The Expositor's Mike Brock helps bring Olympics coverage to Canadians

TORONTO—The Tokyo Summer Olympic Games get underway this Friday, July 23 and The Expositor's own Mike Brock will have a special hand in bringing Islanders some of that coverage through his role as a producer for CBC Sports.

This is Mr. Brock's second Olympic Games. He was responsible for helping to bring us the Winter Olympics hockey coverage from South Korea in 2018 as well as the Paralympic Games that same year.

Mr. Brock has a background in broadcast and sports, so what better fit for an Olympic producer? He explains that he graduated with a BA in English from Western where he was also a member of the swim team. He went on to study

ism, then, 10 years later, completed a master's degree from that same institution.

Following his first stint at Ryerson, Mr. Brock was lucky enough to grab a coveted spot on the team that brings you The National each night from CBC's Toronto head-

"I had a sports background, so I had a chance to write sports for the national newsroom," he tells The Expositor.

He recalls his first-ever sports gig as a producer. He was assigned to cover a friendly cricket match in Toronto between India and Pakistan. Knowing nothing about cricket, he purchased a book and began

Ontario Chief Coroner says First Nation citizens more likely to die in fires

Ontario Regional Chief Glen Hare states "we're past talking about this"

by Tom Sasvari

BAY—Nishnawbe Aski Nation (NAN) grand council chief Alvin Fiddler and Ontario Regional Chief Glen Hare have identified key priorities for major improvements to fire safety and prevention following the release of a report by the Chief Coroner of Ontario highlighting how poor housing conditions and a critical lack of fire presentation services are having devastating effects in First Nations communities.

"This report by the Chief Coroner for the province confirms what our leaders have been saying for years. Far too many innocent lives have been lost in tragic house fires that may have been prevented if basic safety measures were in place, and if homes were constructed to provincial

Mobile food hub for Island gets financial boost

by Michael Erskine

AUNDECK OMNI KANING-Years of effort by Local Food Manitoulin advocates and volunteers aimed at creating a solution to food insecurity on Manitoulin Island received a critical boost through a $241,000 injection of capital for its mobile food hub project from the Government of Canada's $31 million Healthy Communities Initiative. The funding flowed through the Community Foundations of Canada (CFC).

standards," said NAN Grand Chief Alvin Fiddler in a release. "Everyone should be able to go to bed and expect to see their families in the morning, and it is unacceptable that our children are at such high risk. We have identified priorities and will look to our provincial and federal treaty partners to support the work that must be done to improve fire safety and prevention.'

"You know we are past talking about this," stated Glen Hare, Ontario regional chief when contacted by The Expositor last Friday. "We have been working with NAN discussing the needs of the First Nation communities. We have made it known that First Nations need to know that the resources are going to be put in place towards capacity in each First Nation."

"The federal government can afford to build pipelines from one province to the other throughout the country, but if we cannot build water lines and capacity for each of our First Nations, then changes are needed," said Regional Chief Hare. "It's a fire risk."

Regional Chief Hare said, "we have the most water, in Ontario, of any province in Canada. Hous-

Hunters could face tag denial should they fail to report their hunting season results

ONTARIO—The Ontario Federation of Anglers and Hunters (OFAH) is in support of a proposal by the Ministry of Northern Development and Mines. Natural Resources and Forestry (MNRF) to establish a financial penalty being imposed on hunters for failing to submit a mandatory hunting report.

"The goal of the OFAH is supporting sustainable wildlife management and limiting barriers to hunting," said Keith Munro of OFAH when contacted by The Expositor last week.

A ministry environmental bill of rights (EBR) posting of July 9 explains, "we are proposing to introduce an automatic financial penalty for hunters who fail to submit their mandatory hunter

Gore Bay decides to ticket, fine downtown parking infractions

by Tom Sasvari

GORE BAY—The Town of Gore Bay will soon be ticketing people who continue to park in no parking areas, one example being in front of the Canada Post office downtown.

"At the last general government meeting there was discussion implementing more enforcement on parking violations," said Arthur Moran, town bylaw enforcement officer at a council meeting last week. "In my follow up I looked to determine the process we could use. I looked at another municipality that issues tickets but has no formal follow up to it (to collect fines).

"The other option I was looking into was to set up a system using POA (Provincial Offences Act) I would hand out the ticket to violators of the no parking bylaws and they (POA) would issue the fine notice," said Mr. Moran. He explained the activation fee to the Old Mill Heritage Centre finally gets to unveil its Empress of Ireland exhibit

KAGAWONG—The story of the ship that is known as Canada's Titanic has arrived at the Old Mill Heritage Centre in Kagawong. The Empress of Ireland, and the marine disaster that it was involved in, with 1,012 passengers and crew perishing on board is one of the featured new displays at the museum this summer. Other new displays include one on Stan Gordon Sr., long time clerk of the Township of Billings and Allan East, and a War of 1812 uniform.

"We haven't even opened yet but we have had a lot of response to the Empress display with people indicating that they are looking forward to the opportunity of visiting to see the display (with the museum having opened the display on its first day, July 16)," said Rick Nelson, museum curator, earlier last week.

The Empress of Ireland was a passenger ship that sank on May 29, 1914 east of Quebec City, just two years after the sinking of the Titanic. Built in 1906, the Canadian Pacific vessel was making its 96th run across the Atlantic to Liverpool when disaster struck at the mouth of the St. Lawrence River. It was broadsided by another vessel, the

Known as "Canada's Titanic," the Empress of Ireland sank in 1914 after colliding with a collier. The exhibit based on the tragedy is one Norwegian collier (coal carrier) Storstad which collided with the ocean liner while navigating thick fog in the Gulf of St. Lawrence during the early hours of May 29, 1914.

The ship foundered within 15 minutes with the loss of 1,012 people on board.

Although the ship was equipped with more than enough lifeboats for all onboard, The Empress of Ireland capsized so quickly it was nearly impossible to launch them. The ship capsized so fast passengers didn't even have time to climb stairs while escaping out of their cabins. Apparently, the first divers to reach the sunken wreck 100 feet down saw people's faces sticking out of portholes.

To say the display that the Old Mill has on display of the Empress is captivating would be a huge understatement. Having this display is quite a coup for the heritage centre, one that should not be missed.

The museum has secured numerous artifacts from the Museum of History in Gatineau, Quebec and many items from the private collection of Guy D'Astous, a private collector and a professional diver, who has dove the actual wreck 35 times over the years. Mr. D'Astous arguably has

by Tom Sasvari

GORE BAY—The second annual Gore Bay Rotary Club Bay to Bay Century (100 miles) bicycle ride will be taking place next month and it is hoped that many riders will take part in the event. Proceeds raised from the ride will be going toward two very worthwhile causes on Manitoulin Island.

"Bicycling is a very healthy activity that all members of a family can do that helps keep you out of the hospital,' stated Rotarian Peter Carter, who helped spearhead the initial Bay to Bay Ride in 2020.

'This will be our second Bay to Bay (Century) Ride," Mr. Carter told The Expositor last week. "We have a different route this year that will bring more visibility to the beauty of Manitoulin Island.'

The century ride will start at Split Rail Brewing Company, one of the sponsors of the ride, in Gore Bay, and out to Perivale, through Spring Bay and Providence Bay down Government Road, then loop around on the road through Tehkummah, Sandfield and Big Lake back to Mindemoya to Cross Hill Road, through M'Chigeeng First Nation and then returning, explained Mr. Carter.

Registration for taking part in the Century Ride is $75. The ride will take place August 21.

Mr. Carter also pointed out, "there will also be a community family fun/children's ride which will be free for families to take part in. The riders will start at the splash pad in Gore Bay, and ride down Lakeshore Road to the Janet Head

There is a 100 kilometre ride from Gore Bay to Provi-Lighthouse and back. Light refreshments will be available at the splash pad after the riders come in."

"All of this is being done for the betterment of the people in the community and the Island," stated Mr. Carter.

Proceeds from the event will go to two worthy local causes, said Mr. Carter. "There will be two benefactors from the

Billings council approves purchase of professional boards for outside rink

by Tom Sasvari

KAGAWONG—Billings township council is in support of purchasing professional rink boards for the outdoor rink as recommended by the township parks, recreation and wellness (PRW) committee.

At a Billings council meeting last week, Councillor Sharon Jackson provided a report from the June 28 meeting of the PRW committee. "The primary focus for discussion was the outdoor rink. Public works crew removed the wooden beams around the perimeter of the rink, along with the bleachers and steps due to their deteriorating condition several weeks ago. Due to the ongoing construction taking place for the Main Street Hill project, most other work has been on hold until their crew is able to make the space available for us again.'

"Tiana (Mills, deputy clerk) provided an estimate from a Quebec-based company for rink boards including installation which came in at around $53,000," said Councillor Jackson. "This committee had made a request to council to include $40,000 in its draft budget for this material. The request was accepted, however the budget has not yet been presented to council for approval. The difference between the approved amount and the estimate is one that would have to be potentially covered through fundraising efforts of the committee. Donations from business and private individuals are welcome. Donations received to date are

A recommendation had been made by the committee for council authorizing the purchase of the professional rink boards from Permafib including delivery and installation at a cost of $53,444.54.

"I highly recommend we do this," stated Councillor Sharon Alkenbrack. "This is a really nice rink, and we need to make it as functional as possible so we are not always trying to move it (to another location). And it is another activity being provided for kids and families. We have a diverse community so not everyone uses the rink, but there is a lot that do, it is important."

"We have the opportunity for a skating rink that will be safe and last for a number of years," said Councillor Jackson. She noted the pandemic had an effect on everyone, but the outdoor skating rink helped bring the community together. "I would support the rec-

Line 5 mediation likely to wrap up by August's end

by Michael Erskine

MACKINAC, Mich.—The fate of Enbridge's Line 5 submarine pipeline that crosses the Straits of Mackinac is currently in the hands of a court-approved mediator. That mediator recently announced in Western District Court documents the State of Michigan and Canadian energy giant Enbridge inc. will meet again August 11.

The pipeline was ordered closed by Michigan Governor Gretchen Whitmer in November, but Enbridge has disputed the state's jurisdiction, holding that the pipeline falls under federal jurisdiction. Governor Whitmer maintains that the pipeline presents a potential environmental disaster should it leak into the Great Lakes. Endbridge points out that the dual pipeline has operated safely since its construction in 1953 and has offered up an alternative to the submarine pipeline in the form of a tunnel.

The proposed pipeline would be built entirely with private funding and would be constructed hundreds of feet below the lakebed, which Endbridge maintains would alleviate any spill concerns.

Canada has filed an intervention in the case, warning that cancelling the pipeline would damage its relationship with the US and undermine future US foreign policy decisions. The pipeline terminates at refineries in Sarnia, Ontario and thousands of jobs on both sides of the border are dependent on the pipeline.

Canada argues the issue should be resolved through bi-lateral talks centred on the terms of a 1977 treaty that specifically covers pipelines that cross the border. Both Canada and the US have been holding biweekly meetings on the issue.

The current court proceedings are centred on where jurisdiction for the pipeline lies. Michigan has cited its responsibility for public safety and, by extension, the environment as paramount in the jurisdictional arguments. Those arguments are based in jurisprudence that dates all the way back to the days of the Roman Empire and are foundational to both European and North American law.

Manitoulin's remarkable inoculation record inspires

As the storm clouds of pandemic restrictions begin to part thanks to rising vaccination levels across the province, Manitoulin Island stands head and poked shoulders above the crowd when it comes to the number of jabs received. That record speaks volumes about the Island and its people.

Vaccinations are critical to getting the nation's lives back to some semblance of order and will play a vital role in helping to stave off the kind of fourth wave induced by new and more virulent versions of the COVID-19 virus that is impacting much of the rest of the globe.

It is no coincidence that the number of cases of the pandemic discovered on Manitoulin have remained well in check. In addition to some of the highest vaccination numbers to be found in any district in the province, the population in general, and businesses in particular, have taken to precautionary efforts fueled primarily by concern for the most vulnerable.

Those among us eschewing masks in confined spaces remain few and far between, while hand sanitizer use is near universal at store entrances. Store employees have not only remained vigilant in sanitizing shopping carts, doors and counters between customers, but have generally served as ambassadors of kindness in greeting customers as they enter establishments—often providing one of the few social links for isolated elders.

Masks largely protect others, helping to contain the spread of airborne particles, and their near ubiquitous use speaks volumes for the caring society that is Manitoulin.

The Northeast Town's recent community picnic approached near-normal, with children laughing and playing under a bright summer sun as an army of masked volunteers and staff provided well-spaced activities across the breadth of Low Island.

But the battle is not over yet. Those same children running across the grass with shouts of glee do not yet qualify for vaccinations and so remain vulnerable, especially given the new variants that are fueling the current fourth wave in the US. While children seem to be less impacted by the virus, there have been several deaths among youth that should fuel caution going forward.

So, while Manitoulin can rightfully feel pride in how the pandemic has been met upon its shores, we do not have to look far to see the results of a premature lowering of our guard.

Most of the precautions that have been put in place across the province have been aimed at preventing the medical system from becoming overwhelmed and those precautions have largely proven to be effective—not only in keeping the pandemic in check, but also in reducing the impact of the annual flu season.

The light at the end of the COVID-19 tunnel has finally hove into view—but we must continue to use measured caution to ensure that light is a return to the light and not the oncoming locomotive impact of a fourth wave.

Together, caring and vigilant, we will reach a more complacent time—but that time is not yet come. Stay safe, stay sane and keep washing those hands for the sake of the children and those unable to vaccinate. Above all, remain compassionate and be kind.

Cherished memories linked inextricably to Big Lake schoolhouse

This is our community centre, playground, event hall and community gathering place

To the Expositor:

I am writing to bring forward my concerns as a member of the next generation regarding the possible closure of the Big Lake Schoolhouse.

Since I was a child, the Big Lake Schoolhouse has been an important part of my life and my memories. Growing up, my Nana was dedicated to preserving our local history, and bringing our community together. To do this, her and many others spent countless hours working together and donating their time to put together countless dinners such as fish dinners and the Hillbilly Steak Dinners along with the pancake breakfasts. These meals allowed people island wide to gather, enjoy good food, good music, and delicious desserts. The proceeds from these events would either be put towards upgrading and maintaining the historical building by putting in a restaurant grade kitchen and a ramp, or they would be donated to important causes and foundations around our beautiful Island

The memories I cherish from my time spent in that building are all things I hope that my future family can experience also. From waking up at 5 am to help my Nana prepare for the huge dinner that night to baking pies the night before to make up for the missing ones she couldn't find others to bake. From doing all this alongside my Nana, my Poppa, Marjorie Young, Rita Moody and many others, I know I have gained life experience that has shaped me into who I am today, and I wouldn't change it for the world.

