Child dies in tragic Wiky event

Nine-year-old girl struck in parking lot

by Alicia McCutcheon

WIJKWEMKOONG—The community of Wiikwemkoong has lost a bright light with the tragic passing of nine-year-old Marley Sienna Rain Peltier when she was struck by a driver in the Andy's parking lot on Monday morning, July 23. Marley was known as a "sweet and beautiful little girl" to all who knew her.

Marley Peltier was killed in a tragic accident on Monday, July 23.

Marley was a member of the Wikwemikong Hawks hockey team, a keen student and a dancer who enjoyed many other activities with her family and friends.

Marley was rushed to hospital by ambulance but passed away as a result of her injuries.

Andy's remained closed throughout the day on Monday following the incident.

Salmon Classic starts Saturday

by Michael Erskine

MANITOULIN—If you want to see Expositor Salmon Classic founder Dave Patterson get animated, just mention the word alewife to him. The baitfish and all-round favourite nosh of salmon and trout has seen a massive resurgence in their numbers swimming about in the waters surrounding Manitoulin and the North Shore—and that spells great fishing when the third edition of the Island's signature angling competition gets underway this Saturday, July 28 (running through to August 26).

Northeast Town mayor seeks more details on why swing bridge deemed at 'end of life'

by Alicia McCutcheon

LITTLE CURRENT—Northeast Town Mayor Al MacNevin has some concerns with the swing bridge study, commissioned by the Ministry of Transportation (MTO) and currently underway by engineering firm Stantec. It's Mayor MacNevin's belief that not all the information on the current state of the iconic bridge is being divulged, and he'd like some answers.

"There must be something more than just wedges," Mayor MacNevin said in a Friday interview with The Expositor, referencing last year's breakdown of the bridge, which the MTO cited was a result of defunct bridge 'wedges,' which help the structure swing. The mayor said he's heard off-hand from more than one source that there are "serious issues" with the bridge's foundation.

Mayor MacNevin said his natural inclination is to lobby to save the over century-old bridge and for the MTO to fix it, but his mind could change if he learns that there is more to it than just 'wedges.'

"My immediate reaction is to keep it, for a whole pile of reasons," he added. "First, it's part of the identity of Manitoulin, not just Little Current. The whole Island either loves it or hates it. It's like talking about the weather. Without it, what does that to the fundamental character of Manitoulin?"

"It's our Big Nickel," this reporter commented. "That's right, it's our Big Nickel," the mayor agreed.

Stantec will be making a presentation to the Northeast Town council next month. During the last meeting of council there was some discussion about coming up with an official position before that meeting, or at the very least holding a meeting to discuss the bridge.

"From my perspective, when there's a real split (as he suspects there might be with his council) we need to have a conversation

Hit and run incident risks woman's life

Alleged perpetrator faces impaired charge

by Alicia McCutcheon

SHEGUIANDAH FIRST NATION—An early morning walk from a party has resulted in tragedy for a 35-year-old Sheguiandah woman, Ruta Tribinevicius, when she was hit by an impaired driver and left seriously injured on a Sheguiandah First Nation street.

The driver was 33-year-old David Doucette of Sheguiandah First Nation. Mr. Doucette fled the scene but was later arrested by officers with the Ontario Provincial Police who charged the man with impaired driving. At that time, the officers didn't know the tragedy that had just occurred and from which Mr. Doucette was apparently fleeing.

The Manitoulin Expositor picked as part of national study

MANITOULIN—Angela Long of Oshawa recently completed a Masters of Journalism degree with Ryerson University. As part of her program, she was required to complete an internship; instead, Ms. Long took a job as summer reporter for the Haliburton County Echo. "In three months I learned a lot about community journalism," she said. "I fell in love with community news: the types of stories, the hands-on reporting."

She returned to Toronto where her fellow journalism students laughed at her and her stories. "They had internships at CBC News, the Globe and Mail, Toronto Star. They didn't take me seriously."

They were wrong, believes Ms. Long. "The Haliburton

Part 1 of a series: Islands in the Great Lakes: Snapshots of islands in the Great Lakes Islands

by Jim Nies

What's so special about islands? They are, of course, surrounded by water—which gives them a certain separation and sense of definition.

They are more or less difficult to get to, and thus tend to be less travelled and more natural. They are often slightly behind the time and seem to operate at a slower pace, offering peacefulness and tranquility. They have a relatively great amount of coastline, which gives them a relatively great amount of beauty.

They have definite boundaries, creating a sense of place. They often have a smallish population, a unique history, and a substantial number of shared interests.

Islands tend to think and act as communities.

Although there is something ineffable about exactly why, islands are different. Perhaps it's the air—if not the water. Whatever the case, anyone visiting an island feels the difference as soon as a foot touches shore. On an island you are somewhat removed to someplace special.

So what's the best way to think about islands? According to Christian Pleijel, chair of the Nordic Archipelago Cooperation in the Baltic Sea and former Director of the European Small Islands Network, there are three helpful ways:

- 1) the natural landscape (the island without humans),
- 2) the cultural landscape

(what happens when we humans move in to the island, what we do, how we survive, what we need), and 3) the technical landscape (the infrastructure we build to meet our needs of transportation, energy, water, waste and overspill we produce).

These three considerations are also an important part of the thought process of the relatively young organization operating in our part of the world. The Great Lakes Islands Coalition (GLIC) is an association of year-round-occupied islands in Lakes Superior, Michigan, Huron, Erie, Ontario, and the St. Lawrence River. There are about 20 of us.

In addition to finding "island solutions to

This Friday marks deadline for municipal election nominations

MANITOULIN—The deadline to run in the October 22 municipal elections is this Friday, July 27 at 2 pm, and there are a few things you should know if you're interested in throwing your name in the ring.

According to the Ontario government website, in 2018, candidates for municipal council in municipalities with more than 4,000 electors must collect 25 signatures endorsing their nominations. A person who is eligible to vote in the municipality may provide endorsements to as many candidates as they choose and may endorse candidates for any office on the municipal council. A person who is running for a ward councillor office may submit signatures from voters who do not live in that ward.

Candidates must also open a bank account before incurring any expenses or accepting any contributions of money (including a contribution from themselves or their spouse). A candidate who does not spend any money or accept any contributions does not have to open a campaign bank account. The campaign bank account must be used exclusively for campaign purposes, but the previous requirement that the account be opened "in the name of the campaign" has been removed.

There is now a limit for contributions that a candidate for municipal council and their spouse can make to

Gore Bay Theatre's 'Love Letters' a must see production

by Tom Sasvari

GORE BAY—Gore Bay Theatre's production of 'Love Letters' by A. R. Gurney opened with a sold out dinner theatre sponsored by the Gore Bay Rotary Club. The fantastic roast beef meal was followed by the wonderful performance featuring Jack and Betsy Clark.

'Love Letters' is a two character play where the actors sit in armchairs and read from letters and pose many challenges to the actors and directors. What is that makes this production of 'Love Letters' so completely mesmerizing? Not only is the writing poetic and poignant but the production is so simply and beautifully staged.

The play explores the experiences of the privileged WASP social set of the 1930s to 1980s. The two characters, childhood friends, maintain a many-faceted relationship for their entire lives that is heartfelt, humorous, and heart-wrenching.

Husband and wife duo of Betsy and Jack Clarke perform in the A.R. Gurney play 'Love Letters.'

Melissa, who is impulsive, neurotic, feisty, rebellious, seductive and often conflicted, is played to perfection by Betsy Clark. She captures the humour, the shifting emotions and the pain so beautifully.

Andrew, who is very proper, conventional, steadfast, shy and obsessed with writing is

Get charged with impaired driving—we will report it

This newspaper has a long-established policy of usually not reporting the names of those who have been charged with a crime until they have been found guilty in a court of law. This policy is based on the difficulty inherent in not being able to cover all court cases in order to report if someone has not been found guilty, but after recent events, we will now start publishing the names of those who the police report as having been charged with impaired driving, hoping that this small act will, at least sometimes, be a deterrent to anti-social behaviour that could end in tragedy...and too often does.

We all need to stop enabling impaired drivers. We now feel that by not publishing the names of people charged with impaired driving offences, by not bringing to bear this threat of public shaming, we may have been part of the enabling community.

