NAFTA talks concern First Nations, Waubetek GM tells Commons committee

by Michael Erskine

OTTAWA—Waubetek Business Development Corporation General Manager Dawn Madahbee Leach has been literally trotting the globe over the past few weeks, with stops in Dubai, New Zealand, Texas and just about every point in between-but among those recent stops was a presentation to the House of Commons International Trade Committee, which includes a lot of the people who are part of the Chapter 10 negotiating team in the recent NAFTA

"It's been a very exciting time," admitted Ms. Madahbee Leach. "I am lucky I don't have jet lag." She describes her work with the trade committee as being "a very interesting project."

Ms. Madahbee Leach said that her presentation was linked to her role with the executive committee of the National Aborigi-Economic Development Board

"I told them what we would like to see in the negotiations (regarding Indigenous trade rights). I wanted to ensure they had a strong understanding of the history of First Nations people's engagement in trade and investment. The history behind our trading networks isn't widely understood. I wanted to clear up that history, the history of Indigenous peoples."

'United Manitoulin Transit' group seeks funding for proposed Island bus program

An initial feasibility study would consider transportation needs

by Robin Burridge

MANITOULIN—A group of service providers from across Manitoulin have partnered together to find a solution to improving and expanding transportation options for Island residents.

Under the working name United Manitoulin Transit, the committee of 15 service providers includes representatives from First Nations on the Island, as well as many of the Island organizations and service providers.

'We have the support from the United Chiefs and Councils of Mnidoo Mnising (UCCMM) and from the Manitoulin Municipal Association (MMA)," explained Guy Dumas of March of Dimes Canada (MODC), who is spearheading the project. "The MODC has agreed to act as a lead for the funding applications and we have issued a request for proposals for consultants for a feasibility study on improving and expanding transportation on Manitoulin.'

The group has received several proposals from the RFP and will be reviewing them and making a recommendation prior to Christmas. Mr. Dumas noted that the feasibility study is dependent on the group receiving funding.

"We have applied, through the MODC for funding through a number of agencies," said Mr. Dumas.

Northern Ontario Permaculture Research Institute Executive Director Justin Tilson is presented the Premier's Award for Agri-Food Innovation Excellence by Sudbury MPP and Ontario Energy Minister Glenn Thibeault.

Honora Bay permaculture operation receives Premier's Award for innovation

by Michael Erskine

SUDBURY—The Northern Ontario Permaculture Research Institute has been making plenty of ripples on the sustainable local food front on Manitoulin Island over the past couple of years, and now those ripples are starting to build momentum into a tsunami of accomplishment. On December 1, that impact was officially recognized by the province with a Premier's Award for Agri-Food Innovation during a ceremony in Sudbury.

The Premier's Award for Agri-Food Innovation Excellence recognizes and celebrates agri-food producers, processors and organizations who are helping create jobs, boost our economy, strengthen our communities and support a sustainable environment through their innovative ideas and projects.

"I am pleased to be part of today's celebrations and to have the honour of meeting the innovative recipients of the 2017 Premier's Award for Agri-Food Innovation Excellence," said Sudbury MPP Glen Thibeault as he presented the awards to Northeastern Ontario recipients. "These individuals, and many others throughout the North, are helping Ontario's agri-food sector thrive with initiatives that not only benefit their businesses but also grow our northern economy."

"Year after year, these awards showcase outstanding individuals across the province whose innovative ideas are helping grow Ontario's agri-food sector

Ruth Eadie named LC Legionnaire of the Year

by Alicia McCutcheon

LITTLE CURRENT—The Little Current branch of the Royal Canadian Legion, #177, hosted its annual honours and awards and volunteer appreciation evening on Friday, December 1 with many acknowledgements being made to the individuals, groups and businesses who have rallied around the Legion over recent years, helping to keep the institution alive and well.

Legion President Debbie Menard began the evening's proceedings by acknowledging the death of Comrade Wayne Debassige of M'Chigeeng.

President Menard started with the most prestigious honour of the night, Legionnaire of the Year, awarding it to Comrade Ruth Eadie.

She told the audience that Comrade Eadie has been a member of the Legion for 16 years and currently acts as 2nd vice president and chair of entertainment, her third year in this role.

"She organizes all the dances and is quite creative with the themes as well as the decorating and luncheons to be served, only to do the cleanup after the parties," the Legion president said.

Comrade Eadie also helps with the meal functions by setting up the hall, purchasing food supplies, preparing and cooking the food, serving it and then, as always, helping to clean up afterwards. She also donates many of the food supplies and helps the Ladies' Auxiliary with many of their functions too, Comrade Menard stated.

MANITOULIN—The need for food banks among families and individuals is substantial at all times of the year, including the Manitoulin Family Resources (MFR) Help Centre, says a representative of MFR. And with the Christmas season closing in, the Help Centre is hoping for support of the Manitoulin community to help stock the same number of Christmas food baskets as were provided on the Island in 2016.

"We prepare Christmas baskets for families and individuals all over the Island to help people in need," said Nicole Mathia, MFR Help Centre assistant, late last week. "These baskets include such items as ham, turkeys, mandarins, potatoes and other foods. And we receive toys to include in the baskets from the Lions Club."

"We filled and provided 800 Christmas food baskets last year, and are anticipating a similar number this year," said Ms. Mathia. Other organizations and groups help across the Island support the initiative with the District Services Board EMS and the UCCM Police and their respective stuff an ambulance and stuff a cruiser events. Wiikwemkoong project for community greenhouse receives $50,000 Aviva grant

Community celebrates achievement

by Robin Burridge

WIIKWEMKOONG—Focus Forward for Indigenous Youth, on behalf of a partnership between the Wikwemikong Employment office and Wikwemikong High School, has been named the winner of $50,000 in funding from the Aviva Community Fund to build a greenhouse.

"Wikwemikong Greenhouse for Change is an Aviva Community Fund grand prize winner this year and will receive $50,000 in funding," confirmed Priscilla Wong, public relations specialist with Aviva va.

"Congratulations to all the grand prize winners and all of the amazing finalists this year," commented Debora Hendrickson, senior vice president of Aviva Canada in a press release. "Supporting and caring for Canadians in making positive sustainable change in their communities will always be our belief at Aviva. What a privilege it's been to be able to run another year of this competition, bringing our donation total to $8.5 million over the past nine years. We're continually inspired by the commitment and engagement of Canadians from coast-to-coast."

The Aviva Community Fund winners in the various divisions were announced yesterday, with Wiikwemkoong hosting a community-wide celebration.

As The Expositor previously reported this fall, Wikwemikong Greenhouse for Change was named a finalist for the Aviva Community Fund.

Focus Forward for Indigenous Youth is an organization that seeks to improve the quality of life for Indigenous people. The organization meets with communities and look at their needs and projects that haven't been accomplished due to a lack of resources and helps them find funding to bring projects to fruition.

The Wikwemikong Greenhouse for Change project will support educational goals for students in the community ages 14 to 19, while creating a community-led sustainable food source.

The greenhouse will be built by Wikwemikong High School students in the construction/tech program, earning the participating students credits.

"Once constructed, this greenhouse will provide the Wikwemikong High School the opportunity to launch an innovative green industries agricultural program that teaches students the benefits and challenges of creating a community-led sustainable food source," the project explains. "The program intends to open enrollment for fall 2018. The capacity of the community will be further enhanced through the efforts of the employment office, by ensuring the greenhouse can be utilized free of charge by all community members."

Island youth make their mark in math, science and technology

This has been a banner week for the recognition of Manitoulin Island youth in the fields of math, science, innovation and technology and is a testament to the hard work and dedication of Island teachers and their students.

It is a rare edition of The Expositor that goes to print not containing some indication of the accomplishments of Manitoulin Island students and young adults in technology of some form. These accomplishments have stretched back for generations. In the not too distant past Islanders will recall the years of the Manitoulin Secondary School Science Olympiad teams, whose steady stream of gold medal accomplishments kept our readers spellbound a decade or more ago.

Today's edition contains stories of yet more youthful accomplishments to bear witness to how our tiny but mighty Island punches well about its weight in fields scientific.

From the incredible accomplishments at Sudbury's Dynamic Earth of the four LEGO Robotics teams whose members span Island communities, to the recognition of the efforts of the young adult social entrepreneurs like Justin Tilson and the gang at the Northern Ontario Permaculture Institute, whose Premier's Award for Innovation in the Agri-food Industry clearly establishes Manitoulin Island as being at the forefront of a new generation of agriculturalists, ready to think outside the box and apply leading edge technical solutions to the challenges of our Northern climate to today's local food industry.

And it isn't just in the fields of science, math and technology that Island youth are making their mark. The social conscience demonstrated by groups like the Grade 1 and 7 and 8s at Little Current Public School in providing assistance to the hurricane ravaged schools of Texas, or the annual efforts of the Manitoulin Secondary School SHARE committee give us all something to be very proud of.

Manitoulin clearly has never taken a back seat in the fields of science and technology and the latest generations are clearly continuing that tradition thanks to the hard work and dedication of teachers, volunteers, parents and guardians, and above all, the students and youth themselves

Kudos also to Island municipalities, First Nations and the Rainbow District School Board who have stepped up and thrown their support behind the youth in our communities and provided them with the opportunities which our youth have grasped so securely in their competent hands.

We look forward to the new year when the pages of this paper will undoubtedly continue to chronicle the amazing accomplishments of Manitoulin Island youth as they strive to make this a world a better place.

