act and lack of debate on these "priority people issues," to say the least, is very unbecoming of you and your party.

Premier Wynne, you state that you stand for the people, but by people you obviously mean the corporate rich, or government CEO's like David Marshall, special appointees like Elizabeth Witmer or the hundreds of others with special privileges who manage to get themselves on the sunshine list, most of them paid by taxpayers money, way above their worth.

Your "for the people" statements then appear not to be representative of the poor people living in poverty on the streets of our cities, or injured workers who are real people that get frustrated and depressed because they are unable to work besides the fact that the WSIB continually denies their entitlement to fair and just compensation, or Ontario's seniors having a hard time to just make ends meet.

Madam Premier, I realize that you are somewhat committed by party politics inherited from your predecessor and the party faithful and have a horrendous budget to get under control, but this attitude of taking from those who can least afford it, then catering to the corporate rich and political rich, (at the expense of hurting the very people who are in most need of your help), is a smear upon your integrity, leadership and is morally wrong and unjust.

Simply put, for you to continue to condone the illegal actions that have been practiced by the WSIB over the last four years is not only morally wrong but unjust. Be forewarned that for Wynne, Flynn, Marshall and Witmer to try and convert these radical and hurtful changes to the WSIB Act, to appear as somewhat legal, by having the wordings manipulated to coincide with such radical changes that completely abandons the Meredith Principles and the original intent and spirit of the act, these actions have great potential to erupt into another political disgrace.

Those who are oblivious to the hurt of others, might ask why? But since you became premier, you have continually been advised of the devastating effects and the financial ruin these illegally practiced, radical and hurtful changes are already having upon injured and diseased workers. However, you continue to ignore all the expert legal and professional advice from those who deal directly with these people on a daily basis and report to you the consequences of your actions. You still continue to create more stress and hurt by the mental and financial hardships imposed upon them by these changes. Premier Wynne, shame on you and those who follow your lead, because this is wrong!

Should you allow Mr. Marshall and his high priced flunkies to continue such disregard of the law by manipulating and construing the wordings of the WSIB Act to suit the circumstances of an agenda that is both callous and hurtful to the very people that the WSIB is supposed to help; and then attempt to have such radical changes enacted into laws, that are not for the benefit of injured or diseased workers, but rather for the WSIB and employers to gain even more power to suppress or deny claims, (with less consequences). The WSIB and employers are able to force workers back to work in pain, which is wrong, unfair and unjust behaviour and demonstrates indifference to the needs of injured workers.

This complete reversal to the original intent and spirit of the act, and the complete dismantling of the time tested Meredith Principle's, now removes all shreds all credibility left, that the WCB had as being there to help injured workers. This is now gone, since Mr. Marshall and Mrs. Witmer have taken over the WSIB!

Madam Premier, rest assured, no matter what David Marshall does, the buck stops at your door, and full responsibility is yours alone. Especially when you know and fully realize the financial hurt, mental hurt, and loss of dignity that these callous changes have already caused over the last four years, for the working class people of Ontario. Mr. Marshall knows and you know, that these changes are way outside the boundaries of what would be remotely considered "as reasonable under the circumstances." In fact these changes stretch the limits of the law to all reasonableness, are way out of bounds and are illegally imposed upon workers.

Premier Wynne, you know in your heart that these people deserve much better treatment and respect than what you are allowing the WSIB to dish out. You state in the newspapers that, "governing is not easy and the objective is to do important things." Well, I would respectfully suggest to you, that the most important thing you could ever do for the good of the people of Ontario, is scrap these radical and hurtful changes in their entirety, now and before it's too late, because they are causing great harm to the very people that you are supposed to help, support and protect.

Madam Premier, these people are the people to whom you are responsible to help and assist, not allow some high priced bureaucrat, without a care or conscious to hinder, hurt and destroy people's lives. Believe me, Mr. Marshall will be long gone, but in the eyes of those observing your actions around the world, the smear upon the Province of Ontario that will be associated to these shameful humanitarian issues will linger for a long time. The federal mistreatment of Canada's First Nation peoples should be a prime example of that sort of legacy and Ontario doesn't need similar shame!

Premier Wynne, you and only you can stop Mr. Marshall turning Ontario into a place of humanitarian disgrace. But by allowing him to continue the dismantling of what was previously enshrined as historic principles of fairness and justice, (that brought the Worker's Compensation Laws to be enacted within this province, by moral, fair and just politicians of yesteryear (1913)). Surely you and your liberal followers can strive to achieve similar standing, and maintain such standards by simply showing some care and compassion for working class people and "you truly standing up for them, as your people."

In one bold move of scrapping these hurtful policies and taking money from other areas instead of the poor, you would become the people's premier, instead of being viewed as one who does not really care for working class people, because you attach more priority and attention to the corporate rich, the political rich, or those who view financial profit as a priority over compassion for others.

In conclusion, I respectfully ask for your intervention in this very serious matter instead of someone in your office sending me the usual reply (that all of us advocates get by return when we try to write you directly, basically stating that the Minister of Labour is responsible for the workplace safety and insurance in Ontario). The MOL, however, expertly fluff off that issue by stating that benefit policies come under the WSIB etc; thus the bureaucratic circle of going nowhere.

Being an ex-police officer, to me the passing the buck routine was always a very good indicator of someone not wishing to bear the ultimate responsibility for ones actions, someone with something to hide, or doesn't want the public to know.

As a result of past experience then, I hereby make a special request to you, asking would you please have the courtesy to personally reply to my plea for your help for these people: Ontario's salt of the earth working class people. It is important to me to better understand your own point of view on these issues, rather than get the usual reply full of bureaucratic constipation as explained above. My address is P.O. Box 88, Manitowaning, ON POP INO.

Respectfully submitted,

Pollution at the root of all weather evil

God's way of punishing complacency

To the Expositor:

Well I did expect people to start complaining about the weather because it has not been very good. For me it's not surprising to see this happen because I understand why it's happening and it's all this pollution that man is creating. It's in the name of having a luxurious life they want to have but it comes with a price. I did say before that God will use the weather to punish mankind. This might be just some of it trying to warn mankind to smarten up. Most of this luxury that mankind has comes from Mother Earth and the more you take, the more damage you're doing. It's not good for the environment because you are disturbing our mother earth balances. It's also one of God's most glorious creations. Now mankind is slowly destroying it. Believe me, God is not happy with you. You have no respect for His creation.

These oil companies and corporations should see how much damage they have done so far with their oil spills on this land. It's all because of their greed and all of these cars that are on the road today. They better believe they're going to pay dearly for this some day. It will eventually come and also the governments because they're in on this. God will not be so forgiving on this day but people still say that God is forgiving. Well think again before saying. That's something to think about.

Manitoulin needs turbine wakeup call

Maintain the sacredness and sanctity of the Island

To the Expositor:

Hey, Manitoulin Island, wake up! One of your greatest resources is eco-tourism, but those towering industrial-sized wind turbines are an unsightly welcome that are destroying the awesome experience of any visitor to the Island. More importantly, the turbine's intrusive and horrific Gothic presence disregards a sacred obligation to protect one of the most beautiful bio-systems in the world. In addition, the Dark Sky Sanctuary that is an important global contribution is threatened by the towering night lights on the horizon.

Take the opportunity now to stop this intrusion that is defacing and devaluing the sanctuary of beautiful Manitoulin Island. Manitoulin could be a global leader if you can maintain the originality and sacredness of the Island that is a shining crystal for us all to behold. Like an invasive species, the influx of towers is turning visitors away and preventing them from enjoying the treasure they expect from an island gem, such as this.

Sincerely,

A confounding Sabbath mystery

Can someone resolve the day of rest?

To the Expositor:

Re: Which Day is the Sabbath

Dear Brothers and Sisters,

Further to the spirituality column in last week's Manitoulin Expositor by Hank Reckman regarding the Sabbath being Friday evening to Saturday evening. As opposed to what tradition shows us that the Sabbath is Saturday night til Sunday night.

Please if anyone could put my mind to rest and be resolved to tell the truth of the Sabbath. I hope someone can shed some more truth on resting and honouring God and Jesus Christ on Saturday or Sunday.

Yours truly,

Animals suffering from ALS research

Wasting water is insane

To the Expositor:

I think to raise money and awareness for cures of illness is worthy but I am against the cold water challenge (ALS Ice Bucket Challenge) for two or more reasons. The first is wasting water like this is insane. There is so much shortness of water and in some cities you can only water every other day for flowers and we have not come to that yet and I hope we do not, so I think it is an incredible waste of good water. Number two is it is so unfair to do it to animals which I have seen on social sites and the ALS test on animals and we all know that testing on animals does not cure any illness. We have a million cures for rats in labs but not one cure for a person and drilling a hole in a rat's head and torturing monkeys, dogs and cats all in the name of finding a cure is horrendous—all people should research ALS more before giving to a cause that is not treating all animals humanly as we are animals sometimes we think we know more than the four legged kind, but sometimes I think not.

Gore Bay senior hockey players and coaches reunite to celebrate the past

by Tom Sasvari

GORE BAY—Some of the rich and colourful tradition of Gore Bay hockey was celebrated earlier this month as 29 former players from the local team in the former Manitoulin Senior Hockey League gathered for a reunion organized by Jim McDonald.

Many of the players were donning Gore Bay uniforms, including the catchy 'Gore Bay-ers' jerseys, jackets, and brought with them photo albums and pictures of past glories.

The stories and memories were incredible as former players talked about players, coaches, teams and games they had played or seen in the past in the senior league.

Mike Gibbs told of the finals held in 1970-1971 in which Gore Bay tangled with Wikwemikong in the finals of the playoffs. "It was a best four of seven series but eight games were played (one being called because it had gone to overtime in the wee hours of the morning without a winner decided). Five of the games went into overtime while the other three were one goal games with Wiky winning the series."

"Senior hockey in the 1950s was really big on the Island," said Mr. Gibbs.

"I can remember Bill Dinsmore, Cliff Beange and I were called up in 1945 to the Gore Bay Senior league team because everyone else was gone to war at the time," stated Stan Gordon who, along with his teammates, were on the Gore Bay high school team.

"I would like to thank everyone for coming out—we had no idea how many of you could show up here today," said Mr. McDonald, a former Gore Bay senior hockey team player who had organized the reunion. "If we had held this 15 years ago we might have been full."

"The main reason I wanted to hold this reunion is that there is no more senior hockey and probably never will be again," said Mr. McDonald. "I would like to thank all the players I had as teammates and the coaches who coached me over the years," he said.

Mr. McDonald praised the coaches he played for moving up the ranks in hockey and their efforts in helping him become a better player, including Godfrey Porter, Ted Jackson and Platt Purvis in high school hockey.

"Then came the Manitoulin Senior Hockey League and the Gore Bay Senior Hockey team. To put it in perspective, Saturday nights were filled with Hockey Night in Canada and Foster Hewitt broadcasting the game while Tuesday was Gore Bay hockey in the arena," said Mr. McDonald. "Prior to my playing with the senior team I was part of the crowd that would fill the arena. People would be hanging off the rafters because they couldn't find a seat in the building. They would come from Kagawong, Ice Lake, Gordon, Spring Bay, Poplar, Silver Water and Meldrum Bay, which was a very long way to travel in from in the winter time."

Mr. McDonald said one forward line that played for the Gore Bay senior team that he really enjoyed watching over the years was one made up of Shelley Thibault, Ken Graham and Greg McLean. "They were so good that at the end of one year when normally one player in the league is given the most valuable player award, the MVP award was given to the members of this line."

Dougal Campbell shared a story of a game in which Gore Bay was not playing very well and the players were getting heck from coach Mike Gibbs. "He told everyone that they should slow down the play like Dougal is doing, but I was skating as fast as I could!" he told the gathering.

"Then there was the time I blew out the cartilage in my knee in a game and Terry Orford was trying to 'straighten out' my leg while Don Carter sat on my chest and poured some kind of amber liquid down my throat," said Mr. Campbell. "When the doctor got to me he said when you blow out your knee you really know how to do it."

Stan Gordon told a story of being in a store in Espanola one day, "and telling Porky Lockyer 'next time you put your skates on I'll be giving you a check.' He said, 'you'll have to catch me.' All I know is he hasn't put his skates on since."

"I can remember one series in the early 1950s between us (Gore Bay) and Little Current in this arena," said Pee Wee Oliver. "Little Current had a good team but we had won all our games the whole year. They had Deedles Eade who was originally from Little Current but was living in Thunder Bay play for them along with two other guys from Thunder Bay and they beat us in the finals. It was the best series ever seen on Manitoulin and nobody could get in the arenas they were just packed. Between periods the teams couldn't get to their dressing rooms."

"When I played the crowds were lined up as far down the street as the liquor store to get in," said Mr. McDonald. "I'm not sure why they started lining up there, but it was sure good hockey."

Bill Clark said, "I played a lot of years. When I started Dougal Campbell Sr. and Ab Purvis were the coaches. I remember I almost quit because I had to wear a helmet."

"I remember Ross McDougall, Brad Campbell, Dave Purvis and I were all picked for an all-star team in minor hockey one year," said Mr. Clark. "And I remember Ronnie Peltier. Any of you who played against him know how hard he could hit. So we were in the senior league and he was coming from one direction around the net and I was coming from the other way. We both suddenly stopped and he asked me if I had any kids and I said two so we ended up skating in the opposite direction from each other."