To some the Big Lake Schoolhouse may seem to be just another building, but to many this is our community centre, our local playground, our event hall, our community gathering place. This building is the heart of our community and all of its members whether they live here all year long, part time or lived here long ago can agree on one thing, to sell this beautiful and important piece of local history would be a tremendous mistake.

Big Lake community worked long and hard for schoolhouse

Shame on those who would even consider selling the sole location for social gatherings

To the Expositor:

Sad to see that the Central Manitoulin council is neglectful of Big Lake's only historical hall (the old school) where so many memories were made and the only source of entertainment for the community, let alone historical value.

My wife, Pearl, and all her brothers and sister went to school there. tion and everyone in the community could make use of the hall, social place that the Big Lake community has for social gatherings. gatherings, fundraising barbecues, fish fries, pork roasts, steak suppers, etc.

The hall was used for the meetings for establishing the Sandfield Big Lake Fire Department which came in existence after a lot of hard work fundraising. We also got a group together to play music by the name of The Manitoulin Ramblers, to raise money for the fire department. My wife Pearl and I celebrated our 50th wedding anniversary there in

Card parties were held there until longer permitted due to the COVID After closure, the Women's Institute, the Big Lake Community Associa- outbreak. Shame on the present council to even consider to sell the only

Technology is pulling the planet onto a path to destruction

To the Expositor:

While citizens are trying to fight climate change and pollution we have these two idiots who are complaining who will reach the furthest into space in their personal rockers; they are just creating more pollution, nothing to be proud of. Then we have people cheering them on, what a bunch of fools.

I pay more attention to what is going on here on earth. I can see that our droughts are getting more severe and our farmers are struggling to grow their crops. Even sometimes losing their crops due to drought and this could lead to food shortages. Droughts are happening everywhere. These lead to wild fires, and they are worsening too. Our Mother Earth is catching on fire and there is no escape to it, no matter how filthy rich somebody is they will not escape.

I'm a thinker too and when they are trying to fight climate change and pollution all I see is stupidity how they are trying to fight it. Even these environmentalists, they are just part of the problem too. I keep up to date with everything and I'm very different from everybody else because I never turn to the left or right in life, because if I do, I would start making mistakes. I think they are just watching too many science fiction movies then they are coming up with all kinds of crazy ideas.

Also, I can see how this technology is turning our world upside down into the path of destruction. I think people cannot even see this, they are just being blind sighted with this technology from truth and its luxury way this is.

Tourism minister launches rediscover Ontario campaign on Manitoulin

by Michael Erskine

MANITOULIN—Heritage, Sport, Tourism and Culture Industries Minister Lisa MacLeod chose Manitoulin Island to launch her 10-day 're-discover Ontario tour.'

"Tourism has been the hardest hit and will take the longest to recover," Minister MacLeod told The Expositor during a lunch stop at Little Current's Manitoulin Brewing Company (MBC). "Northern Ontario seemed to me to be a key place for me to start."

Indigenous Tourism Ontario president and CEO Kevin Eshkawkogan acted as "tour guide of convenience" for the minister's visit, which focussed on Indigenous businesses tourism operations during her Manitoulin stops. On Tuesday, the first day on the Island, the minister's itinerary included Rainbow Ridge Golf Course, Mishibinijima Art Gallery, the new Wiikwemkoong Tourism Gift Shop, the Bebamikawe Memorial Trail Head, the Jesuit Mission (Holy Cross) ruins and the Manitoulin Hotel and Conference Centre.

During her stop at Rainbow Ridge Golf Course the minister enjoyed dinner prepared by chef Joseph Shawana that included smoked rainbow trout, pine ash crusted venison, sweet corn succotash and a roasted butternut squash puree, all topped off with sweetgrass crème brulee.

While at Rainbow Ridge, Minister MacLeod met with Wiikwemkoong Ogimaa Duke Peltier and his team, including Wiikwemkoong Tourism's Luke Wassegijig where they discussed the important role tourism plays in Indigenous communities' economic development mix.

Minister MacLeod said she believes Ontario residents are looking for two key aspects as they explore newly discovered tourism opportunities in their backyard: a more natural experience based in nature and opportunities to learn more about how they can support Indigenous communities.

"Indigenous (tourism) operators, in particular, offer authentic experiences," she said. "The Indigenous operators I have met over the past couple of days have demonstrated the kind of product they have that we can support when Ontario is ready to welcome visitors from around the world again."

The minister said that she personally found the educational aspect of the residential school talk she received at the ruins informative.

Impressed by what she has seen on Manitoulin, Minister MacLeod said that the products and ideas that are being implemented by Manitoulin Indigenous communities hold great promise for replication in other Indigenous communities across Northern Ontario.

She spoke of establishing a "tourism trail" across Northern aimed at product development they are working with Travel Industry Council of Ontario.

The minister noted that while Northern Ontario will be a key destination in the province's post-pandemic tourism strategy as the nation once again opens its doors to the world in the meantime Northern Ontario destinations are a vital part of the Rediscover Ontario promotion.

"I was delighted to meet people from my own riding while visiting Bridal Veil Falls," she said. It was a factor that repeated itself across the Island as the minister and her entourage visited various locations. "There were people from Ottawa, Mississauga, Brampton who are coming here for the natural beauty and to learn more about Indigenous communities."

On the second day of her tour,

Tourism Minister Lisa MacLeod may hail from the Maritimes, but she caught her very first fish in McGregor Bay while on a tour with Stillwater Fishing.

that the hotel currently employs 35 people, but could hire as many as 25 more.

"There are jobs out there," said Minister MacLeod, who noted that the hotel's location holds historical significance as well.

Then it was off to the Ojibwe Cultural Foundation and a cultural education session with Mr. Eshkawkogan. The Island tour finished off with a McGregor Bay experience with Brian Still through Stillwater Fishing where the minister caught her very first fish

The minister continued on to Sudbury's Science North, where she announced a provincial investment of more than $8.9 million to support 2021-22 operations, the development of new exhibits and online content, maintenance and repairs and the delivery of learning supports for students and teacher.

A further $150,000 has allocated for the development and promotion of 'Honouring Indigenous Ingenuity,' a travelling exhibit whose events and programming highlight the innovations and history of Canada's Indigenous culture as seen through the lens of science and technology.

Ontario Tourism Minister Lisa MacLeod serves up a cold brew while Manitoulin Brewing Company's Blair Hagman and Nishin Meawasige, Indigenous Tourism Ontario CEO and president Kevin Eshkawkogan and The Port's Darren Boast belly up to the Ontario in a "responsible way, a sustainable way" through a fiveyear plan.

"I am very grateful for the experience," she said. "I have experienced nothing like it before."

Minister MacLeod noted that the province will be soon be unveiling a $100 million program Minister MacLeod met with Aundeck Omni Kaning Ogimaa-kwe Patsy Corbiere where they discussed the important role tourism and the hospitality industry can play in improving the economies of Indigenous communities before going on a tour of Endaaaang Tourism assets in that community.

Minister MacLeod discovered firsthand the importance of the hospitality industry to the economies of Indigenous communities when the manager of the Indigenous consortium-owned Manitoulin Hotel and Conference Centre, Corey Stacinski, noted

Following Hope's Path XXII

Mindemoya chemotherapy room is a godsend to cancer patients

EDITOR'S NOTE: In 2013 retired nurse and midwife Mary Buie approached The Expositor with a mission. She had recently been diagnosed with breast cancer and was wondering whether this newspaper would be interested in following her journey as she battled the disease. It was with some trepidation that this paper agreed as the eventual outcome was far from certain to be positive. What followed was an engaging series that leavened a very serious health issue with Ms. Buie's irrepressible personality. Ms. Buie recently informed The Expositor that she would once again be facing down cancer. The Expositor is restarting the series 'Following Hope's Path' to continue relaying the story of her journey. This edition of 'Following Hope's Path expands the story to include Ms. Buie's impressions of the Mindemoya chemotherapy room and how she is coping with the changes in her appearance.

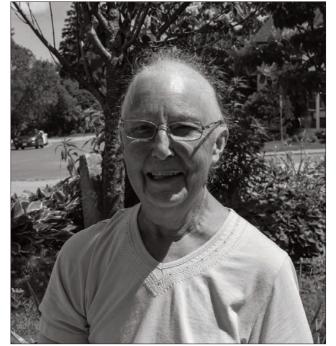

by Michael Erskine

MINDEMOYA—Mary Buie was very excited when she learned that she would be able to undergo some of her chemotherapy sessions at Manitoulin Health Centre's Mindemoya site chemotherapy room.

"The chemo room at Mindemoya is funded for four days: one nurse, one chair, 8 am to 4 pm, Tuesday to Friday," explained Ms. Buie. "The nurse has to have special training and has to complete a provincial course and annually is recertified. There is specific online continuing education to maintain competency above the basic RN (registered nurse) competency. In Mindemoya the chemo nurse is responsible for medication management, supply

At the moment there are 28 patients on the books here. The infusions are intravenous and each person may have just one or up to five at a time for each chemo session."

The drugs are administered at different rates and have to be prepared individually under a special chemical hood in a special room as these drugs are toxic and great care must be taken in their preparation and disposal, explained Ms. Buie. "The nurse has to don special protective clothing and do a surgical scrub for each drug prepared. She even has to don special clogs on her feet that have to be wiped down

Hair loss is one of the side effects of chemotherapy treatment. Not much of one for vanity, Mary Buie rocks her "baby bird head" during a visit to The Manitoulin Expositor offices in Little Current. Hair loss is old hat for Ms. Buie, who had a similar result from her last bout with cancer. Undaunted, she has found the experience a grand fashion opportunity when it comes to headscarves.

each time. When she comes out from drug preparation, special protective equipment has to be again beworn after thorough cleaning between each drug preparation. So you can see that if a patient has to have a lot of drugs each time it can take all day for just one patient. Not to mention the special cleaning that has to take place after each chemo patient."

The nurse also has to take vital signs and chart on the computer for each treatment for a patient, do paperwork and make phone calls .

"Now we are hearing that renovations are about to start in the emergency treatment area at the Mindemoya (site of Manitoulin Health Centre) hospital," said Ms. Buie. "These will include changes to the chemo area—the room serving cancer patients will have two chairs and these will be used for ancillary purposes such as disconnecting chemo bottles and doing PIC and central line dressings." (PIC lines are semi-permanent connections to a patient's veins that take the place of temporary intravenous tubes.)

"It is hoped that sometime in the future both chairs can be used for chemo patients as there is a waiting list," said Ms. Buie. The two chair expansion is not fully dependant on funding. "For that to happen a registered pharmacy technician would need to be hired as it is the preparation of the drugs that takes time and once patients are receiving theirs they have to be monitored closely. The chemo nurse could look after them both as happens in the Cancer Centre chemo room Sudbury. Mindemoya and Elliott Lake are the only outreach chemotherapy satellite sites where nurses hold duel roles, mixing medications and delivering patient care. Manitoulin Health Centre continues to work closely with the North Eastern Cancer Centre for remote pharmacy support. There is a yearly site visit to make sure that it is up to standard."

The Mindemoya chemo room has been a godsend for many families, including her own, noted Ms. Buie. The availability of the service close to home not only removes the arduous journey to Sudbury from the equation, but also the need for hotel rooms and meals while away from home.

Ms. Buie said that she continues to abide in her faith and remains deeply thankful for the support of her family, her community and the health system during this challenging time

"Cancer is my chronic disease," she said. "They are helping me to get through and with whatever comes." $\,$

Northeast Town Council Notes

Planning consent application

Council reviewed an application for consent from Bruce O'Hare and Kelly Bolduc to create an easement to allow for a sewer line connection from their 42 Robinson Street location to the adjacent property fronting on Park Street.

CAO Dave Williamson said there were no issues with the application but should it be granted, that it be with two conditions: that no work begins until a previous consent filed (to sever a lot) is granted and that an easement agreement between the property owners, stipulating exactly what the easement is for, is created.

The application was approved.

Administration and finance

Council approved the cheque registry for June in the amount of $1,131,830.36 and payroll, $112,096.39.

For the month of June, $17,935.09 in water/sewer payments had been received. There is currently one outstanding account of over $400 and arrangements had been made for payment.

Also for the month of June, $155,424.17 in tax payments had been made to the municipality.

Community Safety and Well-Being Plan

Manitoulin's eight municipalities joined together to develop the Manitoulin Community Safety and Well-being Plan, as legislated for municipalities in Ontario.

"This plan represents a shared commitment to make the communities on Manitoulin Island a place where individuals and families feel safe, have a sense of belonging and access to services to meet their needs," the plan's executive summary states.

Through community engagement and data analysis, four main priority areas of focus for all of the communities emerged: mental health and addictions, housing, seniors and domestic violence.

The Expositor will explore these areas of focus in more detail in the weeks to come.

Request for work on municipal property

Council received a request from Anthony McRae of Cablewave Utility Services, a contractor for Vianet, requesting permission from the municipality to install cable from the corner of Harbour View Road and Highway 6, south side, to the Manitoulin Country Fest and radio station offices.

Mr. Williamson explained that this would service Country Fest and the radio stations, as well as the Vianet tower located on McLean's Mountain and the new Killarney Vianet tower.

Mr. Williamson told council he spoke with Northland Power, whose hydro lines run the length of that same stretch of road, and was informed that cable cannot be placed within a meter of their hydro poles.

Mr. Williamson informed council he had also approached Jim McBane of Streetwise Holdings Inc. as the cable would run along his property, located directly across from the recreation centre, but had yet to hear back.

"At this point, staff aren't recommending it," Mr. Williamson advised council.

Councillor Michael Erskine asked how deep the cable could be buried to which Mr. Williamson responded "one metre deep."

"That's not deep enough for staff?" Councillor Erskine asked, noting Mr. Williamson's concerns with spring ditching. "Not always when ditching," Mr. Williamson replied.