December 6 is a day to remember the Polytechnique victims

Do not idly stand by while violence and abuse are committed

To the Expositor:

Today, December 6, is a day to remember the women who were killed at a polytechnic in Montreal some years ago. On that day in 1989, a man walked into a classroom with a gun, opened fire, and killed 14 women, wounded 14 others, 10 of them women, students in an engineering program.

Violence against women takes many forms, including such things as the December 6, 1989 massacre, through to various types of physical violence, sexual abuse, stalking, intimidation, destruction of property, assaults on women's loved ones, and so on.

But there are other forms of violence against women, such as systemic and structural violence. The systemic one occurs in such things as the Indian Act, which is silent on Indigenous women's human rights to secure indigenous land tenure on Indigenous homelands. The systemic violence occurs when federal government legislation like the Indian Act only goes as far as providing Certificates of Possession is not 100 percent true ownership. It is only the Crown's permission to "live on, use, and occupy" our own homelands. The structural violence takes place when federal legislation says to Indian women, "Full legal title to Indian lands rests with the Crown."

Structural violence occurs when a band council says to its people, "there is a moratorium on land requests." To women, this means that we cannot even apply for our own homelands. The systemic violence happens when a band council prescribes the ways in which an Indian can apply for land, and then not provide the process or procedure by which a band member is to follow through. Systemic violence occurs when the local authorities remain silent on financial delinquencies of those who are in arrears for house payments, while at the same time criminalizing the female who uses her own funds to pay for house repairs on housing that was given to her according to traditional Anishinaabe custom. The systemic violence occurs when a judge in a courtroom interrupts an Indigenous woman's presentation in Anishinaabemowin by saying, "stop that! We're not playing games here!" The systemic and structural violence appears in the form of courts who say to a plaintiff wanting to be heard about Indigenous women's human rights to secure indigenous land tenure, "there are no merits to the case" or "the plaintiff is abusing the system." The systemic and structural violence occurs when a female indigenous elder is "criminalized" for expressing grief, loss, trauma, and homelessness, while the perpetrator who stalked, swore, attempted to intimidate, and destroyed property, was merely "spoken to." The perpetrator ought to have been charged with criminal harassment, elder abuse, fraud and theft.

Violence against women is even more insidiously practiced when a woman is not believed, is not heard, or is not allowed to speak up about the violence that is perpetrated against her. This is when the patriarchy says things like, "oh, you're just imagining it" or, "it didn't happen" or, "who's going to believe you anyway?" The structural violence occurs when women are paid up to one-third less in wages or salaries in the workplace. The structural violence occurs when onlookers exercise wilful blindness when an abuser is allowed to belittle or berate a female who has done nothing wrong.

Canada holds itself out as a haven of human rights. Tell that to the families of murdered and missing Indigenous women. Tell that to the families of the students who went missing, were drowned, or were murdered on the riverbanks and parklands in Thunder Bay. Tell that to the mothers who were forced to give up their newborn babies for adoption for the crime of being poor.

If you see wrongdoing, and say nothing about it, or do nothing about it, it's the same thing as if you're doing the wrongdoing. What can possibly be right about throwing an Indigenous female Anishinaabe elder out of her own home, off her land, not once, but twice? It is impossible for an Indigenous woman to trespass on Indigenous homelands. It is not possible for an indigenous female elder to live illegally on traditional Anishinaabe lands. Someone made the cruel suggestion recently, "get over it." It's the same thing as some members of Canadian society saying to indigenous peoples about dishonoured treaties, residential school abuse, imposition of foreign religions, prohibition of Indigenous languages, forbidding cultural practices and wholesale theft of Indigenous homelands, "get over it." The problem with this is that if we forget history, or if we don't learn history in the first place, then we run the risk of making the same sad, tragic, horrific mistakes over and over

Council disappoints

Theatre group deserves support

To the Expositor:

I am disappointed in the recent thoughts of the Assiginack Township council. According to the report in the Expositor, the Burn's Wharf Theatre Players were asking council to assist them in obtaining funding. This is not asking for money; this is allowing them to seek their own money.

Their attendance figures have proven that this group have brought enjoyment to local people, other Islanders and to summer visitors. It has enlarged the experiences of the actors, singers, workers and volunteers. It is an attraction that our village presents on a professional scale. It is hard to imagine any reason why it should be discouraged.

The citizens of Assiginack were given a questionnaire recently and the top response of desired expenditures was to support the needs of the Burn's Wharf Theatre and get it back in operation. In fact, there was a second survey—it showed the same wish by the citizens of the Township. Sounds democratic. I think that would have meant something to the elected body.

Our township must develop and grow; it must survive by attracting business and industry and a life style that is as good or better than other areas. We have a lot of assets but we can't have development without council at least giving the moral encouragement to groups who work for these very same ideals.

Michael's Bay news questioned

Why can't cemeteries be severed?

To the Expositor:

In the page 1 story of November 22 issue of The Manitoulin Expositor, 'Tehkummah council gets updated on status of Michael's Bay,' Danielle Pilon of the Canadian Government, Public Works, tells us that 100 acres of Michael's Bay property is grazing land for Manitoulin cattle and the land will be sold separately. Why can't the same thing be done for the cemeteries in the Michael's Bay property?

What kind of people do we have running our country who don't put our buried pioneers and history first? The hardships these women and men went through at Michael's Bay for many years to cut the trees by hand for the logs to make the lumber to ship by boat to make houses elsewhere. Now they are buried with no respect by our own Canadian government. Phone for free to our MP, Carol Hughes, 1-855-297-4200 to complain.

Ambition is the Path to Success

Wiikwemkoong High School celebrates its 2016-2017 award recipients at 19th annual Christmas Gala

High School 19th Annual Christmas Gala was held on December 1 where close to 50 awards were handed out at the dinner and awards banquet honouring the best and brightest of the 2016-17 school year.

Family and friends gathered for the celebration which began with a welcoming song by Abigail Aiabens and Brandy Peltier. Rosemary Wakegijig then provided a prayer before the lovely dinner prepared by Hiawatha's Catering.

Jillian Peltier, Wiikwemkoong High School guidance counsellor and athletics director, was the evening's MC. In her opening remarks, Ms. Peltier recounted how a much smaller group of staff and students came together 19 years ago, in 1999, to establish the vision for the high school, which emphasized two key qualities: pride and excellence. She spoke about how the students being honoured at the awards banquet "are true visions of those keys of the high school's vision" and that their names, engraved on the award plaques that grace the halls of the high school, "will become a permanent part of the high school's history." She took time to thank all the award sponsors as well as the many friends and family members who "allow the award recipients to excel."

Among the evening's award recipients was Moses Pitawanakwat, who received The Manitoulin Expositor award, which is presented to a student in a workplace pathway with the highest achievement in a workplace English course. In addition to The Manitoulin Expositor award, Moses, who recently won a scholarship to Canadore College for business as a result of being on the winning Enterprise Olympics 2017 team in the Mining, Forestry and Agriculture sector, was also awarded the Wikwemikong Board of Education English Scholar Award for a Senior. Moses expressed his gratitude for receiving the two awards and said that it "feels good to be acknowledged.

In a very inspirational and moving acceptance speech, Ms. Wemigwans spoke of Annie's journey to becoming a multiple award-winning scholar, which wasn't always an easy journey. Because of challenges faced at school in the city, Ms. Wemigwans wanted Annie to attend high school in Wiikwemkoong and benefit from "being around her people, her culture, her language" and thus asked her mother, Julia Wemigwans, to take Annie in while she attended Wiikwemkoong High School. Mrs. Wemigwans agreed to take Annie in and so began her journey at Wikwemikong High School where she flourished and excelled in all areas. Ms. Wemigwans attributes the community to her daughter's growth and held Annie up as a true exemplar of the adage that it takes a community to raise a child. She told the audience that "Annie knows and understands that her accomplishments are attributed to everyone in our community" and that it is the community that keeps her going, including the teachers who taught her while in Wiikwemkoong.

Ms. Wemigwans ended her speech by impressing to the young award recipients that, as the evening's motto goes, 'ambition is the path to success;' that they are the best

An open letter to the Minister of Transport on herbicide spraying

Witnesses raise concerns over discrepencies over where spraying was done

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following is an open letter from a number of Tehkummah residents to the Ministry of Trans-

Dear Mr. Sedgwick,

Thank you very much for your detailed reply to the township of Tehkummah regarding the spraying of a chemical that is highly toxic to fish and aquatic life, also a known 'Class 2B carcinogen,' in the township this summer.

We do appreciate your ongoing concern for public safety. However, indiscriminate spraying of barely tested, newly developed toxins is very dangerous. The very real hazards of skyrocketing cancer rates in humans, irreversible poisoning of rivers, ground water, insects, fish, animals, and people's vegetable gardens adjacent to the highway far outweigh the benefits of saving a few dollars on labour costs to maintain clear sight-lines with chemicals of notorious

As you correctly mention, Ontario Regulation 63/09 and Pest Control Act requires "a public notification and/or individual notification signs posted in the area to be sprayed." This same law, section 79(2), states that the notice "may be published... at least one week before the extermination begins." The notice in question was published three business days before the spraying was scheduled to begin, as per the notice itself. While still technically legal, it is absolutely inadequate.