Too many people crossing the Little Current Swing Bridge or arriving on Manitoulin aboard the Chi-Cheemaun ferry lean back, heave a sigh of relief at being freed from the constraints and stress of the urban life—and crack a beer. Being in the country, it seems, leads some people to believe that the normal rules need no longer apply, but they most certainly do.

Tragedy can strike in a heartbeat and far too often those tragedies are ones that could have been so easily avoided if the driver of a vehicle had simply not sat in front of a steering wheel after consuming alcohol or drugs.

The pain of losing a loved one or having one subjected to life-threatening or life-altering injuries are among the most terrible events that can strike a person's life. Your world is turned upside down in an instant and will never be the same.

Waiting by the telephone while a loved one is in the hospital undergoing medical treatment from an accident is possibly the most stressful activity that can be faced in life.

It is too easy to fool ourselves that we are immune to being the perpetrators of that pain. That somehow the rules of the universe will give us a bye and we need not fear the terrible consequences that might come from that lapse of judgement. Too many are still willing to gamble that the odds will fall in our favour and we will escape those consequences.

The time to make the decision to not be the cause of unbearable pain to a mother, a father, a husband, a wife or a child, is before taking that drink, or toke, or pill. Alcohol is still high among the main causes of fatal accidents—although distracted driving has apparently topped it from first place. The first thing that goes out the window when a person begins to drink is their sense of judgement, so putting in place the contingencies to avoid the temptation to drink and drive is very important. So are the reactions of those around the drinker.

If you see someone getting behind the wheel of a car after drinking or doing drugs, help save the life of someone's beloved child—make an effort to stop them. Pick up the phone and call the police if that is not possible to convince them not to drive. It is a simple number to remember—9-1-1.

If you are concerned about the guilt you might feel about "ratting out" a friend or colleague, just place that guilt on the scales weighed against the sound of the cries of grief coming from a mother who has just learned that her child has died or is injured in a life-threatening way. Place it on the scales against helping to carry the coffin of your best friend out of a funeral service. If you honestly think about it, the scales will tip heavily toward making the call. Taking the chance that an impaired driver will get away with driving under the influence and that no one will get hurt is not worth the gamble.

For many years, the number of impaired drivers has been on the steady decline, but lately, it seems, that trend is starting to reverse according to press releases received by this newspaper from the three local police forces. We must not let that happen. It is time to take a stand.

Honest Canadians abound

A wallet returned intact and with all the contents, including cash

To the Expositor:

Thanks, honest Canadians!
My family has been travelling to Northern Ontario and now spend most of our summer time at McGregor Bay where my husband's family has for decades. Our grown children treasure this part of Georgian Bay and love Canada whole heartedly. On July 5 my son-in-law lost his wallet in Espanola at Winkle's Independent parking lot. After leaving information at the store and with the Espanola Police, he proceeded to call credit card companies and other important contacts. I have a Canadian friend who assured me that Canadians are honest and that the wallet would be discovered. After several silent days, we assumed the wallet and contents were gone for good.

On the fourth day, my son-in-law received a phone call from a man named Don who lives in Espanola and works in Sudbury. He had found the wallet, by calling a number he saw on a business card in order to get the cell phone number of our family member.

Long story short, on his drive back to Toronto, our son-in-law stopped at the finder's workplace where his wallet was returned with everything in it, including the cash! My friend was right! Canadians are a pretty honest lot. Thank you, Dan, the finder, and to an ethic that exists in Canada: return to finder.

Gratefully,

Supporters of "proud little gem" of a museum extend gratitude

"We are fortunate to have so many wonderful museums on the Manitoulin"

To the Expositor:

On behalf of the Central Manitoulin Historical Society, we want to thank you for the great article written by Isobel Harry about our Pioneer Museum in the July 11, 2018 edition of The Manitoulin Expositor. We are very proud of this "little gem" in downtown Mindemoya and appreciate having you feature it in the "Visiting Manitoulin?" part of the newspaper. Perhaps it was because of your article, that we seem to have had increased attendance at the museum this week.

Actually, we are fortunate to have many wonderful museums on the Manitoulin!!

A passionate defence of Rainbow District School Board trustee

Confusion over how and why the Manitoulin trustee has been banned from meetings

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following is an open letter to the Rainbow District School Board and has been reprinted here at the author's request.

To the Sudbury Board of Education, and while I'm at it, to the provincial government in Toronto/Michael Mantha and to the federal government in Ottawa/Carol Hughes:

Please stick with me to the end. It might become clear, or at least, food for thought.

Yes, I meant to say, "The Sudbury Board of Education," because the Members of Parliament (MPs) and Members of Provincial Parliament (MPPs) in Greater Sudbury don't represent Manitoulin, and the MP and MPP Manitoulin elects don't represent Sudbury. We truly have no educational representation in Toronto (or Ottawa). Our educational tax dollars are leaving our riding! They go to the Sudbury Board of Education and Sudbury District. Can our MPP Mike Mantha even speak for his riding of Manitoulin, or help us, when it comes to our education system/finances, etc.? Who can we turn to in government?

And now the Sudbury BoE has decided to try to truly silence our only voice on their board by kicking out our lone trustee (Larry Killens). It doesn't seem constitutional! Is it even legal? Now we have nobody to turn to. How did this happen? How did Manitoulin become part of the Sudbury Board of Education? Why did this rural island get sucked into the city? The City Mouse just doesn't understand the Country Mouse (regarding certain curriculum, busing, extra-curricular everything, our spirit vs the spirit of a city, etc.)

To the immediate and urgent point: I can't imagine that I'm the only one who voted for Larry Killens; I cannot be alone in getting him re-elected more than one time; I am not the only one who reads the newspapers and knows how he operates, stands up for us, and "talks out" at meetings. In other words: he represents us and tries to help us. This is why I continue to vote for him.

If this was Larry Killens' first year as a trustee, perhaps Sudbury's actions toward him would be legitimate. But since the majority of voters have elected him more than twice, and nobody has come along who we feel better represents us and our position (according to votes), the Sudbury Board of Education obviously has a problem with Manitoulin. (Yes, little boy, the emperor's new clothes are a fraud.)

I believe that Manitoulin's Board of Education, and therefore our education tax dollars, should actually be in our provincial riding. In other words, that our school board should be transferred from Sudbury, to the North Shore, to be in the Algoma-Manitoulin-Kapuskasing riding—Mike Mantha's riding/our riding.

But until that happens I'm wondering: What are they trying to hide from us in the Sudbury board room? Why are they trying to silence a possible whistle-blower? Why are they bullying us?

Don't the people of Manitoulin have a right to have our choice of voices sitting at all the meetings of the board of education, which is supposed to be for us too?

The majority of those who voted chose Larry Killens. Accept him. Work with him. Thankfully, he does represent us.

Jim Munro

Jim Munro, of Scottish heritage, grew up in Billings Township amidst a thriving hatchery business, started by his dad, Russell Munro, on Sunnymead Farm. Two thousand chicks were hatched at a time to supply much of Manitoulin and areas beyond.

That business declined in the 1950s, and Jim left the Island to try several vocations before he settled into his working life at Dofasco in Hamilton. He and his wife Willie also spent many adventurous days travelling by motorcycle across Canada and the T&NO, in the roundhouse, repairing locomotives. At age 90, George made his own rotary lawnmower using an electric motor, home-made blades, welded into place on a steel plate with wheels.

Paternal great grandfather David Munro arrived to Billings about 1870. He and his brother walked over Jerusalem Hill to several Anishinabe farms to help with the harvest, returning with seed grain for their own farms. Grandfather Munro helped construct the first road to Espanola, farmed and taught Sunday School until he was 86. Willie was a student. David's first car, a Maxwell, was never driven by him, only by his sons who had driver's licences.

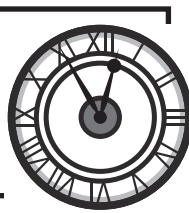

"My parents met on the Island," Jim continues. "Mum Emily Robison had worked in the hospital kitchen in Minnesota before she moved to Englehart and did the same work there. One of her co-workers was Margaret Baker, later Foster, from Manitoulin. Margaret would tell Emily about the charm and beauty of Manitoulin and eventually Emily came south for a visit. Jim has three siblings. Dave was born first, then Jim on December 3, 1933. "My dad went to church one Sunday morning and my mother went into labour with me." Russell was summoned as was Dr. Strain who arrived with just a few minutes to spare. Sister Eleanor came next and Robert, last.