"He (Ronnie Peltier) could certainly hit hard—it was like running into a wall," stated Mr. McDonald.

"The last coach I played for was Hal Kewley, who really wanted to be here today," said Mr. McDonald, "but about a week ago his wife took sick and he couldn't come. He really wanted to be here." Mr. Kewley had been brought in by the Gore Bay team in 1955, from Preston, to be a player/coach. He brought a different attitude, knowledge, hockey training methods and the will to win through hard work and sweat."

"He coached the Gore Bay senior team to championships in 1955-1956 and 1956-1957," said Mr. McDonald, pointing out that Jim Thibault, Howard Linley, Don Lloyd and Doug Smith, who were all in attendance at the arena, played on the championship team. Gore Bay also won the Pearson Trophy in 1962-1963 and in 1963-1964.

"A lot of people would remember we won the senior championship in 1956 and the high school championship as well," said Don Lloyd. "Our high school team won everything on Manitoulin Island and the North Shore. Preston opened a new area in April 1956, and our high school team went down there for a tournament."

"We won the B championship 2-1 over Preston," said Mr. Lloyd. He said the team had one really talented line made up of brothers Blake and Jim Thibault and Johnny Walker.

"They were the hottest line in high school hockey and were on the third line in senior hockey. I remember when our team got back there was a big dinner held at Gordon's Lodge and a reception was held for the team at the community hall."

"Everyone, especially those that played for him, know that Hal Kewley was a great coach," said Mr. McDonald. "In recognition I took it upon myself to order a trophy which reads, 'Gore Bay Senior Hockey Coach of the Century. 1956-1957 Champions,' and I would like Jim Thibault, captain of the team at that time, to come up and accept on behalf of the team."

Will your

COMPETITION?

In 2013, the first year of the challenge, the winners were:

SPRING BAY
in the small category

in the large category

Runner-up was the community of Aundeck Omni Kaning First Nation

HERE'S A BIG HINT:

All of these winning communities had a local champion who decided to drive the process of decorating their towns, First Nations or hamlets to involve homes, businesses, churches, community halls, etc., so there was a consistency in how the fall harvest theme was reflected.

You can plan where you'll collect your pumpkins for display, borrow hay or straw bales, build scarecrows and get some corn stalks so you can do your bit to put your community in the running for HARVEST GLORY DAYS 2014

As last year, this is a friendly competition organized by The Manitoulin Expositor in the interests of fostering local pride and giving tourist visitors another reason to visit our communities this fall.

As in 2013, the communities will be judged the week following THANKSGIVING WEEKEND (week of October 12 - 18) and, again like last year, the winning communities (one large, one small) will each receive a permanent custom-made road sign that will proclaim your community is PACKED FULL OF COMMUNITY SPIRIT!

We will ask participating communities and individual decorating efforts within these communities, to register with The Manitoulin Expositor so there will again be an online registration form as well as a print version that can be mailed (or faxed) to The Expositor Office.

YES! I will be decorating our (please check as applicable):

Manitoulin sons anchor Nickel City Sons

Mike Ranta had good tailwinds and made faster time than he could have anticipated coming across the North Channel... we found his canoe before we found him. He is trackable on his Facebook site: search "Mike Ranta's Paddle" and that will also lead you to a website. He owns the current world record for solo canoe paddle at 5,200 kms (Alberta to Montreal, I think, on the sites I've referred) and will shatter it traveling from Vancouver to Cape Breton in his current voyage that began April 1. This voyage is 8,000 kms and he is on schedule! At the time of his Little Current stop, he had lost 73 pounds. His Finnish breed dog, Spitzii, is his wonderful companion. (Mike Ranta is a Finn, as well). At his Little Current stop, he met fellow 'Atikokanuts' from Atikokan, Ontario, (Spencer Meany and Fawn Bridgeman (Kerr)), Mike's hometown and current residence, where he wholeheartedly supports the teen/youth program through his journey. Check his site, track his progress and donate to his cause! Way to go, Mike, you make Atikokan proud!

Island ringers host second annual All Ontario Native Horseshoe Competition

by Tom Sasvari

M'CHIGEENG—Members of the Rainbow Ringers Horseshoe Club dominated the results at the second annual All Ontario Native Horseshoe competition, which took place at the Emeric Migwans Memorial Park in M'Chigeeng last month.

Cecile Migwans, a member of the Rainbow Ringers and one of the organizers of this year's all Ontario championships, told the Recorder Monday, "this year all the first place winners in each category was won by a member of the Rainbow Ringers."

"This is the second annual All-Ontario Native Horseshoe Championships that we are hosting again this year," said Ken Migwans of the event. "We had around 60 shooters from pretty well all over, Six Nations, Wikwemikong, M'Chigeeng, Mattagami and from other areas around Manitoulin Island."

In the competition Friday evening, the ladies and men's Masters division events were held for those shooters 55 years of age or over. In the ladies' group, Cecile Migwans was first followed by Denice Wabanose of Wikwemikong, second, and Patricia Migwans of M'Chigeeng, third. In the men's division, Cheyenne Migwans took top spot followed by Rocky Taibossigai, second, and Morris Emery, third.

Saturday saw the men's and women's singles divisions take centre stage. The men's division winner was Cheyenne Migwans while Tammy Debassige was the ladies winner. As well, the men's and ladies' doubles events were held. In the ladies division, Ashley Migwans and Cecile Migwans took top spot, with Cheyenne Migwans and Wade Debassige taking top spot in the men's division.

On Sunday the mixed doubles were held with Lydia Panamick and Ken Migwans taking first place overall.

"A lot of people love this game and will travel a long distance for a competition," said Mr. Migwans, "and it is fun to play players from different areas once in a while," he said, noting the Island Ringers have a league with about 30 players participating.

"Oh yes, we have a lot of people who help organize this event, and businesses and individuals who sponsor the prizes," said Mr. Migwans.

Manitoulin racers shine through the mud at Prov track

by Alicia McCutcheon

PROVIDENCE BAY—The Sunday of Providence Bay Fair weekend means it's time to shine for the riders of the MIDRA (Manitoulin Island Dirt Riders Association), and they did just that.

In the Beginner MX-2 race M'Chigeeng riders took all the glory with Meeshen Corbiere placing third, Jeremy Couchie ranking fifth while Patrick Debassige came in a respectable seventh.

In the 65cc PeeWee race the Manitowaning boys of Christopher White, Steven White and Aaron Leeson placed third, fifth and sixth, respectively, while in the 85cc 12 to 16 race, well known MIDRA rider Hunter Cranston of Spring Bay placed first with a total of 50 points. No. 71 Hunter also placed first in the Super Mini race and again in the Schoolboy race.

Manitoulin owned the podium in the Ladies B race with Alayna Cranston of Spring Bay taking first and Trinity Leeson of South Baymouth placing second.

The Junior MX-2 race saw Malcolm Blue of Zhiibaahaasing in second, Jarvis Debassige of M'Chigeeng in sixth, Jacob Nichols of Mindemoya in seventh and Brady Dearing of Gore Bay in eighth. Malcolm also saw podium results in the Junior MX-1 race with a first place finish.

In the Youth race, Mindemoya's Bradley Stapleton was the only Island rider, coming in second place. Bradley also raced in the Intermediate MX-2 race, placing fourth.

Vet Master Derek Debassige, the coach of many of Manitoulin's young riders, placed second in his race while Michael McDermid of Sheguiandah came in third in the ATV Pro race.

In the Intermediate MX-1 race, Jason McMurray, formerly of Tehkummah, placed first.

The motocross races held during the Providence Bay Agricultural Fair are a fan favourite, Karen Gerrard, official scorekeeper with Canadian Motosport Racing (CMRC), Central Ontario, told The Expositor:

"It was standing room only to watch the riders on their dirt bikes and quads battle it out for positions," Ms. Gerard said. "Although the weather during the week before the race event did a lot of damage to the track and made participants wonder if there would be a race, the track crew from MIDRA volunteered their equipment and time and worked their magic to produce a track that was a challenge for all skill levels."

Ms. Gerrard had high praise for the MIDRA crew and the track at Providence Bay, calling it among the best in Central Ontario.

"There were a few first time riders and some of the 'old boys'

Little Current paddlers haul home hardware from kayak challenge

by Alicia McCutcheon
TIMMINS—During the last weekend of August, Little Current's Steve Arthurs and Robyn McGauley participated in the Great Canadian Kayak Challenge, setting personal best times and representing Manitoulin, and its waters, well.

Robyn McGauley and Steve Arthurs of Little Current pose with their medals after competing in the Great Canadian Kayak Challenge.

In Ms. McGauley's first ever race the kayaker did very well, ranking fifth in the five kilometer race to come home with some hardware.

...Manitoulin racers shine through the mud at Prov track

...continued from page 7 returning to ride for fun," she added. "The youngest rider, Steven White of Manitowaning, was at his first race at the age of six. As the race event wrapped up, the first time and returning visitors and riders to the motocross track and the fairgrounds said that they really appreciated the way they were made to feel as part of a large family and summed it up to being a lot of fun and a good warm up to his main event—the 6.5 kilometre open.

Mr. Arthurs said he was pleased with his fourth place finish, paddling harder than he has in his entire racing career, setting a new personal best just shy four seconds of his goal time of 38 minutes. He called the

that they will be back."

While MIDRA is responsible for the track maintenance and the Providence Bay Agriculture Society is responsible for the race events, MIDRA does fundraising to cover the costs of fuel for equipment and the loads of sand to build the base for track. MIDRA is currently holding a raffle for a 2014 quad. Check out their Facebook

Rider parent Jackie White couldn't say enough about the MIDRA crew either, noting how Rob Cranston and his crew worked tirelessly through the night and up to the last minute due to all the rains and flooding of the track to get it ready for the races. "Even then the track was very, very challenging because of the ruts that end of the race "a real dog-fight" between he and another competitor and while he heard his family cheering him on from the shoreline, he could only focus on the finish line ahead, and edging out the competition.

"This is the first time I managed to beat out one of the Epic (race kayak) paddlers," Mr. Arthurs said proudly. "I just gave it all I had. I couldn't even talk after and almost fell out of the boat I was so tired." He also managed to tear his bicep, which he is nursing now that the racing season is over.

Mr. Arthurs was effusive in his praise of his sponsors for helping to make his race dreams possible, including The Manitoulin Expositor, 100.7 FM The Island, OJ Graphix, Sam would be created in the wet clay," she said.

"Before the races start you witness MIDRA quad racer Michael McDermid ask the track official if some of his competition could get a few extra laps because this is their first time on this track and the rain has made it more challenging, and when you see veteran teammate Derek Debassige walk out to the starting line and tell the youngest MIDRA rider, Steven White, what to watch out for so he doesn't crash on the track, you are seeing sports at its best," Ms. White added.

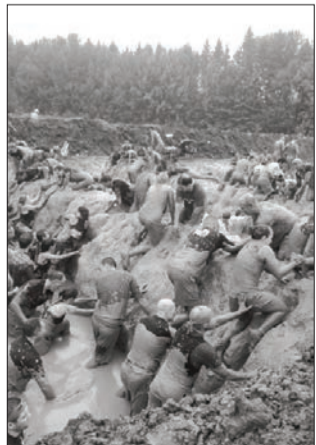

The excitement of competition at the MIDRA races was enhanced by plenty of flying dirt and roaring engines.

Leslie Recollet is one Tough Mudder

Tough Mudder is definitely something you should try at least once in your lifetime, urges Wikwemikong's Leslie Recollet. "If anything else, it's an excuse to get yourself fit." This was Ms. Recollet's third year as a returning participant to the Toronto Tough Mudder event and received a blue headband for her efforts. "I love the courses. It's always challenging but never impossible. Tough Mudder is about pushing yourself to your limits. It's about stepping out of your comfort zone and forcing yourself to go 10 more steps when your body is telling you it can only go five. It's about overcoming fears and conquering personal challenges. The only person you are competing against is yourself. The camaraderie between all the participants make it feel as if everyone is running together as one big team. Everyone helps each other out to get through the obstacles."

Nardi, Orr's Valu-Mart, NBS Auto, Given Cortez, Bruce Laidley, Mark Gibeault and his 'pit crew' of Robyn and Hunter McGauley and children Rhyis and Alina.

Over the fall and winter Mr. Arthurs said he is looking to better his times at both the Sudbury canoe and kayak race and the Mindemoya Classic next summer through training.

Island chef to be featured on new Cottage Life cooking show this fall

by Robin Burrige
 STRATFORD—Erin (nee Cuthbertson) Delarge, who hails from Providence Bay, will be featured in Cottage Life's new television show 'Dining INNvasion' this fall, which filmed an episode at the Stone Maiden Inn in Stratford where Ms. Delarge works as the chef de cuisine.

Dining INNvasion is scheduled to premier this Friday, September 5 at 10 pm on the Cottage Life Network. "Desperate resort owners in need of a menu revamp and dining room makeover call Chef Victor Barry and event planner Rebecca Wise to rejuvenate their business," the shows is described on the Cottage Life website.

"I received a call out of the blue from one of the show's producers looking for inns our size in the area," explained Trish Walsh, who owns the Stone Maiden Inn with her husband Pat.