Unfortunately, no signs were put up in the areas sprayed. Therefore, we only have your word on that only six hectares (14 acres) were sprayed and not the planned 11 hectares (27 acres). "In addition, a small print 3"x5" public notice on page 21 of a local newspaper was noticed by only a very small number of people, who then brought it to the attention of their neighbours. A bigger, more precise advertisement in the beginning of the newspaper would have been much more noticeable. Even allowing for the "potential gaps" that you mention, mass mailings are very efficient in reaching the actual people who are affected by this spraying, whether they read the local newspaper or not." Notifying the township office is also a good start.

The "natural woody stemmed plants" that you mention are called "trees" in plain English. It is with great sadness that we see the steadfast, non-invasive flagships of native flora such as the beautifully shivering alder, ever-whispering poplar, graceful birch, fragrant cedar, towering pine, stately spruce and the colourful sumac being targeted by the spraying. In many cultures across North America, and to some of us, these plants are sacred and are a source of powerful medicines.

Furthermore, instead of saying that the spraying program was "not limited to..." and "...etc." you could have saved words and simply wrote: everything. This blanket spraying targeted everything. The deadly concoction destroyed or seriously damaged every living organism it

It is disheartening to learn that 1.2 kg of the stuff was released into the environment that day, mere 12 hours before a torrential downpour the very next morning.

Your statement that "[the] herbicide was not applied to any area outside of those areas identified in the public notice" directly contradicts a report by a local resident who witnessed the spraying being done on the east shoulder of highway 542, just north of the Sandfield bridge. The witness estimated that the spraying was done as close as 500 m away from a creek. To remind you, the notice stated that the area to be sprayed is "starting 250m west of Hwy 542A and then Northerly for 10.11km". We invite you to locate the westernmost point of Hwy 542A on a map, measure 250m west from it, and then draw a line due north thereon for 10.11 kms. The resulting line is nowhere close to where the spraying was witnessed. Was the witness mistaken? If she was not, who is?

We are looking forward to your contacting the Township of Tehkummah to discuss the proposed vegetation control operations in the future.

Yours truiy.

A much better idea on where to place legal fee money Rogers Creek Bridge needs replacement

To the Expositor:

Assiginack in the scrap steel business? Assigninack, we the taxpavers have no interest in the lawsuit over the Norisle, which will end up in over $200,000 in legal fees that we the taxpayer will have to pay. Instead, why not put this legal fee money you seem to have found for the Norisle into a new bridge on Rogers Creek Road? This closed bridge has become a party place and a place for hunters to shoot at anything that

Councillors of Assiginack do not care about our bridge, we the people that live around the bridge care. So, do the right thing and quit wasting our tax dollars. Fix our bridge.

Manitoulin Minor Spotlight!

The Manitowaning Wolves Peewee team is off to a great start this year. They have played almost all the teams in the division and are thrilled with how close the competition is amongst all the teams! Currently on a winning streak, they know that things are going to get tough as the winter progresses. It is going to be a great season of hockey!

It's pretty neat that the majority of the bench staff are not parents, but amazing community volunteers! With a bench staff of Jeff Pitawanakwat, Ray Moreau, Teina Pitawanakwat, Zeke Peltier, Brock McKenzie and Dawn Roque, the players are well guided in their quest to play amazing hockey!

As for the players, it is a pretty hard working group of kids! Chloe Otosquaiob recognized that the team was short of a goalie and jumped into the new position and is blowing everyone away with her amazing saves and willingness to constantly work at stopping that puck!

Forward lines consist of Emily Roque, who always knows exactly where she is supposed to be and constantly drilling that puck to the net! Formidable players and great goal scorers are Nikolai Assiniwe, Ethan Dey, Jon Mende, Jordan Ominika-Cooper and Joel Mailloux. What is pretty incredible is that the team has a new player Peter Kanasawe who is quickly turning out to be their secret weapon in the oppo-

The defence line is one to be watched for sure! When Kordell Elijah gets that puck you don't want to be in the way! Brooke Gibeault might as well leave scorch marks on the ice. When she gets that puck, no one can catch her! Steven White and Alex Peltier complete the defence lines by constantly taking the puck out of their end.

Players, parents and bench staff are looking forward to the fun competition hockey brings on Manitoulin Island! Keep up the good work,

Off their Rock, hockey!

Two weekends ago saw Island alumni Sam Assinewai, Liam Bridgeman and Carson Shawana and their Nickel City Sons Minor Bantam "AAA" hockey team travel to Whitby for the International Silverstick tournament. Drawing the top teams from across Canada and the US, this promised to be the tournament of the year for the N.C.S. side. Starting out tough against the provincially ranked #5 Quinte Red Devils team, the #21 N.C.S. carried a 2 – 1 advantage into the 3rd period. The Red Devils relentless onslaught in the 3rd earned them the tying goal, and N.C.S. had weathered the storm to salvage a tie. Match #2 was against the #25 Toronto Red Wings. Again taking the lead, the Sons gave up the tying goal and consequently could not solve the Wings' keeper, and again settled for a tie. That set them up for a must win against the formidable #4 Hamilton Huskies. Battling scoreless into the third, N.C.S. ran into penalty trouble while trying to match Hamilton's physicality. The Huskies took advantage of a 5 on 3 to net their first, and followed with another on the subsequent 5 on 4. The game finished a hard fought but disappointing 3 – 0. While elimination games may be the most nerve wracking for fans and players alike, a final game after you have been eliminated may be the most challenging to get up for. This proved the case for the N.C.S. side, who came out flat and gave up 6 in the final 2 periods in a 6-0 loss to Chicago Mission (#18 USA). On the upside Liam and Sam, still together as linemates, combined for 66% of the scoring, with Sam netting 2 of the NCS 3 goals, both assisted on by Liam. Carson was at his usual defensive best, helping keep the sometimes relentless attack from exploiting his side, or extracting a high cost from those who ventured there.

The trio were off to Hamilton this past weekend to take part in the Hamilton Bulldogs Backspin Classic. Starting against the home Bulldog side, NCS fought through a parade to the penalty box to earn a 1-1tie. In game 2 they handily defeated the Syracuse Nationals 4-1, then tied the Markham Majors 4 – 4 in game 3. This left the Sons in second place, and set up a game against the Winnipeg Warriors in the qualifying round, a game the Sons lead 3 – 1 before a last minute goal by the Warriors made it a 3-2 final.

The quarter finals found NCS in tough against the St Louis AIC Prospects, as a 1-1 tie held through regulation's end. 5 minutes of 4 on 4, and another 5 minutes of 3 on 3 didn't settle it, so tournament rules dictated the dreaded shoot out. After teammate Cameron Shanks lead off by narrowly missing the net, former line-mates Sam, Liam and Sudbury's Scooter Rienguette all found the back of the net, while outstanding saves by backstop Noah Beaulne lead the NCS side through to the semis, where a re-match with the Syracuse Nationals awaited.

In the semis, the Sons scored early to set the tone and lead by 2 for most of the game. A final score of 4 - 3, a result of a late Nats goal that made it an interesting final half minute, left the Sons victorious. Fans were in for a fast paced, hard fought final against the Winnipeg Monarchs. Scoreless through one, the NCS side pushed and pushed but just could not solve the Monarch's goaltender. Despite extended periods of pressure, two posts and numerous near misses, especially late in the 3rd, the Sons gave up power play and empty net goals to fall 3-0. Though that was undeniably disappointing, the NCS should hold their heads high as finishing second of the 16 international sides is an outstanding result.

Greyson Brewer-Case of the Nickle city Jr sons minor "AA" is off to Newmarket for the International Silver - Stick tournament from Janu-

Aurora Ominika-Enosse had a great road game in Niagara versus the Badgers in the battle for first place. The game ended in a 1-1 tie with lots of excitement on the ice, in the penalty box and even in the stands. In fact, the refs called the game with 2:04 left to go in the 3rd! Thanks to Aurora's beauty goal for the North York Storm on a mesmerizing, spina-rama, the Storm held their position in the standings.

Eagles' Basketball

The C.M.P.S. Jr. Basketball team travelled to Sudbury on November 22nd to participate in the LaSalle Lancers 4 on 4 Fast Break Tournament. Despite the group missing out on collecting any wins the boys did exceptionally well, displaying excellent sportsmanship and facing each game with renewed spirits and positive attitudes! Coach Christa King is very proud of her Jr. Boys, and is looking forward to coaching them for years to come! Consent to sever stymied by Central Manitoulin landfill

MINDEMOYA—The

Municipality of Central Manitoulin held a public meeting on November 23 to consider the application to amend zoning amendment File No. 2-07ZBL – 17- 006. The application was made by the landowner David Schinbeckler who proposed a zoning amendment to fulfill a condition of a Consent to Sever to prohibit residential uses within 60 metres west of the easterly boundary of the proposed severed land.

His reason for doing so was because Raymond McPherson, chief bylaw officer (CBO) for the municipality, advised the Manitoulin Planning Board that the municipality cannot support the proposed severance of Mr.

Schinbeckler's Part Lot 26 due to the proximity to the Mindemoya landfill closed site. The site is undergoing test sampling per Ministry of the Environment and Climate Change (MOECC) guidelines and as Mr. McPherson pointed out, there may be a need for the municipality to acquire land in order to expand the 'attenuation zone' in order to reach compliance with MOECC regulations. The municipality cannot support the issuance of a building permit as the property is within 500m of the fill area.

In October, the municipality informed Mr. Schinbeckler that his consent application can be supported conditional on an amendment to restrict residential uses within 60 metres west of the easterly boundary of the new lot proposed. This would restrict any residential uses within 500 metres of the closed landfill site boundary.