The CAO said public works staff would try their best to avoid the cable, but that if council approved the project it be with the caveat that the municipality is not responsible should the cable be accidently severed or damaged.

Councillor Bruce Wood asked if the cable could run behind the poles and on private property. Mr. Williamson acknowledged that this is an option that could be explored. He also suggested it be buried at two metres at the original asking location.

Councillor Erskine said that if the company is willing to accept the risks, he believes the municipality should go along with the request as more bandwidth is always important.

The motion to approve the request, with the caveat that the municipality not be found liable in case of cable damage, was carried.

Sheguiandah parking concerns

Council received a letter from Lara Foucault, a longtime visitor to Manitoulin and frequent user of the government dock boat launch in Sheguiandah.

Ms. Foucault expressed her concerns with the placement of large rocks along the 'beach' side of the government dock area.

"This reduction in safe and tidy parking has resulted in people having to park on the grass, the road, the turnaround...anywhere they can fit, basically," she writes. "This, I believe, is a safety hazard as the congestion causes much difficulty in maneuvering in and out of not only the launch, but the parking area as well and quite frankly does disservice to a lovely area. Who wants to have a picnic or a rest in the new gazebo surrounded by vehicles?"

Ms. Foucault suggested council revisit the matter and have the boulders removed.

Councillor Michael Erskine asked if there were any alternatives to increase the parking, to which Mr. Williamson replied that there were no easy fixes to the parking problem.

Central Lions hold Mindemoya bake sale

The Central Manitoulin Lions Club held a bake sale at the Lions Pavilion in Mindemoya on Sunday, July 11 from 10 am to 1 pm. The bake sale was an outstanding success, being completely sold out by noon—the Lions raised $1,660 in barely two hours. Central Manitoulin Lions Club offered its thanks all of the Lions volunteers who organized and baked, the public and businesses who donated baking and to the community that supported the event. A special thank you went out to youth volunteers Maddie Smith, Liam Lariviere and Ethan Horula.

Billings receives funding for shoreline work

by Tom Sasvari

KAGAWONG—Thanks to the efforts of Billings office staff, the township has received funding for shoreline stabilization work on Main Street in the vicinity of the pump station.

"This is really good information," stated Billings Mayor Ian Anderson at a council meeting last week. "Staff had applied for funding and we have now been notified the application was successful and funding has been provided."

Staff had applied to the Investing in Canada Infrastructure Program (ICIP) COVID stream, local government intake funding for shoreline stabilization on Main Street in the vicinity of the pump station in December 2020 and have been notified that the application has been successful, a memo to council explained. Billings has been awarded $100,000 to complete this work.

Mayor Anderson pointed out municipal staff has been working with Exp to develop drawings to reflect this work. "It is our hope that we can facilitate the work this year," he said, "but at least we have received a commitment for funding so we can proceed full steam ahead. Thank you to staff for pursuing this funding. It is another example of the good work all our municipal staff are doing."

The funding will cover the entire scope of the work

f you have been down to the marina in the last week, you'll have seen the giant metal pilings that will soon be put in place to shore up the waterline around the marina parking area and church. You may also have seen the large pile driver on the shore, too. Better a pile driver than a bodyslam or a suplex, in our opinion. In any case, the workers unloaded everything in one day without any fuss. Now, we can't speak for all Mankind, but we haven't been hearing any Randy Savage comments about the crew doing the work. They haven't been all Mean Gene or anything; no one acted like Mr. Perfect or made a Big Show about it. They just got the job done, and then simply parted with a Jeff Hardy handshake. We hope these puns aren't making you wince McMahon or feel like you can't Paul Bearer any more. Perhaps it is time for us to steer this week's column at a different Kurt Angle.

The province has entered Step 3 of the reopening plan, however there is no real change for most municipal services from Step 2. The Municipal Office in the Old Mill is open to the public, but council meetings are still to be attended virtually. Contact tmills@billingstwp.ca by 3 pm on the day of the council meeting for an invitation. A computer/tablet/mobile phone and internet connection, or a telephone, are required.

One big change with the move to Step 3 is that the Old Mill Heritage Centre was finally able to open its doors for the 2021 season last weekend! They are now open seven days a week from 10 am to 5 pm. Visit their new Empress of Ireland exhibit. You won't want to miss it!

Team Fergmeijer went out to a lovely dinner last weekend. At the end, the waiter approached the table and asked if we wanted a box for our leftovers. We said, "No, but we'll wrestle you for them."

Come on by the pavilion in the lower village from 10 am to 3 pm every Wednesday for the Kagawong Market. There are over 40 vendors to peruse, and you'll be sure to find lots of delicious treats, local produce, and one-of-a-kind crafts. Please remember to wear your masks, use the provided hand sanitizer, and social distance where possible. Happy birthday to a couple of Theijsmeijers who both are celebrating today! One is turning 29, but the other isn't quite there yet. May your guitars be in tune, and your veranda dust-free! Jen C. (a former Kagawongian) also turns 29 this week. We hope you drink wine and eat sheet cake until you want to barf! There were also two Ferguson's celebrating on Monday! Jen is actually in Billings this week and as such turned 29. Craig was not in the township, so there's no telling how old he turned... 35?47?92? How do the other townships handle the chaos?!

H&R Noble will be starting work at the outdoor rink at the Park Centre in the near future (some unavoidable delays due to the road construction has pushed the schedule back a bit). Advertising along the new boards is available if you would like to be part of the fundraising efforts for this project. Contact the township office for more information or to donate. Charitable tax receipts are available for donations of $20 or more.

Got big ideas? Have a vision for Billings Township? The Township will be engaged in the next strategic planning cycle (2022-2025) during 2021. Watch for strategic planning surveys and have your say! The more people who contribute ideas and comments, the better the process and the stronger the plan for the next planning cycle. Arguing with strangers online is like wrestling sharks. Even if you win, it was a really stupid thing to do. Have a great week!

Silver Water Karen Noble

ynn and Mike Tyler were at their cottage last week. Reg and Michelle Delaurier were at their son's cottage last week and out to the market on the weekend. John and Pat Wickett are at their cottage on Silver Lake. Tom and Lorna Caley visited with Lyle and Ann Addison last week. Lori and Brett Mastelko came to have a visit on the weekend.

Lorna Maki was here visiting her sister-in-law Kay Everett, and to participate in the ladies' weekend Kim Everett organized at the cottage.

Congratulations to Kim's friend Bernice who won the market's 50/50 draw.

On Friday, when we arrived at the boat ramp for the swim, we met some new neighbours and welcomed them to town. Barb, Linda, Johnny and their dog Bear are at the cottage on Burnt Island Road.

Gladys Duncanson and I took her granddaughters, Willow and Shelby to swim in front of Ardith Cull's cottage on Sunday. Mark Wismer and children Stella, Nial and Beatrix showed up while we were there to have a swim. It was nice to have a short visit with Mark while he is in town. Saturday, we had another successful market.

Condolences to the families of Glenna Liles, Deborah McDonald, and Lloyd Weston.

The recycle bins will be open on Saturday, July 24 from 1 to 2 pm.

Central Manitoulin trails coming along

Last Friday, the new trails in Wagg's Park (Wood) went from a flagging tape trail to a two metre highway. I was lucky to be a able to join Community Development/Outreach Coordinator Marcus Mohr, Trail Committee Chair Marcel Beneteau, Roads Operator Peter McAllister, Deputy Roads Superintendent John Graham and Councillor Dale Scott as we started roughing out the new trail and refurbishing existing ones. Eventually this trail will tender out to have gravel spread along the path to make it wheelchair accessible. The crew was back at it Monday to punch a new trail that will allow the more adventurous to ascend the beautiful escarpment.

For those not familiar, Wagg's Wood, donated many years ago by the late A.J. Wagg, is a rare oasis right in town. It is a mature maple forest that follows the spring run creek bed outflow from Big Lake into Lake Mindemoya. On a warm and humid day it was amazingly cool under the canopy. As you move to the south side of the park a hill rises to meet a sheer bluff that has interesting caves and crevices. There are a couple of places where nature has provided steps to get on top of the largely cedar covered escarpment. There are a couple of places where you can see Treasure Island in the bright blue water of Lake Mindemoya. Suffice to say it is a beautiful piece of property and deserves to be looked after and made accessible to everyone.

If anyone is wanting to participate in the ongoing brushing for trail building they can contact Marcus at 705-377-5726 or email centralecdev@amtelecom.net. There are a couple of short and easy, online training sessions required, but is a small price to pay to help this jewel of Mindemoya. This project along with Marcus is thanks to the Trail Committee and includes: Marcel Beneteau, Dale Scott, John Diebolt, Al Tribinevicius, Wendy Wiggins and Katie Gilchrist. Thanks everyone.

Prov proving to be fun

I got a note from Angela Johnston, who is organizing activities for the young and old in the beach town. "Soccer is going well and you could give a shout out to our awesome, volunteer coaches Schuyler Playford and Andrew Long." With 48 kids registered that is no easy task to wrangle that many! Basketball lessons start this week on Thursday. There are still a few spots left in the Grade 5-8 group. Amber Wahl is volunteering her time as the head coach for those. "Can you please mention adult pick-up soccer on Thursday evenings starting July 22 at the Providence Bay Arena grounds? No registration required, just show up at 7 pm ready to play a great sport and meet new people!"

"Although not a real sport, we are starting to have Nerf wars in the arena on Friday evenings: Kids ages 6-9 from 6-7 pm; kids ages 10-14 from 7-8 pm; and ages 15+ from 8-9 pm. Advance registration for each evening is required through Eventbrite (links on our Facebook page). Some more info on that if you would like to include it: Participants may bring their own Nerf gun or use one of the extras at the arena (limited numbers available). A supply of standard Elite Nerf darts will be provided, so you do not need to bring your own darts, but may if you wish. Please only use Nerf guns that take standard Elite Nerf darts. Eye protection is required. Safety glasses will be provided if you do not have your own."

Assiginack activities!

The Township of Assiginack always has something going on to let people be more active thanks to Events Coordinator Jackie White. In addition to the swim lessons for kids and the equally important swim lessons/stroke improvement for adults (we could all use help with our swimming, at any age, please take advantage) there will be have senior dance classes in August that are free thanks to the Senior Community Grant. Then, yoga in a two week, compressed session for beginners and adults at a reduced price as the township's way of saying thanks for being so awesome through the pandemic. On top of that they are also planning badminton and pickleball drop-ins, as well as Nerf Wars! Way to go, Assiginack!

Providence Bay Fair to continue with Amazing Race!

On Sunday, August 22 the Providence Bay Fair committee will again be holding The Amazing Island Family Race! Organizer Dawn Dawson was impressed with the turn out last year and hopes for even more participants. "In last year's Amazing Race, there was a total of 10 stops, 18 teams participating and 87 kilometres travelled." More details will follow, "but this year's event will be even bigger and better than last year," she said. "The family fun trophy is up for grabs again this year," said Ms. Dawson. All family fun activities can be found on the providence-bayfair.com website. "We will see if the McDermid family will maintain the title from 2020 or if another family will take the prestigious title."

The Wiikwemkoong Anglers held another derby in their summer series. Teams of two competed to have the heaviest combined catch that was then released. The winner for the Big Fish was 6.32 lbs ($200) from the boat of Mike Assinewai and Sabrina Trudeau who also won third place in the combined weight, snatching up an extra $300! The first place boat landed 21.95 lbs ($800), Santanna J. Eshkawkogan and Galen Trudeau in second spot with 20.07lbs ($500) was John and Lynn Ainslie. A special note to the boat of Felix and Jon Flamand who actually tied for third but the tie breaker is the largest fish and Mike caught it!

Organizer Lorne Agawa said that "had some nice fish released today including a beauty, large mouth. We want to thank everyone for coming out especially our new and young anglers. We look forward to seeing you again on July 31."

Olympic Odyssey

Watch to watch on week one of the Olympic Games

EDITOR'S NOTE: This week marks the fourth installment of Olympic Odyssey by Mike Brock, an Olympics television producer for the CBC, a special for Expositor readers

by Mike Brock

Sport can transcend. Sport can inspire. Sport can ignite. And the Olympics are jet fuel.

If you are the least bit inclined to engage with sports, this is the time to do it. The Tokyo Games are finally here, and this is what you need to know for the first week.

For sure, the biggest challenge to watching the Games live will be the time change. Tokyo is 13 hours ahead of Eastern Time. Night will become day, morning will become evening, and we all will become tired. But, if you park the TV on CBC and make CBC Sports your home page, you won't miss a thing. CBC will air lots of recaps, highlights, and even re-broadcasts of the events, so if you're unable to watch in the middle of the night, you will still be able to watch whenever you can.

The CBC, along with partners like TSN and Sportsnet will be carrying dozens of hours of live coverage on many different platforms every day of the Olympics. Plus, events will be streamed on line as they happen. Visit CBC's website (cbc.ca/sports/olympics/summer/schedule-results) for a full schedule of events, and links to the live streams. One of the other ways to make sure you don't miss a thing is to download the CBC Sports App onto your phone.

Make sure you check the date. The opening ceremonies will take place on Friday, July 23. But, every year, there are a few events that actually start before the cauldron is lit. This year, the first events take place on Tuesday, July 20 when the women's softball tournament gets underway. The Canadian team's first pitch will be at 2 am (ET) on Wednesday, July 21 when they take on Mexico. The Canadian women's soccer team will kick off against the host Japanese a few hours later at 6 am (ET).

Here's a daily breakdown of what you can look out for during the rest of the first week of the Olympics. Thursday, July 2

A day after the women take the pitch, the men's soccer tournament begins. The marquee game on the first day is a rematch of the 2016 Olympic Games final. Brazil and Germany went to penalty kicks in Rio, and regardless of who wins this first game in Tokyo, both teams are likely to advance to the next round.

The rowers get in the water on Thursday, and Canada has had a great deal of success over the last few decades at the Olympic regattas. At the 1996 Games in Atlanta, Canadian rowers won six medals, led by Marnie McBean and Kathleen Heddle. McBean is Team Canada's Chef de Mission in Tokyo and while this will be the biggest Canadian team Atlanta, with 10 crews competing in Tokyo, they may not be quite as dominant. Look for youngster Trevor Jones in the men's single sculls. Heats for single sculls, doubles sculls and quad sculls will also hit the water

Other sports competing today include and softball, archery (ranking round).