"My first question was 'who is the chef?'" said Ms. Delarge when she learned of Cottage Life's inquiries to film an episode at the inn. "When I found out it was Victor I was thrilled. We actually worked together years ago at the Four Seasons. It was a lot of fun.

Normally it's just me in my kitchen, so the camaraderie was nice and I enjoyed the opportunity to learn and grow from him as a chef."

Ms. Walsh and Ms. Delarge couldn't reveal too much about their episode of Dining INNvasion, but did give The Expositor a few sneak peaks.

"Rebecca brought some interesting decorative touches to the dining room," shared Ms. Walsh. "The dining room was pretty conservative before and she brought in more colour—there is lots of yellow. It has been getting wonderful reviews from the guests."

As for the menu, "We have taken some of the twists from his dishes," said Ms. Delarge.

Ms. Delarge is the daughter of Agnes and Stu Cuthbertson who own and operate the Huron Sands Motel in Providence Bay.

"I worked at the School House Restaurant in high school and Greg Niven (owner and chef) encouraged me to pursue culinary studies," explained Ms. Delarge. "In 1999, after graduating from high school, I moved to Toronto and attended George Brown (College) for culinary studies."

She said that growing up as the daughter of a high school foods teacher and working with Mr. Niven were the inspirations behind her start in cooking. She also brings a touch of Manitoulin to the Stone Maiden Inn and her culinary creations through her family's jams and jellies (Hawberry Farms).

Dining INNvasion is scheduled to premier this Friday, September 5 at 10 pm on the Cottage Life Network, while the Stone Maiden Inn episode will air on Friday, October 24 at 10 pm.

ment, starting at 8 pm.

On Saturday, the festivities begin with the traditional pancake breakfast at the Knox United Church on Napier Street, but don't dally too long over that morning coffee, since the parade starts off at 11 am, also following the E-I-E-I-O theme.

Complementing the aforementioned inside arena events, there will be an outside barbecue, a jungle fun inflatable bouncing castle, vendors, carnival-type games for the kids (no midway), a pie-eating contest and the previously mentioned dunk tank.

At noon, the horse show begins, followed by the popular pet show at 1 pm and the horsepull at 1:30 pm.

Ms. Villeneuve credits the ongoing success of the Manitowaning Agricultural Fair to the dedication and hard work of her committee members and volunteers and to the support of the community and council.

"The community and the council are always 100 percent behind us," she said. "The council is always very supportive as are the sponsors and people who donate to the fair."

ton, eventually deciding on option four, in-floor heating throughout the complete structure due to its efficiency.

The Northeast Town originally tendered the project earlier this summer, receiving one bid from Build North of Sudbury, but learned in July that AVI-

VA Insurance had unofficially tendered for the town's project after stating that the Build North bid (the only bid received in the original tender process) was above market rate.

Because of AVIVA's actions, the Northeast Town council passed a motion directing town staff to "retender for the replacement of the Little Current garage with all the costs associated with this process to be borne by AVIVA Insurance."

As of press time on Monday, the Northeast Town had not received notice from AVIVA Insurance as to whether they would be paying to the cost of the retender.

everything over by boat," he said. "It took a week, maybe 10 days to complete. They put up a bronze plaque when we were finished. It has all the men's names who helped with the renovations. That was fun."

Mr. Leeson has been a First Responder in the township and belonged to the Leisure Services committee. That involved planning and organization community events including log sawing competitions, bed races and outdoor bonfires. He is also very active with his church, St. Andrews by the Sea United Church in South Baymouth.

A few years back there was concern that the church was going to close, so with the help of Noreen and "a few members and some good community minded people, we decided to have a fish fry to raise money to cover church expenses." That's an annual event now, along with a turkey dinner held at the Tehkummah community hall in mid-November. Last June he was part of a work crew that installed new windows, insulation, soffit and siding on the church. He made a wood cross for the exterior of the building but required assistance for its installation.

He's careful around ladders and heights these days.

Mr. Leeson and his wife are starting to feel the creep of old age now and have backed off on some of the community work. "I turned 84 this year," he said. "Since old age has taken over, we don't seem to have the get up and go now that we did for a lot of years. But I'm still doing things. Today I was taking the dock out of the water. But then my boat wouldn't start so I had to leave it for now."

He uses a restored Cockshutt 30 tractor to take the dock out. Restoring old tractors is a hobby that he took up when he retired at age 72. "The things he brought home—I was appalled," said his wife. "You wouldn't believe the transformations though."

To date he has restored 4 Cockshutt tractors and an International Farmall. He puts the tractors in the annual Canada Day parade in South Baymouth. This year he used one of his Cockshutts to pull the square dancers' float.

Tehkummah Reeve Gary Brown said, "Reg is over 80 and he's still quite an active person. He still goes fishing every day. He's always helping the community. He's still pulling the float in the parade, working on the church. He's very deserving."

Mr. Leeson seems proud to be recognized as Tehkummah's 2014 Senior of the Year, but he's very humble too. He's quick to give credit to the others who have worked side by side with him over the years, especially his wife, Noreen. "I didn't do it for any awards," he said. "Mostly I just liked helping people. I just did it because it made me feel good."

...support to acquire historic Mississagi Lighthouse

The Expositor spoke with the DFO which confirmed that they are in discussions regarding the lighthouse with the DCIA.

"On May 27, 2010, Fisheries and Oceans Canada declared the Mississagi Strait Lighthouse (DFRP# 11573) surplus to its operational needs," Rosaleen O'Mahony, regional communications manager for the Central and Arctic Region of Fisheries and Oceans Canada, told The Expositor. "Under the Heritage Lighthouse Protection Act, this property can be transferred to new owners wishing to take advantage of its heritage designation or tourism potential. The Mississagi Strait Lighthouse has been petitioned for heritage designation and a business case has been submitted to the Department by the Dawson Citizens Improvement Association, outlining their proposed use of the property. The department, is currently in discussions with the group regarding the divestiture of this lighthouse and its surrounding area."

"Prior to divesting a structure and its surrounding lands, the Department must have the proposed site appraised," concluded Ms. O'Mahony. "A land survey, the first step in the appraisal, has been completed. The final appraisal is scheduled for the near future."

The MTA has recently begun seeking partners to help manage Manitoulin attractions that they oversee such as the Cup and Saucer Trail and the Mississagi Lighthouse.

In addition to the Mississagi Lighthouse discussions with the DCIA, the MTA also approached the Northeast Town, asking if it would assume responsibility of the Cup and Saucer Trail (the municipality in which the trail is located). Last month, a Northeast Town council motion to assume the responsibility of the trail was defeated, and the MTA changed its strategy, calling on any other interested Island municipalities or organizations to partner with the MTA, forming a steering committee to manage the trail.

Northeast Town Mayor Al MacNevin was away during council's discussion and decision regarding the Cup and Saucer Trail, and requested that the item be added to the agenda for this Tuesday's (September 1) council meeting.

"I asked the clerk to put the Cup and Saucer Trail on the agenda for Tuesday's meeting," Mayor MacNevin told The Expositor prior to press time on Monday. "I was away for the last decision and I think it might be in council's best interest to meet with other councils, groups and the MTA to explore establishing a committee to oversee the trail. It's an important attraction to Manitoulin."

Currently, the MTA maintains liability insurance for the Cup and Saucer Hiking Trails and further indemnifies the owners of the property over which the trails cross. There is also a current partnership with the Northeast Town that empties the containers at the foot of the trails and collects the garbage, as well as replacing defaced signage last year.

enabling thousands of Ontario youth to benefit from the knowledge, skills and character building archery presents," Angelo Lombardo, OFAH executive director, said in a press release. "Through this program, the OFAH will be embarking on its largest youth-education program in its 86 year history."

"Archery is an accessible sport that allows youth of all ages and athletic ability to participate," explained Tim Watts, OFAH NASP program coordinator, archery instructor and seven-time Canadian archery champion. "Archery requires an understanding of kinetics and mathematics and complements many other subjects already taught in schools. It's a sport that builds self-confidence and focus."

"I was reading the Ontario Out of Doors magazine when I saw that the OFAH was seeking pilot schools for the program," Lakeview School Principal Neil Debassige told The Expositor. "I had explored getting the program into the school before so I contacted Tim Watts (OFAH NASP program coordinator) and I wrote a letter of interest."

completed the training for NASP, allowing them to not only teach the program to students at Lakeview School but also train other Manitoulin teachers.

"We had our first day on Friday with Grade 7 and 8 students and it went really well," said Mr. Debassige. "They loved it. The program is so great because it's not about strength, the equipment (a Genesis bow) is universal to all its participants regardless of the height or weight of the student."

Though Lakeview has started the program with its Grade 7 and 8 students, Mr. Debassige said he hopes to expand the program all the way down to the school's Grade 4 class

In the August 27 edition of The Expositor, the page 6 article 'Robbie Shawanda and Leslie Neshkiwe, meet the newest inductees of the Aboriginal Country Music Hall of Fame,' inductee Robbie Shawana's name was incorrectly listed as 'Shawanda.' The Expositor regrets this error.

Wikwemikong continues to encourage the arts through new dance studio

New fitness centre also set to open later this month

by Robin Burrige
WIKWEMIKONG—Wikwemikong is encouraging healthy lifestyles through the new Mnamaadzawin (living the good life) Centre for Fitness, as well as continuing to support and grow the arts sector in the community through the new Wikwemikong School of Dance, both scheduled to open later this month.

“The current fitness area for the community in the youth centre has limitations,” explained Wikwemikong Chief Duke Peltier, noting the size and hours of operation as two of the limitations. “The new fitness centre and dance studio will be state of the art and provide community members with accessibility to facilities and programs to maintain healthy lives.”

“The dance studio will provide opportunities that normally only exist in larger municipal settings in addition to programs for everyone in the community,” added Chief Peltier.

Wikwemikong Youth Centre Coordinator Lawrence Enosse told The Expositor that the Wikwemikong School of Dance is set to open Monday, September 15 with dance classes being held weekly on Wednesdays and Thursdays.

“Registration for 2014-2015 will be held on September 3 and 4 from 2 to 6 pm at the dance school located at 15 Edward Street, Unit 4 of the Chi Nodin Business Centre in Wikwemikong,” said Mr. Enosse. “We have a certified dance instructor, Kate Collett, who will be travelling from Elliot Lake and teaching Kinderdance (jazz/hiphop), jazz, ballet, kinderballet, hip hop and open adult classes. Our core programming is for ages 4-6, 7-10, 11-17 and 17 plus.”

“The idea for the dance school came from the youth in the community that were looking for programs,” continued Mr. Enosse. “We have kids that attend dance programs in Sudbury or other areas of the Island, but we wanted to have something here easily accessible for them. The classes are economically accessible as well because we wanted to make it affordable for everyone.”

Mr. Enosse said that he and other members of the team behind the new dance studio and fitness centre travelled to Elliot Lake earlier this year to tour their facilities and then brought inspiration (and a teacher for the dance school) back with them and applied the ideas to the community’s new facilities.

“The fitness centre will have 24 hour access and the dance studio will be open to anyone looking for a space to host dance or fitness classes,” added Mr. Enosse. “The dance school features full mirrors, a professional dance studio floor and state-of-the-art sound system—it’s been a big investment on behalf of the band. We’ve made the dance studio space affordable as well to encourage a variety of instructors and classes such as Zumba and boot camp.”

The fitness centre will feature treadmills, ellipticals, seated ellipticals, vibration machines, rowing machines, stationary bikes and free weights.

“We are really excited about both facilities,” continued Mr. Enosse. “We have received a lot of interest from not just Wikwemikong band members, but individuals across the Island. We are making sure we are doing everything right, taking our time and hoping to build something that will just continue to grow moving forward.”

Chief Madahbee demands inquiry into missing, murdered and traded women

NIPISSING FIRST NATION—Anishinabek Nation leaders are urging the Council of the Federation to put pressure on the Harper government to call an inquiry into the nearly 1,200 missing and murdered indigenous and traded women in Canada.

“An inquiry will enable stakeholders to identify systemic issues with respect to violence against women,” says Anishinabek Nation Grand Council Chief Patrick Madahbee.

In August 2013, Jody Porter broke the CBC story about the Indigenous women, girls and babies in Canada who are taken onto US ships to be sold into the sex trade.

“This isn’t news to us,” says Chief Madahbee. “This government just refuses to recognize anything that is going on with indigenous peoples. We need an inquiry now. We cannot allow this to continue. Families and friends of indigenous women and girls of the missing, murdered and traded need answers. Our communities need healing and Canadian society needs to wake up.”

In 2013, the Conservative government drastically cut funding to the Native Women’s Association of Canada’s ‘Sisters in Spirit’ program. The program’s mandate was research and advocacy for murdered and missing women in Canada.

The Anishinabek Nation established the Union of Ontario Indians as its secretariat in 1949. The UOI is a political advocate for 39 member communities across Ontario, representing approximately 55,000 people. The Union of Ontario Indians is the oldest political organization in Ontario and can trace its roots back to the Confederacy of Three Fires, which existed long before European contact.

Over a 100 fish caught at the third annual Providence Bay Fishing Derby

by Robin Burrige
PROVIDENCE BAY—
There were 44 participants and 109 fish reeled in at the third annual Providence Bay Fishing Derby late last month.