A history of Mr. Schinbeckler's land shows that two new lots have been created and that he proposes to sell the newly created parcel of land for farmrelated residential uses. However, it appeared that the easterly 60 metres of the proposed severed land is within 500 metres of the municipal landfill site and that a condition of consent approval thus requires an approved amendment restricting residential uses within part of the proposed new lot. This land would also still be zoned as rural. If the amendment is approved as proposed, it would also have to be consistent with Section 3.0 of the Provincial Policy Statement (PPS) of 2014, Protecting Public Health and Safety, which states that development shall be directed away from areas natural or humanmade hazards where there is an unacceptable risk to public health or safety or of property damage, and not create new or aggravate existing hazards.

Councillor Dale Scott questioned the feeding and watering of animals on this land and was assured that there is no issue with the Planning Board and that the area in question is outside the 500 metre stipulation. Councillor Alex Baran questioned whether knowledge of the restricted land will be in the bylaw. "How does a future owner learn about the restrictions?" he asked. He was assured by Mr. McPherson that this information will always be on the land title.

It was recommended that the application for the zoning bylaw amendment be approved by council with the provision that the registered plan of survey is received.

Through membership with Green Economy North, area municipalities take stock of energy usage

MANITOULIN—Several Northern Ontario communities are making sustainability a priority with the help of Green Economy North. Starting this fall, the municipalities of Blind River, Northeast Town, Gore Bay, Sables-Spanish Rivers and Billings Township will participate in community-based projects that will help them reduce greenhouse gas emissions.

Through direct support from Green Economy North, these communities will first take an inventory of their current emissions and identify where reductions can be made. Green Economy North will work with the municipalities to identify areas of inefficiencies and suggest improvements and upgrades that will reduce emissions and lower operating costs. Upgrades to lighting and heating systems are examples of possible projects that could have a major return on investment.

"As a community, we are taking steps to protect our environment and control future costs," said Northeast Town Mayor Alan MacNevin. "Our participation with Green Economy North will help us identify opportunities for energy savings and establish benchmarks for future greenhouse gas reductions."

Mayor MacNevin explained that the municipality is applying to funding through Green Economy North to change lighting at the Northeast Town Recreation Centre, which could see savings of up to 74 percent, and replace the aging boiler system that heats up water for the ice surface cleaner to a new on-demand system.

"Green Economy North is will be looking at our energy usage and creating a baseline for what we currently use and setting up a system for measuring improvement moving forward," Mayor MacNevin further explained.

"We're excited to work with Green Economy North to analyze our current energy usage, and discover where we can reduce consumption," said CAO/Clerk-Treasurer Anette Clarke, Town of Gore Bay. "This project is the first step towards our ultimate goal: a full community energy plan that will help guide our municipality in the future."

With the help of funding provided by not-for-profit partner Environmental Defense, this project will also initiate consultations in some communities that will set the framework for a much larger community energy plan. A full community energy plan can help a municipality continually reduce energy consumption and what agencies they were seeking funding from, but did confirm that they had submitted an application to the Community Transportation Grant Program.

The Ministry of Northern Development and Mines (MNDM) announced last Friday that they would be expanding bus service across the North.

"Ontario is launching a new Community Transportation Grant Program to help municipalities, Indigenous communities and other organizations throughout the province provide more travel options in areas that are not served, or underserved by public transit and intercommunity bus," states a press release from the MNDM. "The program will make it more convenient for seniors, students, persons living with disabilities and others to access essential services in their communities, connect with other transportation services and travel between cities and towns."

Through the Community Transportation Grant Program up to $30 million over five years will be available to municipalities, as well, an additional $10 million will be available to Indigenous communities, Indigenous-led organizations and not-for-profit organizations starting in the summer of 2018.

Also as part of the initiative, the Ontario Northland Transportation Commission (ONTC) will increase bus service in the Northeast and will work in collaboration with existing private carriers to introduce service to communities in the Northwest. "The communities that will benefit from this collaboration include Hearst, Hornepayne, White River, Red Lake, Emo, Rainy River, Fort Frances, Atikokan, Red Rock and others," continues the release from the MNDM. "Improved services will provide vital links between communities that will help people living in Northern Ontario travel to medical and personal appointments, attend school, visit with friends and family, and access other essential services."

Mr. Dumas explained that through his employment with the MODC he encountered a number of clients who were struggling to get to appointments and jobs.

"Most of them (clients) don't have driver's licences or vehicles," Mr. Dumas said. "They rely on others to drive them to appointments and around Manitoulin. This sparked the idea that this was a gap in service that needed to be addressed. I began speaking to other service groups and organizations which reaffirmed that this (transportation) is a problem on Manitoulin."

With a background as a management consultant, Mr. Dumas decided to take the project on and approached MODC, asking if they would be the lead on funding applications, to which they agreed.

Mr. Dumas organized a meeting, inviting service providers, organizations and groups from across Manitoulin to attend and provide input on the transportation challenges experienced by their clients and look at a solution collaboratively.

"We discussed a lot of challenges around transportation and potential ideas, but we don't want impose what we see as the solution, that is why the feasibility study is important," said Mr. Dumas. "We need to see what the need is and what the people of Manitoulin want as a solution."

United Manitoulin Transit is awaiting funding through the applications submitted by the MODC on the group's behalf. If funding is obtained, the chosen consultant will undertake the feasibility study, which is to be carried out between January and June 2018.

...South Baymouth, Meldrum Bay cameras monitor

Her guess was that it was part of the Ministry of Transportation's (MTO) new roads monitoring system, which was unveiled earlier this month. Turns out Ms. Gerrard was correct in her assumptions

"The MTO is committed to keeping Ontario's highways as safe as possible during winter weather conditions," Bruce Sedgwick, area contracts engineer for the MTO, Sudbury District, told The Expositor in an email. "Significant efforts are made in order to make Ontario's highways safe and to provide efficient winter maintenance services for the public. The ministry continually reviews standards, new technology, equipment and materials to improve winter maintenance practices. All of these efforts contribute to Ontario's record of having among the safest roads in North America.'

'Ontario uses state-ofthe-art technology to keep highways safe for winter driving, to make sure snow and ice are removed quickly and efficiently and to use salt in an environmentally responsible way," Mr. Sedgwick continued. "The Road-Weather Information System (RWIS) helps to predict winter weather and highway conditions. There are 148 similar installations across Ontario that monitor current conditions and provide site-specific forecasts. This helps maintenance crews prepare the right equipment and materials before a storm, act quickly once the storm arrives and adjust their activities as conditions change. "The RWIS station you observed on Highway 6 in South Baymouth is part of pilot project to test a new type of mini weather station," Mr. Sedgwick explained. "The ministry will install 11 of these weather stations this winter to test their effectiveness to determine if they

There is an existing RWIS installed at 10-Mile Point on Highway 6 in addition to the new unit at South Baymouth, and another is being installed on Highway 540 at Meldrum Bay, added Lara Cantin, MTO regional issues and media advisor, Northeast Region. "The two new mini-stations are part of a pilot program and will provide essential weather and road information at the furthest points of Manitoulin Island. The weather can vary across Manitoulin due to effect of the Great Lakes. It can be sunny and clear in Little Current while an intense snow squall is occurring in South Baymouth. As our winter maintenance equipment deploys from the Little Current, Gore Bay and Mindemova patrol yards, these RWIS stations can provide essential information to our maintenance crews on when and where to deploy equipment. The stations are strategically installed in locations across the province to capture specific weather and road conditions."

The public can access road condition information, including each Road-Weather Information System, by visiting the Ministry of Transportation Traveller Information Services online at www.ontario.ca/511.

"We anticipate the Road-Weather Information System recently installed on Highway 6 at South Baymouth will soon be available on the Ministry of Transportation Traveller Information System," Mr. Sedgwick said. "The ministry has also launched pilot two projects called TrackMyPlow, a web-based service showing where winter maintenance equipment is at work in Ontario and a Winter Driving Conditions Forecast on the Ontario511 website."

'Ruth works tremendously hard for the welfare of this branch," the president continued. "She was presented with a certificate of appreciation in 2015 and a certificate of merit in 2016. Her dedication and loyalty all of these years towards Legion endeavours are immeasurable and boundless. Let us stand and commend this amazing woman."

Comrade Eadie received a Legionnaire of the Year plaque, a bouquet of flowers and a poppy necklace and earring set for her efforts. The large crowd gave her a standing ovation in recognition of her considerable efforts.

Comrade Menard then called up Little Current Lions Bruce Burnett, president, and Mike Dubreuil, treasurer from the Little Current Lions Club.

'On behalf of Branch #177, we are deeply grateful to you for considering us with your Catch the Ace endeavours and profits,' the president said. "You have enabled us to be so much more financially secure. Your donations to the branch have enabled us to secure three GICs (guaranteed income certificates) which gives us great peace of mind and added security for the future of this branch's existence. Rainbow District School Board held a collection day November 30 to help out all food banks in their area, including Manitoulin Island.

'We set up boxes in grocery stores in various locations (around Manitoulin) for food donations," said Ms.

Mathia. "The schools will often do food drivers on our behalf, at Christmas and other times. Teachers will sometimes initiate classroom projects. Last year the Island schools combined to do a stuff a bus collectively in addition to those things. In addition, many of our local churches and community groups self-initiate donations from their group."

'We will have a food bank day where the Christmas food baskets are filled to be given to families in need," said Ms. Mathia.

...permaculture operation receives Premier's Award for innovation

...continued from page 3 for today and tomorrow," said Minister of Agriculture, Food and Rural Affairs Jeff Leal in a release announcing the awards. "I'd like to congratulate this year's recipients and thank them for their commitment to strengthening Ontario's world-class agri-food sector and positioning our province for continued economic growth."