"As a little gaffer, I was accident prone. I was on the horse-pulled democrat with my family, when a truck back-fired and the horses took off with a jump-start. I fell off and broke my elbow," Jim confirms. "One month later, my feet found rotten floor boards in the barn and I fell through, breaking my leg."

"Christmas was always special.

Willie and Jim at Leslie and Michael's wedding c. 1984.

I would get a new Mechano set," Jim recalls, "Getting the Christmas tree from the bush with David, dad and the hired man was fun. David liked the balsam firs, but I preferred spruce trees. David's choices usually won, until much later, when I had my own family and Spruce trees were king."

Jim's family farm was in Billings Township, two miles from school. "I remember the last day of classes, when I was in Grade 4. The town and country schools got together for a picnic at Tennant's Point on Lake Kagawong. "I saw this cute little six-year-old girl with a Dutch haircut. I offered to push her on the swing and then walked her to the picnic where I cut a stick for her to roast a wiener. We were married 12 years later."

There was the time young Jim pocketed a slithering little garter snake, to be duly released at his mother's Ladies' Aid Meeting. As expected, the ladies screamed, and the snake was retrieved. "Of course, I did get into trouble with mum after the meeting."

"Mother was an artist, painting with oils. She also created and refurbished hats for potential sale. She cooked for the busy farm folk, using her yodelling skills to fetch the men from the fields. She milked cows and fed chickens until the kids were older and could help." When Jim was seven, Russell became an Allis-Chalmers farm equipment dealer. "I started to drive tractors at that age and later added balers and combines. By the age of 15, I could fix much of the equipment. I preferred this to the poultry business."

Dad Russell, however, was invested in raising poultry. Rumour had it that turkeys were first introduced to Manitoulin when a batch was shipped to the island in 1890 to combat an infestation of grasshoppers. The success of this venture fueled the poultry business. An advertisement for turkey breeding was sent by an aunt from Aurora and it piqued Russell's entrepreneurial spirit. He befriended the Aurora hatchery owner who urged him to get serious about running his own hatchery. Russell did, calling his business Sunnymead Farm. It was located on the 10th concession road near Kagawong and he started with chickens.

Russell built a new incubator that could house 2,000 chicks. The fertilized eggs were obtained from the breeding flocks of four local farmers. 'Barred Rocks' and 'Red New Hampshire' varieties were popular. The trays held 100 eggs each. They were placed into a drum that would be rotated 180 degrees four times a day, midnight, six in the morning, lunch time and six in the evening, so that the yolks or embryos would not stick to the shells. Roosters were 'cajonized' through castration to encourage more growth. When Russell was injured in a fall in 1940, wife Emily took over and kept production going.

In the early 1940s turkey hatching was added to the job list. According to local publication "A Link With The Past," Manitoulin turkeys were prized in southern Ontario, with as many as 7,000 shipped per year, to Toronto hotels, as well as to Eaton's and Simpson's at Christmas, starting as early as 1924.

Jim delivered chicks to all parts of Manitoulin between March and May. Chicks also made it to southern Ontario, other provinces and the States. The tiny birds could survive for 2-3 days with no food. "I would take the seats out of the car and or pick-up truck and get eight or nine boxes of 100 chicks in. We delivered about 1,200 per week. One shipment made it all the way to Newfoundland with only two or three dead chicks. A mixture of water and feed had been placed into that crate. Dad always put an extra chick in each of the four sections for the box that held 100 birds. Some farmers would get 103 live chickens from his boxes."

The poultry business ended abruptly one disastrous day. The hatching area was heated with a hot-water furnace which had to be filled and stoked regularly, when the eggs were also being rotated. Russell accomplished this for many years, but one very cold night in February, after a little celebration with some friends, the owner of Sunnymead fell asleep and didn't stoke the fire at midnight. The furnace burst and the eggs froze. However, the tragedy was mitigated by the fact that the poultry business on Manitoulin was declining because the southern feed companies were building huge operations closer to the main market for the products.

"During the Sunnymead years, I remember my parents entertaining Mike Pearson a few times, once after the cattle sales in Little Current. Of course, he was treated to mum's famous fried chicken."

Willie Sloan, of Irish descent, and Jim Munro, with a Scottish background, were married on December 22, 1956. Willie's brother and Jim's sister were home from university, so it was a good time. "We awoke to a snowy day, but when we arrived at the church, a red carpet, a 'runner' had been laid out for us, stretching from the road to the United Church. It was a very kind gesture by one of our friends. We found out later the carpet had been purchased by and intended for the Anglican Church. However, the carpet was not damaged, and all was well."

After the wedding the newlyweds lived at Sunnymead for two years during which daughter Leslie was born. Anne arrived three years later. In 1959, Jim began to work for Lewis Runnalls at Barrie Island. Lewis ran hogs and there was a lot of field work. Jennifer (Jendi) was born on Barrie Island. After that, Jim drove the milk truck at Farquhar's. "Empty bottles were driven to Espanola, where Jim put them through the automated washing machine before refilling them mechanically on an assembly line."

There was a short stint in Elliot Lake, but the mines were shutting down. "I saw an ad looking for workers for 'National Steel Car' in Hamilton but found the jobs were taken, after we drove through the night to get there. The next stop was the Unemployment Insurance Agency which happened to be nearby. They didn't have to help me as a Northerner, but they did. Maybe they felt sorry for me after that long drive."

"I got work building boat trailers in Grimsby. I operated presses and made frames." Fourth child Melissa was born in Grimsby. After 18 months this business dropped off, and Jim moved to Wilson Engineering as a welder lay-out and fitter. Lastly, before his long-term employment at Dofasco, Jim worked on a tower for the Skyride at Expo 67 while at Arc-Way Industries in Burlington.

Dofasco's 'melt-shop' was the last stop. Jim became a Millwright and did maintenance work. After three years at Dofasco, an explosion caused a serious injury. "Water had inadvertently gotten into the molten steel furnace, causing a powerful eruption. I suffered burns and my skull was depressed by the violent force. A piece of bone had to be replaced with a hard material about the size of a toonie." Jim was rehabilitated and continued to work at Dofasco. He had another close call when a walkway collapsed in the dark. Luckily Jim turned in the right direction and did not fall 50 ft. to the floor.

In 1970 the couple bought a cottage in Grimsby Beach for $8,000 and $500 down and turned it into a 10-room home. "The old fellow who sold it told us he wanted $80 a month for a good box of cigars and a bottle of whisky. He died two months before we paid off the mortgage."

Jim spent a day observing home construction, built a scale model over the winter and began his own project in the spring. Willie cut the frames and Jim put them together. The heating ducts went through the concrete slab floor providing in-floor heating. He had an island counter in the kitchen with an extra sink and a lower counter beside the stove for oven racks. Years later, when the family was moving back to Manitoulin, these unusual modifications made the sale a little harder, but Grimsby Beach was a sought-after location by then. Jim also built his own motorhome. "We loved camping, so I bought a new chassis, frame and wheels. The motorhome took the family to many locations over the years."

The triangle chime became a neighbourhood phenomenon. It would be rung at supper to summon the Munro kids and it would seem, all the other local children to their own homes as well. It had been intended only for the Munro kids, but it worked well for the other families. At Christmas, the high ceilings invited the selection of a spruce tree that touched the ceiling. Decorating such a large tree was challenging but the splendor was rewarding.

Willie became a secretary at Beamsville Secondary School, and later, she had a similar role at the elementary school in Grimsby. She also spent 25 years with the West Lincoln School Board which included Beamsville and Grimsby. Jim was also active in the local school and both volunteered at the United Church. Jim was also a regular blood donor and he was recognized after having given 100 pints of blood. Lastly, Jim loved to sing so he joined a Barber Shop Quartet.