"It was a phenomenal day," Providence Bay Marina Harbour Master Ken Niles told The Expositor. "We had so much interest I had to turn some people away because we can only accommodate so many boats."

Mr. Niles said that the top winners of the weekend were father son team Brian Coyne, son Noah Coyne and their partner Rolly Mirault, who brought in the largest fish of the Second place, also receiving a $1,000 prize, was won by Dan and Kevin Rice for the heaviest five fish, coming in at 52.03 pounds.

The mystery weight prize of $500 went to Eric Poirier and Serge Pilon for their 4.2 pound fish.

"Everyone who was in the derby went home with something," added Mr. Niles. "We had tons of door prizes. Also, we raised $500 that we donated to ARES (Amateur Radio Emergency Services). It was another great year!"

Manitoulin athlete joins Rivermen for 2014-2015

ESPANOLA—The Espanola Rivermen of the new Canadian International Hockey League, a tier-two junior A organization under the direction of the United Hockey Union and sanctioned by the Amateur Athletic Union, is pleased to announce the signing of a new player from Manitoulin for the 2014-2015 season.

Sixteen-year-old Carter Noble of Gore Bay will skate with the Rivermen this coming year. The 5'9" 162 pound forward spent the past four seasons playing for the Manitoulin Panthers rep program. The final year with the Panthers, Carter played on the major midget team, chipping in 12 goals and adding 24 assists. "I work hard, and I always fight for the puck and bring an attitude that helps me to contribute to my team. I am a team player both on and off the ice and I am looking forward to a bright future with the Espanola Rivermen," Carter said.

The young forward said that making the Rivermen team has been his proudest hockey accomplishment to date, and adds that he hopes playing with the CIHL Hockey team can help him someday earn a hockey scholarship.

"We are very happy to have Carter Noble join our hockey club this season," said Rivermen General Manager Chad Clarke. "We have had our eye on Carter all summer and he has come into our camp and earned his own way onto our hockey team the old fashioned way, he has worked his way onto our team." Carter and his family hail from Gore Bay and the entire Island will be proud to see this young man's work ethic out on the ice this season wearing his favorite No. 14 jersey. We have said it before that we want to be known as the North Shore's junior hockey team and the addition of Gore Bay's Carter Noble certainly re-enforces the Rivermen's plan to include all of the North Shore and Manitoulin Island kids."

Club Governor Tim Clayden commented stating, "It's a lot of fun seeing local players grow into becoming members of the Rivermen. Just last summer Carter attended our hockey school as a student of the game and ironically today, as we finish up this year's hockey school, Carter breaks camp as a member of our hockey club," said Mr. Clayden. "It's days like this that really make the game worth while when you see a local young man grow into becoming a member of our team, I know Coach McCarthy will work wonders with Carter, he's all ears and eyes and ready for Tommy to mould into becoming an everyday player."

The Espanola Junior A Hockey Club is dedicated to developing student-athletes and members of our hockey club into becoming quality players, both on the ice and even better community leaders off the ice. Our goal is to provide a junior hockey opportunity that provides a passionate life experience for each one of our team members, including local players and others from throughout North America and worldwide. We consider our club to be one big junior hockey family that includes each of our players, our off-ice team and our fans.

Northern partners collaborate on a patient-focused non-urgent transportation review

NORTHERN ONTARIO—The needs of patients are at the centre of a just completed North East LHIN review of non-urgent patient transfers across Northeastern Ontario. The review outlines options to quickly, safely and efficiently transfer patients between hospitals.

The review took almost a year to complete and was done in collaboration with the region's 25 hospitals, 41 long-term care homes, eight municipal social service managers, ORNGE, five Central Ambulance Communications Centres (CACCs) and the emergency medical services (EMS) base hospital (Health Sciences North in Sudbury). It included regional engagements, data analysis, modeling, and three NE LHIN-funded pilot projects to test a variety of approaches (Manitoulin-Sudbury, City of Greater Sudbury, Timiskaming).

The review responds to concerns by patients, hospitals and EMS workers regarding the impact of the region's growing seniors' population on the substantiability of how patients are currently transferred to and from hospitals for non-urgent matters. Patient delays for return trips from appointments, patient flow blockage at hub hospitals and stranding of patient escorts after they accompany patients to other hospitals were a few of the issues raised.

"Northerners, particularly seniors, want a better, more coordinated transportation system as they are transferred from one hospital to another to access care," said Louise Paquette, CEO, NE LHIN. "This review and the report's recommendations are a great starting point for the work ahead to implement a more efficient non-urgent transportation system for fellow Northerners."

The review's final report outlines five categories of recommendations to help build a new model, including eight transfer routes for longer-distance transfers, new information technology tools to coordinate ride scheduling, process improvements to ease the current community hospital staff escorts process, a permanent Non-Urgent Transportation Leadership Work Group to implement the new system and ongoing change management communication.

Two pilot projects tested during the review used a form of this model and have shown success in providing more timely and efficient travel for patients and their care attendants.

"The partnership of the NE LHIN, Manitoulin-Sudbury DSB, Espanola Regional Hospital and Health Centre and Manitoulin Health Centre has proven that an alternative, publicly funded system of non-urgent transportation can provide an effective and efficient model of quality patient care," said Michael MacIsaac, chief of EMS Manitoulin-Sudbury DSB (District Services Board). "Hospital staff and patient surveys found the service found the service provided a high level of timeliness and patient satisfaction. Over the course of the six-month pilot project, 1,218 hours were spent moving patients between facilities. That directly amounts to 1,218 hours where ambulances remained within their stationed communities servicing the emergency needs of their citizens."

The review's immediate next steps include developing a detailed three-year implementation plan.

Man of many media: Jack Whyte in his own words

...and in biographical still and moving pictures

by Isobel Harry
GORE BAY—At a recent showing at the Gore Bay Museum of a biographical video made by his son, Dylon Whyte, the artist Jack Whyte was nowhere to be found among the capacity crowd. “I’m very shy,” says the artist, “I don’t like to be singled out, I just like doing art.” But, to everyone’s delight, the denim-clad master of many media greeted old friends and new at the reception afterwards in the Harbour Centre gallery where his acrylic paintings are on view, shaking hands, answering questions, in fact, the last to leave.

Looking at Jack Whyte’s evocative works, the viewer gets the impression of seeing an old film where the colours have faded, rendering the images all the more poignant. He sometimes calls them “snapshots,” capturing the essence of time passing while fixing it forever, creating new memories from the old. He works in acrylics and oils, and finely cuts paper to make his collages. The paper is so minutely-sliced, precise yet subtle in its shadings, that it is hard to believe these are not paintings; the ‘brushstrokes’ that are perceived are actually an undercoat, or ‘ground,’ of gesso that he

Jack Whyte at a reception at Gore Bay’s Harbour Centre marking his long and diverse career as a multi-media artist.

“out in Port Credit, when it was all orchards. My dad was an illustrator and I started by copying him. I didn’t start to be an artist, drawing and painting, until my mid-20s.” He took part in group shows in Toronto, and rubbed shoulders with Jack Pollock, Dennis Burton and Harold Town, all who wanted “everything the same, with the same story - no original thought.”

Then, as now, Jack Whyte doesn’t take umbrage at other people’s opinions. “I don’t get negativity, I ignore it. I live by my sense of humour—that’s how I survive.” As we sit opposite each other across a small who had a resort on the south shore. You had to drive up to North Bay then; we’d stay in Sudbury overnight and drive through the Espanola Hills, a hair-raising road that went straight up Tower Hill (Willisville) and straight down on its way to Little Current. Some people outright refused to go any further when they saw those hills.” He’s sorry the old road hasn’t been preserved as a historical artifact.

Mr. Whyte loves Manitoulin, as his parents did, and finally came up to live when he was in his 30s. He mourns the loss of many of the buildings that were defining characteristics of the Island, and can’t understand the rush to replace them. “You lose the character of the place when another old building comes down. People should realize that these old places are what tourists come to see, they’re attractions.” He feels the same way about the landscape, and remembers walking through miles of forests, bagging several partridges as he went, where now stands a subdivision “totally cleared of trees.” His paintings and collages of Island themes, often emerging as though from the mists of time, recall a gentler era. “I’m an observer, I see vanishing towns and people,” he explains. In the video, there’s a section devoted to old schoolhouses and a decommissioned church, now long-abandoned. “I have a huge collection of old photographs,” says Mr. Whyte, “that I use to do my paintings, drawings, collages and sketches of the Island. I took the photos so I’d remember the old structures and what they meant to me as an artist. I paint the tugs, farms, bush, and the towns—lots of paintings of Kagawong, of Gore Bay, as they were then.”

The prolific artist currently has three books in production, overseen by Dylon, a reprint of his ‘Manitoulin Island Sketchbook,’ a cookbook entitled ‘Just Desserts - Grandma’s Country Kitchen,’ and a colouring book for kids that includes stories and puzzles based on Manitoulin Island themes. He continues to pursue his favorite thematic concern in ongoing acrylics, oils, collages and a large commissioned piece.

The exhibition of the acrylics of Jack Whyte and Lynda Noe’s fibre art is at the Harbour Centre, 40 Water Street, Gore Bay, until September 22. Open Tuesday to Sunday, 11 am until 4 pm.

Jack Whyte’s works in all media may be viewed at www.jacksttime.com. The biographical video, “An Introduction to Jack Whyte in his Own Words”, is online at <http://vimeo.com/10343692>. Original works are available at Whyte’s Art Gallery and Cultural Gift Shop, owned and operated by Ashley and Dylon Whyte, Harbour Centre, 40 Water Street, Gore Bay. applies first before glueing the tiny strips of paper on top.

When asked about his art practice, Jack Whyte is disarmingly straightforward: “Hell,” he says, mulling over the question as if he’s been asked why fish don’t ride bicycles, “I just get up in the morning and start doing. It all just flows. You know, wherever the day takes you, you follow your nose. You just go.”

Mr. Whyte’s early jobs in a refinery and paper mill, and in “all kinds of jobs,” might account for his workman’s approach to his even longer-time job as an artist. He’s just working every day, with an added bonus: “I enjoy it,” he adds.

Born in 1939, Jack Whyte lived with his family on the Kingsway in Toronto, then the while working his day jobs and teaching art. He had his first one-man show when he was 25.

“I was trying to get into the RCA,” Mr. Whyte says, “but it was an elite game.” The Royal Canadian Academy of Arts was founded in 1880, under the patronage of Governor General the Marquess of Lorne and his wife, HRH the Princess Louise. “That’s what you’d do, to build a name as an artist. I’d send my art to them for judging, pick it up a few days later, and the package hadn’t even been opened,” Mr. Whyte remembers. “I was looking at Andy Warhol, and they wanted ‘olde landscapes,’ very traditional stuff.” He says that his “faceless figures” paintings reflect that period, and the bureaucrats worktable in the home he built himself in 1968 on the land where his parents’ camp still sits, he laughs often and gleefully when he relates stories of the old days. His parents chose the site in the 1950s for their camp, on the eastern edge of Gore Bay, because it was “close to town and in farmland. There were big farms on either side, with no trees at all between the camp and the road.” Now, that camp and Mr. Whyte’s unique home and studio beside it are all but hidden by tall trees and grasses, the neighbours live in suburban houses and the road is a highway.

The first time Jack Whyte set foot on the Island he was “seven or eight years old. We came up to visit a friend of my father’s

The art of fibre: Island inspires the sewn works of Lynda Noe on exhibition in Gore Bay

by Isobel Harry

GORE BAY—An exhibition now on in Gore Bay's Harbour Centre gallery displays the work of two artists who work in very different media, yet who share some striking similarities in subject matter and technique.

The show, curated by Nicole Wepler, director of the Gore Bay Museum, exhibits the acrylic paintings of Jack Whyte and the fibre art of Lynda Noe, of Gore Bay and adjacent Gordon Township, respectively.

Both artists have exhibited previously at the Gore Bay Museum, but this marks the first time their work has been shown together, and the combination is unusual and eye-catching. Ms. Noe's painterly pieces are quilted fabrics painstakingly assembled into still-lives, a fine visual complement to Mr. Whyte's richly textural paintings.

Lynda Noe was born and raised in Ingersoll, on the Thames River in southwestern Ontario. She and her husband David first visited the Island in 1992, staying in a cottage in Kagawong "on the edge of a brook." As so often happens, they fell in love with "the outdoors, the pace of life," bought some land in Gordon, built on it and moved into their house in 1994-95.

While Ms. Noe had quilted before moving to the Island, it was her hand-worked quilt, 'Crazy About Manitoulin,' exhibited in 2003 at the Gore Bay Museum in a show entitled "Tradition and Beyond" that propelled her work into the realm of art. "I loved quilting," says Ms. Noe, "and I liked to draw. I always wanted to do art but it was being up here, taking watercolour courses and meeting so many artists, that inspired me to innovate and go freestyle with fibre." She exhibited again in 2010 at the Museum, in "Sea to Sea" and in 2013 in "Feathers."