"It is incredibly energizing and affirming," said Mr. Tilson when contacted by The Expositor on Monday.

The award came as a bit of a surprise for the NOPRI team. "I thought it was a bit of a long shot when I applied," admitted Mr. Tilson, "so I wasn't anticipating anything. When I got the word, it came as a surprise."

award's citation The notes that "The Northern Permaculture Ontario Research Institute (NOPRI) is on a mission to supply fresh, nutritious produce to northern communities year-round. To achieve this goal, the not-for-profit organization designed a solar-powered, four-season with greenhouse made recycled materials like "styrocrete"-a blend of concrete and Styrofoam diverted from landfills. This would enhance local production of fresh food throughout all seasons – a benefit to food security, the environment and the promotion of healthier lifestyles. NOPRI has future plans to build multiple micro-greenhouses on Manitoulin Island, allowing local producers to grow crops and raise fish in a controlled environment. The low-cost structures are scalable, helping create food hubs with increased availability of local food in northern communities.'

The award comes with more than just some nice words on a fancy certificate. NOPRI is depositing a nice $5,000 cheque that will help go a long way toward furthering their mission.

"It will pay for the engineering plans for our next prototype," Mr. Tilson

That prototype will be a 960 square-foot greenhouse, location yet to be finalized. The 48 by 20 foot greenhouse will take the NOPRI all-season local food concept to the next level. "That's the goal," said Mr. Tilson. "We are still working on the control sys-

Another bonus of the award was the interest generated the NOPRI work has generated with the energy minister and his office. "It was a good networking opportunity," agreed Mr. Tilson. "We will hopefully see something good come out of that."

The award money will also be used to revamp the NOPRI manufacturing facility's electrical system.

The Northern Ontario Research Permaculture Institute joins a number of Manitoulin businesses and organizations that have received Premier Awards in this category, including two for Manitoulin's Mike Meeker for his work in aquaculture, Manitoulin Streams, Burt Farms and the Northern Ontario Aquaculture Association.

Since 2007, the Premier's Award program received more than 1.700 nominations, with $4.25 million distributed to 525 award-winning innovators. Ontario's agri-food sector supports more than 800,000 jobs and contributes more than $37 billion towards the province's gross domestic product.

The discussions around Indigenous trade and investment going on currently in Canada and United States are being replicated around the world. "I have been working a lot with outfits out of Australia, New Zealand and South America."

One specific thing that is on Ms. Madahbee Leach's mind is the Jav Treaty of 1794—recognized and codified in various US statutes but not agreed to by Canada. The Jay Treaty largely focused on the free movement and trade between Britain and Canada, but it included key elements that have impacted on Indigenous peoples on both sides of the border allowing for free travel into the US for the purpose of trade and employment.

To wit, in the Jay Treaty the British and the US set out that: "It is agreed, that it shall at all times be free to His Majesty's subjects, and to the citizens of the United States, and also to the Indians dwelling on either side of the said boundary line, freely to pass and repass, by land or inland navigation into the respective territories and countries of the two parties on the continent of America (the country within the limits of the Hudson's Bay Company only excepted)... and freely carry on trade and commerce with each other."

"We talked about the Jay Treaty and how that has worked and how some of the work that has been going on in South America has worked." she said. Ms. Madahbee Leach shared a lot of documentation on Indigenous rights and spoke at length about the treaties when she addressed the committee, things that are better understood on one side of the equation, but not so well understood by the broader Parliamentary community.

Another key element of her discussions focused on the high level of unemploy-

"I have to admit there was a trace of a tear in my eye when it was loaded up and headed down the driveway," said David Schinbeckler, of Mindemoya, until recently the doting owner of the iconic vehicle. Mr. Schinbeckler recently sold the vehicle back to Jaguar Land Rover, the United Kingdom's largest car manufacturer, the original manufacturer of the high performance sports car as part of that company's Jaguar E-Type Reborn program. That Jaguar program will see the company hand restore E-Type Jags in its original Coventry manufacturing plant for resale to the public, complete with a full company warranty.

Like most autophiles, Mr. Schinbeckler is a walking encyclopedia about the Jaguar company and is more than willing to share the information he has garnered in his travels with an interested listener.

ment in Indigenous communities and the relatively low-hanging fruit that creating jobs in those communities presents to the broader GDP.

"All we need to do to turn that around is to create 135,000 jobs across Canada in Indigenous communities," she said. "It sounds like a lot, but when you spread it out across the whole country it isn't insurmountable at all." In Ontario, that would mean the creation of less than 20,000 jobs. "It is so easy to do," she said. It is important to note that those numbers include the creation of self-employment opportunities.

One of the first places those jobs could be created that would be to bring education in First Nations communities up to par with the provincial school boards. "Children in our education systems receive two-thirds less than mainstream Canadians," she said. "Once we get proper education and skills development in place a lot of those employment opportunities will open up." The impact on Canadian GDP will be immense.

The Truth and Reconciliation Calls to Action, she notes, lay out a roadmap for economic reconciliation

When it comes to taking that road, one of the first signposts can be found in the realm of government procurement. "Procurement in Canada is $18 billion annually," she said.

While there is a long road ahead, and perhaps the road behind may have been rockier than smooth, Ms. Madahbee Leach was optimistic about the road ahead.

"The openness with which we were received is unprecedented," she said of the reception at the House of Commons committee. "I appreciate that we had that opportunity, to build a relationship. I truly believe that we opened some eyes and had valuable input in the process."

by Sir William Lyons in the 1930s was originally called the Swallow Sidecar Company," he revealed. "It built fairly stylish sidecars for motorcycles." As a natural extension of that business, the company expanded into building car bodies and then full automobiles-one of those models was the Jaguar. With the advent of the Second World War, Sir William's company geared up for full-on war production, throwing itself into the war effort with enthusiastic abandon and changing stripes to manufacture military engines.

"When the war finally ended, Britain was in awful shape, deeply in debt and their economy in shambles, everything was being rationed," said Mr. Schin-beckler. "The government focussed heavily on exports as they were desperate for foreign currency with which to pay back the US for the Lend-Lease program and other war debts." (Under the Lend-Lease program, the still neutral US supplied the Allies with the military wherewithal needed to fend off the Nazis.)

"If you wanted a supply of steel or rubber, it was export or perish," noted Mr. Schinbeckler.

At the close of the war, the automobile company was still called S. S. Cars Limited, but the "SS" moniker held negative connotations due to the dreaded Nazi paramilitary organizations that sported the same prefix. The name was switched to Jaguar, which melded well with the sporty little cars the company planned to sell into a war-weary global market.

British sports cars proved to be a big hit, especially with US servicemen introduced to the zippy little vehicles while serving as part of the occupation forces. "They were buying them up by the bail-load," said Mr. Schinbeckler. "There was nothing like them back home."

A Studebaker Lark was lucky to be able to muster 60 miles per hour "downhill with a tailwind," explained Mr. Schinbeckler. "The British sports cars were already topping 100-120 miles per hour. The British sports car companies could literally not build them fast enough for the market demand."

wood is all about appearances and keeping up with the Joneses," laughed Mr. Schinbeckler.

The British automotive industry hauled that country out of the economic doldrums almost single-handedly as the post-war demand for fast little sports cars manufactured by the likes of MG, Aston Martin (of James Bond fame) and Triumph saw as much as 75 percent of those company's production shipped to North America and around the world.

But back to our story.

"In 1964, we had the XK-120, but dad found out about an E-type that had been in a low-speed head-on collision (under 20 mph)," recalled Mr. Schinbeckler. "The front three-feet of the front end was crumpled, but there isn't really anything in that part of the front end"

The original owner of the car, one Thomas Riddick

Sir William was a canny businessman and he was among the first to recognize the power of celebrity in the US market. This was not as self-evident as might be expected by a 21st century North American, since the cult of celebrity is actually a bit of an anathema to the English—particularly in the mid-20th century before the advent of mass media.

"Clark Gable (a famous movie star of the mid-20th century) was driving his XK up and down Hollywood Boulevard," said Mr. Schinbeckler. "Soon, every A-lister in movieland simply had to have one." Sir William cultivated the

UCCM Police receive cultural training

AUNDECK OMNI KAN-ING—Policing presents a challenging work environment and one that can too often introduce barriers

But even while walking that line, the UCCM police officer is generally a member of the community which they serve. After a day's work, they return as members of the community at large. Having the added strain of fulfilling a role that places them somewhat outside of that community is stressful for family and home life. The cultural training and grounding will hopefully help in building better bridges.

"At the end of the day, you want to go home feeling you have served the community," said Police Chief Nahwegahbow. "The warriors sleep outside of the camp. I give our officers a lot of credit. At the end of the line, our officers want to be helpful and to go home feeling they have done a good job."

Chief Nahwegahbow said that his board is very supportive of the process.

In an effort to create better bridges and congruence between policing responsibilities and the community values, UCCM Anishnaabe Police Service members participated in workshops on cultural restorative practices.

"I had received the training myself a while ago and found it to be very useful," said UCCM Police Chief Rodney Nahwegahbow. "As a stand-alone police force it provides the opportunity to build relationships and understand-

In the training, the officers taking part learned about the role of the clan system, smudging and a host of other cultural aspects as well as the history and impact of the residential school system on traditional Anishinaabe standing of the elements in culture that can have an impact. It is important that we don't find ourselves working against each other, but to open the door to a greater understanding.'