Friday, July 23

Grab your coffee early for the opening ceremonies on Friday morning. They'll get under way at 7 am. The CBC stream will start at 6:30 am, and will be available in multiple Indigenous languages this year, as well.

Later on Friday—Saturday morning in Japan—the volleyballers take to the floor and the beach. The women's beach tournament digs in at 8 pm, while the Canadian men play Italy on the hard court.

Other Canadians in action will include the softball team and the men's road cycling team.

Saturday, July 24

Swimming will consume many of the headlines for the first week of the Olympics, and Canada looks to get off to a great start. Saturday morning's heats will feature Maggie MacNeil, the reigning World Champion in the 100-metre butterfly, Sidney Pickrem in the 400-metre individual medley, and the Women's 4x100-metre freestyle relay. Lots of team

Corbiere team wins Manitoulin Golf men's tournament

by Tom Sasvari

GORDON—The father-son team of Warren and Justice Corbiere has won the Manitoulin Golf men's annual tournament, held this past weekend.

The Corbiere team posted a two-day 36 hole total score of 131 (67-64) to win by two shots. It was the third time they have taken the championship flight in this tournament. Finishing second in the flight was the team of Troy Chatwell and Kyle Kauppi, who posted a score of 133 (63-70).

"On behalf of Manitoulin Golf we would like to thank everyone for coming out to play this weekend," said Dan Marois, master of ceremonies at the awards ceremony. "Thanks to Dave Carr and his grounds crew for having the golf course in such great shape this weekend. And thanks to Myrna Thomas and her kitchen and wait staff and volunteers for great food and hospitality throughout the weekend."

The first flight was won by Scott Madahbee and Carter Abottossaway who posted a total score of 134 (68-65).

Placing first in the second flight was Al and Eric Rousel with a score of 140, with Ryan Tapara and Gilbert winning the third flight, Kurtis Noble and Jeff Huck in first place in the fourth flight and Steve Pearson and Cory Croft first in the fifth flight.

There was a total of 56 two member teams participating in this year's tournament.

Henley Boats Manufacturing featured in Go North promotional video by Tom Sasvari MANITOWANING-Henley Boats Manufacturing based in Manitowaning, the oldest heavy aluminum boat manufacturer in Ontario is being featured in the Federation of Northern Ontario Municipalities (FONOM) Go North promotional videos.

"Everything went pretty good," stated Dave Ham. owner of the business of the filming by Good Gauley Productions last week. "We are hoping this will be good for the company and for the Island as well.

'Drew Gauley of Good Gauley Productions explained in detail what they wanted to do, and I made a presentation on the history of the company in front of the camera," said Mr. Ham.

Al MacNevin, mayor of the Town of Northeastern Manitoulin and the Islands (NEMI) and a Manitoulin representative on the FONOM board told The Expositor, "when we had discussions looking at businesses to profile on the and Northern Island Ontario, the main message we wanted to present is that the North is a very good place to create a business with, for instance lower production costs and being able to live and work in the same community.'

Henley Boats, which is over 40 years old, is the oldest heavy aluminum and hand-built aluminum boat

Henley Boats' Dave Ham poses with one of the models under construction in his shop, a firefighting/passenger vessel bound for manufacturer in the province of Ontario. "To our knowledge we are the only company building heavy aluminum boats with lapstrake sides anywhere," company brochure explains.

"I bought the business about 20 years ago (from Collin Gourley, of Picton, Ontario). He relocated it to Manitowaning. The former proprietor passed on his knowledge on to Mr. Ham, said Mr. Ham. "I was selling Honda and outboard engines, but I needed a good boat supplier.'

Mr. Ham was contacted by the former Henley owner, who brought a couple of boats with him up to Manitowaning. "He told me he was not well and wanted to sell the business, and would even come up and help us get started. He said he would offer it to me first and asked me to fly to Picton on a Saturday to have a look. I bought all the machinery and equipment.

"When we first started we would build one or two boats a year," Mr. Ham told The Expositor. "We should do around 50 this year," with the smallest being 18 feet and the biggest 50 feet long, and all sizes in between. "If we were doing all smaller boats we could probably do 60-70 boats a year, but we do a lot of custom builds." The business has 17 employees.

"We have shipped boats pretty well all over the world," said Mr. Ham. "We haven't shipped many into Europe but will continue to when we get requests. Yes, every day we receive inquiries from various countries throughout the world." He noted a Fort Myers (Florida) economic group is interested in developing a boat building business there and he is looking at this seriously. "The market down there is phenomenal.'

'It has been a great little hobby," stated Mr. Ham. "I consider it being a hobby. I really enjoy what I'm doing. I'm 77 now and I can't fly all the time," the pilot laughed.

"It is really good to see a business manufacturing in that local area a business that is running that well,' said Mr.Gauley, of Good Gauley Productions. "They have a problem that every business wants, keeping up with demand," he said, noting the business is looking at possible expansion in the future.

"It is certainly a good news story for Dave (Ham), his sons and the real boss of the business, Dave's wife Joyce," said Mr. Gauley. "Dave talked about the company's history and the boats his company produces that last forever. He was showing me one boat that is going to Prince Rupert. It's a firefighting vessel."

"I would say we shot about an hours worth of video film with the interviews and shots of the business, and filming of the Manitoulin Island area as well," said Mr. Gauley.

Mac Bain of FONOM told The Expositor "the idea of the Go North campaign is that even in the Northern pandemic Ontario is a very healthy place to do business. These videos showcase Northern Ontario businesses and demonstrate that businesses can open and be successful anywhere in our seven districts of the Northern Ontario area."

Mr. Bain said that Fed-Nor provided the majority of the funding for the promotional video campaign, but the project was extended by the FONOM board to include an additional two videos, the one for Manitoulin Island and one for Nipissing. "So basically we increased our budget for this promotion."

"The bottom line is there are a lot of great reasons for businesses to expand or open in the North," said Mr. Bain. "The promotional videos have been very well received, we have receive a lot of great reviews from the videos ones that have been shown so far, from people and business owners all over Ontario and other areas."

"It was Al (MacNevin) who had brought Henley Boats forward as a good business to video and promote on the Island," continued Mr. Bain. "Each of the seven districts has a representative on the board, and each would bring forward businesses that they feel would be good to highlight. Al made the suggestion as to who would be good for Manitoulin Island and had talked to members of the MMA (Manitoulin Municipal Association) to make sure it would be good to represent the district.'

"Drew (Gauley) is quite creative and it takes him about two to three weeks to complete each episode, and before the final edition is out it is reviewed by the executive of FONOM," said Mr. Bain. "Drew has a lot of talent and has done a fantastic job, and the board has been quite happy with the project.'

"The whole idea of profiling businesses in Northern Ontario is that this part of the province is a great area to open up and do business in," said Mr. MacNevin. "Any time we have the chance to promote a Manitoulin Island business is a good thing.'

action for Canadians to watch on Saturday, too. The women beach volleyballers continue the preliminary round. Canada's women's water polo team is back at the Olympics for the first time since 2004, and recently ranked as high as 6th in the world, so they've got a shot at the podium. The soccer team plays their second game of the group stage, taking on the 69th ranked Chile. The men's hockey team, affectionately known as the "Red Caribou" are currently ranked 10th in the world, and will play their first match of the tournament.

Sunday, July 25

Happy birthday to Mandy Bujold! The boxer, a medal contender in the fly division who just recently won her appeal to compete, turns 34 today, and will enter the ring in the round of 32. Skylar Park has a shot at a medal in Taekwondo, and the finals of the women's 4x100-metre freestyle will look to take home a medal for the second straight Olympics. In the evening session at the pool, Canada's youngest Olympian, Summer McIntosh, will be competing in the 400 freestyle heats, looking to continue her incredible ascension into the sport's elites. Canada's Matt Berger and Micky Papa will drop into competition as skateboarding makes its debut at the Olympics with the men's street competition.

Monday, July 26

Everybody is looking forward to seeing if Penny Oleksiak can capture lighting in a bottle again, and she will compete in her first individual event today, the 200-metre freestyle. Oleksiak and youngster Summer McIntosh will be in tough against American Katie Ledecky in the 200. Canada's other reigning world champion in swimming, Kylie Masse, should be in the semi-finals of her best event, the 100-metre backstroke. The women's basketball team will tip off its tournament today. Led by WNBA All-Star Kia Nurse, the 4th ranked Canadians will play Serbia in their first preliminary round match.

Tuesday, July 27

North York's Josh Liendo makes his Olympic debut in the 100-metre freestyle heats today. He'll be in tough to qualify for the finals, though, against sprinters like American superstar Caleb Dressel, and Romanian phenom David Popovici. Fourtime Olympian Meghan Benfeito already won three bronze medals in the last two Games, but will be looking to move up the podium as she competes in the 10-metre synchronized discipline with Caeli McKay. The team event for women's artistic gymnastics is always a popular event and this year Canada—led by Ellie Black—could possibly be in the final, but the favourites will be the Americans, led by Simone Biles.

Wednesday, July 28

It's a big day in the pool for the Canadian women. Penny Oleksiak will race the heats of the 100-metre freestyle, the event she tied Simone Manuel from the US for Gold in Rio. While the win was a surprise for everyone, including Oleksiak in 2016, she's back in form, and should challenge for the top of the podium again. Olympic rookie Kayla Sanchez is the other Canadian in this event. Sidney Pickrem, a World Championship medallist will race the 200 individual medley, and the 4 x 200-metre freestyle relay will try for their second consecutive medal. Other sports handing out medals today include rugby (men's), judo (men's and women's), 3 x 3 basketball (men's and women's) and rowing (men's and women's).

Next time, we'll give you a daily breakdown of week two. Swimming will be finishing up, and athletics will take centre stage. We'll have a better sense, too, of how the Canadian teams are shaping up for their medal rounds.

Funding helps two local municipalities improve the program and service delivery

TORONTO—The Ontario government is providing up to $24 million to support the modernization of 224 small and rural municipalities across the province, including one on Manitoulin Island, and Cockburn Island. This investment will help improve the delivery of critical programs and services that people rely on every day, while saving taxpay-

"Today marks another milestone in our government's delivery of supports to municipalities, as they look for ways to improve service delivery in our communities,' said Steve Clark, minister of municipal affairs and housing on June 30. "To put it simply, identifying and imple-

Councillor Hunt said that he agreed with both Councillors Alkenbrack and Jackson, "It is a very good project for the community. And there is an opportunity to use the rink space for a lot of multi-purpose activities, especially in the summer. It's a very good project."

Councillor Bryan Barker noted that council has two options. Purchase professional boards or contract someone to build the boards. "I prefer buying professional boards as they will provide for a better quality product and one that will last.

"I have supported the restoration of the outdoor ice pad from the beginning, and everything being proposed is exciting," stated Councillor Barker.

As for the timeline for the delivery of the professional boards, Councillor Jackson said delivery of the boards is expected to take between four to eight weeks.

Council unanimously passed a motion in favour of purchasing the professional boards.

Economic Development Officer Todd Gordon, in a memo to council explained, at a PRW committee meeting held February 22, three recommendations had been brought to council, one of which was to include $40,000 in the draft budget for rink repairs. The recommendation was also presented with the note that the committee feels that they can raise over $10,000 in donations for the rink project. As per the motion presented by the PRW council passed the following resolution at the March 2, 2021 regular council meeting, "be it resolved that council instructs staff to include $40,000 in the draft 2021 budget for rink repairs."

The public works department was able to remove the existing boards, player benches and stairs. The player benches and stairs were not in the plans to be removed but due to some advanced decay, they had to be removed for safety reasons. The replacement costs of these were not included in the initial ask to council for the $40,000 for menting modern solutions means money is diverted away from wasteful service delivery and stays in the pockets of local taxpayers.'

A total of 254 projects have been approved for funding under intake two of Ontario's municipal modernization program. Municipalities will use the funding to find efficiencies and implement a wide range of initiatives to digitize, streamline and/or integrate programs and services with neighbouring communities. The funding will help municipalities administer the cost savings measures in time for the 2022 municipal budget cycle.

With provincial funding, the Township of Tehkummah will undergo a third-party review digital modernization study. As well, the township of Cockburn Island will receive a third-party review of service delivery settings.

Exact funding amounts for each municipality are not being disclosed in order the protect the integrity of the procurement process, said Minister Clark.

This spring in my garden I planted three varieties of squash and I know for sure, and on purpose, I did not plant zucchini! Last week checking to see how my squash plants were growing I noticed two medium-sized zucchinis ready to be used. Oh joy! I couldn't believe it! Not to waste I made a salad and really enjoyed it.

Zucchini Salad with Lemon Vinaigrette

This raw zucchini salad is really simple and using fresh herbs from your garden makes it extra special. Since zucchini doesn't really have much flavour you can add different cheeses, nuts or seeds and herbs. You can use a vegetable peeler, or a mandolin or the slicer on the side of your box grater.

LEMON VINAIGRETTE:

1/4 cup fresh lemon juice 1 garlic clove, minced 1 tsp Dijon mustard 1/4 tsp sea salt Freshly ground black pepper 1/2 tsp honey or maple syrup 1/3 cup extra-virgin olive

1/2 tsp fresh or dried

thyme, optional

"This is a family business, for 60 years. My dad (Archie Panton) started the business," said Mr. Panton. "I've read three articles, and the municipal issue between the Town of Gore Bay and Gordon/Barrie Island on the issue of funding and who accumulates and uses the transfer station more.'

"The reason we lost the landfill 30 years ago was a dispute between Gore Bay Mayor at the time and Gordon landowner at the time," continued Mr. Panton. "The transfer station is probably the most cost effective solution.'

"What I'm concerned about is that the town has gotten figures from two companies, and have never given my business any consideration on the options they are looking at," continued Mr. Panton. "Where does all of this leave a business like mine. I would be out of business in Gore

"If they go with curbside garbage pick-up in town, that would leave me out of business in Gore Bay," said Mr. Panton, noting, "any business that I have out of town would probably continue."

Mr. Panton said his approximately 30-35 customers in Gore Bay includes commercial as well as residential clients.

"I don't want to complain about the town, they have been good to me over the years," said Mr. Panton. "It's the town prerogative to look at most cost effective options, but hopefully local businesses are being considered when they are looking at their options. Leaving everything the same, status quo would be the best option for my business."