Inspired by photos of nature, and her own photos of landscapes and "of all the things that are here," Ms. Noe plans a piece by tracing it or laying out a grid on backing material, then cuts out the fabric to match the tones in her inspiration image. The fabric is cut into hundreds of tiny pieces, forming leaves on tree branches, waves in water, flower petals or subtle tonalities in a house's exterior, "layering the fabric in a collage" which is then sewn expertly on her sewing machine by the large picture window. The effect is extraordinarily life-like, suffused in light like a photograph, looking deceptively simple when viewed as a whole. Only by looking closely does one realize the complexity and the dexterity involved in the creation of these fibre artworks, the concentration of eye and needle, the minute gradations of colour and shading. Ms. Noe also paints plain fabric pieces to achieve the exact shade she may not find in the ready-made textiles that she buys in local shops or in the materials she likes to recycle; she often adds beads or small stones to add a reflective dimension. "It's all about texture," says the artist.

Lynda Noe's studio, Silk and Scissors, is on the ground floor of the Harbour Centre, across from the gallery that overlooks Gore Bay and the imposing East Bluff. Upstairs are several more studios and shops, a veritable hive of artistic activity. "I used to work in a spare bedroom at home, I didn't think I needed a studio. But since moving in here in August last year, I've found I can work harder, with fewer distractions," she enthuses. "The exposure of my work to more people, selling pieces and receiving commissions, has been motivating. I really enjoy meeting and talking with the people who tour the Centre; the best part is that we're all artists here."

The exhibition of Lynda Noe's fibre art and the acrylics of Jack Whyte is at the Harbour Centre, 40 Water Street, Gore Bay, until September 22. Open Tuesday to Sunday, 11 am until 4 pm.

Best of Outdoor Ontario contest winners experience the best of the North during Manitoulin trip

by Robin Burrige

MANITOULIN—A group from Michigan had a once-in-a-lifetime experience last month after winning Ontario Tourism's The Best of Outdoor Ontario contest and travelling to Manitoulin Island for a week, enjoying some of the Island's most famous sites and activities.

"We had such a great time," said contest winner Susan Seccombe of Dearborn, Michigan. "The Cup and Saucer (trail) hike was a highlight for us and we really enjoyed the overnight trip to the Benjamins (Islands). It was raining when we left, but by the time we got there the sun came out and it was beautiful."

Ms. Seccombe beat out 11,074 entries from across North America to win the trip to Manitoulin and brought with her her 19-year-old daughter Megan, life-long friend Marie Ahonen and her daughter Carly.

"We also really enjoyed our dinner at the Great Spirit Circle Trail (GSCT) office," continued Ms. Seccombe. "The food was amazing and the dancers (traditional pow-wow dancers in regalia) were incredible.

We hadn't had a lot of exposure to First Nations culture prior to our trip, so it was really neat. Everyone at the GSCT was just the best and we really enjoyed our time with them."

"It was a really fun week," added Megan. "The boat and camping trip to the Benjamins was a highlight for me. I would definitely like to come back to Manitoulin again!"

The Seccombe ladies and their friends enjoyed a seven-day adventure on the world's largest freshwater island valued at $11,000. The trip included round-trip airfare to Sudbury, a guided trip to Manitoulin Island featuring a traditional aboriginal feast with private dance performance, overnight camping, a sailing trip to the Benjamin Islands, three nights at the new Manitoulin Hotel and Conference Centre, canoe heritage tour of the North Channel of Lake Huron, a horse and teepee overnight adventure including glamping and swimming with horses and $4,000 in outdoor gear from Mountain Equipment Co-op.

Ontario Tourism Marketing Partnership Corporation (OTMPC) partnered with The GSCT and renown travel bloggers Dave and Deb of The Planet D, who both co-hosted the trip.

OTMPC has held an outdoor adventure contest for the past 10 years, each year strategically bringing focus to both an adventure and regional partner.

Har, matey!

The first ever cardboard races were held in Manitowaning on a cool Wednesday evening to a large crowd there to cheer on the racers. Eight boaters took to the water to paddle in the calm yet chilly Lake Huron waters. There were a number of capsizes and several rescues but all had a good time. William McComb, Michael Quackenbush and Chris and Steven White captured first place in their respective categories with Ava Fields, and Samuel and Lydia Pennings coming in second for each category. Jason Quackenbush won the Titanic award, which is the most dramatic sinking of the boat without any loss of life.

Lakeview students Josie Sagon and Trinity Simon shoveling spawning gravel for transport to the riverbed in the M'Chigeeng Creek.

...students demonstrate environmental stewardship

 "The students worked on the area directly behind the arena, rearranging boulders, carrying rocks and gravel. There was a small amount of spawning in the creek (by salmon and rainbow trout), but now there is substantial area to spawn and the eggs have the faster moving water to aerate them that they needed."

Mr. Debassige said that he hopes to keep the school involved in continuing to improve the stream and environmental stewardship in general.

"We want to see the kids outdoors, making a difference," said Mr. Debassige. "We would eventually like to have a hatchery at the school, allowing the students to learn and continue environmental stewardship first hand. Kids need to be outdoors, learning about the environmental and conservation. It gives them a sense of pride, while allowing them to give back to their community."

The history of St. Peter's Anglican Church

EDITOR'S NOTE: As the Northeast Town council debates the fate of St. Peter's church, an oft heard tale in all corners of this province following the decommissioning of country churches, The Expositor reflects on the history of this Sheguiandah place of worship.

SHEGUIANDAH—In light of the Northeast Town council's recent decision to look at tearing down Saint Peter's Anglican Church in Sheguiandah and explore the possible construction of a replica church (utilizing the church's bell, pews and stain glass windows) on the Centennial Museum of Sheguiandah grounds, The Expositor contacted the museum's curator, Heidi Ferguson, to find out more about the little church which is getting big attention.

"St. Peter's Church was built in 1883 by the Stringer, Keatley, Atkinson and Dunlop families, as well as other pioneers," explained Ms. Ferguson, noting that her source of information is courtesy of the Manitoulin Genealogy Club's book 'Reflections' and information located in the museum's files. "A long shed at the back was protection for the horses while they rested during church services. It was also used by the community through the week. Being beside the municipal hall, the shed was used for all events in the hall, from meetings, dances, card parties etc."

"The personage for St. Peter's was at the east end of the village, a large cement building with four bedrooms, located at site No.15 on the Sheguiandah Walking Tour," continued Ms. Ferguson. "The property was enhanced by lovely evergreen trees planted by Mr. Hardyman, a lay reader from England who was clergy for many years. He also planted the evergreen trees around St. Andrews Church at Sheguiandah First Nation. At that time, St. Peter's had three charges including St. John's at Bidwell and St. Andrews church. At one time, Little Current was also a charge of the St. Peter's Parish."

"During the years, the congregation has gone up and down," she added. "When the silica quarry was in operation, and more people were around, numbers were up. Church services were held about four times a year until it finally closed."

"St. Peter's was decommissioned in 2005, and ownership transferred to the Northeast Town under the care and control of the Centennial Museum of

After a number of Northeast Town councillors expressed support for the idea of building a replica church, Northeast Town Mayor Al MacNevin suggested that council's representative on the Museum Advisory Committee, Dawn Orr, take the idea to the committee to ensure that there is indeed interest.

Mayor MacNevin also noted that since there are no funds budgeted for the church's demolition or replica in the 2014 budget, that the topic be brought up again during council's 2015 budget discussions this fall if there is interest from the advisory committee.

A rare opportunity to own one of the most picturesque settings in the LaCloche mountain range of Northern Ontario. Majestic white pines and some old growth hemlock forest surround the pristine interior lakes. This 3 bedroom home with its 2 car garage has great year 'round road access providing easy access to Manitoulin Island and Espanola.

This property must be viewed for full appreciation.

A cougar sighting (almost) at Misery Bay in 1999

In March of 1999, my friend Steve Hall and I and some other people were walking in the snow down the Lakeshore Trail at Misery Bay Provincial Park. I think it was a winter field trip that Gerald Courtin of Laurentian University was giving for the Friends of Misery Bay. Anyway, the temperature was above freezing and the snow was heavy and melting, making the going kind of slow. Below the trailhead but before opening under the tall pines, we came upon a set of large, fairly fresh tracks going the same way we were heading. We stood looking for a minute at the tracks, and then Gerry said out loud what Steve and I had both been thinking: "That's a cougar, isn't it?"

I looked closely at the tracks. The toes were spread wide, making a print that was nearly round in shape, not oblong. What I mean is that the toes spread out like a fan, not with the two middle ones ahead of the others the way dog or wolf toes are arranged. Also, this animal had been heavy enough to sink a ways into the mushy snow, yet none of the tracks showed a toenail at all. It had to be a large cat because wolves and dogs can't retract their toenails. There was no sign of a drag mark from the tail, but then the snow was heavy and the tail probably wouldn't have weighed enough to make a dent.

I got out my camera and laid a ballpoint pen down next to the tracks to give a sense of scale. The tracks were almost as big as the pen (about 10 cm or 4 inches). I said to Steve, "If these pictures turn out, we'll tell people about it. If they don't, we'll just forget it." Then we followed the tracks for about another kilometre to see if we'd see a tail mark or a turd or anything else to confirm the identification. There was nothing except paw prints.

The pictures turned out well, so I sent them to the Ontario Ministry of Natural Resources (OMNR). They confirmed that the tracks were indeed a

Cougar Tails

Stories of encounters with the big cats on Manitoulin Island

cougar, and they told me that the photos would be considered a bona fide sighting of a cougar on Manitoulin Island. After that, instead of forgetting about it, I went a little cougar crazy for a while. Every night for at least a month I had dreams about seeing the cougar. I became fixated on finding some way to get DNA for testing to see whether this was a wild cougar or an escaped pet of Chilean origin—because, at the time, this was the theory about the origin of the cougars in Ontario. What's more, any time I was in the bush and saw a large turd with hair in it, I collected it and sent it to OMNR until they finally told me to quit sending them poop unless I was really sure it was from a cougar. They also told me that wolf droppings can carry some very bad parasites and that I had better quit handling the stuff unless I was taking serious precautions. That kind of cured me of the obsession.

It's great that someone finally got video to confirm what I, Steve Hall, Lyle Dewar, and many other people have said all along. There ARE cougars on Manitoulin Island.

The new multi-use complex and business centre in Aundeck Omni Kaning is nearing completion with an October end date in site.

Multi-use complex in AOK nearing completion

by Michael Erskine
AUNDECK OMNI KANING—The finishing touches are being applied to the new multi-use complex and business centre in Aundeck Omni Kaning with an anticipated full completion date sometime near the end of October.

"It should be mostly finished by the end of September, beginning of October," said Chief Patsy Corbiere. "There were a lot of delays due to the past winter and a very wet summer, but it will be done soon. We are just waiting for the backordered bleachers."

For the past several months the work has been ongoing inside and out of sight, noted Chief Corbiere.

The business centre portion of the development has seen a strong interest from potential tenants. "We have had a lot of leads in the form of letters of interest," said the chief. "We will be selecting the successful applicants shortly."

One of the key attractions of the site for tenants are the lower rental costs associated with the location, noted Chief Corbiere. "The rents are cheaper out here," she said. "That makes it very attractive for First Nations operations in particular."

The band has a marketing plan in place for the site that will see considerable benefit for surrounding communities. "We are looking at volleyball and basketball tournaments," said Chief Corbiere. "The new Manitoulin Hotel and Conference Centre in Little Current works well with that. Before there were not enough rooms available to successfully host bigger tournaments."

The plan includes private enterprise in the form of a fitness centre and café and public services such as youth activities. "We are trying to put all of the services in one area," she said. "But there is a need to look at operating businesses as individuals. With all the reductions in funding happening these days we need to make things more self-sufficient. We mirrored the centre on the one in Garden River."

thank you

We, the children of Everett Hall, would like to thank all the people who helped us when our father was ill and after he passed away in the hospital. Thanks to all the staff at the Mindemoya Hospital, the Tehkumma First Response, and the paramedics. Everyone was amazing. The Island Funeral Home staff were very kind and helpful. The phone calls, flowers, cards and food were a great comfort to us. Dad's "Celebration Of Life" was well attended. Thanks to all who came. We carried out Dad's wishes and think he would have approved. We hope we have included everyone. Thanks so much, you all know who you are. We really appreciate your kindness. Sincerely, Lori (Rick), Linda (Darren), Gary, Shelly and Doug.

Death Notices

WILLARD ORION NOLAND
1941 - 2014

Willard Orion Noland, 73, of Indian Harbour Lake, Nova Scotia, passed away suddenly on Thursday, August 21, 2014 at home. Born on Manitoulin Island, Ontario, he was a son of the late George Edward and Nellie Eveleen (Witty) Noland. Willard was a professional teacher who taught carpentry for a number of years at Cambrian College. He used to have his students assist him in building new homes, which enabled them to gain lots of first-hand experience and expertise. He owned his own explosives business on Manitoulin Island. Willard was a full-time beef farmer while performing many of his other duties and responsibilities. He loved hunting, spending time in the bush cutting wood, spending time with family and friends, reminiscing of the old days, and loved a good joke and playing cards. Willard is survived by his wife Donna Marie, sons Tim (Deneen), George (Sue), daughters Jean (Carl), Nicole (Bruce), grandchildren Samantha, Bradley, Dawn, George Jr., Jamie, Arthur, Jeannie, Cathy, Christopher and Cindy, many great-grandchildren, sister, Doris Middaugh, many nieces and nephews. He was predeceased by brother Freddie Noland and sister Marjorie Veaudry. In keeping with Willard's wishes, there will be no visitation or funeral service. A memorial reception will be held on September 6, 2014 at the Burpee-Mills Complex from 1 pm to 4 pm.