District Services Board announces new low rates for daycare

by Alicia McCutcheon
MANITOULIN—The Manitoulin-Sudbury District Services Board (DSB) has developed a standard set of child care rates which will mean some financial relief to parents who use DSBapproved daycare services.

DSB CAO Fern Dominelli explained that under new provincial legislation, daycares must now be open a minimum of 12 hours per day and should they choose to stay open longer, their provincial funding will be higher. On Manitoulin, while none of the daycares are officially open 12 hours a day, that care can be accommodated by request.

"The biggest challenge is finding qualified staff," Mr. Dominelli told the DSB board at this month's meeting, noting that early childhood educators are often choosing to go to school boards, which offer better pay, or other higher paying jobs rather than work in daycares.

DSB Chair Les Gamble said that parents are often having to work jobs that involve evenings and weekends and that DSB daycares should look to be open on weekends.

Donna Stewart, director of integrated social services, said that this has been discussed, but staffing is an issue. Ms. Stewart explained that a survey will be undertaken soon to see if such a need exists.

Dean Wenborne of French River asked why ECEs don't get equal pay. Mr. Dominelli spoke of the school board's collective agreements, whereas "we have not-for-profit daycare centres, all not for profit," he reiterated. "For them (daycares) to move their salaries, they need stable funding. Our biggest challenge is to get the centres full. There's currently no waiting list."

Mr. Dominelli explained that when the province boosted ECE funding last year by $2 an hour, it appears on the paycheque as a separate line item, not as part of the regular pay. He said work needs to be done to have the $2 incorporated so that should the funding stop, an ECE's rate of pay won't change.

"The salary doesn't drive people to the profession," the CAO admitted.

As of September, the new universal rates for child care centres are as follows: full day, infants, $35; full day, toddlers, $30; full day, pre-school, $25; full day, school age, $20; socialization care, all ages, $15; before and after school care, all ages, $10; after school care, all ages, $10; and before school care, all ages, $5.

The new rates for licenced private home programs are: overnight care, $45; extended day care, $35; full day, $25; half day, $15; before and after school care, $10; after school care, $10; and before school care, $5.

These rates are available at the Little Current Child Care Centre (705-368-3400), Mindemoya Child Care Centre (705-377-5065), Gore Bay Daycare and Assiginack Daycare (both can be reached by calling 705-282-7250), as well as all licenced home care providers on Manitoulin.

These rates will be reviewed annually.

The insurance company wrote off the vehicle, even though it cost $3,000 brand new. "That was a lot of money in the 1960s," said Mr. Schinbeckler. His father wound up purchasing the vehicle for a comparative song.

Following six months of determined research, Mr. Schinbeckler managed to track down the younger Mr. Riddick in La Mesa, California and they struck up a conversation. "I will be meeting him down there in a couple of weeks," he said.

So why was the Jaguar company eager to purchase his particular vehicle?

There are four things that come into play when setting a value on a vintage automobile, noted Mr. Schinbeckler. "The first is the serial number, the earlier the number the more valuable it is. My car rolled off the assembly line on November 3, 1961," he said, very early in the production run. "The second is whether it is a roadster (a ragtop convertible) or a coupe (solid top), with the former being the more desirable. Being a roadster adds 25 percent to the value.

The third important item is "matching numbers." Mr. Schinbeckler explained that just about every key part on a Jaguar had a serial number stamped on it, including body, engine, cylinder head. His numbers match.

Finally, and often most important as any fan of the popular show 'Antiques Roadshow' can tell you, is provenance, the history of the automobile. "Mine is a two-owner car, if you exclude the insurance company," said Mr. Schinbeckler. "It has been in my family for 50 years and, thanks to Thomas Riddick, I have been able to secure a photograph of the original owner in the car."

Mr. Schinbeckler's Jaguar has it all.

The car was originally painted black, Mr. Schinbeckler's father had the restored Jaguar painted red. When fully restored at Jaguar's original Coventry manufacturing plant, the Schinbeckler/Riddick car will once again sport its ebony chic.

So coming to the Gordon Sinclair question (a reference older viewers of CBC's Front Page Challenge will be familiar with): how much did Jaguar pay?

Enough that Jaguar has a full-time scout by the name of Ian Trapp scouring the planet for the best Type-E Jaguars to restore. Mr. Trapp came to visit Mr. Schinbeckler in Mindemoya to look at his vehicle and documentation. Enough that the transfer is now safely ensconced in Mr. Schinbeckler's account despite his deep attachment to the vehicle and the storied part it has played in his family's history and his childhood memories...so how much, queries the ghost of Gord?

"Sorry, that's something that has to remain between me and Jaguar," laughs Mr. Schinbeckler, but he does admit that he has already sunk $50,000 into the restoration and estimates that it would take at least another $50,000 to compete the job.

So, aside from the money, why did he agree to part with the vehicle that means so much?

"Well, I am now a pensioner," he supplied, "and ting any younger. I know that I would have to eventually sell the car and this really seems like the best possible outcome for everyone."

So popular is the E-Type to be realistic, I am not get-

So popular is the E-Type Reborn program with autophiles around the worlds that the German buyer for the vehicle has already been found—Mr. Schinbeckler hopes to meet up with him at the factory when he takes delivery.

"Part of the deal with Jaguar is that I get to take it out for a spin on their test track before it is handed over," he said. "I am hoping to convince Thomas and the new owner to come to the Coventry factory to meet up when it is complete."

That will be a while, Mr. Trapp estimated that the hand-restoration will take between 12 and 18 months to complete.

Following this interview, Mr. Schinbeckler bid The Expositor adieu as he clambered into his current vehicle—as you probably might have guessed, it's a later model Jaguar. The Ferrari was sold last month.

spirituality

In his Rosh Hashana message (September 21, 2017) Rabbi Moshe Miller said: "the theme for this year is: "Who is this coming up from the wilderness leaning on her beloved", "Song of Solomon 8:5. Of course, as with everything else in scripture there is a much wider application. The her in this text is symbolic for the church and the beloved is Jesus and it is not just the coming up from the wilderness that is important, but the entering into the promised land that goes together with this that is more significant. Just like Joshua (Yah-Shua meaning salvation of Yahweh) brought the Israelites out of the wilderness into the promised land, so Jesus is going to bring his church into the Kingdom of God, that will come to earth for which millions have prayed in the Lord's prayer. The name Yahweh (Hebrew Jod-He-Wah-He) is used about 7000 times in the Bible and it is called the tetra gramaton (the four-letter name of God). It is the Hebrew acronym for Yahshua Hanazareth Wemelech Hajehudim which was the superscription on the cross when Jesus was crucified, see JOHN 19:

What most Christians do not realize is that Jesus is Yahweh. He is the God and Lord of the entire Bible and the creator of the universe, see JOHN 1:1-3, COL. 1:15+16, HEBR 1:1+2. This Jesus is the beloved on which this woman is leaning. The word leaning is a sign of trust and dependence. Are you trusting and depending on Yahweh? Another thing that most people don't realize is that Jesus is the word, the Lord who spoke the ten commandments: He is also the Holy Spirit who writes those same ten commandments in the heart in the renewed covenant (Brit Cha Dash). The Hebrew name for the New Testament is Brit Chadash (Chet-Daleth-Shin) the word chadash is translated in PS 103:5 as renewed: "He renewed thy youth like the eagle's". Also in PS 51:10 as renew: "And renew a right spirit with in me." So, the better name for the new testament would be the renewed covenant. And what the new testament is all about is that Jesus came to die so the Holy Spirit might come and do his most glorious work of writing the law (the Decalogue) in the heart of Gods people so establishing the renewed covenant, JER 31:31-33, HEBR 8.8-10, 2 COR 3:3. Notice the covenant is described as the covenant that God made when he brought Israel out of Egypt.

DEUT 4:13: says: "And he (that is Yahweh) declared to you his covenant that he commanded you to perform, that is the ten commandments." The ten commandments start with: "I am Yahweh your God who brought you out of Egypt." 2 CHRON 5:10 says: "There was nothing in the ark but the two tablets (of the covenant) that Moses put there at Horeb, where the Lord made a covenant with Israel when they came out of Egypt." ROM 2:14+15 say: "when the gentiles do what the law requires, they show that the law is written in the heart."

wants to empower people to obey him, EZ.36:27. And when people obey God they fulfill the conditions for receiving Gods blessings DEUT 28:1-15. And the Holy Spirit is available for everyone who confesses his sin, repents, accepts Jesus Christ as Lord and Saviour and gets baptised (completely immersed in water) in the name of Jesus, ACTS 2:38. The new covenant is not a different covenant but it is the exact same covenant that God made with Israel as found in EX. 20 and DEUT 5. And when somebody disobeys any of the ten commandments he rejects the new covenant and the most glorious work of the Holy Spirit.

In REV.12 there is a woman (Israel) she brings forth a man child (Jesus Christ) the woman is persecuted by Satan and flees into the wilderness where she is nourished for time, times and half a time, And Satan starts making war on the rest of her offspring, those who have the testimony of Jesus and keep the commandments of God. Please notice there are two main characteristics that identify true Christians they have the testimony of Jesus and keep Gods commandments.