By Christmas 1975, the children had outgrown the motorhome, so Jim and Willie became motorcycle owners. "We were in our mid-fifties and were looking for adventure." Riding a motorcycle gave us better peripheral vision and acute awareness of traffic. We travelled to many locations in Canada and the USA, the highlight of which was a trip along the west coast, including San Francisco. We had flown to this city and then jumped on the bike. Salt Lake City, Yellowstone Park, Wyoming, Colorado, Denver, Kansas and Topeka were visited. It was below freezing in Denver and 100°F in Topeka the same day. We saw flash floods. We were totally surprised by the speed and velocity of the sudden water surge."

In the spring and fall, international competitions for the barbershop singing groups attracted the biking Munros. "Although the Grimsby chapter did not compete at that level, we liked to visit the competitions. We helped raise funds for Arthritis, Heart and Stroke and Logopedics for speech therapy students."

The couple retired in 1991. By then, they owned a one acre lot on Mudge Bay, Manitoulin. "We built an A frame cottage which we lived in to build our home on the same property. The children had grown up with children of their own. All four daughters inherited their father's love of music and had participated in the school band or

Killarney forest fire forces evacuation order, restricts travel

by Michael Erskine
KILLARNEY—Tinder dry conditions across Northeastern Ontario have contributed to dozens of forest fires in recent days, with smoke heavy in the air in many Island communities. The blaze in the Killarney area was still out of control as of Monday, with unconfirmed reports that at least five cottages have been destroyed and mandatory evacuation orders and travel restrictions being implemented.

All travel and use on the French River waterway, Pickering River (west of Highway 60/400), Henvey Inlet, the Key River basin and all associated tributaries that access those river systems, including all access from Georgian Bay and all islands on Georgian Bay within the French River Provincial Park boundaries, Dokis Island system and Puddick Island and all islands north of Henvey Inlet near shore is prohibited. All access roads west of Highway 69/400 north to the French River area are closed.

"It's pretty scary," admitted Killarney Mayor Ginny Rook. Mayor Rook and her husband Jim, also a municipal councillor and the town's emergency coordinator, had been on their phones most of the past few days. "We have two portable phones and the batteries have been pretty much drained."

"Any businesses not associated with the fire are closed," noted Mayor Rook, pointing out that the fire has taken a significant toll on local businesses.

Reports have suggested that as many as five cottages have been destroyed, but it is still too early to have an accurate assessment of the damage.

"The MNRF are going out in the air to have a look later on today, so we might have a better idea of the damage tomorrow," said Mayor Rook. For the moment residents are breathing a cautious sigh of relief that the winds are pushing the fires to the west and away from the built up areas.

So far the fire in the Key River area is anticipated to be in the "out of control" category for the next 30 days and has so far consumed more than 8,000 hectares. The Henvey Inlet wind farm has been ordered to remove equipment to clear a path for helicopters and water bombers.

A press release from the municipality confirmed that the fire has started to move in a westerly direction and away from the Pickering River. The release notes that the fire area confirmed so far is 4,380 hectares "with some projections indicating that it could grow to 8,000 hectares depending upon the weather, rain, wind direction, humidity etc."

The mandatory evacuation order for water access properties is expected to be in force for a minimum of five to seven days, although depending upon what happens over the next couple of days the order may be extended.

"We would suggest that all cottagers and campers return home," suggests the release, going on to note that "over the time that the order is in place the Key River, the French and the Pickering River will be patrolled by the OPP to protect your properties and to stop attempted access. OPP will be posted at all access points on the three rivers."

The Emergency Area Order, signed July 21, was issued by the Ministry of Natural Resources and Forestry prohibiting access and travel in portions of Parry Sound District "where there are public safety hazards as a result of increased fire activity from Parry Sound #033."

The measure was put in place "to ensure public safety while allowing fire personnel to safely and effectively suppress the fires in the identified area."

The ministry order notes that if a member of the public believes that access within the restricted travel area is necessary for non-recreational purposes, they should call 705-746-4201 to request a travel authorization permit. The MNRF will review the request for access based on the rationale provided, local fire activity and the potential fire risk.

Island farmers step up and offer to accept animal refugees

by Michael Erskine

ONTARIO—With fires raging through the bone-dry forests of Northeastern Ontario, the plight of those farmers and their livestock whose pastures lie in the path of the flames has touched the hearts of fellow livestock owners across the North, including Manitoulin. A Facebook page, Northern Ontario Wildfire Livestock Re-Location, has been set up to assist in connecting those in need of a safe haven for their livestock with those who have room.

"I offered on the Facebook page," admitted Dave McDowell, who operates McDowell Farms with his wife Theresa. "My cattle are all out on the grass, so I have an empty barn available," he said.

Mr. McDowell noted that although he has space, also thanks largely to the bone-dry conditions, his feed is limited. "I am pretty sure we could find some neighbours to help out if with that if need be," said the Assiginack farmer, adding that he understands the pressures a crisis like this can place on a farm. "When your farm goes in something like this, you lose all your pasture and your stored feed."

Mr. McDowell said that once that happens, as a farmer you are faced with some hard decisions. "If you don't have the pasture or the feed, you will probably have to decide to send them to market."

So far there have been no takers on his offer,

Manitoulin Sporting Life

Ice Chips to Canoe Quips

by Larry and André Leblanc

Rob Mellan, Joanne Mellan, Scott Mellan, Joe McCallion, Mark Gibeault, Heather Pennie, Tara Rollins and Kirsten Devenny were Team Manitoulin.

Congratulations to Team Manitoulin, the eight paddler team who paddled the 200km Kingston to Ottawa race in just over 26 hours! The Manitoulin boat finished in fifth place overall, and in first place in the Voyageur "North Canoe" Division. In their Manitoulin wood product, all eight of them made it all the way up the Rideau Canal system from the St. Lawrence River right into the downtown of our nation's capital, Ottawa.

When anyone does any sort of all-nighter, for one reason or another the mind will play tricks on you. That is a fact. So if you need to gather sustenance at a 3 am portage and your vessel just starts to float away from you, the smart part of your brain may just say, "Oh darn, nothing we could do, the canoe was lost in the current! I guess we can get a room for the night." But no, when this happened to Team Manitoulin, someone thought it was wise to jump in after their ship of suffering and prolong their pain.

Team dynamics is supremely important in almost all, sporting pursuits. However, when you are sitting almost cheek to jowl with seven other people through the heat of the day and the hallucinations of the night, people can tend to get on one another's nerve. Our Manitoulin team managed to, 'hold it together' when many other unnamed ships could not. One crew actually banished one of their paddlers through the night for "medical reasons" but upon further inquiry it seemed that the extra paddler was not worth the weight and the griping. Some teams broke down during the stress of getting their canoe around the 20 lock stations. Some boats were upside down before the race started, prompting event organizers to delay the official start of the race. Out of the 20 crafts that started down in Kingston, only 12 made it under the time limit up in Ottawa.

Although the paddlers did all of the in-boat, work they had an incredible support team that made sure they were so well provided for at all of the 20 lock station portages. I would hazard a guess that no other team, especially a team of eight would get individualized requests for refreshments and food at the next portage. They were so important that when a certain paddler seemed to be making an unhealthy decision at almost 24 hours of straight paddling, these bank runners conferred with the veteran racers and made sure that the individual had the electrolytes needed to finish their massive undertaking.

Jim Case Memorial Slow Pitch Tournament champs

The 8th Annual Jim Case Memorial Slow Pitch Tournament (part of the Summerfest weekend events in Manitowaning) included eight teams. This fun tournament was organized by Jim's son-in-law Ryan Stewart and his team of umpires who included: Larry "Hopper" Harasym, Jamie McCarville and Curtis Shortt. After many great plays, a few injuries and a ton of laughs, Jim's wife Lori Case presented the trophy to The Robinson team made up of: Jenny Robinson, Josh Robinson, Parry Robinson, Bobbi-Jo Brady, Jeff Brady, Keegan Clarke, Tyler Disley, Kim Bajko, Paula Dailey, Tamey McAllister and Tyler Hughson. The Robinson team defeated the Allen team in the final game.

First Wild Kid's first aid program proves to be very successful on Manitoulin Island

by Tom Sasvari
 MANITOULIN—A first of its kind program was provided on Manitoulin that provided not only practical first aid training for children from the ages of 4-18 years but no doubt provided fun for participants as well.