MARISSA COURTNEY BOUWMEESTER
JULY 28, 1991 - AUGUST 29, 2014

Marissa Courtney Bouwmeester, 23, made her transition August 29, 2014, leaving this world for a far better place, after a long courageous battle with illness. She will always be lovingly remembered by her parents Maria Bouwmeester and Omer Gagne and Rick Courtemanche; her siblings, Jennifer (Derek), Sara (Phil), Kyle (Shannon), Micheline (Brad), and Richard (Lucy). Marissa also leaves her nieces and nephews, Gabrielle, Jackson, Sophie, Emily, Geneva, Agatha, Jacob and Georgia. Will be forever remembered by her best friend Kris Dickson. Marissa will also be sadly missed by many aunts, uncles, cousins and friends. Marissa was a very spiritual person who fought a difficult fight, and was positive and selfless throughout her journey. Cremation has taken place. A Memorial Mass has been held at St. Jude Roman Catholic Church, Espanola on Tuesday, September 2, 2014 at 11 am with Father George Gardner officiating. Arrangements by Bourcier Funeral Home Ltd., Espanola.

WILLIAM PAUL "PIRATE" WILSON
JULY 3, 1956 - AUGUST 28, 2014

Paul Wilson, a resident of Gore Bay, died at his residence on Thursday, August 28, 2014 at the age of 58 years. He was born in Gore Bay, son of the late William and Ellen (Bailey) Wilson. Pirate had worked as an engineer for Capital Power in Hearst as well as having worked at various companies, mostly in the North. He had a great passion for hunting and fishing and in his younger years was a good ball player. Paul was always there to help his friends no matter what the situation. He had a great sense of humour, was a happy-go-lucky kind of guy who loved having fun. He also enjoyed watching "Lord of the Rings" movies and most any similar movie. Pirate will be sadly missed. Paul is survived by sisters Donna of Sault Ste. Marie, Maxine of Kagawong, Barb of Benito, Manitoba, Beth of Massey, Kelly of Webbwood and brother Charlie of Gore Bay. Also survived by several nieces, nephews, great-nieces and nephews and great-great-nieces and nephews. Pirate was a lifelong friend and buddy of Bob Chatwell and Randy German. Cremation will take place. A celebration of Pirate's life will take place at the Culgin Funeral Home on Thursday, September 4, 2014 at 1 pm. If so desired, donations to the charity of your choice would be appreciated. Casual dress will be appreciated. Online condolences may be left at www.culginfuneralhome.ca.

JOSEPH GLENN MOGGY
MAY 16, 1941 - AUGUST 25, 2014

Joseph Glenn Moggy, a resident of Manitowaning, died peacefully at Manitoulin Health Centre Mindemoya Site, on Monday, August 25, 2014 at the age of 73. Born to Elsie Moggy Chatwell and Walter Moggy, at Bidwell, Assiginack Township on May 16, 1941. Beloved husband of Marilyn Moggy. Loved father of Blake, Lori, Joanne. Proud grandfather of Sara-Lynn, Micheal and Jacob. Brother of Norma Hembruff (Don predeceased), Hugh and Marilyn Moggy, Rae and John Skippen, William "Bill" Moggy (Jill predeceased). Brother-in-law of Lina Condie, Bruce Pattison (predeceased) Yvonne, James Pattison (predeceased) Evelyn, Mary MacDonald (Walter), both predeceased. Will always be remembered by many nieces, nephews and friends. Glenn grew up in Assiginack and left the family farm at the age of 17 to work in Sudbury at Inco as a miner. It was not long before he met his wife Marilyn of 50 plus years. They moved to Southern Ontario and he began working for family at a farm dealership, which got him into the trucking business, a career that lasted a lifetime. In the 80s they relocated the family back to Naughton, Ontario. It was during this time they began to spend more and more time on the island and moved permanently to Manitowaning building a home on the property of the original Moggy homestead. Glenn was known for his willingness to help those he cared about including his charitable work as the past president and member of the Elks Lodge of Canada. For over 42 years he devoted his time, helping thousands of hearing impaired children and adults. When people describe Glenn the first thing that comes to mind is his incredible work ethic, working right until he couldn't. His latest project was his beloved bulldog, Rodney, who provided such joy and comfort. He will be deeply missed by his family and friends. Glenn had a great sense of humour, a man of few words but when he spoke you listened. If he liked you, he really liked you. Celebration Of Life and burial took place on Thursday, August 28, 2014 at Hilly Grove Cemetery. Donations to the Chemo room at Mindemoya Hospital in Glenn's memory are appreciated. Share your thoughts, memories and photos at www.islandfuneralhome.ca. Arrangements entrusted to Island Funeral Home, Little Current.

ANDREW "ANDY" GRAF

Soaring Through the Years symposium a toe tapping and educational good time

by Alicia McCutcheon

LITTLE CURRENT—The annual Soaring Through The Years Elders' Symposium, a day of pampering, education and fun and laughter, was once again offered by Mnaamodzawin Health Services and was by all accounts a major success, complete with a country and western theme.

Stan Wesley, a professional speaker of Cree heritage, now based in Toronto, was the master of ceremonies for the day-long event and had the elders and organizers alike engaged and all smiles throughout the day.

Mr. Wesley, adorned in a cowboy hat to set the tone for the day's theme, began the morning by thanking the elders for "clearing the way through the bush" and for soaring through the years so those in the next generation can continue to soar after them.

"This is a day for you to relax, learn and be pampered," he added.

Deputy Grand Chief of the Anishnaabek Nation, Glen Hare, was also on hand and gave an address to the full house in the Ojibwe language. Switching over to English for the minority who were English speakers only, Deputy Chief Hare thanked Mnaamodzawin for inviting him to the symposium, noting Mr. Wesley's good works and his talent at making people laugh.

The chief recounted the tale of his 16-year-old self quitting school to go to work. It was thanks to a group of elders who kept him focused and saw his potential that he got to where he is today, he said. Many of those people have since passed on, he said, but he is forever indebted to them. "The elders were my teachers, my guides," he said.

The deputy grand chief said he recently had a conversation with a woman who was concerned about the language being lost by First Nations' youth and suggested that fluent elders be placed in all First Nations classrooms to help remedy this situation.

He shared that his mother is a resident in the Manitoulin Lodge and that when he goes to visit, and she is spoken to in her Ojibwe, she comes alive and chats with her son. But as soon as he leaves she once again shuts down, isolated by language.

The keynote speaker at the event was Dr. Kirk Nysten, director of outreach at the Ontario Brain Institute, discussing the benefits of physical activity in preventing and managing Alzheimer's disease, as well as other brain disorders.

"We often think of exercise in terms of heart health, but it is also important in terms of brain health," Dr. Nysten began. "And it's never too late or too early to get started."

Last year, he explained, the Ontario Brain Institute made headlines when it came out with a study, which combined the research of 800 studies that looked at the benefit of physical activity on Alzheimer's disease.

While it may be a small organ, weighing in at three pounds, the brain uses the most cells, the most blood and the most oxygen, he said. "And the brain is dynamic, changing all the time, but it ages like the rest of us and brains can get sick too."

He shared that there are over 200 brain disorders including stroke, depression, migraines and epilepsy. He asked the audience to raise their hand if they have not been affected, either directly or indirectly, by one of these. Not one hand was raised.

Dr. Nysten explained that dementia is a term to describe brain cells dying more quickly than they should, causing a loss in memory. "Losing your car keys is not a problem, but forgetting how to drive is," he said.

Alzheimer's is a form of dementia where the number one risks of getting the disease are aging and genetics. Cholesterol, diabetes, high blood pressure and obesity are the next risks in line. By 2038 over one million Canadians will have dementia, it is predicted.

End of season M'Chigeeng powwow always a fan favourite

by Tom Sasvari

M'CHIGEENG—Despite the rain that made a change of venues necessary for part of the event, it didn't dampen the spirits of all those who participated in the M'Chigeeng First Nation 27th annual traditional powwow celebrating the "Good Life."

"I would like to thank everyone for attending our 27th annual traditional powwow. Our theme for this year is the 'Good Life.' The good life is the way we celebrate our culture, dance, socialize, and join in fellowship and friendship," stated Elaine Migwans, coordinator of the powwow, on Saturday evening. The powwow had begun at 1 pm earlier in the afternoon, but due to the rain falling, the festivities had been held in the M'Chigeeng arena. When the skies cleared later in the day the festivities and activities were moved back to the M'Chigeeng powwow grounds in the evening.

"It is so good to see all the young dancers along with our adults here today," said Ms. Migwans. "And it is so nice to see so many people here taking part instead of being at home in their houses and watching television instead. We are here tonight to celebrate, communicate and socialize. All of this helps to make up a good life."

The gathering was encouraged to honour veterans. It was pointed out that just about everyone is related to or knows someone who has fought for our freedom, and many made the ultimate sacrifice.

As each of the different dances took place in the afternoon, local experts in these forms of dance told the story behind each. For example, Alma-Jean Migwans explained the ladies' jingle dress dance "is a healing dance."

On Saturday evening, Ron Yellowman provided the invocation and encouraged everyone "to use the teachings and language we have been given. Use your own language as much as you can, as it is given to us to communicate," he said.

As part of the powwow, Destinee Kaboni, Miss Wikwemikong, took part in the crowning of Miss M'Chigeeng Maria Hare. Ms. Migwans explained, "we have a young lady here tonight, Maria Hare, who is being crowned as Miss M'Chigeeng. She will be attending youth conferences and meetings in many places on behalf of M'Chigeeng. We take great pride and with admiration that she is a representative of M'Chigeeng as a role model for youth, setting goals for the future and furthering her education."

Ms. Hare explained she is 15-years-old and is a Grade 10 student at Manitoulin Secondary School (MSS). She explained that school can be difficult at times but it is important to continue to get a good education. "I love living in M'Chigeeng and everything it has to offer like the Ojibway Cultural Foundation, Great Spirit Circle Trail and the powwow grounds."

"I don't have a single role model," she said, noting she follows the Seven Grandfather teachings. "I just recently started to learn jingle dress dancing. If I make a mistake, just tell me."

The master of ceremonies for the weekend powwow was Danny Fox and Chris Pheasant. The head elder was Alma Jean Migwans, while the area director was Falcon Migwans.

Head dancers were Adrian Abel and Jonnie Migwans-Shields, while the junior dancers included Shade Kaiser and Jolene Debassige. Head veteran was Binaasawe, while the powwow coordinator was Elaine Migwans. Head drum was Young Biisinaai Singers.

Taking part in the grand entry ceremonies were M'Chigeeng Chief Joe Hare who carried the M'Chigeeng Eagle staff, Ray Corbiere with the Wikwemikong Eagle staff, Lieutenant Maggie King on behalf of veterans of the regular forces and as new commander officer of 348 Manitoulin Sea Cadets, Wayne Golden of Massey on behalf of Vietnam veterans, Ron Yellowman, Howie Debassige Veteran and regular forces for 25 years. Earling Pelletier, WWII, Korean Veteran of Wikwemikong. The head male junior dancer was Shade Kaiser while the head female junior dancer was Jolene Debassige.

On Saturday evening a fabulous fashion show was held with the fashions provided by Bruno Henri.

Manitoulin medical professionals offer faith and care to Nicaraguans during recent mission

by Robin Burrige

NICARAGUA—Three medical professionals from the Manitoulin Health Centre, including Dr. Ben Quackenbush, Dr. Sherri Renwick and nurse Christine Wallace, travelled to Nicaragua earlier this year, bringing a message of faith and providing medical attention to Nicaraguans in need through the organization Threefold Ministries.

“Dr. Quackenbush sent out an email to colleagues seeking other medical professionals to travel to Nicaragua on a mission,” explained Ms. Wallace. “I had never been on a mission before and it was something that I have always wanted to do, but the timing was never right until this spring. Dr. Renwick and Dr. Quackenbush and I all belong to the same church (Mindemoya Missionary Church) so not only was the timing right, it was also nice to be able to go with friends.”

Dr. Renwick shared a similar story with The Expositor. “I went into medicine thinking that it (missions) was something I would do,” said Dr. Renwick. “In Grade 10 I committed myself to missions—I thought being a doctor was something I could offer in addition to spiritual. Up until this spring it was just something I wanted to do, but had never had the opportunity to. The trip (to Nicaragua) really jump started what I hope to continue.”

Dr. Quackenbush first learned of Threefold Ministries while doing his third year clerkship through the Northern Ontario School of Medicine (NOSM) in Parry Sound, where the organization is based.

“It was this same year that the lead for NOSM in Parry Sound, Dave Clarke, led the first team to Nicaragua with Threefold,” explained Dr. Quackenbush. “I got involved with the first team to the Skylark Centre in San Marcos, Nicaragua in April of 2008. I then returned two years later in 2010, that time as a family medicine resident. The trip this spring was my third trip with Threefold to Nicaragua. As a follower of Jesus, I first decided to participate in the medical mission because it was a tangible way to demonstrate the love of God to some people in desperate need of medical care. It is one small way that I can live like Jesus and sacrifice my time and energy for others.”