Please note in DEUT 4:1+2, 6:18, 8:1, 11:8 the keeping (obeying) of the ten commandments is listed as the condition for entering the promised land. This is symbolic for entering the Kingdom of God. Do you want to leave the wilderness of mystery that you are in and enter the Kingdom of God? Then start leaning on your beloved Jesus Christ and start obeying the ten commandments (including the 7th day Sabbath) and that is thus says the Lord. Journey to Bethlehem Journey to Bethlehem celebrates 20 years of sharing the 'greatest story ever told'

by Michael Erskine

MINDEMOYA—Over the last 20 years of its run, it has taken an army of more than 200 volunteers to pull off the wonder that is the Journey to Bethlehem and this year was no exception.

"I can't say enough about the wonderful people who make this happen every year," said organizer Monic Shaw. "Especially those people who you don't ever see, like the folks who spend all week baking cookies and doing things behind the scenes. They are not up front and you hardly ever see them, but they make such a difference every year."

While Friday night is the busiest evening for locals, both nights of the two-night run were packed with people lining up in the unseasonably warm weather to take the journey celebrating the Christmas story.

There were more than 400 people who took in the community theatre presentation again this year. Over the past few years the crowd has been fairly steady, but recent years have seen a drop-off in the number of buses pulling in from other communities.

"There used to be a lot of church groups who organized trips to see the Journey to Bethlehem, but buses are so expensive now," noted Ms. Shaw. "It's cheaper to just have a bunch of people jump in a van to come over"

There were visitors from Sudbury, from Capreol and across the Valley, from across the North Shore and beyond who made the trip, and not all were just coming to see the show. "We have people from Sudbury and Lively who come to help each year," said Ms. Shaw.

Once again Gary Brown and family could be found driving the bus between the parking lot at the Mindemoya Missionary Church and Our Lady of Canada Roman Catholic Church where the start of the trail begins.

A host of period costumed actors and musicians entertained folks with a play depicting the story of the interaction between Herod and the Three Wise Men, a sing-along led by Tara Bernatchez and Maurice Labelle, and the shepherd garb-clad band led by Jeff Pyette kept everyone entertained while they waited their turn to be guided down the trail—tax bills in hand and ready to be enumerated in the great census ordered by the Roman Caesar.

Along the way, angels sang out their songs of praise, while shepherds guided their flocks by night, threading their way through grumpy Roman guards, pitiful beggers and lepers, all the while being cajoled by insistent merchants and an army of thieves intent on relieving the pilgrims of the precious gold needed to pay their taxes.

At the end of the line lies the inn, behind which the stable containing the live babies playing the baby Jesus can be found.

Although this was the 20th anniversary of the start of Mindemoya's Journey to Bethlehem, the troupe did not set up any special celebration of the landmark date. "It's enough to get everything organized," laughed Ms. Shaw. "We just concentrated on putting on a show."

Ms. Shaw was also effusive in her praise of the youth who help out with the production. "They are so amazing, so helpful," she said.

This year's Journey to Bethlehem was once again a major hit with attendees, despite the sometimes lengthy wait that taking the journey can entail. "The last family probably went through just before 11 pm," said Ms. Shaw. "People are amazingly patient."

But they never leave disappointed, as the wait is always time well spent.

The three magi take a well deserved break from their exertions chasing the Christmas star to its holy destination. The Persian-style rug added a nice touch to the ambiance of their campsite.

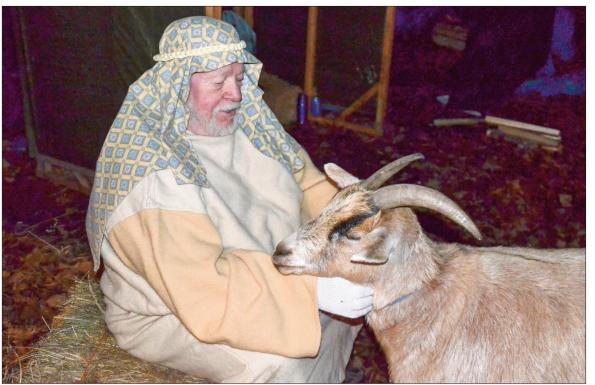

One of the top highlights of the Journey to Bethlehem is the final stop at the simple manger containing Mary and the baby Jesus, played each year by an area mother and child.

The market scene is always a hectic rite of passage for pilgrims on the Journey to Bethlehem.

ABOVE: One of the great things about living in a rural community is that the animal actors are definitely warm to the touch, like this cooperative goat.

LEFT: Cranky Roman guards stand ready to harass the weary pilgrims on their way to Bethlehem. The actors took to their roles with a gusto.

Thanks to Manitoulin and SHARE, a school will be built in Nicaragua. According to UNESCO, in Nicaragua the average person lives on less than $2 per day, are only able to attend school for less than 5 years, and many children are forced into child labour. Education is the number one com-

A huge cheer went out on Wednesday, November 29 from the MSS students and staff involved in SHARE (Students Helping All 'Round Everywhere). Thanks to the generous silent auction contributions of Island businesses, including the Anchor Inn and Hotel, Avon, Borderline, Breakaway Sports, Dreamer's Cove, Elliott's Restaurant, Guardian Family, Island Jar, Jocelyn Kuntsi, Karlene Scott, Manitoulin Fragrance Company, Manitowaning Home Hardware, Manitowaning Loco Beanz, My Ol' Blues, Nack's, Napa, Rain Barrel, Robertson IDA, Trish Leeson, Turner's, 'Tween the Lakes Pork, and the many visitors who attended and bid on items at the MSS Christmas Craft Sale SHARE/Go-Green was able to make a huge $2,000 donation towards the construction of a school in Nicaragua on Giving Tuesday. This amount was multiplied 5X by an anonymous corporate sponsor, resulting in a total donation of $10,000. The students are discussing the possibility of travelling to Nicaragua on a service trip to participate in the actual construction of the school.

Now SHARE focuses its attention on the Christmas hampers on Manitoulin and the Brick-by-Campaign to build a school in Tanzania. Businesses and individuals can sponsor a Brick for a toonie to help build a school in Tanza-

Way to go, class!

Central Manitoulin Public School (CMPS) has always been known for its generosity, and this year's Grade 4 class is no exception! Working hard together the Grade 4 class was able to collect 25 boxes for Operation Christmas Child this year. This initiative brings Christmas tidings and gifts to those less fortunate. This venture tied into our Character Trait learning and helped students better understand the concept of empathy through helping. We would like to thank Laila Kiviaho for contacting us again this year and picking up our boxes. We would especially like to thank all of the parents, students, and staff, who donated articles and full boxes to this wonderful cause! You are truly making a difference by brightening a child's Christmas! - The Grade 4 class ing onto provincials.

On November 29, a group of nine girls travelled to the Carpenters Union Training Facility in Azilda for a workshop on drywall installation. The girls got a "Sisters in the Brotherhood" t-shirt and other swag items. Hard hats, toe caps and safety glasses were provided, fully equipped tool belts were waiting and the girls learned how to properly install drywall. This included cutting out windows, plugs and pipes. Opportunities in the construction trades were highlighted as well as the urgent need for skilled labour.

Even though the winter weather hasn't come yet, the MSS Mustangs are getting ready for the Christmas season by giving back to the community and representing Manitoulin. 'Til next time, stay golden, Mustangs.

Manitoulin Streams launches gift catalogue in time for Christmas

by Robin Burridge MANITOULIN-Manitoulin Streams Improve-Association has launched the 'Everyone family, free of charge.

Lives Downstream' gift-giving catalogue, just in time of the holiday season.

"These days it seems more people are forgoing giving traditional gifts of 'stuff' to loved ones and instead giving meaningful gifts that support causes close to their hearts,

Children Shop Free event on this weekend by Robin Burridge MINDEMOYA—Children from across Manitoulin are invited to the Children Shop for Free event this Saturday, December 9 at Trinity United Church Manitoulin. Children under the age of 12 are able to attend the shopping event and choose Christmas gifts for all members of their

"We are pleased to once again be offering the Children Shop for Free event," said Marian Sloss, of the Trinity United Church (formerly Mindemoya United Church). "The event is coming along really well. We have a lot of donations but we will be setting up on Thursday to see exactly how much we have and have some funding to purchase more if needed."

"We are still accepting gently used items for children, men, ladies, boys, girls and pets," Ms. Sloss added.

Ms. Sloss said that a number of new volunteers have come forward this year and that the community-wide event is always well attended.

Children can shop for free this Saturday, December 9 from 11 am to 1 pm at Trinity United Church (6070 King Street, Mindemoya). Children under 12 are welcome to come and shop for parents, grandparents, brothers and sisters. Volunteers will on hand to help smaller children shop, while the parents enjoy cooking and refreshments. There are also wrappers are on hand to wrap the gifts.

The annual event was started by the late Marion Seabrook and has been continued in memory of her famed community spirit.

For more information or to donate items, call Marian Sloss 705-282-2816, Willie Munro 705-282-8541 or Tom McQuay at 705shared Seija Deschenes, project coordinator for Manitoulin Streams. "Here at Manitoulin Streams we are excited to offer you the opportunity to give back to Manitoulin's natural landscape by purchasing a gift on behalf of a loved one that will benefit the Island."

Ms. Deschenes explained that the gift-giving catalogue is filled with "great ideas that will help support our work at Manitoulin Streams."

"I guarantee that you will find something perfect for everyone on your list," she said. "Don't just limit yourself to the holiday seasonwhat about a gift for a wedding, anniversary, birthday, house warming party or in memory of a loved one or thank you present."

When you purchase an item, the recipient of the gift will receive a certificate stating the gift you purchased on their behalf and in support of Manitoulin

Streams. Manitoulin Streams is a registered charity and contributions made over $25 toward the purchase of the gifts is tax deductible and a receipt will be provided.