Mayor Osborne said as well, "he (Mr. Panton) can come out to a meeting, all our meetings are public and he can make a request to be heard at the meetings. And he'll get the same opportunity that everyone else has. But the bottom line is everything is preliminary at this point. He will have every opportunity, the same as everyone else.'

"I would definitely like the opportunity to address the new adhoc committee that is looking at all of this," added Mr. Panton.

... Chief Coroner says First Nation citizens more likely to die in fires

ing in remote areas don't have access to this in a lot of cases. All of this means lives are threatened."

The Ontario Chief Coroner's Table on Understanding Fire Deaths in First Nations examined fire related deaths in 20 communities over the last 10 years. Among its findings is that First Nations children under 10 had the highest fire-related mortality rate (86 times greater than non-First Nation children in Ontario) and communities with no year-round road access had the highest number of fatal fires and fire. The report shows that 86 percent of fatal fires in First Nations communities had either no or non-operational smoke alarms in the house/structure.

Fatal fires where the primary source of heating was wood stove/wood heater were highest in communities with no year-round road.

"This report does not come as a surprise. It has highlighted the critical need for First Nations to have access to adequate housing, fire safety and suppression equipment. Theses fatal fires can be prevented, and it is not the only reason why First Nations are in need of improvements in housing, infrastructure and water," said Regional Chief Hare.

"I encourage our provincial and federal partners to work collaboratively alongside First Nations leadership towards identifying solutions and improving community safety and well-being," continued Regional Chief Hare. "The coroner's report acknowledges that what we have been saying and they have been hearing is true. Now action needs to be taken."

The Chiefs Coroner's Table was formed in 2017. NAN chiefs, along with advocacy groups, called for an investigation into fire safety in First Nations communities following a series of tragic house fires. In addition to the table, a working group of technical experts and an advisory group made up of elders and knowledge keepers were formed.

Nishnawbe Aski Nation and Chiefs of Ontario have identified the following priorities for major improvements to fire safety and prevention: increase fire safety awareness and education through Amber's Fire Safety; implement a standardized service delivery model across NAN and ensure community infrastructure and housing conditions are acceptable and built to standard.

...Hunters could face tag denial should they fail to report their season's results

"Information provided by hunters through mandatory hunter reporting is important for managing wildlife in Ontario. It specifically helps us monitor wildlife populations, tag quotas and determine the availability of additional tags, make changes to seasons and bag limits and inform management policies," the EBR reads.

"All hunters that purchase or are issued a tag to hunt elk, deer, bear, wild turkey and wolf/coyote (in Wildlife Management Units where a tag is required) and any hunter issued a licence to hunt moose must complete a hunter report. Hunters are required to complete a hunter report even if they did not participate in the hunt or harvest an animal. Generally, reports must be submitted within 14 days following the end of the last hunting season for that species," the EBR continues.

It was pointed out, "Ontario's hunters have been very responsive to the mandatory hunter reporting requirements that were introduced in 2019. In 2020, the ministry observed an 84 percent compliance rate across all species. There were approximately 60,000 non-compliance reports (approximately 16 percent). Increased hunting reporting compliance leads to improved data and may lead to increased opportunities for hunters in some areas.'

Hunters who fail to report or who provide false or misleading information are currently subject to penalties, including fines and possible restrictions on their ability to purchase a licence or tag the following year.

"Experience in Ontario with previous hunter reporting requirements for certain species has shown that hunter reporting compliance rates deteriorate over time if penalties are not applied to demonstrate the importance of this information. It is important to maintain high compliance rates, which results in high quality of data to support management decisions," the EBR continues.

"The ministry is proposing an alternative tool to promote and improve hunter reporting compliance and improve reporting data. The ministry is proposing to charge a mandatory financial penalty for hunters who fail to submit their hunter reports. The financial penalty would be automatically applied to the hunter once the fish and wildlife licencing system detect the report has not been submitted by the deadline. They would be required to be paid as part of (or prior to) the hunter's next purchase of the relevant product (generally in the following year)."

The fine, "would be based on each individual reporting requirement (i.e., if a hunter fails to submit multiple reports they are charged a fee for each). The fines would persist on the hunters until they are paid and would not expire."

"The financial penalties would be a standard fee, consistent across each individual reporting requirement. The fee would be the same whether the hunter is an Ontario resident or a non-resident. The ministry is seeking input on a proposed penalty in the range of $15-35 dollars. The ministry recognizes that if the fee is set too high, it may be viewed as more harsh than preventing a hunter from purchasing a licence or tag and may create financial barriers to participation in certain hunting activities And, if the fee is set too low, it could be viewed as an alternative to reporting and not provide the necessary incentive for hunters to submit future reports."

Under the proposal the ministry would maintain a graduated penalty approach; if a hunter failed to submit a hunter report in two consecutive years for the same species, they would be prevented from purchasing the relevant draw application, licence or tag the following year.

"The ministry recognizes that there may be some legitimate circumstances that prevent a hunter from submitting their hunter report, such as a sudden injury, illness, or an error in the fish and wildlife licencing service. The ministry would maintain a process to consider waiving the penalty in very limited, exceptional circumstances," the proposal

The anticipated outcome of the proposal is that compliance rates with hunter reporting requirements will continue to improve and are maintained over time at a high level. This would provide improved reporting information to support wildlife management, similar to the system preventing a purchase in the following year, the proposal would provide a more efficient method of promoting compliance that reduces burden associated with time consuming and costly investigations or prosecutions (similar to the system lockout penalty that prevents a hunter from purchasing a licence or

The anticipated environmental consequences of the proposal are positive, the ministry suggests. The proposal is fish and wildlife management programs.

The ministry proposal reads, "the anticipated economic consequences are neutral. Hunters who fail to report and are charged the financial penalty may view the proposal negatively. Some hunters who hunt certain species more casually (i.e. purchasing a licence/tag in the event the opportunity for harvest arises while they are actively hunting other species) may choose not to purchase licences and pay the fee for those species. However, the ministry's hunter reporting program is widely supported and the proposal may generate some revenue to support fish and wildlife management programs.

The proposal does not pose new administrative costs to businesses. "OFAH supports providing sustainable wildlife and mandatory reporting is crucial for wildlife management," said Mr. Munro. "We have seen and MNRF numbers indicate a vast number of hunters, 84 percent do fill out the surveys."

"One thing we've seen over time is that without meaningful and enforced penalties the (completion of hunting reports by hunters) decreases," said Mr. Munro. "We are pleased the ministry is looking at these new proposal options."

Mr. Murro.

Mr. Munro added that the ministry proposal, "will be a topic of discussion of the OFAH big game advisory committee which is made up of representatives from across the province."

reading it as the match was going on, trying to get a handle on the game. What should have been a relatively benign story soon turned into national news when one of the batsman jumped into the crowd and began wailing at opposing fans with his bat. Mr. Brock soon realized that one should never assume what the storyline will be ahead of time when covering sports. Some days it might be black and white, 'X' team won, while on other days, anything can hap-

After The National, Mr. Brock went to work for Maple Leafs Sports and Entertainment, specifically as a producer for Leafs TV and, for the last few years, he's been working as a freelancer for CBC Sports through his Urban Pig Productions company. (As of this spring, Mr. Brock also works as a contributor for The Expositor, as nearly half of his time is spent at the family cottage near Little Current.)

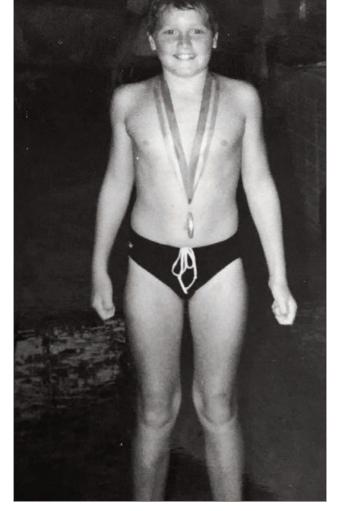

Mr. Brock is passionate about the Olympics, as many Olympics fans are. "The story of the games is not just about the big stars," the producer explains, noting that this is especially true of CBC's coverage, which showcases the games in their entirety, not just Canadian teams or athletes. Coverage south of the border has often been criticized by our American neighbours for being entirely USAcentric, completely different from the CBC's mandate. "We aim to tell every single story, not just the highlights."

'It's really about the spectacle, learning about the cultures," Mr. Brock continues, noting that a team has been working for the last 2.5 years on special features for the Tokyo Olympics.

Mr. Brock doesn't get to go to Tokyo; all his work is done from a studio at CBC in downtown Toronto. For two weeks he will be holed up in an editing suite with an editor and associate director. He has been specifically assigned to field hockey, beach volleyball, the new rugby 7s event and taekwondo (which he admitted he is reading up on now).

As there's a 13-hour time difference between here and Tokyo, Mr. Brock has been trying to get his internal clock organized for those two weeks by staying up all night. He's been enjoying late night strolls at the cottage, reading good books and learning about taekwondo.

His day will start at about 5:30 pm each day of the Olympics and will end by 8 or 9 the next morning. Because of COVID-19 protocols, the production team will not leave Mike Brock in the fall of 1984, wearing Sandy Goss' Summer Olympics' silver medal from the 4 x 100 medley relay. Mr. Goss was his idol. Eight years later, Mr. Brock got to spend the year with him, training for 1992 Olympic trials.

the building much with catering being brought in to keep them well fed and awake with strong coffee. "We're very well looked after.'

While the days are long and tiring, to be part of the experience "is 100 percent worth it."

Mr. Brock says the two weeks are a lot of fun with producers converging on the building from across the nation, often each with their own sports specialities.

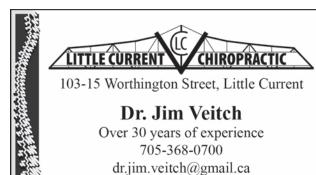

The Olympics has always been an important part of Mr. Brock's life. His father, orthopedic surgeon Dr. Bob Brock, familiar to many Islanders, was a Team Canada physician for the 1984 Summer Olympics in Los Angeles. The younger Mr. Brock attended the Team Canada Olympic trials in 1992 for swimming. "I've always loved the Olympics. The seed was planted early.

The opening ceremonies for the Summer Olympics get underway at 7 am this Friday, July 23.

For more great Olympic coverage, be sure to read Mr. Brock's weekly series special to The Expositor, Olympic Odyssey, this week on Page 7.

Sudbury plasma donation centre needs you

by Michael Erskine

SUDBURY—Advances in medical technology and procedures has led to a sea change in the nation's blood and plasma requirements. It seems almost counterintuitive that the highly successful mobile blood donor clinics once held in Little Current, Espanola and then even the permanent site in Sudbury were shut down, leaving the only blood donor clinic still operating in the North located in Parry Sound, but there is a sound reason behind those decisions.

The Expositor caught up with Teri-Mai Armstrong, business development manager at Canadian Blood Services plasma operations to discover more about what is happening in the industry.

"In the past there would be a lot of blood loss during surgery," said Ms. Armstrong. "Now, with so many surgeries being conducted laparascopically there is very little loss of blood—that changed the demand." While there is still a significant demand for blood, the demand for plasma has far outstripped the nation's ability to supply that demand. "Only 14 percent of the need for plasma is met by national donations," she said, with the shortfall having to be made up from purchases outside the country.

Canadian Blood Services is responsible for supplying blood and plasma to 700 hospitals across Canada and the demand for plasma has outstripped supply across much of the globe.

Teri-Mai Armstrong practices what she preaches by donating plasma.

The good news is that, while an individual's ability to donate blood is very limited, once every 56 days for men and once every 84 days for women, men are able to donate plasma once every six days and women every 12 days.

The key difference is that in plasma donations, a person's red blood cells are taken from the body and placed in a centrifuge to remove the plasma and then returned to that individual's system—putting much less strain on their blood system to replenish itself.

Sudbury was the first location to be converted to a plasma donation centre as a pilot project and it has proven to be so successful that another was opened in Lethbridge and a third in Kelowna just three weeks ago. "The government is now approving eight new sites," said Ms. Armstrong.

That's good news, she notes, because if the pandemic has shown us anything it is the importance of having home-grown sources of vital medical supplies. "We need to be self-sufficient," said Ms. Armstrong.

That's a sentiment strongly shared by Manitoulin Masonic blood donor chair Roy Eaton, who has also expanded his recruitment efforts to enlist the District H3 Royal Canadian Legions with two trophies up for grabs to add a bit of competitive spirit. "It's been pretty successful," said Mr. Eaton, "but the need is still great."

Ms. Armstrong noted that the plasma centre sees a lot of Islanders coming in to provide donations, which is a very good thing because, since the centre opened in the midst of the pandemic, a whole new set of challenges appeared to place roadblocks to donations

"Summer is a time of very high demand," confirmed Ms. Armstrong.

Setting up an appointment to donate plasma is relatively simple—log online to blood.ca and follow the instructions, or call 1-888-ToDonate (1-888-236-6283) to set things up. Summer is the perfect time to give the Gift of ans by building a movement that connects community foundations, Canadians and partners to create a just, sustainable future."

...Mobile food hub for Island gets financial boost

The Healthy Communities Initiative is a $31 million investment from the Government of Canada to support communities as they create and adapt public spaces to respond to the new realities of COVID-19. In the first round, community foundations across Canada received over 3,000 applications. The application from the Local Food Manitoulin Advisory Committee (formerly the Child Poverty Task Force) proved successful.

The re-branding of the organization basically only impacts the name of the committee, Kristin Bickell, Local Food Manitoulin project manager assures The Expositor, with the frame of reference and meeting structure, including its round table membership remaining unchanged ing its round table membership, remaining unchanged.

"The concept for the mobile food hub came out of two community engagement sessions," noted Ms. Bickell. "We recognized that many Island communities have their own unique situations and we wanted to avoid a cookie cutter approach."

The result was a flexible approach designed to adapt to the unique needs of each community.

The past decade of experience has highlighted a number of facets that needed to be incorporated into the program. One of those facets is a base station for the healthy foods program to centre its operations, rather than relying on ad hoc donations of space from community groups and organizations.

"There is a lot of time spent preparing and then cleaning up when we used those temporary spaces," said Ms. Bickell. That time could much better be spent working on the front lines delivering services needed in those communities.