Dr. Quackenbush, Ms. Wallace and Dr. Renwick were among 16 participants, including five medical students from NOSM. The group led clinics that benefitted 747 patients from six in-need communities in the Carazo Province, treating hypertension, diabetes, upper respiratory infections, migraines, eczema and digestive disorders, among other medical issues.

“It was wonderful, but it certainly was a challenge—it wasn’t a vacation,” Dr. Renwick said. “We saw between 100-150 people a day, often going into villages where patients would be bused in from the surrounding areas and seeing 75 patients in the morning and another 75 in the afternoon. It was a lot of primary care. The Nicaraguan people were so grateful for any care they received. Often people would have to wait for four hours before we would see them and no one complained.”

“I had no idea what to expect,” added Ms. Wallace. “The five medical students were extremely good, they certainly made my job easier. Everything ran extremely smoothly at the clinics. You see commercials for similar things on television (medical missions), but when you are there it puts a whole different light on things. The people are so patient and so grateful.”

“The focus of our mission was medical and we ran clinics,” said Dr. Quackenbush. “Some days patients walked from the closest communities, but most days patients were bused in from neighbouring communities. Our team consisted of four doctors, a nurse, five medical students, a pharmacist, some volunteers in support roles and several translators who were Nicaraguan nationals. Patients would spend the entire morning or afternoon at the Skylark Center. Patients would register, have vitals taken, be seen by the physician/students, receive whatever treatments/education etc. from the medical staff, and then receive any necessary prescriptions from the pharmacy. There were also health education sessions at various times throughout the day on relevant topics. Arrangements were made for any patients who required investigations (ultrasounds, bloodwork) or referral to specialists and the costs were covered by the funds that the team had raised.”

Assisting with the funds the team raised were the Manitoulin trio’s church, Mindemoya Missionary, the Northeast Manitoulin Family Health Team and Noojmowin Teg that donated medical supplies and Breakaway Sports in Little Current that donated a backpack of Canadian t-shirts.

Both Dr. Renwick and Ms. Wallace had a special experience treating a patient named Rita whose leg was severely infected.

“She came in with a banana leaf wrapped on her leg,” explained Dr. Renwick. “She had a very infected leg due to a burn from boiling water.”

“The infection could have entered her blood stream and she would’ve died had she not gotten immediate treatment,” added Ms. Wallace. “You can prepare to treat patients in the clinic you work at back home, but you don’t know what it’s going to be like in another country, especially during your first medical mission trip.”

“We had the privilege to treat her and were able to keep her overnight at the clinic,” continued Dr. Renwick. “It was a unique way of showing love to someone who wouldn’t have normally been able to receive care.”

On Rita’s return visit to the clinic she wore the Canadian t-shirt that the pair had given her, supplied by Breakaway Sports, which they described as a “neat experience.”

Another moment that stood out from the trip was the earthquake.

“Everyone slept through the night, but when I woke up the next morning there was a huge crack that ran the length of the bed,” said Ms. Wallace, noting that

The yearly cost to Canadians is $15 billion but is expected to grow tenfold to $153 billion within a generation. The time spent providing informal care to those with dementia is also expected to rise from 231 million hours to 756 million hours.

While there are a few drugs on the market that can delay the decline of memory loss, they are very ineffective, the doctor explained. Vitamin E can help protect brain cells, but this also has a limited effectiveness.

An elder asked about the drugs and when they are prescribed. Dr. Nylen responded that the sooner the diagnosis the better, but the drugs really only delay the process by one year.

"There are five things we can do to take charge," he said, "sleep, keep stress levels low, diet, brain training (not just crosswords and sudoku, but learning new things all the time) and physical activity."

Physical activity can reduce the chances of getting Alzheimer's by 38 percent, or one in seven people. Those who already have

Dr. Nylen recommended 30 minutes a day of exercise and said the best effects are seen when having fun. "Don't be intimidated," he said. "Start low and go slow."

While physical activity isn't a cure, it's a "terrific foundation for prevention and management of chronic diseases like Alzheimer's."

The symposium also included presentations from Roxanne Makela of Behaviour Support Ontario, which seeks to enhance services for older adults in Ontario with or at risk of complex and responsive behaviours that may be a result of dementia, mental health and/or substance use and other neurological disorders as well as providing enhanced caregiver support.

The elders were also treated to a special concert by none other than both Loretta Lynn and Patsy Cline, much to their delight. Clapping and swaying in time, the elders were an appreciative audience to this tribute singer's talents.

The room at the Manitoulin Hotel and Conference Centre was lined with booths and vendors, all showcasing services offered to seniors. Special incentives were given for those who made their way to each and every booth and asked pertinent questions as to their services through a door prize.

Louise Hickey, ambassador and master trainer of Urban Poling Inc., gave a special demonstration on the art of urban poling while Kristen Taus of the Northeast Local Health Integration Network spoke on navigating Ontario's health care system as well as on the future direction of health care on Manitoulin.

The Chanticleer returns

Late last week Island residents had a glimpse of an old friend, the 118 foot motor yacht Chanticleer that plied the North Channel for over 45 years until the death of her owner, 1930s movie star Frances Langford, in 2005. In photo, the vessel is seen passing through the Port of Little Current—a favourite stop of Ms. Langford. The North Channel and Georgian Bay were a favourite cruising destination of Ms. Langford and her husband, Ralph Evinrude of Evinrude motors fame, especially to their Baie Fine cottage. In 2006 the Chanticleer was purchased by American couple Liz Dooner and Jon Couch who report that while cruising in the Chanticleer, it is recognized almost everywhere they go with people eager to share stories of Ms. Langford and her husband, an undoubtedly Manitoulin is no different.

they didn't know it was going to be earthquake season during their visit. "We asked the translators, 'doesn't it scare you?' They said they don't even feel them anymore. It was surreal."

Coming home from the trip the team reflected on their time, all telling The Expositor that they hope to return in the future.

"I would love to go back," said Ms. Wallace. "It would be nice to see the people again, see how we made a difference."

"Caring for patients in Nicaragua required us to treat people within the context of their culture," said Dr. Renwick. "As well, lack of resources, including nutritious food and clean water, forced us to think more creatively on how to meet the healthcare needs in their community. This has given me insight, I believe in understanding our patients here within the context of their own personal resources and culture. Healthcare needs to be individualized and we must truly understand the person as a whole in order to come alongside them in their journey."

Threefold Ministries was established by Rev. Gary Robinson in February 2006. Threefold's main purposes are to advance and teach the Christian faith through word and actions, to support and maintain missions and missionaries and to establish and maintain Christian educational institutions. Threefold's primary ministry takes place in Nicaragua.

Threefold's philosophy of ministry has always had as its goal substantiability. Threefold believes it is absolutely essential that if you are going to help people in a meaningful way you must commit to them for the 'long haul.' This means that if you build projects in a third world country you must also staff them with people, provide for their ongoing operational needs, and then run meaningful programs in those projects.

News from the Mindemoya Library Book Mice

by Claire Cline

1. 'Written in My Own Heart's Blood' by Diana Gabaldon

2. 'The Competition' by Marcia Clark

3. 'On Sal Mal Lane' by Ru Freeman

4. 'Remains of Innocence' by J.A. Jance

5. 'The Enchanted' by Rene Denfeld

'Written in My Own Heart's Blood' by Diana Gabaldon - A fantastic series by my favourite author ever. The story continues in 1778. France declares war on Great Britain, the British army leaves Philadelphia and George Washington's troops leave Valley Forge in pursuit.

At this moment, Jamie Fraser returns from a presumed watery grave to discover that his best friend has married his wife, his illegitimate son has discovered (to his horror) who his father really is, and his beloved nephew, Ian, wants to marry a Quaker. Meanwhile Jamie's wife, Claire and his sister Jenny is busy picking up the pieces. The Frasers can only be thankful that their daughter Brianna and her family are safe in twentieth-century

Scotland. Or not. I laughed, I cried, I hated to come to the end of the book and yet couldn't stop reading it. Now I wait once again (for up to four years) for the next book to come out. But it is far worth waiting for.

'The Competition' by Marcia Clark - A Rachel Knight novel. Many of you will remember Marcia Clark as the prosecutor in the OJ Simpson case but she retired and started writing and I really enjoy her novels. This is her fourth novel starring Rachel Knight. This is her most electrifying thriller yet. Los Angeles District Attorney Rachel Knight investigates a horrifying high school massacre. A good read.

'Sight Unseen' by Iris Johansen - Before Kendra Michaels had experimental surgery her other senses were developed in an amazing capacity. Now she can identify a Nissan by the sound of its engine, a Norelco electric razor by the pattern of stubble it leaves behind, or an obscure colorless fire accelerant by its sweet smell. Law enforcement agencies clamor for her rare powers of perception and observation, too often disrupting the life she has built helping others through music therapy, because very often only Kendra can get the job done. An apparent traffic accident is found to be a murder scene and as the body count rises and one murder unveils another, a gruesome pattern emerges.

Someone is killing people in ways that mirror Kendra's most notorious cases.

'On Sal Mal Lane' by Ru Freeman - A powerful portrait of a troubled time in Sri Lanka. A novel that witnesses the daily lives of children on a single lane called Sal Mal Lane as the tremors of civil war mount and the conflict threatens to engulf the families. In a heart-rending novel, the innocence of children—a beloved sister and her over-protective siblings, a rejected son and his twin sisters, two very different brothers—contrasts sharply with the petty prejudices of the adults charged with their care.

'Remains of Innocence' by J.A. Jance - Sheriff Joana Brady must solve two perplexing cases that hit close to home, a thrilling tale of suspense. Investigating a death and animal abuse and then becoming involved with a shocking murder. Johanna's department stretched to the limit must solve these two disturbing cases fast before more innocent blood can be shed. A good read.

'The Enchanted' by Rene Denfeld - This is a stunning first novel. One of the grimmest settings in the world—a dank and filthy death row in a corrupt prison—gives us a most beautiful, heart-rending, and riveting novel. This novel is about redemption and the human capacity to transcend and survive even the most nightmarish reality. Beautiful and unexpected, this is a memorable story.

Summer is almost done. Fall is on its way and then we have winter to look forward to. But as long as there are books to read, life is good. Hope everyone had a good summer.

Technology for Seniors is still going strong. The next session will start September 17 and will run for five weeks. If you would like to know how to navigate on Skype or Cloud, or learn how to scan, do emails and enjoy Facebook there are a few openings still available. Sign up at the Mindemoya library. These classes are free and take place on Wednesdays, 6 to 9 pm in the Resource Room at the Mindemoya library. You are welcome to attend.

Remember the library has a table at the Mindemoya Farmers' Market every Saturday. Lots of books for sale. Central Manitoulin Libraries cookbooks are also available here.

Providence Bay library is closed until further notice. There is a problem with the hall building but hopefully will be fixed and up and running soon. Until then any books checked out from the Prov library can be returned to the Mindemoya library and you are welcome to take out any books from the Mindemoya library.

See you at your library!

September 1—It's back to school this week. Please watch for the wee tots getting on and off the bus. If may be their first time.

Leila Coulam, Gladys Noland, Marla Ste. Croix visited me last Wednesday and had a cup of tea with me.

Lyle Dewar had the 'over 90' birthday group last Friday out to the Garden Shed for pictures, coffee and dessert. Two of our birthday ones have passed away, George Granger and Elgin Martin. We miss them. We had a nice afternoon together. Thanks Lyle!

Happy birthday to Hearley Hinds who celebrated on the weekend.

Brenton, Michelle and Kelsey Leigh

Eagleson had dinner with me on Sunday. Brenton and Michelle flew home to Oregon on Monday (today). I enjoyed their visit but will miss them. They attended the wedding in Mattawa.

Charlotte Leonard and Charlene Biggs from Sudbury were here at the Leonard home for the holiday weekend.

Manitowaning Fall Fair is this weekend so we hope they will have better weather.

Congratulations to Lakeisha Gelinis and Stephane Dodier who were married last Saturday in Mattawa (my great-granddaughter). Guests attending from the Island were David and Connie, Tracey and Royce Young, Allen and Rosemarie Eagleson.

Island Alpacas offers locally made products through farm store

by Alicia McCutcheon
LITTLE CURRENT—Just outside of Little Current, located on Morphet's Sideroad, Manitoulin's newest alpaca farm has emerged, Island Alpacas and Carding Mill, owned by Heather Crowder and her family, who originally hail from Lively but decided to make a 'creative' move to the Island.

Ms. Crowder explained that she worked as a mining engineer for years, but felt the need for change and wanted to put her creative talents to good use. She and her husband will be selling the family home in Fairbanks in the next year or so and making the move to Manitoulin a full-time and permanent one, she explained.

Farming, especially alpaca farming, is new to her, but Ms. Crowder says the learning curve has been a joy and the fact that alpacas are fairly easy to look after helps too. She has 18 of the downy soft creatures so far, a purchase from the former Noble Alpaca Farm on Scotch Line, including well-known alpaca Shadow, who is remembered from the Noble farm for her cuddly nature, which hasn't changed a bit.

"Once I heard she was selling (Rochel Totman and husband Glen), I started to do some research." Ms. Crowder explained, adding that she even travelled to an alpaca fibre sock factory in Quebec to see how it was done and gain ideas for her own venture.