"Overall we had a great response and the kids got great hands on first aid training. A lot of the kids have probably never been taught in regards to helping others in this way," stated Sue Meert of Manitoulin Streams Improvement Association.

"We're pleased with the response we received," said Ms.

The Manitoulin Streams-led children's wilderness first aid course proved to be highly successful.

Learn all about orienteering August 1 at McLeans Park

ASSIGINACK—Throughout the last week in July, several residents of Manitoulin were learning to become certified orienteering coaches and officials. Under the expert guidance of the instructor Jeff Teutsch they ran various drills, learned mapping, compass work and how to set up and run an orienteering event.

Mr. Teutsch is well known in the Canadian orienteering community, having been on the Canadian Orienteering team and representing Canada for 10 years taking him all over the globe and since as an organizer, map maker, and coach with the National Team. Now, as an orienteering instructor, and thanks to the Ontario Sport and Recreation Community Fund grant, Assiginack has the good fortune of having him train local participants.

There will be a public event on August 1 at McLeans Park with a start time of 6:30 pm. For those wanting to learn more about it and have a good time, please come out. Bring the family, a friend or come by yourself. Wear good hiking shoes and bring a water bottle. If you are feeling adventurous and want to try one of the more advanced courses consider wearing long pants as you will be going off trail in the woods.

Over the past two years, thanks to various grants students from all elementary schools have been to McLeans Park hiking the trails. This fall, each school will once again be invited to attend a real orienteering event. Kids love the excitement of reading the map and discovering the flags!

This event on August 1 will give everyone the chance to participate in an official orienteering event and face the challenge of reading the map, finding the flag and racing back once all the flags are found! Orienteering is fun as it combines physical activity with mental aptitude to figure out where the flags are located by reading the map. It is often a surprise to see who comes back first. As with all events in Assiginack, it is the fun of participating that counts.

We look forward to seeing you August 1 at McLeans Park. The park is located off of Hwy 6 south of Manitowaning down New England Road.

Coast Guard ship Samuel Risley departs for its first-ever Arctic mission

ARCTIC—The Canadian Coast Guard's annual Arctic operational season is underway and includes a maiden voyage to the Arctic by the Canadian Coast Guard Ship Samuel Risley.

CCGS Samuel Risley departed Quebec City Thursday, July 12 with 25 officers and crew on board.

Their first task will be to support the annual resupply mission for the United States Air Base at Thule Greenland. "My crew and I will be doing the Operation Pacer Goose mission. We are very much looking forward to seeing and working on the rugged west coast of Greenland, a place few people ever get to experience," said Captain John Cork, who is in command of CCGS Samuel Risley for the first month of its eight week Arctic mission. "This is a wonderful opportunity for the crew, and personally I am thrilled to have this as my last assignment before I retire after 34 years with the Canadian Coast Guard."

Twelve hundred kilometres north of the Arctic Circle, Thule is locked in by ice about nine months out of the year. Icebreaking service is needed to allow for a rapid resupply of food, fuel, construction materials and cargo. After Thule CCGS Samuel Risley will transit to the eastern Canadian Arctic and the waters of Baffin Bay, the Hudson Strait and northern Hudson Bay.

Captain Signe Gotfredsen notes her crew members are truly looking forward to providing Coast Guard service in the north. Captain Gotfredsen will assume command of the ship during the second half of this mission. "For a number of the crew, this will be their first time plying Arctic waters, so there is a sense of exploration onboard," said Captain Gotfredsen. "Some of our preparation time has been spent on training including Indigenous Engagement, helicopter slinging operations and environmental response."

CCGS Samuel Risley joined the Coast Guard fleet in the fall of 1985. During most of the navigational season the ship operates out of the Canadian Coast Guard base in Parry Sound Ontario. The vessel is multi-tasked and in addition to its icebreaking and aids to navigation duties on the Great Lakes it has also served on Canada's east coast.

The Canadian Coast Guard's Arctic operational season will run into late November, providing extended vessel presence in the Arctic under investments from the $1.5-billion Oceans Protection Plan. CCGS Samuel Risley joins other coast guard ships serving the Arctic this year including CCGS Amundsen, CCGS Martha L. Black, CCGS Pierre Radisson, CCGS Sir Wilfrid Laurier, CCGS Louis S. St-Laurent and CCGS Henry Larsen.

...First Wild Kid's first aid program

...continued from page 7 Meert. She explained, "We had three kids in level one, 15 in level two, which is great; we had expected 10 kids. Level three we had kids join in with the level two students."

The Wild Kids First Aid program was the first of its kind to be held on Manitoulin and provided practical learning for children.

Manitoulin Streams partnered with Manitoulin Training Solutions to put on the program this summer.

"These outdoor programs are created to educate kids not only on first aid but helping to assist in emergency settings that take place in a nature setting," said Ms. Meert. "We have partnered with Manitoulin Training Solutions, who basically headed up development of the program."

They provided practical safety training with, say an occurrence where someone slips on a rock and breaks their leg in the middle of nowhere, and what the kids need to do in this case, and providing information on stream crossing safety.

"For instance, kids 14-18 will be able to call 911 and talk to a dispatcher as part of the training on what to do in an emergency situation," said Ms. Meert.

Ms. Meert explained the development of the program for ages 4-7, level one, was a one day session geared to younger age level students on emergency situations, preparation and safety in an outdoor setting. It also included fun interactive activities that were held outside of Manitowaning in a nature setting. The level 2 program was for those aged 8-13. This two day session was more in-depth.

Level three includes kids between the age of 14-18.

"These sessions provided life saving skills and information that we feel is important for our youth, especially being that we live on an island and are near water wherever we go," said Ms. Meert. "And many outdoor activities that youth take part in present potential dangers."

"One of the sessions was on preparedness for crossing streams safely," continued Ms. Meert. "Getting all the kids to think safety and what they need to do if something happens. Monic Shaw, a paramedic (with Manitoulin Training Solutions), did a great job in presenting this to the kids."

"It was a busy two days for the older kids with lots of information for them to digest," said Ms. Meert.

"I think this year's event was a success," said Ms. Meert. "We would like to offer it yearly here (Assiginack) and in other areas of the Island in future years. We are going to look at the Rainbow District School Board to see if they would come on board as well."

"Safety should be at the top of priority lists for children, as well as adults," added Ms. Meert.

Their correspondence for 50 years, from childhood to later years, in letters sometimes tense, sometimes romantic and sometimes angry, tells a story that is amusing and deeply moving.

I loved the simple, elegant set, the soft focused lighting and colours which evoked the emotions of the characters; the sensitive and intelligent storytelling; but most of all, I loved seeing Jack and Betsy Clark together on stage. It was a captivating evening of theatre, one that will not be forgotten. I can understand why Time magazine called it "one of the four or five best American plays of the 80s."

Don't forget about "Love and Larceny," Gore Bay Theatre's other summer production which I gave a great review of in last week's paper. It's an evening of one-act plays that is one of Gore Bay's most hilarious productions ever and features its largest summer theatre cast including Lori Evans, Taylor Geertsema, Deborah Graham, Shannon McMullan, Carol Robertson, John Robertson, Kyleen Robertson, Tammy Robinson and Will Smith.

How fortunate and unique we are that in a community of this size we are able to see two terrific productions back to back.

Not many communities in Ontario get this opportunity. Ticket information is available in the advertisement in this issue.

There is a separate spending limit for expenses related to parties and expressions of appreciation after the close of voting.

Municipal clerks are now required to review contributions that are reported by candidates and third party advertisers to see if any contributors have given

To run for a position on council you must be eligible to vote in that municipality. On the day you file your nomination, you must be a Canadian citizen aged 18 or older, and qualify as a resident or non-resident elector.

If your municipality has wards, you can run in any ward—you do not have to live in a particular ward in order to be its councillor. However, if you run in a ward where you do not live, you will not be able to vote for yourself. Having a campaign office or a business in a ward where you would not otherwise be eligible to vote does not make you eligible to vote in that ward.

You cannot work for a municipality and be on its council at the same time. If you are an employee of a municipality and you wish to run for office on that municipality's council, you must take a leave of absence before you file your nomination form. If you are elected, you must resign from your job.