While the base station will provide the storage and distribution opportunities for the program, a mobile kitchen facility would enable the program to reach deep into the communities where services are needed.

Like many community-oriented organizations, the pandemic added several layers of complexity and challenges to operations, but for land-based service delivery operations like Local Food Manitoulin those challenges were multiplied significantly—especially when it came to logistics for staff. It became increasingly clear that coordinating the solutions to those challenges would require a mobile component.

The location of the food hub base station has been firmed up with the transfer of a lease and offer to purchase of a parcel of land originally provided by the Northeast Town to Northern Ontario Permaculture Research Institute, with the food hub's parent organization, Noojmowin Teg, helping to facilitate the project.

The application to the first round of the Healthy Communities Initiative was supported by letters from the Northeast Town and a number of different organizations with an interest in seeing the project move forward.

The $241,000 funding injection was enough to allow the project to get underway, but the final price tag will be significantly higher.

"We are looking at a phased in approach," said Ms. Bickell, "with a two-to-three year time frame." The funding will add confidence to federal and provincial funding sources, it will prove critical to approaching corporate charitable foundations for sponsorships.

Another key component of the Local Food Manitoulin strategic roadmap will be sustainability and to that end a social enterprise component is being designed with an eye to building a dependable revenue stream.

In the meantime, individual donations to Local Food Manitoulin can be made online by visiting the organization's revamped webpage at LocalFoodManitoulin.com.

office. On the same date in Mindemoya, the vaccine bus will visit from 3:30 to 6:30 pm, at 6020 on Highway 542 in Mindemoya, also at the municipal office.

No appointments are needed, and anyone aged 12 and over can get this first or second dose, while supplies last.

"In addition to the many other vaccination opportunities in community clinics, pharmacies and primary care offices, these mobile clinics take accessibility and convenience to another level," said Dr. Penny Sutcliffe, medical officer of health with PHSD. "Bringing vaccination opportunities to more convenient locations will help lessen transportation challenges people may be facing. I also hope that the convenience of these clinics-on-wheels will make it easier for people with busy lives and nudge those who have just not gotten around to it yet! This innovative strategy is possible thanks to the commitment and support from the City of Greater Sudbury."

All COVID-19 safety precautions will be followed on board the mobile clinic, and trained staff will assist clients every step of the way. In addition, all the required pre-vaccination screening and post-vaccination monitoring will take place. Ove the course of two weeks, the bus will travel to communities in Greater Sudbury, Chapleau and Manitoulin Island.

If interest is high, it is possible there will not be enough doses to offer vaccine to everyone who goes to the mobile clinic, the PHSD release continues. "We appreciate everyone's patience as more opportunities are made available."

Updates about locations, dates, and times will be shared on public health's social channels and online as plans are confirmed.

Expositor corrections

In the July 14, 2021 edition of The Expositor the story 'Manitoulin bids farewell to long time fire chief John Reid' notes that Angela Reid, daughter of the late Mr. Reid, is a police officer in the Ontario Provincial Police Technical Rescue Unit. This should have read that she is a municipal police officer. The Expositor regrets the inconvenience this error may have caused.

A July 7, 2021 page 17 story 'Rifle team fires salute in honour of AOK veteran' incorrectly identified veteran Ignatius Gabow's daughter Cecile Trudeau as his sister. The Expositor regrets the error.

Stunning is the only way to describe two large pictures (8 feet by 8 feet in size) of the ship, hanging on the walls of the museum. The picture of the ship pre-disaster is impressive enough, but the picture of the ship lying forlornly at the bottom of the St. Lawrence and the lights shining on it by divers is nothing short of spectacular.

But there are many, many more items on display, among them a large model of the ship, newspaper accounts of the disaster, portholes, a wheelbase that was used to support the steering wheel for the ship, oodles of photographs, a first edition of a book detailing the sinking of the ship, an official inquiry book into the investigation into the ship's sinking, detailed blueprint drawings of the ship and uncorked bottles of wine and beer recovered from the wreck. A modest but respectful tribute to members of the Salvation Army is also featured.

A Canadian contingent of the Salvation Army was travelling on the Empress to a convention in England when the ship went down. Over 150 people from that group perished. There is a shoe from one of the passengers or crew on the ship, and among the many other items as part of the display is a stunning video simulation of the ship sinking, in real time of 15 minutes. visitors to the heritage centre will come in contact when entering the main part of the museum is the new display featuring Stanley Gordon Sr., Billings-Allan East township clerk for 38 years (1938-1976). Dianne Fraser of the Old Mill Heritage Centre board explained to The Expositor, "the (Gordon) family had donated a desk that Stan Gordon Sr. had used, and we decided after that to make this part of a display of Mr. Gordon, as he was clerk of the township for 38 years. We're quite proud

Ms. Fraser pointed out one of Stan Gordon Sr.'s jobs as a township clerk was to register all births, marriages and deaths in the township.

The display, "includes a motion from the township council to create Gordon Drive in Kagawong in memory of Stan Gordon Sr.," said Ms. Fraser. "He worked from home until the township office was first built.'

Stanley Gordon Sr. was born December 23, 1906. He received his education at Kagawong and Gore Bay, and farmed at Maple Point and Kagawong.

Mr. Gordon served as clerk of the municipality for 38 years, replacing T.J. Thompson at a salary of $60 a year.

Prior to a township office being established, Mr. Gordon worked from home. For a portion of his tenure, he was also treasurer. Recording motions from meetings, responding to correspondence, issuing pay vouchers, recording township marriages, births and deaths were some of the responsibilities of the township clerk.

At a retirement party for Mr. Gordon in 1976, Austin Hunt, reeve of Billings at the time read a letter from the treasurer of Ontario Darcy McKeough congratulating the retiring clerk on his years of service in the village.

Photos and information from the retirement party, along with the congratulatory letters from Mr. McKeough and a letter from Maurice Foster, MP for the riding, are also included in the collection

There are also numerous other letters, photographs, and other memorabilia from the family collection on display for one of the most prominent men in the township's history.

Other exhibits on display at the museum is the history of Harbour Island and the Daniel Dodge exhibits.

Ms. Deer noted that the idea for the walk first germinated some time ago, but the intervention of the pandemic put plans on hold. Things have recently come together, however, allowing for the walk to finally talk place.

very first water walk.

Elder Ago Neh performed a sunrise ceremony before two women stepped up to their waists in the water to fill a copper kettle with the precious fluid.

"People have forgotten how sacred water is," said Mr. Ago Neh, who said he hoped the water walk would serve to help re-awaken the spiritual connection between the community and water's lifegiving spirit. "Your body and the earth are made up of two-thirds water," he said. "You can't have life without water.' And yet, humanity has come to disrespect water. "We stand there and let the water run out of the tap for five minutes," said Mr. Ago Neh. "It isn't going to get any colder after a few seconds, but we just let it run away." Pollution has also become a serious concern when it comes to water.

Mr. Ago Neh invoked the memory of the late water walker Josephine Mandamin, whose circumnavigation of the Great Lakes not only brought awareness to the world's largest bodies of fresh water, but inspired numerous communities to take on their own water walks. Ms. Mandamin's niece Autumn Peltier has taken up the mantle of water walker from her late aunt and is now the Anishinabek Nation's official water commissionor.

Ms. Deer explained that water walks normally take place in either the spring, when the water is renewed, or in the fall, as water begins to settle into its winter hibernation beneath the ice, but the community decided to go ahead with the walk.

Ms. Deer began the water walk by providing water teachings in the waterfront area by the Sheguiandah powwow grounds. She has been undertaking water teachings for the past four years.

A group of women hand drummers sang an honour song to the water as it was being gathered for its journey through the streets of Sheguiandah First Nation while a floating water plate bore food offerings to the water spirits.

The ceremonies began around 5 am, but the walk itself got underway around 9:11 am, with an escort provided by the UCCM Tribal Police Service as the group made its way through the streets of the community.

Many residents came out of their homes to greet and encourage the water walkers as they made their way along the streets.

"We had to approach this in a careful way due to COVID-19," said Ms. Madahbee. "We would like to have had a larger group with more of the community taking part." Future years will see a larger gathering of community members

Kim Debassige, who teaches at Queens University, and her partner Steven Pruchnicki provided assistance garnered through their many previous water walks in M'Chigeeng.

The women and men attending the walk created medicine bundles that included small rocks (the grandmothers, those stones used in sweat lodges are referred to as grandfathers) and usually contain small portions of traditional foods including fish, corn and strawberries.

Elder Ago Neh said he believes that many of the issues facing Indigenous communities these days stem from the loss of their traditions and culture, their innate spirituality having been supplanted by the alien teachings of Christian missionaries and instilled by the residential school system.

"People have lost their identity," he said, referencing Indigenous peoples generally. "They wander lost and fall into drugs and alcohol to try and fill that gap." But those crutches do not fill the hole left by that loss of identity and only lead to self-harm.

It is hoped by the organizers and participants that ceremonies such as the water walk will help reignite Anishinaabe identity and lead to a sustainable recovery of traditional ways.

Funding for the program was provided by the Anishinabek Nation (Union of Ontario Indians) through the Indigenous Healing and Wellness Strategy program.

Ad campaign seeks to raise area awareness of human trafficking

HIGHWAY 6—Drivers on Highway 6 will likely have noticed two new billboard installations reminding travellers that 'sex trafficking is here, but so are we.'

The billboards complement the joint effort of Noojmowin Teg Health Centre and Manitoulin Northshore Victims Services and their social media and newspaper ad campaign, highlighting their partnerships with the Ontario Provincial Police, United Chiefs and Councils of Manitoulin Anishnaabe Police and Wikwemikong Tribal Police Services as well as with the Province of Ontario, specifically the Ministry of the Attorney General.

Delaney Campbell, a sexual and domestic violence service program counsellor with Noojmowin Teg, said the campaign reminds people to be vigilant for signs that someone may be being trafficked while also reminding those who may find themselves a victim that they are not alone and supports are available.

The information Nooj-mowin Teg and its partners are receiving is that human trafficking is occurring on Manitoulin and, Ms. Campbell added, similar to reports for domestic and sexual assault, the actual number is usually far greater as it is also underreported.

"It's here, definitely," she said.

What human trafficking looks like on Manitoulin is hard to pinpoint as it is impossible to make generalizations, the counsellor added, noting that preconceived notions about the appearance of victims and those who are trafficking them are dangerous. It can take on many different forms, she said.

The billboards and ad campaign also include a toll-free number to the national hotline, 1-833-900-1010. Those on the other end of the line will then connect you to services close to home, Ms. Campbell explained.

If you or someone you know is at risk of human trafficking, please contact the national hotline noted above and/or Manitoulin Northshore Victims Services at 1-866-392-7733 or call 9-1-1.

New hands on the tiller at Green Acres Tent and Trailer Park

by Michael Erskine SHEGUIANDAH—The changing of the guard at Sheguiandah's Green Acres Tent and Trailer Park (and restaurant) was anything but abrupt, as the new owners, Jeff and Jacqueline Kavanagh, spent several weeks last year and earlier this year getting hands on with the ropes of running a popular tent and trailer park and restaurant.

Customer service is job one with the couple and their children, daughter Sidney and son Drew, and their business philosophy was germinated in both the recent and distant past.

"We have always been involved in volunteering," said Ms. Kavanagh who, although she grew up in Toronto, her Island roots run deep. "My family is from here," she said, supplying that her mother's last name was Allen and that she still has family here. "I have a couple of sets of grandparents buried in Gore Bay."

Mr. Kavanagh is from Toronto, where he has served 25 years with Toronto Fire Services, but the Island isn't all that much of a change for him. "She's been bringing me up here for years," he said. His family is originally from Newfoundland and the similarities between the two topographies and culture has helped him meld into the community.

The Kavanagh children have spent their summers growing up on Manitoulin and have made many friends in the neighbourhood with whom they are reconnecting.

Daughter Sidney's chosen vocation is baking, having studied culinary arts and baking in school. Her passion is the Island's gain and it has not taken long for Sidney to make her mark on the business.

"We changed the front to make it a bakery more than a store," said Mr. Kavanagh. "She even has a name for it, "The Green Acres' Sweet Spot'." The assortment of cookies and other items in the display case lure both young and old into that part of the store. "Both children and elders seem to be drawn to the sparkle," laughed Mr. Kavanagh. "It's popular with all ages."

Ms. Kavanagh said that the decision to purchase the resort was a tribute to her mother. "She used to bring me and our family to Pepper Point Road every summer," she said. "We would come here (Green Acres) for ice cream. The owners at the time were very nice and they left a lasting impression on me."

The new owners are planning on maintaining the menu that customers have enjoyed over the years. "We are keeping things the same," said Ms. Kavanagh. "Over time we will add a few things of our own."

The resort is very definitely a family concern, with everyone pitching in on all fronts. Mr. Kavanagh said that he has discovered his inner Jack-of-all-trades, finding himself engaged in widely divergent activities on any given day.

Taking over a long-established Island business in itself creates a bit of a buzz, but doing it in the midst of a pandemic has provided an unlooked-for bonus. Not having the hectic addition of serving tables in a popular restaurant has allowed the family to settle in with a bit more elbow room in the busy day than might otherwise be the case. But the family is confident that once the shackles of COVID-19 have loosened, they will be well up to speed in the restaurant as

Hours for Green Acres Restaurant, currently for takeout only, are from 11 am to 8 pm, serving fresh baked goods daily, weekly dinner specials and, of course, the aforementioned Sweet Spot and its weekend delights. The restaurant will be opening for indoor dining soon. Check the business's Facebook page for updates. The attached store is open from 3 pm to 8 pm.

Kagawong Cooperative brings outdoor market experience indoors

by Lori Thompson, Local Journalism Initiative Reporter

KAGAWONG—From the moment you enter the revitalized space at the Aus Hunt Marina in Kagawong, you will feel the friendly, creative energy. Blue walls and a vaulted wooden ceiling decorated with strings of flags and a fishing net strung with clear lights, along with large windows overlooking the bay that open and allow a gentle cross breeze all create a welcoming nautical experience. Better still is the easy camaraderie of ladies who form the Artisans by the Bay collective and their variety of wares.