While she hopes the sight of alpacas from the roadway will draw customers in, Ms. Crowder's homey farm shop will certainly add to the appeal. She proudly shows off her felting machine, purchased last month from Kentucky and one of only a few in the entire country. The machine turns the alpaca fibre into felt, which can then be used for all kinds of things, including insoles that are known for their warmth and wicking ability; cool in the summer and warm and toasty in the winter. The farm also has a carding machine, which the raw fibre is fed into, turning it into batting. Once the fibre is in batt form, it can then be fed into a loom to create yarn.

Alpaca fibre is said to be eight times warmer than wool, comes in 22 different natural colours, has no lanolin and therefore no itch and is naturally hypoallergenic.

Ms. Crowder herself crochets and knits, but had never used alpaca yarn before purchasing the herd. Following the placement of an ad in this newspaper seeking local knitters, the farmer now has four women who take the yarn (sourced from other mills for the time being) and make creations—largely hats, socks and mittens currently. They are then paid by the piece. She has also solicited Sheguiandah woodworker Julie Shortt to create wooden buttons for her creations that feature a hand-carved alpaca on each one. The buttons themselves have also been a popular item for sale.

Ms. Crowder has big dreams for her piece of pasture, one that she is hoping to turn into a vertical operation—from pasture to product right there on Morphet's Sideroad—and is anxiously awaiting word from the Northern Ontario Heritage Fund Corporation to see whether the government agrees. The majority of all alpaca fibre is sent to a mill on the East Coast where producers need to pay $1,800 in shipping and wait between nine months and a year for turnaround. There is obviously a need for more like it, as alpaca farms continue to crop up in the province, and Ms. Crowder hopes to be that person in the North.

The farm store currently offers the Island-knit products, but also offers thermal socks comprised of alpaca wool mixed with nylon for durability (from the Quebec factory), slippers, children's sweaters, insoles, braided rugs, yarn and roving (fibre not yet spun into yarn) too.

"We also make Croc liners which wick the moisture from your feet," she adds, noting that they have been a popular seller.

Ms. Crowder also hopes to soon produce pet beds, cat caves, horse blankets, rugs and much more and will also take custom orders.

Visitors are welcomed and encouraged to visit the farm at 205 Morphet's Sideroad. The farm is open from Monday to Friday from 9 am to 5 pm, Saturdays from 10 am to 4 pm and Sundays by appointment only. For more information, please call Ms. Crowder at 705-805-0254.

Night hiking: Take a walk on the dark side at Gordon's Park

by Lori Thompson
TEHKUMMAH—Let's face it. The nights here on Manitoulin Island can be dark, very dark. Humans don't have very good night vision and make up for it with the heightening of other senses. Every noise is intensified. A squirrel running through the forest can sound like a large beast. A deer stepping on a twig can sound like a gunshot. Nighttime can be frightening. It can also be both exhilarating and meditative. Smelling the earthy smell of the forest floor. Hearing the satisfying crunch of leaves beneath your feet. Bright green eyes watching you watching them.

What better way to experience the night than with a guided group hike on well groomed trails? At Gordon's Park in Tehkummah, you can do just that. Grace Schmidt, eco-tourism coordinator at Gordon's Park, has put together an interpretive night hike designed to educate participants about the sights and sounds they might encounter. One might even learn to enjoy sharing the darkness with things that go bump in the night.

This is the first year the guided night hikes have been available. Ms. Schmidt, an avid camper and outdoors person, has put together a list of nocturnal animals that inhabit the park and has further researched their habits and preferred habitats to provide a educational and engaging adventure.

This past Saturday evening, a group that included a family from Newmarket, a threesome from France, and an Islander, met at the nature centre at Gordon's Park where Ms. Schmidt explained what nocturnal animals were likely to be seen and heard on the trails and on Manitoulin in general. The nature centre has a comprehensive collection of animals, skeletons, bones and teeth that provides a well-rounded visual learning experience.

What are some of the nocturnal animals you might find on a night hike here? There are toads, fireflies, bats, flying squirrels, barred owls, skunks, deer, fishers, bobcats, lynx, coyotes, and foxes, to name a few. While many people are afraid of running into bears at night, they are not typically nocturnal (the exception is urban areas, where household garbage is a big temptation).

After the introduction, Ms. Schmidt led the group to the park's flying squirrel feeder. Flying squirrels do not fly so much as glide, she explained, showing how the squirrels would glide from a tree to a high perch to the feeder, and from the feeder to a lower perch from which they could glide back into the forest trees. If you were to encounter a flying squirrel at night, you might be startled by their eyes, which are very large and round. This allows more light to come in, enabling the squirrels to see at night.

Ms. Schmidt then turned on her red headlight, explaining that it takes human eyes about 30 minutes to adjust to the dark. Using a red light does not affect night vision and so is a better choice for enjoying the outdoors at night. The hike began. Many trees are turning colour already and parts of the trail were lightly covered in fallen leaves. For several minutes the only sound was footsteps in a steady, meditative rhythm.

At a fork in the trail the group stopped and Ms. Schmidt played a recording of a flying squirrel call. In return there was only silence. At a later stop, she attempted to call a pair of barred owls that reside in the park. They also failed to respond. You can't predict ahead of time with any accuracy what animals you will hear or see. On this Saturday night, the only sighting was a toad on the trail through the dark sky preserve. The group trained their flashlights on the toad, standing in a semi-circle watching it until it hopped off into the grass at the side of the path.

"Every once in a while you get the animals to talk to you," Ms. Schmidt said.

"It's more fun, that extra wow factor, if you get the animals. Though if it's not cloudy we can always rely on the stars."

It was a clear night and as the sky darkened the stars gradually revealed themselves. Ms. Schmidt pointed out some constellations, including Cassiopeia, the Big Dipper, Scorpio, and the summer triangle. As an added bonus, several meteors were observed, the last of the Perseids for this year. While she has always found astronomy interesting, Ms. Schmidt said she has learned a lot from listening to park manager Paul Beduhn's guided sky tours, recommending Thursday astronomy night at the park for a more in-depth astronomy experience.

In addition to the variety of wildlife, the group size for night hikes has varied, so each one is unique. "Whatever pops up that night, you think on the fly and go from there," Ms.

Schmidt said. "This walk I was able to talk and walk a little bit at certain points. With the really large groups, or if I have a group with a very young child, I just make sure when we're talking that I'm paused at a location and they're all gathered around and can hear." She tries to determine where on the trail a certain animal would be and pauses at that location to explain its habits and what to listen and look for.

Beyond the dark sky preserve, on the return loop, there was a pond where stars reflected back from the still surface of the water. The group paused here to listen to a chorus of crickets and frogs. It is moments such as these that one truly feels the magic of night.

For those people who enjoy the outdoors but are somewhat nervous about the dark, this guided interpretive walk will help alleviate your fears. The things that go bump in the night are less intimidating when you can actually identify them.

Tehkummah Talk and Times

Each day is a gift and today I've been given the kindness/friendship one. I went to the Garden Shed for breakfast all on my own. Rob Harkes was visiting there with Greg. I asked if he was buying the coffee. Anyway, he bought my breakfast, and I didn't even sit with them! Next I got a lovely gift certificate from Laurie. So far, my day has been just wonderful. Thank you very much!

The sunshine and love from my cats make it even more so. What more can one ask for? It's a beautiful day and it's not even noon!

I liked the positivity of the "Hawater Wannabe" in the August 20 edition of the August 20 paper. Congrats Ray Scott on your nine-hour endurance test.

Thought it unusual when I had a toad story in, with the info on toads on page 16. Actually, lots of toad stories lately, come to think of it.

My morning shot, I thought, it's time I had a visit with my cousin Joan. Her sis Pat went home to Elliot Lake Sunday evening. Nice visit in her lovely gazebo, with a view of all her beautiful flowers!

Tuesday afternoon I finally made a long overdue visit to the South Baymouth Post Office. I've been out of stamps for days! Needless to say, I miss our Post Office. When I get to where there is one, I don't think of stamps until I get home again and I say "Darn it!" I guess I was spoiled!

We had a good piece of fish at Sharlene's while we were there.

Prov Bay News and Notes

We hope everyone enjoyed the long weekend.

Our daughter Kelly and her husband Gerhard Heinrich are visiting at their cottage. We also had a surprise visit from our grandson JK and his friend Katie from New Brunswick. JK is in the military.

Come on everyone and have a delicious breakfast at the Curling Club in Providence Bay on Thursday, September 4 from 7:30 to 9:30 am. It is an excellent meal of scrambled eggs, bacon and sausages, French toast, home fries, tea and coffee. They also have fruit.

We were very pleased Ann Sullivan came for a visit and we enjoyed her company.

The rain was really something the other night.

I have beautiful flowers at the front of my house and when I heard the rain I thought they would not survive but they did.

Remember our seniors and veterans. Please give them a call.

If you have any news please feel free to give me a shout at 705-377-4449.

Have a great week and smile when you meet someone.

Nutrient Management online

The Introduction to Nutrient Management is now available as an online course. It is one of the two required courses for an Agricultural Operations Planning Certificate. You will no longer have to wait for a course to come to you or travel out of town to attend in person. Details about certification requirements can be found at www.nutrient-management.ca

Septic survey

Green Communities Canada with funding from the Ontario Ministry of Agriculture, Food, and Rural Affairs has developed an online survey for property owners who use a septic system or onsite wastewater treatment system at their residences or cottages. The survey takes about 15 minutes to complete. We are trying to reach as many septic system users across the province as possible. Results from the survey will be used to inform development of a Rural Safe Water Program, which will help rural Ontario residents protect their property values, drinking water, and the environment. Contact Clara Blakelock, coordinator of Water Programs at Green Communities Canada, with any questions at cblakelock@greencommunitiescanada.org or (705) 745 7479 x159. The survey can be found at www.surveymonkey.com/s/KXJ8N2K. Survey participants can enter to win $500 to use on septic system maintenance, effluent filter installation, upgrades or repair.

Cards at Mum's, I won for a change. First time I haven't smelled skunk this week.

We had a nice evening at Elaine Bosje's Scentsy party. She will be the local representative for some very nice products. Sherry from Ajax, with her mom Glenda from Lakeshore, were there. Sherry Noble is on holidays with her parents. Elaine served a lovely lunch after the party.

Tuesday morning—I see the toad this morning hopping across the kitchen floor. I guess he likes living in? Obviously I'm wasting my time putting him out?

Tara, Jacob and Skylar are off this morning for a few days of fun to Canada's Wonderland (a visit with Bobbi and her family too). Beautiful morning for a float across the Bay.

We had almost five tables for cribbage on Wednesday. As always lots of good food for our treat time. We are always happy to have new players join us. Reg and Sherry (Hall) were staying at the cottage/camp on the Manitou River (near the construction site). High hand, Lois, 22; first, Mum and Mary, 964; second, Betty Jean and Bill, 961; third, Dorothy and Eugene, 921; low, Bill and Ruth, 791; door prize, Eugene and Gib.

I see the hummingbird syrup is just about gone. I just put it out on Tuesday evening. Lots of little critters and are they busy.

Sissy Pat gave me a cute gift. I can't get ahead of her! It was on the seat of my car after cribbage. The pillow read, "The joy that you give to others is the joy that comes back to you."

Five hummingbirds over my head debating! Boy, it's hot in the sun after that chilly night. The tomatoes are ripening fast now, finally.

Cal and Gib visited Lyle and Shirley. Had lunch there (that was really a dinner) and a lovely visit (Tuesday I think).

Still transcribe poetry almost daily. Wrote some long overdue notes to friends and family this week.

Joan came in on Thursday afternoon to visit. She would have liked to go to Glenn Moggy's burial, as she taught him. She was late getting her hair done. We went to Manitowaning (town) anyway, had a drink and a bite at Musky Widows. Then shopped the Freshmart store, where I saw a couple of Wahls holding things up? Ha! Ha!

Six tables at the euchre in Tehkummah. Ladies' high, Lyla, 88; ladies' lone hands, Lovina, 7; ladies' low, Irene, 35; men's high, Clive, 81; men's lone hands, Jim (J), 5; men's low, Grant, 41. Clive won the door prize.

Darned cold outside this early deadline morning!

I never did tell you how my Monday finished out. Cal called and asked if I wanted to go to Carol's and Earl's for supper, and of course I never say no to those kind of offers! Afterwards we went for the loveliest drive. First of all we checked out the Manitou River bridge site, and came to the conclusion it wouldn't be done by the end of August! Then just drove some of the back roads of Tehkummah. So lovely, and I thought I had been on all the roads in our area, but for the first time a new long road took us to the lake! Lots of houses, cottages, camps. A good road, and I love the three huge pieces of limestone at one gateway! Too soon it was time to head back home in time for bingo. I didn't win, but what a day full of good stuff. Come to think of it, most of my days are good stuff!

Mollie called on Wednesday morning. On her trip to Winnipeg she sat and visited with a Rose Gourlay, a niece of Uncle Herb.

Sympathy to Marilyn Moggy and the family in the loss of Glen this week.

Have a good week friends!

Hello Ruth Leeson, Colleen Moodie, Darlene Young! All my friends in the nursing homes!