The gifts are divided into several categories including: enhance stream habitat, in-stream structure; riparian habitat and erosion control material; native trees, shrubs and grasses; livestock stream access restriction; and education investment.

Examples of gifts are: large boulders, $50, which are placed in streams in groups to provide stream habitat and create local scouring by increasing flow velocity around the boulders; coconut coir matting, $40, used for controlling bank erosion; native trees (Eastern white cedar, white or red oak, white pine, silver maple, white birch, tamarack or white spruce), $25; and educational signs, $150, placed along sections of restored streams to inform the public of the work and its benefit.

There are over 25 different gift options ranging in price from $25 up to $800.

"Purchasing a gift from this catalogue is a simple process and in doing so you can be confident that your donation is going towards something important keeping Manitoulin Island's lakes, rivers and natural habitats healthy for generations to come," concluded Ms. Deschenes. "Whether through direct rehabilitation of degraded land and rivers or by helping educate Manitoulin's community on healthy land practices, your donation is helping the environment."

More information and the Everyone Lives Downstream' gift catalogue are available on the Manitoulin Streams website, manitoulinstreams.com.

Tehkummah Talk and Times

Lorna and Robert's holiday spirit welcomed us into their home once again for the annual Christmas feast. Our U.C.W. is growing smaller, we have lost both Mum and Reta this past year. Audrie stayed home, and Bev was having eye problems. So, just Lynda, Martin, Noreen, Reg. Pauline, Wayne, Joan and I. Potluck style, enough delicious food for twice as many. We never did get to an actual meeting, just the gift and card exchange after a leisurely meal and much conversation. Thanks so much for the hospitality and all the preparation and decoration! Just great, just beautiful. I took my leftover meat dish down to Cal's, fed him supper.

Six tables today at cribbage. We do have a lot of fun and good cooking too: high hand, Simon, 24, a tie for first place; Graham and Sheila, Laura and Patrysha, 950; third, Cal and I, 936; low, Doris and Vi, 831; door, Graham Florence and Ruth McDonald.

Birthday wishes to Cal Pyette, December 1; Janet Knechtal, 2; Kathy Hill, November.

I've been doing some singing! Do you know the words of some of the cowboy songs are different than now, Mum's Cowboy songbook from 1937. Then some songs we sang for Manitowaning's Canada 125 celebration in 1992. The sisters are finding some interesting stuff as they clean a hundred years of memories and keepsakes. I guess I inherited it honestly. But it does make one think?

Thursday afternoon 4.5 tables for Bid Euchre: Patrysha, first, 252; Glenn, second, 257; Lyla, third, 250; low, Myrna, 17?; door, Hugh.

low, Myrna, 17?; door, Hugh. Hey, I can see clearly now the fog is gone! It's amazing.

I must have an exceptionally sad face and attitude, people buy me stuff and give me things, thank you all so very much! Framed poem (my own), lunch, and nice new Skecher shoes, and this is just Tuesday! June and Rob McDougall are babysitting a cute black Pekinese. They have colds/coughs (not the dog) hard to shake.

Hey, I forgot about the Sketches of Manitoulin cards too, thanks.

Good to see Fran and Joe on Saturday at the hall.

Friday too, I was in at Julia and Wayne's midtown abode, and met their cat family. They've got a nice cozy place (both). Everybody is getting ready for Christmas (but me)?

Coming up South Baymouth's Little School House Museum is having a Carol Sing next Sunday 1 pm to 3 pm. Food goodies, refreshments and some lovely draws, ya'll come

I have been reading and reading books and booklets of inspirational works and poetry. Most of it came back to me, things I had given to Mum over the years, so far, the oldest read is from 1971, can't wait to see what the girls put in the box and bag? This poem was in one, Mum may have written it!

There's a time to get and a time to give

And a time to throw away. There's a time to do a kindly deed

And that time is today.
There's a time to sing and a time to mourn

A time for joy and sorrow. There's a time to love But the time to hate, may better be tomorrow.

There's a time to sleep
And a time to wake.
A time to work and play
But the time to speak an evil thought

Passed by yesterday.

I took Cal to Grill and Chill for his birthday lunch, so he'd be free if he got another invitation for supper with "birthday cake" even! I went for a ride with him out to Finns, until now, never knew where it was situated. I guess the fuel is much cheaper there.

At the laundromat, he killed time until his doctor's appointment.

Pauline and Susan were yard saling (inside) some of Mum's belongings, and she belonged to a lot of stuff!

Saturday too, took advantage of the Christmas Fair across the road and they sold some more things. It was good to see Helen there with Bertha and Eileen. Lots of vendors, fairly busy. They ran out of soup by noon, I hear.

I took the girls out for supper as they have been so busy at Mums apartment. Keeping things organized, husbands too. Keeping the home fires, and all that. Carol is looking good, but has to rest for a bit. They had a big lot of folk celebrating in the big room.

How can days be so busy, long, and yet I accomplished nothing (much)? Started my day with a sea salt bath. Soon I checked in at the family yard sale going again today (Sunday). Sisters back and busy. Over to the Hall breakfast with Santa who had to put up with mostly "old" kids.

The breakfast was good, I sat with Cal, Lloyd and Lois, Sherry and Dave. Soon time for church. Communion Sunday at St. Andrews By the Sea.

Lorrie treated me to my coffee.

When I did get home, I moved a couple of flower pots, brush etc. outside but my bones wouldn't let me finish the job. Cal calls. Soon were at Carol's and Earls for supper. We sat with Tara, Ray, and Skylar. Soon back at Cal's. Gib and Florence came for cards. The girls were best tonight! I called Kim as there was a message just checking on me. Jean Livingston, sorry I missed your calls, but I don't have your number.

Hey, at least I've slept more than two hours in a row. Do they come in rows?

Robbie's doing a fundraiser for the food bank (I think) this weekend!

Providence Bay News and Notes

It's been noticed that Huron Sands has shut down for the season. It's an unusual occurrence, but a much deserved break for Stu and Agnes. We sure hope that the local convenience store and motel will reopen when the tourists return.

Last week's euchre results are as follows: First place, Laura and Bill with 89. Second place, Laurene and Dave with 86; third place, Marg and Marlaine with 81; fourth place, Fred and Bev with 81; Low was George and Gayle with 46; lone hands was Laura and Bill with eight. Please note: weekly euchre until December 12. No euchre tournament in December, and euchre starts on January 9.

A reminder out there to all, that even though the Christmas season is upon us, remember that there are still some scammers and unscrupulous people who will try to take advantage of others to benefit themselves. Unfortunately, the people that they usually try to rob or take advantage of are our seniors. Please be careful who you allow into your home. Do not give out credit card or banking information to anyone.

More Christmas decorations have been spotted around the village. It's really looking quite festive. There are even red bows along the boardwalk. It looks so nice that a snowy owl was spotted flying above the beach and landed on the boardwalk railing to rest and admire the beauty of it all.

The Canadian Coast Guard ship was seen in the bay collecting the buoy marking the entrance to our bay. It's such an impressive sight to see since it's such a large ship.

Don't forget to attend the monthly breakfast at the Providence Bay Curling Club being held Thursday, December 7 from 7 to 9 pm.

Happy birthday wishes go out to both Les and Elsie Glanville who celebrate on December 11th and 12th respectively.

If you have something that you would like to contribute to the Providence bay News and Notes, please let us know. We know the amazing people and things that happen in our community but let's allow everyone to know. If there is an upcoming birthday, anniversary, fundraiser or celebration, please let us know. You can email Cheryl prov_chick@hotmail.com or call her at 705-862-1613. Submissions must be received by each Sunday at 3 pm for submission in the following Wednesday publication of the paper. We look forward to hearing from you.

Minerals for cattle

Minerals are essential for the proper functioning of your cattle and problems can arise when the feed does not supply enough to meet the animals' requirements. This can occur because the feed is low in mineral, the availability of the mineral is low, or another mineral or nutrient is interfering with the animal's ability to absorb or use the mineral.

Macro-minerals are those that are required in relatively large amounts by the animals. These include calcium, phosphorus, magnesium, sulphur, potassium and salt. They are each available to some degree in each of the animal feeds but there can be a wide range in variability even within the same feed type. Most home grown feeds and forages normally contain adequate amounts of magnesium, potassium and sulphur and because of this the two macro-minerals, aside from salt, that receive the most attention are calcium and phosphorus.

Most forages are good sources of calcium, although some, like cereal forages and corn silage, are marginal to low in this mineral. Grain on the other hand, is a poor source of calcium. Deficiency can lead to bone abnormalities and reduced milk production. Cases of milk fever in beef cows are not as prevalent as they are among dairy cattle, but some cases are reported every year. Most forages are marginal in phosphorus content whereas grain is a good source of this element. Phosphorus deficiency can cause poor reproductive performance which shows up as irregular heat cycles and reduced fertility. Other symptoms are reduced feed intake, depraved appetites and, in severe cases, bone fractures. Proper utilization of phosphorus depends on an adequate supply of vitamin D. It is important to know that there is also an optimal relationship between calcium and phosphorus. The calcium: phosphorus ratio should not be less than 1.5:1 (1.5 parts calcium to 1 part phosphorus) nor greater than 7:1. Feeds do not contain enough salt (sodium chloride) to meet the needs of livestock and an adequate supply must be available at all times. Feed analysis is the easiest method for determining which minerals the feed is low in, and is invaluable in helping to determine which mineral mix will best meet your needs.