If you are an employee of a municipality and you wish to run for office in a different municipality, you do not have to take a leave of absence or resign. However, you may wish to check with your employer to see if there are any policies in place that could affect you.

The fee to file a nomination is $200 to run for head of council and $100 for all other positions. This fee must be paid to the clerk at the time you hand in your nomination form.

Your nomination fee will be refunded if you file your campaign financial statement by the deadline.

School board trustee candidates are not required to submit endorsement signatures.

Municipal elections will take place on Monday, October 22. See next week's paper for a full list of who's running and each of the municipalities

Madeline Island

Located in Lake Superior just off Wisconsin's North Coast, Madeline Island is the largest of the twenty-two Apostle Islands in the Archipelago. It is 22.5 kilometres long and almost five kilometres wide and is the only one of the islands with commercial development.

To reach Madeline Island, board one of the four steel-hulled car/passenger ferries that ply the waters between Bayfield, Wisconsin and the Island. It is a twenty-minute, four kilometre trip over crystalline waters to the Town of LaPointe, on Madeline's southern shore. Not only is the ferry ride necessary to reach the island, it is a great scenic cruise on Lake Superior! During mid-summer days, the ferries run every half hour. Check the schedule for early morning, evening, and off-season hours of operation. Ferries typically operate from March to mid-January depending on weather conditions.

The year-round population of the Island is approximately 265, but swells to between 2,500 and 3000 when the summer residents arrive - many of whom are descendants of early Island settlers who came to log, fish, and farm, while some came just to establish a summer retreat.

While school is in session, the Island's two-room, K-5 school has between fifteen and twenty students, while the older students travel to the mainland to attend other schools.

Islanders must adjust to seasonal changes in the mode of transportation between the Island and the mainland. The ferries operate from March through mid-January; the windsled (air-propeller driven boat) during freeze-up and break-up periods, and the "ice road" is available to travelers during the heart of winter.

County Echo is the thriving, beating heart of that community," she noted.

The experience fueled a desire to look deeper into rural and community journalism. A 5,000 word article turned into 10,000 words. Ms. Long did not fulfill that assignment; instead, she applied for a Canada Council grant to investigate further.

She was inspired by the book, 'Emus Loose in Egnar: Big Stories from Small Towns' by award-winning journalist Judy Muller. Ms. Muller wrote about her grassroots tour of rural American newspapers and the surprising success of small weekly newspapers across the United States.

"When I interviewed her," said Ms. Long, "she suggested this project. There was not a lot of information about Canada; what there was, was hard to find." Ms. Long's plan was to drive across Canada, visiting small communities and their newspapers along the way. "It was a crazy proposal," she said. "I was interested in the actual people

...Expositor Salmon Classic starts this Saturday

There have been some substantial changes in the Expositor Salmon Classic, which has been growing every year to become a significant new tourism draw to the region, explains Mr. Patterson. "The changes are based on the surveys we have conducted with the people taking part in the Classic. I think that's one of the keys to our success, bringing people what they want. One of the things we have noticed is that this is an event that people can share with their children, it's really a very family-oriented event."

"The first change this year is the prize money," he said. "There is a $1,000 prize for the biggest fish (salmon or trout) caught in the first week, but after that there is no weekly prize. Instead, we have taken that prize money and put it into the daily prize." That will see the daily prize for biggest salmon or trout hauled into the weigh-in stations doubling from last year's $100 to $200.

The second key change is in the weigh station times and locations. "We have moved the Spanish station to Vance's Camp from the Municipal Marina," he said. "The hours have changed in Providence Bay to 10 am to 1 pm and 6 pm to 10 pm. We based it on the traffic, and people wanted it open later at night." In that vein, South Baymouth will be open until 10 pm. "The other weigh stations will be dictated by the marina hours," he said.

In other good news for fishing Manitoulin waters, Mr. Patterson noted that there are also significant numbers of smelts making an appearance. "There are huge schools of smelts the likes of which I haven't seen in years," he said. "The salmon fishing is the best I have seen in a very long time."

But with the salmon numbers rising, Mr. Patterson has noticed an alarming trend. "I have guys telling me 'oh, I caught four 'pinks.' But when I take a look at the actual fish what they have is immature Chinook." Those baby Chinook salmon should get a chance to grow into the potential whoppers, suggests Mr. Patterson. "I have a new saying to get out there: 'If it's a jack, put it back!'"

But with that slight caveat, Mr. Patterson urges everyone to "get out there and get fishing!" But make sure you (and everyone in your boat that are fishing) have a ticket if you want a chance at The Expositor Salmon Classic's growing prize board.

and Councils of Manitoulin (UCCM) Anishnaabe Police Service were attending a separate incident, also in Sheguiandah First Nation, when they learned of the hit and run. Police then changed the charge against Mr. Doucette to 'driving while ability impaired causing bodily harm.'

Ms. Tribinevicius has been left gravely injured and, as of press time Monday, had undergone four gruelling surgeries at St. Michael's Hospital in Toronto, where she was airlifted Friday.

The police force's battles with impaired drivers weren't yet over for just one hour later, OPP laid another impaired driving charge, this time against a woman, 32-year-old Kimberly Waindubence, also in the Sheguiandah area.

Community Services Officer Marie Ford said there was yet another impaired charge laid on Island roads, on Sunday night, leading this newspaper to question whether impaired driving is once again on the rise and leading this publication to make an editorial standpoint to begin publishing impaired drivers' names from now on by way of a small act of deterrence.

In the Sunday night charge, two vehicles were involved in a collision on Highway 551 with one driver being charged with impaired driving, 29-year-old Tanya Armstrong of M'Chigeeng. The other driver was injured in the accident with non-life threatening injuries.

A benefit fundraiser for Ms. Tribinevicius has been tentatively set for Saturday, August 11 at the former United Church in Kagawong.

"We're going to have a band playing, a silent auction and we'll be selling her maple syrup," said one of the organizers, Meg Middleton. "We'll be doing everything we can to help Ruta and her recovery."

Ms. Middleton said the organizing committee will be accepting donations for the silent auction, such as services from local businesspeople as well as pieces from local artists. Donations of food, such as a plate of cookies or sandwiches, would also be greatly appreciated. To donate or for more information, contact Ms. Middleton at 705-368-1461 or thisismegmiddleton@gmail.com.

"It's so important to report impaired drivers," Constable Marie Ford told this newspaper. "You can do it anonymously, however you want to do it, just be sure to call police."

about the pros and cons," the mayor continued. "If it's a safety issue, that's a different story; if it's just about the timing (every hour closures) or having only a single lane, well that's a different conversation."

From a Northeast Town perspective, Mayor MacNevin has concerns that should a new bridge be built, and Marley was the beloved daughter of Shawnee Pangowish and Mitchell Peltier, also of Wiikwemkoong.

"She was very active in the school, committed to education and liked by her teachers," Ogimaa Duke Peltier told The Expositor.

Ogimaa Peltier said the Ontario Provincial Police was helping the Wikwemikong Tribal Police with their investigation.

"The family should be respected and be allowed the time to grieve and ensure that Marley has a safe journey home," the ogimaa added.

however, and he thinks that might be a combination of things playing a role there. "There have been a lot of people offering to help," he said. "You would probably want to take up an offer further south as that is closer to markets."

"Most of the need seems to be for horses," said Mr. McDowell.

The site coordinators have put together a list of those offering refuge to the displaced livestock which includes whether the location can accept horses, cattle, dogs, cats and whether there is trailering available. Some are also offering to put up human refugees as well, offering space for RVs and campers on their property.

undoubtedly at a new location, what this would mean for the roads infrastructure and, most importantly, the impact on businesses. "It would be interesting having a welcome centre that's not on the right road, and even the new hotel and Rob Sheppard's property (the real estate purchased from the municipality by Rob Sheppard for business development)—those are big investments."

Mayor MacNevin said he also has concerns over the bridge's importance to the boating community and, with a year-round Manitoulin Island population of just 13,000, the government may think twice about spending millions on a bridge that accommodates boating traffic.

"There is a risk that they'll only focus on land traffic," he said.

The mayor said he will be noting a study that is currently underway about increasing cruise ship traffic to Great Lakes ports to the Stantec engineers when they visit next month. The results of that study will be released this fall.