"We're all part of Kagawong Farmers' Market and we wanted an outlet where we could have our products on a regular basis rather than just one day a week," said spokesperson Sharon Alkenbrack, who prepares and sells custom tea blends and paintings. "Deb (Flaxman) asked the township if we could use the back of the marina and that provided a facility for us."

"COVID makes you think," added entrepreneur Tracy Paris of Carousel Barn Boutique. "You have to find alternatives, so for a little cooperative such as ours, this was great because it's almost like a permanent shop." The space was previously utilized by Pat Hess, who ran a canoe and kayak business from the marina.

"It's a nice addition to the marina building and to the town," Ms. Alkenbrack said. "The township has been amazing and marina manager Jim Fowlie has been awesome for helping us out to get it going. He's been very supportive."

The cooperative model tackles one of the most prohibitive barriers for entrepreneurs in Kagawong: retail space. "We've actually been thinking about getting our own space," noted Ms. Larocque. "We've been talking about it for a couple years. We were looking for front store space and it's really hard to find. We said, what about the marina? It just all came together. We did this in about a month."

Visitors are directed to the Kagawong branded clothing area almost as soon as they enter the cooperative by enthusiastic members. The t-shirts and ball caps show a stylized version of the iconic Kagawong lighthouse and are the brainchild of Deb Flaxman and daughter Maggie. "You don't really find anything that says Kagawong," said Ms. Alkenbrack. "It's always Manitoulin."

"Visitors like to take home a memory of the particular place they visited," said Ms. Paris. "Not just somewhere on Manitoulin, but where they were. Kagawong is like a port of call."

Ms. Paris is a distributor for Canadian-made leggings and other clothing items. Lydia Burlein repurposes old wood, furniture and other items into whimsical benches, shelves, garden art and more. Diane Larocque is a Norwex distributor and offers handknit items as well. There are paintings by artist Helen Siksek and Deb Flaxman is a distributor for Kagawong photographer Craig Jackson's calendars and mugs. Ms. Flaxman sells t-shirts and ball caps with a Kagawong lighthouse logo designed by her daughter, Maggie. The cooperative also carries consignment items, such as beeswax candles and natural insect repellents and balms by Eternal Bee, bath salts by Lauren MacKay and firestarters by Brad MacKay.

Most of the products, art and crafts available are locally or Canadian made and many are environmentally friendly. "Norwex is great for boaters," said Ms. Larocque. "It doesn't use chemicals." Containers and microfibre cloths are made of OceanBound Plastic, which is created from existing plastic waste that has fallen outside normal collection processes and that's at risk of becoming a part of the eight million tons that is estimated to enter the world's oceans each year. All products are concentrated so less is used and include detergents, cleaning paste, descaler, mesh bags for produce, tote bags and collapsible containers. Ms. Larocque's hand-knit dishcloths are a customer favourite.

Ms. Burlein's floor space holds an old farmhouse door repurposed into a hallway coat tree, an old chair that has found new life as a planter, and a bench made out of an old headboard and a dresser drawer. There are birdhouses, her signature lanterns, colourful garden décor and tree jewelry made from chair rungs and chandelier crystals. "You can't sit in the chairs anymore but there's still a lot of beauty to them," she said. "People who come to the market and see my pieces are really pleased to see something that's not going to the dump, especially the spindles. People are redesigning their homes and tearing out these beautiful oak spindles and basically throwing them in the dump." Her products are designed for indoor or outdoor use and have a very durable finish that will stand up to the elements.

Carousel Barn Boutique came about when Ms. Paris' husband pointed out a display of leggings at a local fair. "I'd never worn leggings before but they were really soft. They're also unconditionally guaranteed and it's a Canadian company." Ms. Paris spoke with the Barrie-based owners and ended up as the Manitoulin area distributor. She has expanded her line to include sweaters, tunics, loungers, capris and joggers and will soon be adding handbags and jewellery.

Ms. Alkenbrack is a tea lover who has been creating and selling custom loose leaf tea blends for 18 to 20 year and at one time was proprietor of Tweebles tea shop in Kagawong. As for the paintings (the ones at the cooperative included birds and wildlife), she's painted forever and has been using art as a creative outlet to help her through the pandemic. "I decided with COVID, there was no place to go so I might as well paint."

Artisans by the Bay is located at the Aus Hunt Marina, through the marina store. Although members will continue to participate in Kagawong's market this year (Wednesdays as usual, at the Pavilion), it remains a seasonal affair. "We're still tweaking the hours," said Ms. Alkenbrack. The shop will be open seven days a week for July and August. For more information, or to inquire about consignment opportunities, contact Deb Flaxman by email at dflaxman@sympatico.ca.

As the season progresses, the women will have shifts and take care of each other's goods, said Ms. Larocque. "We work very well together," Ms. Paris added. "We're a good bunch of ladies."

Exploring Manitoulin?

Low Island Park: Al fresco fun for everyone at Low Island Park's recreational options include a large playground, splash pad and a pavilion (centre) with washrooms and change rooms; also in the park are a beach and dock, ball fields, soccer pitch, skateboard park, trails and historic sites.

t the far northeast tip of the town of Little Current in the Town of Northeastern Manitoulin and the Islands (NEMI), overlooking the North Channel of Lake Huron and the LaCloche mountains on the far shore, a great summer getaway awaits.

Got kids? Bring them here to swim at the beach, get drenched in the waterspouts of the splash pad, run around the lawns and tucker themselves right out on the playground slides as you keep an eye out, all the while relaxing at one of the many picnic tables in Low Island Park.

The sprawling municipal green space and beach accommodate lots of recreational activities for all ages, with fields for ball and soccer, a skateboard park, a dock for launching canoes, kayaks and oneself into the water, a pavilion with washrooms and change rooms, walking trails, historical sites, all in a lush setting of big trees shading the aforementioned numerous picnic spots.

To the left of the pavilion is an introduction to the history of this area by way of a woodsy walking trail around the still-imposing remains of the Red Mill. A nearby heritage plaque describes this first large steam-powered lumber mill, built here in 1886.

Little Current's reputation as a lumber town had been established in the 1850s, when George Abotossaway, having settled here with other Anishinaabe families at that time, supplied wood from his sawmill to the traffic of passing steamers; these first inhabitants called this place Wewebjiwang – "where the waters flow back and forth," later translated to Little Current in English and Petit Courant in French. After the Treaty of 1862 opened the Island to non-Indigenous settlers, the Anishinaabe residents of Little Current were removed to what is now Aundeck Omni Kaning First Nation, or AOK, about seven km from town.

Another 'ghost' mill, the Conlon Brothers' mill, can be seen standing roofless, solitary yet dignified, on Picnic Island just north of the beach. In those long gone days of the lumber boom, yet another mill processed lumber nearby—the Potter Company mill. A plaque describes the "community of modest residences," known as Knockerville, that grew here after the Potter mill ceased operations, situated where Boyle Marine is today. The three large mills, operating day and night, shipping millions of feet of pine, employed hundreds of men who roomed in several waterfront boarding houses.

A wander along Little Current's long boardwalk from near here all the way to the Swing Bridge reveals the enduring importance of the waterfront in this port town. Countless pleasure craft dock at Spider Bay Marina and the marina of the Port of Little Current; the docks in town count cruise ships (not during the pandemic) and groceries, veterinarian, more dining options, a microbrewery, hotel and conference centre, large hardware store, paint store, community centre (and vaccination hub during the pandemic), fresh fish store, beer store, hospital, churches and on it goes, spreading south, east, west and north to the Swing Bridge.

Back at the beach on Low Island, however, it all comes to a nice, peaceful halt. The pavilion that houses the washrooms and change rooms hides an interesting architectural detail behind the municipal building façade that faces the ample parking lot: go around beachside and be surprised by a vaulted ceiling and stone walls open to the air and the lake beyond, echoing in feeling the remnants of the Red Mill nearby, perfect as a shelter from untimely rain showers. Just outside on the lawn, a group sets a picnic table with tablecloth and wicker basket in anticipation of the afternoon's al fresco feast.

Between the pavilion and the beach are the splash pad and playground, scenes of frenzied fun by an ever-changing cast of sodden characters (er, children) erupting in screams of delight. On the beach and dock below, people busily undertake to swim, look for minnows, put out a canoe or unfold deck chairs; a gazebo provides shade and to the right, a hiking trail contours the water's edge with a view over to the old Conlon Brothers' stone lumber mill.

So, do bring the kids, bring a friend, bring a picnic. Escape it all for a few hours. There's plenty to do here, including taking in all the beachside pleasures of our short summer from the comfort of a folding chair.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Manitoulin is being transformed with the influx of new residents and business owners who bring with them fresh ideas, experiences and perspectives that are enriching the area. Some individuals and families are still unpacking boxes, having only moved in the past month or two, while others made the move over the last few years and are now comfortably established in their new communities. Here are some of their stories.

by Heather Marshall

Farming, gardening and hard work are part of Tanya Lyons' DNA, having grown up on the family farm in Millgrove, Ontario, a 20-minute drive north of Hamilton. She spent her childhood and youth loving living on the land and helping with farming chores, whether gathering eggs or weeding the garden.

Even after taking on a nearby industrial job as an adult, assembling robotic plasma cutters to make structural steel, Tanya and her husband, Gerard, eventually took over the livestock and vegetable farm, raising their four children on the homestead they shared with her retired parents. While both worked full-time at the same automation firm, their Pure and Simple Farm was a full-time operation selling organic beef, pork and chicken, vegetables, eggs, honey, and maple syrup to rural and urban clients.

After nearly 30 years with the automation company, Gerard was ready for retirement so he could focus solely on farming. Tanya was ready for a change, too, as she grew increasingly concerned about the encroaching development surrounding their farm. Sprawling suburbs were expanding too close for comfort, immediately across the road from their farm. Their children ranged in age from seven to 27, so three of their children were out of the house and living on their own. However, Tanya worried that their youngest son, Hunter, wouldn't be able to experience country life long at the rapid rate the local economy was growing.

The couple decided to sell the farm to capitalize on soaring real estate prices and search for greener pastures where they could continue to farm in earnest. They initially considered properties in Prince Edward Island and New Brunswick, with blueberry farming in mind, but the chance discovery online of a gardening centre for sale on Manitoulin piqued their interest. Gerard had been to Manitoulin many times over the years, riding motorcycles and kayaking with friends, and was keen to check it out. In February 2020, they made their first trek to the region to explore their options.

They connected with Jerry and Sharon McMullin through their daughter Karen, a real estate agent selling properties in southern Ontario and on Manitoulin. After visiting JD's Garden Centre, the couples reached a hand-shake agreement to have Tanya and Gerard buy the centre as soon as they could sell their farm.

Before they could do so, to their disappointment, the business was instead bought by a Chinese corporation, leaving the Lyons, now back in Millgrove, on the hunt for another property.

During their time on the Island, they became aware that Garden's Gate also was up for sale and could see its great potential as a vegetable gardening centre, given its access to Blue Jay Creek and all the land included, with the added benefit of a popular restaurant. With the help of local real estate agent, Barry Barnes, they put together a quote and were ready to buy. Their plan was to build greenhouses and to use the produce they grew for both retail sale and in an organic food restaurant. All that changed within the span of a few hours.

"We were about to put in an offer to buy Garden's Gate first thing Monday morning," explains Gerard, "when we got a call from Jerry McMullin late the Sunday night before, asking if we might still be interested in buying the gardening centre as their earlier purchase agreement did not work out."

By 11 pm that same evening, the paperwork was being signed by both parties, making the Lyons the proud new owners of JD's Manitoulin Garden Centre. The family moved up and assumed ownership in October 2020.

"Hunter is the reason we're doing this," stresses Tanya. "We wanted to get him out of the city before it is too late, so he could experience country living as we always have. And what better place than the beautiful property we have up here?"

There were a lot of challenges in rejuvenating the gardening centre, but Tanya and Gerard are no strangers to hard work. They also count their blessings in having inherited Tammy Teege, who had worked with the McMullins and was a walking encyclopedia of everything related to ordering seeds, pots and fertilizers.

Since taking over the business late last fall, they have renovated the reception area, repaired and built new greenhouses, rebuilt the kitchen and seating area of the former café, and started extensive landscaping of the property. And they're just getting started.

The couple will reopen the café this summer offering light fare and have recently purchased the Authentic Belgian Waffle Company of South Baymouth to increase their menu offerings. There are plans for year-round greenhouses providing everything from spring plants and flowers, to fall harvest and Christmas plants, to a tropical house with ferns and banana plants. They have big plans for the garden centre expansion.

Their longer-term vision is to get back to livestock farming, having purchased 40+ acres surrounding their new property. In the nearer term, some of the additional land will be cleared for a one acre-sized pond stocked with fingerlings for kids to fish, a playground area and a campground with yurts for families looking for an outdoor experience.

"We want to do a lot and know how to work hard to make it happen," Tanya and Gerard explain. "We want to draw people to the south end of the Island, instead of racing past us on their way to and from the ferry. We hope more urban families will take time to slow down and enjoy nature and its bountiful harvest, which has so enriched our own lives."

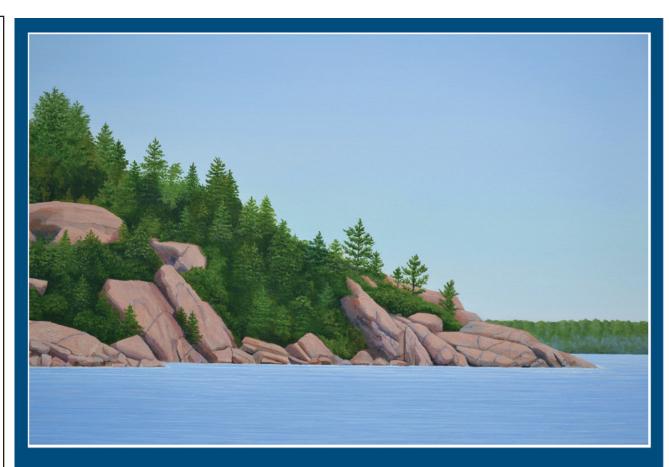

Heather Marshall and her husband worked as journalists and communications consultants in the National Capital Region for more decades than they care to admit before making their Sandfield summer cottage their permanent home. A lifelong learner, Heather loves discovering new things and people and relishes the opportunity to write about newcomers to the Manitoulin. If you would like to share your story or know of recent arrivals we should meet, send a message to hmarshall@videotron.ca.

The highlight of the June teleconference was the presentation of the president's report delivered by President Dawn Orr. The report covers the time period affected by governmental regulations in place during the COVID pandemic. The report is very informative and gives insight into auxiliary activities to continue to enhance patient services even in stressful times. As Dawn stated, "Even if we couldn't meet in person. it was so good to talk to everyone. We had a successful year despite the pandemic."

The president's report follows below:

"For the past two years, the COVID-19 pandemic has forced organizations of all levels to radically change the way they function. The Manitoulin Health Centre Little Current Auxiliary has risen to this challenge and continues to ensure that our hospital patient services remain in place. We would like to thank all those at the hospital who help ensure that these services continue to be provided on-

One of our members summed up the role of the auxiliary: "To make a difficult situation in one's life (a hospital stay) as comfortable as possible." This year, we have continued to offer: Care bags of essential items such as toothbrush and toothpaste. as people cannot often get home; free TVs, programand ming headsets to entertain and help pass the time; water in the cafeteria and on the patient floor; newborn babies are given a bonnet, and the New Year's baby also receives a special gift; patients staying over Christmas are given a present; snacks such as chips, gum, and other goodies that used to be available via the snack cart are still available in the showcase, along with additional items; and books are also available either free of charge or at a small cost.

All of our funds are brought in through fundraising and donations, and the pandemic has certainly made fundraising a challenge. However, we were able to adapt and put together three major fundraising events this past year: book sales at the Little Current Farmers' Market, which raised $1,600; the Bakeless Bake Sale, which raised $2.750; and the telethon with Robbie and Denise Shawana and Maurice and Carole Labelle, which raised $940.

Our main donation drives were also quite successful.

In Memorium: Though donations for this were down this year due to the changes to funerals because of the pandemic, it remains one of our top donation sources.

Coin boxes: These boxes around Little Current brought in $1,161 this past vear

Regrettably, due to our fundraising opportunities being so limited during the pandemic, we were not able to continue our practice this year of helping to purchase equipment and items for the hospital that would benefit both staff and patients. However, with the help of both auxiliary and community members, we were able to provide homemade masks for the Manitoulin Health Centre in Little Current.

I am also pleased to say that we were able to provide our two annual $500 scholarships to high school graduates pursuing an education in a health-related field.

Once again, we have had to put our celebration of our 75th anniversary on hold until such as time as it is safe to conduct it. However, we have decided on a new logo for the auxiliary in light of this milestone. Please look forward to seeing it in upcoming announcements and letters.

The past two years have been unprecedented and brought with them many unforeseen challenges, but

First market of the year a huge success

by Tom Sasvari

SILVER WATER—The people and community of Silver Water is always a welcoming one, maybe never as more welcoming as it was on opening day.

With the pandemic having limited everyone's chance to get outside and mingle a bit, the first regular Silver Water market, vard sale and book sale was obviously eagerly looked forward to by local residents.

"I'm just so happy we could get this going again for the first time this summer," said one of the vendors at the market.

And to make the event even more special a 'Welcome to Silver Water' replica of the large sign which was created by artist Linda Thiessen was displayed with bids being taken for the smaller version.

Ms. Thiessen told The Expositor the beautiful large sign, which is located on the grounds of the Robinson Township Fire Department property and welcomes visitors to the community, was initiated in March when she did a prototype. "I actually started the painting in May and used something I had never painted with before. I learned a lot," she said.

Members of the local services board, "asked me to do a replica of the original sign (which is about 30 years old)," Mr. Thiessen told The Expositor. "I did take a picture of the original sign to help and took photos from the along the public shore-

The larger 4x8 foot (without frame) 'Welcome to Silver Water' painting took about six weeks to complete. The wooden frame was made by her husband Eric. Paul Sorbara and family donated the materials and the Robinson local services boards. Ms. Thiessen donated all her paint for the creation, her husband Eric made the timber frame, Paul Sorbara donated the plywood for the painting. and the Robinson Township Local Services Board paid the remainder of the costs.

There was a total of 11 vendors on hand for the market. There was just about anything you could want at the market, from baked goods, collectables, books. children's toys,

The new 'Welcome to Silver Water' sign.

As well, there was barbecue food available with Paul Sorbara manning the barbecue preparing hamburgers and sausages.

The market will be held every Saturday from 9 am until noon.

Memories of Dad...

We do not need a special day to bring you to our minds:

The days we do not think of you are very hard to find. Each morning when we awake we know that you are gone,

And no one knows the heartache as we try to carry

Our hearts still ache with sadness, and secret tears still flow. What it meant to lose you, no one will ever know.

Our thoughts are always with you, your place no one can

In life we loved you dearly; in death we love you still. There will always be a heartache, and often a silent tear,

But always a precious memory of the days when you were here.

If tears would make a staircase, and heartaches make a lane.

We'd walk the path to heaven and bring you home again.

We hold you close within our hearts, and there you will remain:

To walk with us throughout our lives until we meet again. Our family chain is broken now, and nothing seems the same,

But as God calls us one by one, the chain will link again. Lovingly remembered by your daughter Marilyn, sonin-law Jim, grandchildren Marilee. Mallory Mitchell, and great-grandchildren Landen and Hailee 10p

Billings council calls on province to expand testing of Lyme disease by Tom Sasvari Lyme disease is a crippling disease if not diagnosed and with online resources for families with Lyme disease.

KAGAWONG—Billings council is in agreement with a southern Ontario municipality in calling on the province to expand testing of all strains of Lyme disease and to improve the level of treatment and care for those diagnosed with this crippling disease.

In a resolution from the city of St. Catharines council dated May 31 it is explained in part that "May is Lyme disease national awareness month and St. Catharines strategic plan includes improving livability for all. The Niagara region (as is the case for the Public Health Sudbury and District's Area) is a high-risk area for ticks and Lyme disease, and cases continue to increase. However, Ontario health does not cover treatment and testing for all strains of Lyme disease. It was further explained that treated appropriately.

Billings Councillors Bryan Barker and Michael Hunt forwarded and seconded a motion supporting the St. Catharines motion calling on the Ontario government to expand testing to all strains of Lyme disease and improve the level of treatment and care for those diagnosed with this disease. And that it be further resolved the Premier of Ontario, Ontario Minister of Health, local MPPs, Public Health Sudbury and Districts, all Ontario municipalities and the Association of Municipalities of Ontario be sent correspondence of council's decision and be it further resolved that Mayor Anderson will bring this matter to the attention of the Manitoulin region and request that the region build an awareness campaign

"The resolution is self-explanatory and is something that needs to be addressed," said Councillor Barker.

Council Hunt noted that with global warming, and the black-legged tick moving to the North the province needs to take action to expand testing and improve the level of treatment available.

Mayor Ian Anderson told council, "on a personal note, I worked with a conservation officer with the Ministry of Natural Resources and Forestry who is no longer able to work because he was diagnosed with Lyme disease. This is a long-term disease, and shows how devastating the disease can be.'

Death Notices

"LORRAINE" NORMA LOREEN EADIE (nee Freeman)

May 9, 1932 - July 6, 2021

In loving memory of "Lorraine" Norma Loreen Eadie (nee Freeman). Lorraine's greatest wish to move on from this life was finally granted on July 6, 2021. Born Norma Loreen Freeman in Tehkummah, she decided at a young age that neither name suited her and decided to go by Lorraine, an early indication of the steadfast woman she would become. Addressing her as either Norma or Loreen resulted in a stony silence and the ever-famous gramma look of disapproval. Predeceased by her husband Edward (Ted 2021), son Barry (1971), infant granddaughter Michelle (1972) and by parents Ernest and Mildred (Russell) Freeman. Also predeceased by brothers Larry, Lynn and Dick and sisters Gelena, Beth and Margaret. Survived by brothers Earl and Conrad (Judy) and sisters Marion Case, Brenda Robinson and Myrna Beaton. She will be missed by Everett (Verna), Darrell (Spike), Joanne (Michael) and Jack; by grandchildren Casey, Jillian (Ben), Ted (Megan), Chris (Meagan) and Phillip; by great-grandkids Lukas, Leif, Fenway, Orin and Eden. A life of many trials and multiple health issues helped frame her as someone who was tough and strong-willed with a determination that often bordered on stubbornness. A fighter and feisty woman to the end, she freely gave advice and opinions whether desired or not. She had an enduring memory and was relentless in her resolve. She was the matter of factcall it as you see it kind of woman. The granddaughters often received advice on their looks and hair or were questioned about fashion choices and in her eyes fashion faux pas. Still trying to get a rise out of her, one granddaughter even wore ripped jeans on her last visit hoping for one last response. Cooking and baking skills were honed working alongside her sister and best friend, Gelena. As a young woman she worked in the kitchen at St. Joseph's Hospital in Little Current. As a young mother of five these skills were necessary to prepare food daily and bake six loaves of bread every second day. Culinary skills came easily to her and her response to a request for any recipe was oh it's easy. In reality she seldom followed any written recipe. Grandkids viewed Gramma's house as a kind of convenience store as it was always amply stocked with chips, pop and candy. Family holiday dinners were a highlight featuring items like pies, rolls, homemade fudge and Christmas puddings as well as homemade preserves of pickles, carrots and beets. You never left the grandparents' house without a full belly. Her love of the grandkids was evidenced by her playful interactions, games and tomfoolery. The boys were having a lark ringing the doorbell and running before she could get to the garage door. However, she waited patiently in the garage for the next ring and caught all the culprits but one. The girls will remember being carried across a wet spot in the field because only one of them needed to get wet. She put aside her fear of dogs and dislike of cats to welcome grandkids' pets into her home. Although she was a tough love kind of woman, there was never any doubt how much she truly cared. As her family grew, she once again entered the workforce. She worked at Smith's Gift Shop and Catalogue Sales, the Sunset Motel and ultimately at Manitoulin Centennial Manor in the laundry. The family wish to thank Dr. Poenn for his many years of care. Her last months she was cared for by the staff of Manitoulin Lodge and Manitoulin Centennial Manor. The family commends the staff in both facilities for their care, compassion and understanding. Doctors Wilson and MacDonald provided excellent end of life care. If so desired, donations in her memory may be made to Manitoulin Centennial Manor Auxiliary. At her request there will be no service. Cremation has taken place. Please share your thoughts, memories and photos at IslandFuneralHome.ca.

proud Harley rider, master trapper, outdoorsman and conservationist. Always willing to lend a hand, open his door or help a traveller (human or animal) in need, Lloyd counted many friends around the world despite living in a place "where the highway ends." Loving father of Joe Weston and Roberta (Heather) Weston and grandpa to Kelsy (Ty) Marois. His stories, antics and spirit will be missed by his family and friends. In keeping with Lloyd's wishes, cremation has taken place and there will be "no fanfare" as he called it. Predeceased by her parents Orley and Minota (Stauffer) Uffelman and husband Byron (Barney) Grenside Turner, siblings James (Denise), William (Erla) Uffelmann and Eleanor (Clare) Martin and brother-in-law Al Schutts, niece Susan Uffelman Schwalm and nephew Alan Schutts. Survived by children Anne (Bryn) Casson, Grant (Betsy) of Manchester Center, VT and Jib (Debby) Turner, grandchildren Tasha (Jason) Abotossaway, Ellie (RC) Askew of Alberton, MT, Kinga Casson, Bettina (Charlie) Turner of Elliot Lake, Julianna Casson and Martha Turner of Manchester Center, VT, great-grandchildren Hunter (Maggie) and Carter Abotossaway, Jack Casson Bentley and Winn Askew, great-great-grandchild Aspyn and siblings Barbara Joan Schutts and Margaret (Peggy) and Glen Biederman and many nieces and nephews. Phyllis grew up in a large extended family with many cousins and relatives nearby throughout Waterloo County who swam competitively, she was discouraged from studying post-secondary animal husbandry as it would be too embarrassing for the men in her class and found clerical work for the Equitable Life Company in Waterloo. She moved to Hamilton employed by the Red Cross blood donor clinics, driving, and setting up throughout southern Ontario. She was very proud she could double-clutch! Two great-aunts had settled in Green Bay on Manitoulin Island in the late 1800s. Phyllis came to visit relatives here in 1953, met Barney, married him and moved to Manitoulin Island in 1954. She raised her three children in Little Current and served the community in many ways, as President of the Little Current Public School Board, the Webejewung Ski Club, the Little Current Ladies' Curling Club, the Holy Trinity Women's Auxiliary, the St Joseph's Hospital Auxiliary and served Meals on Wheels. When she turned 80, she thought it best to hang up her curling broom and always missed the curling club where she had skipped competitive rinks for many years. A lifelong good friend to feathered and furry critters, she is also survived by her dear kitty, Ginger. A private family memorial service will take place.

HAROLD INGRAM CLARKE September 6, 1945 - July 14, 2021

Tarold Ingram Clarke passed away at Manitoulin Health Centre in Little Current on Wednesday, July 14, 2021 with his family by his side after a tough battle with Pulmonary Fibrosis. Beloved husband of Faye (Golden) Clarke of 51 years. Loving father of Heather McKenzie (Burton) and Heidi Clarke (Kevin Burnett). Proud grandpa to Kristen, Brock, Natasha and Nathan (Victoria Cranston). Brother of Laura Middlebrook (Earl) and uncle to David and Elaine Leeson. Harold was born on Manitoulin Island to parents Ivan Clarke and Dorothy Ingram, moving to Sudbury in his later teenage years where he worked as a mechanic. Harold and Faye moved back to Manitowaning in 1970 where he worked for his father-in-law at Golden's Propane, eventually taking it over. Harold enjoyed fishing, golfing, curling and driving around in his '63 Ford convertible. He was a charter member of Southeast Manitoulin Lions Club serving as president for many years. He was a driving force behind the snowmobile races, smash up derby and many other community events. In earlier years Harold loved to dance with his favourite dance partner, Faye. He also loved spending time with family and friends and playing a good game of euchre or poker. He had many friends and was always willing to lend a helping hand whenever he could. Cremation has taken place. Graveside service to take place at a later date. Special thanks to Dr. Bedard and Joanne of Assiginack Family Health Team, Bayshore and all the caring nursing staff at MHC Little Current for their excellent care. Donations in Harold's memory may be made to S.E. Manitoulin Lions Club, War Amps, Manitoulin Health Centre or a charity of your choice.