The MTO/Stantec study points to addressing the "need and justification" for the study to determine the next steps for the swing bridge and the mayor said he hopes that they do just that, and first thing.

"I'm not naïve enough to say the bridge will be there forever, but I want justification," he added.

...FedNor announces $5 million of investments skills training within the region's Indigenous labour force."

The investments made today stretched from one end of the Island to the other. Northeast Town Mayor Alan MacNevin attended the FedNor announcement as his municipality received $1,060,000 to accelerate business development and economic growth by extending wastewater services to accommodate commercial development in Little Current. Funds will also be used to construct a new access point to the highly popular Cup and Saucer Trail.

Other funds awarded in Little Current will enable Kelly and Craig Timmermans, owners of Manitoulin Radio Communication, to see the installation of a new broadcasting tower to the tune of $163,285. This will help create and maintain 17 local jobs and will support the ongoing success of Country Fest. An investment of $60,000 will go towards this very popular festival to complete capital improvement to the venue. Country Fest attracts 20,000 tourists a year to the region.

Also situated in the Northeast Town, the non-profit Northern Ontario Permaculture Research Institute (NOPRI) has received $31,500 to hire a youth intern for a one-year period. This intern will help implement the final design and construction of an innovative greenhouse that uses renewable energy, recycled materials and mobile communication technologies. The goal of the project is to demonstrate the viability of producing food year-round in Northern climates using a full-scale 1,000-foot version of the company's prototype greenhouse.

Among Beam, the executive director of the OCF, was pleased to accept a FedNor investment of $188,395, saying "It is for two years and it is very good for other organizations also because it shows that we are supported federally." The OCF funds will be used to establish an Indigenous arts and crafts entrepreneurship incubator pilot program. This will lead to job creation and will provide a new social enterprise revenue stream. Entitled Enaamijge Yaang Studios (Our Vision), the program will feature workshops with access to quality materials and a fully-equipped studio.

The Weengushk Film Institute will also receive FedNor funds. This $31,500 will be used to hire a youth intern for a one-year period. This will allow Weengushk to expand its operations to become a world-class media education and training facility. The intern will explore new programming opportunities such as Indigenous arts media training, Indigenous media pitch competitions, new production skills workshops and industry mentoring, and determine the viability of establishing satellite campuses throughout Northern Ontario.

M'Chigeeng First Nation Chief Linda Debassige was thankful for the funding through FedNor's Northern Development Program which means so much to her community. "This investment," she said, "highlights the important role the Government of Canada plays to advance the social and economic well-being of First Nation communities and municipalities on Manitoulin Island and beyond. By supporting key sectors of our economy such as tourism, manufacturing, innovation, and telecommunications, FedNor is helping to ensure people, businesses, and communities have access to the resources they need to succeed."

Manitoulin's college, Kenjgewin Teg Educational Institute (KTEI), will also receive FedNor funding to the tune of $611,556. These monies will be used to purchase and install state-of-the-art equipment and furnishings at the Institute's new Anishinawbek Skills, Innovation and

...Humour and love in the air for Gore Bay Theatre productions

and suspense were all the twists and turns in each of the plays and the very strong performances brought to the stage by a number of new faces. You would never know that this was the first acting experience for some of the performers.

In the first play, 'Charly,' a romantic comedy about a couple who have been married for 30 years, two veteran actors, real life husband and wife John and Carol Robertson, team up to breathe life into the imaginary husband and wife protagonists, mining the highs and lows of married life expertly.

The next play, 'Clive,' is a typical who dunnit, complete with a bungling detective in the Columbo tradition with a humorous and surprising twist at the end. It features two new and promising faces to the Gore Bay stage, Deborah Graham and Will Smith, whose performances are dead on.

The third and final play of act one features two younger but experienced actresses, Taylor Geertsema and Kyleen Robertson, in a play titled 'Friends.' The banter in this play is reminiscent of the TV series of the same name and the very strong performances of the two actors bring a humorous and contentious rendezvous onstage.

Act two opens with a very funny play called 'Daddy,' where John Robertson plays an overwrought father magnificently and Taylor Geertsema plays his calm and understanding daughter expertly. The fact that they are real life father and daughter makes the ending of his play very funny and poignant at the same time.

The second play of act two, 'Ssh,' is perhaps the most whimsical and intriguing play of the evening. A romantic comedy with a very absurd premise leading to a lovely moment of theatre. It features Tammy Robinson and again, Will Smith, both new and promising actors who both admirably meet the challenges of this unique and ironic play.

The final play of the evening, 'Tea with Enid and Pearl,' features two of Gore Bay Theatre's veteran performers Lori Evans and Shannon McMullan. Their stellar performances are what we have come to expect from these two experienced actresses. Without giving away the plot, the play has twists and turns which provide both laughter and intrigue with an ending that will totally surprise you.

'Love Letters' features Jack and Betsy Clarke, one of Gore Bay's most well known and respected couples. It is one of the most popular love stories written for the theatre.

It was a smash hit on Broadway and there is a recent revival and national tour starring Ryan O'Neal and Ali McGraw. Time Magazine said, "it was one of the four or five best America plays of the 80s," with the Wall Street Journal declaring 'Love Letters' "exhilarating, funny and moving theatre."

Luckily, area audiences won't have to go to New York or Los Angeles to see this play. See the Recorder's review in next week's paper.

Love is in the air this summer, and Gore Bay Theatre is directly responsible.

Don't miss it! Information about tickets and times is in the advertisement in this issue.

Open regularly during July and August.

involved, in boots-on-the-ground journalism. That's why I began this project, to defend the small paper. You don't have to work for the Globe and Mail or Toronto Star: the stories that rural Canada are telling are equally important to their communities."

Ms. Long visited Manitoulin Island and The Manitoulin Expositor as part of her research. In all the places she has visited, The Expositor is only the second to interview Ms. Long, the first being The Watrous Manitou in Saskatchewan.

She left Oshawa on April 25 and drove out west in her mother's Saturn Ion, which was packed full of camping and other gear. With connections in Haida Gwaii from previously living there, it made sense as a starting point. She has travelled to the Yukon and has stopped in every province as she makes her way back to Ontario. "I have some papers picked out," she explained, "but have discovered that locals know their papers and are very proud of them. I've stayed off the main roads and discovered some new papers."

After a brief stop at home (Ms. Long hails from Oshawa), she will continue east, passing through Quebec and making stops in Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island.

Canada's vastness is what stands out most for Ms. Long. "This country is huge," she said. "You don't know how big it is until you start driving and meandering." It was a last minute decision to drive to the Yukon Territory. "I turned up this little road, the Alaska Highway. Three days later I was in Dawson City. The first day, there was nothing but forest and 12 black bears. There was no cell service, no CBC, no news. I reached the first community, Dease Lake. It contains a gas station, motel, a grocery store. It was a whole other day to get to Whitehorse and another to Dawson City. There's just a huge amount of space."

She spoke of a lack of infrastructure in rural Canada that leaves people with a lack of access to Internet and wireless services that many take for granted. "With the lack of services, of cell service, in some communities it's just not feasible - they don't have the infrastructure for digital news. In Dawson City, it took over five minutes to download my email."

The warmth of small communities surprised Ms. Long. "People opened up their offices and their homes to me," she said. In the Kootenay region of British Columbia she was invited to a tapas tasting along with the local newspaper. She saw first-

Town of Northeastern Manitoulin and the Islands NOTICE OF FILING OF ADDENDUM Little Current Sewage Treatment System Upgrades Class Environmental Assessment

The Town of Northeastern Manitoulin and the Islands (Town) is proposing to undertake upgrades to the Little Current sewage system. These upgrades will improve the quality of treated effluent, improve the quality of receiving water environments and increase the capacity of the treatment system to support long-term growth and development in the community of Little Current.

The project was planned in accordance with the requirements for a Schedule "C" Municipal Class Environmental Assessment. The Environmental Study Report (ESR) issued January 2011 recommended upgrading the existing lagoons with new technology to increase treatment capacity. Final selection of the preferred design concept was deferred to the preliminary design phase. An Addendum to the ESR is now available containing details of the preferred treatment process based on updated design flows and effluent criteria. Please note that only the changes proposed in the Addendum are open for review.

The Addendum is available for review on the Town website. For more information or to provide written comments please email the following project contact by August 9, 2018:

Telephone: (613) 966-3068 Fax: (613) 966-3087

If concerns regarding the project changes covered by this Addendum arise that cannot be resolved in discussion with the Town, a person/party may request that the Minister of the Environment and Climate Change make an order for the project to comply with Part II of the Environmental Assessment Act (referred to as a "Part II Order"), which would elevate the level of assessment and require the Town to undertake additional consultation. Requests for a Part II Order must be received by the Minister (address below) by August 9, 2018. History Day 2018 explores the Birth of Kagawong and revisits the Dodge tragedy

KAGAWONG—History Day in Kagawong has been a popular summer sojourn on Manitoulin for many years, and this year the series of lectures and multimedia presentations will focus on two streams. The first portion focusses on the early days of the settlement as a timber town and the town's founders, the Henry brothers, and the town's early settlers and the second portion on the tragic tale of the death of Daniel Dodge of which this year marks the 80th anniversary.

Back in the days when timber was king a pair of hardy entrepreneurs ventured to the frontier's edge seeking to expand their fledgling empire onto the shores of Manitoulin, bringing with them 12 equally robust settlers and skilled workers to establish a mill on the banks of the Kagawong River. It was a quest that was to come to a tragic end in 1882, when both brothers ended in a watery grave when both of the Henry brothers were drowned in two steamship wrecks that occurred almost a year apart; Robert aboard the Asia and James aboard the Manitoulin.

"The story of the Henry brothers, who founded Kagawong back in the late 1800s, is really a story we are looking forward to sharing," said museum curator Rick Nelson. "It's a great story and our museum committee members Dianne Fraser and Sabine Huege have been putting in a lot of hours getting it ready."

"One of the speakers at this year's History Night is the great, great granddaughter of William Henry," said Ms. Fraser. "One of William's sons grew up to be premier of Ontario from 1930 to 1934." A testimonial letter about William Henry, written by his son and requested by Billings Reeve Austin Hunt in 1957 is part of the museum's permanent collection and will be featured at History Night.

The life and times of the original settlers of the region will come to life in a multi-media presentation that will feature their original words, as gleaned from journals and diaries, and local musicians such as Lyle and Darren Dewar will intersperse the conversation with the top 40 hits of the 1870s and 1880s and, thanks to the hard work of volunteers, the baked items popular during that epoch will also be featured to connect to the period with every sense.

The story of Luc Chateau, an early French Canadian settler in the region whose happenstance meeting with the Henry brothers had drawn the brothers up north in search of the rich timber stands to be found here, will also come to life. In fact, thanks to living links to those hardy souls such as Peter Gordon, Ethel Newburn and Don Lloyd those attending History Night will learn a great deal about what it was like to be an early pioneer on Manitoulin Island.

In the second part of the History Day presentation, John Van Etten, son of Laurine Dodge (Daniel Dodge's wife) from her third marriage, will be on hand as one of the VIPs said Mr. Nelson. "Also Roger Weber, the News 4 NBC affiliate reporter who created a documentary about the Dodge tragedy," he said. "He will be talking about his interest from the Detroit angle."

History Day in Kagawong will again take place at the Park Centre in Kagawong on August 9 with a matinee at 3:30 pm and an evening session starting at 7:30 pm. Admission is free, but donations to the Old Mill Heritage Site Museum are gratefully accepted.

...FedNor announces $5 million of investments in Island businesses

Research Centre for skilled trades programs.

Enaadaagehjik, the Wikwemikong Development Commission, will receive funding of $1,338,782 to support the growth of the community's first light industrial park, leading to the maximization of economic opportunities and to the creation of middle-class jobs. The band will also hire an intern for a two-year period to work as an information and communication technology business support officer.

The Manitoulin Tourism Association will receive $33,525 in funding to support the development and implementation of a sustainable tourism management action plan. This will help form strategic alliances between industry stakeholders and will identify destination management best practices and promotional strategies to enhance tourism and economic growth throughout the area.

The Split Rail Brewing Company, situated in Gore Bay, continues to expand, and a repayable FedNor investment of $66,600 will lead to increased productivity through improved water and energy efficiency, reduced packaging costs, and enhanced quality control. The initiative will allow the owners to purchase and install new equipment and adopt new technology that will open fresh distribution and retail markets and include gaining access to The Beer Store and the LCBO.

The Township of Billings also received FedNor monies of $818,276 to boost tourism and spur economic growth. This will enable the municipality to implement phase one of its waterfront revitalization project, which will see major improvements to the local docks and will create an additional 12 slips. As well, a diesel fueling facility and septic system will be installed. Power pedestals will be installed to provide lighting, power, and water to the existing docks at the Austin Hunt Marina and larger docks will be installed at the Small Craft Basin.

The Government of Canada is also investing $100,000 in the Dawson Citizens Improvement Association (DCIA) to modernize the Meldrum Bay marina and campground to help entice boater and recreational vehicle enthusiasts from southern Ontario and the United States to visit the area. Specifically, the investment will support the installation of a new, above ground, double-walled, dual-chamber, 2,000-litre tank for gasoline and diesel fuel, as well as a new 2,000-gallon-capacity sewage holding tank and pump out system to accommodate boats and RVs. A second access point from the marina to Highway 540 will also be established.

Sheguiandah First Nation will also receive FedNor funds. The amount of $15,907 will be used to help complete a feasibility study to support business development on its recently purchased agricultural property. The study will help maximize the economic potential of the 131 acres of farmland by identifying community-owned businesses that could utilize the land to create new employment and generate positive economic benefits for the community.

The Waubetek Business Development Corporation, situated on Birch Island, also received a Government of Canada investment for $234,000. This will allow the coordination and undertaking of regional economic and business development projects for a three-year period. Specifically, this targeted investment will support Indigenous youth leadership, Indigenous women's entrepreneurship programs, as well as the implementation of the Aboriginal Fisheries Strategy. The project will also support the implementation of an aquaculture business development and regional mining strategy, as well as the proposed Centre of Excellence for Indigenous Mineral Development.

Daughter Ann lives on a fruit farm in Beamsville and works at Costco, after retiring from Social Work. She has three children: Katie in third year university, Ryan training as a large equipment operator and Nick in Grade 12.

Jendi lives in London where she has retired from Freightliner and Sterling Tractors of St. Thomas, which builds commercial tractors for companies that include Manitoulin Transport. She drives a bus for handicapped kids now. She has one son, Kyle, who is a landscaper.

Melissa lives in Gore Bay and she is employed with Direct Satellite and Security (Dave King) where she does secretarial work. She has four daughters. Cassie is married with a son, Trystan. She will inherit pieces of her grandparent's art she has admired since the age of three. Colleen lives, works and attends school in the Sault and has a daughter, Tammy. Rosie is married and is finishing college in Barrie. Fourth daughter Rhianna is going to high school on Manitoulin. She is a very organized girl, starting at the age of four when she remade her uncle's bed because he had not done a proper job.

"We had a cat, Chipper, that Jim brought home from Dofasco. We kept the cat for 17 years, despite my cat allergy, and her eating all the shamrocks I grow inside each March. It seems the plants always regrew even stronger before they were moved out in the summer."

"We had a dog too. Jim became enchanted with a bearded collie at a pet shop while Willie was sitting in the dentist's chair in Espanola. "She had beautiful manners and we loved Wali for the 14 years we had her. Jim also spent time working with Stan and Bruce Gordon in their sawmill and making maple syrup. Later, he did carpentry work with Peter Gordon. Jim and Willie also had a bed and breakfast operation in Kagawong. We met so many great people."

Willie keeps busy with volunteer work at the Manitoulin Lodge. "I do paperwork for them and help with special events." Both Willie and Jim go to the United Church and participate in regular activities there." Jim sings in the Choir for the United Church in Silver Water and he is a member of the Masonic Lodge in Gore Bay. "These days I

"What are my strengths? I love fixing stuff, but I am not a finishing carpenter," Jim shares. Willie adds that

My mother started one in her Kagawong home, in the 1960s. We had an up-to-date encyclopedia that other students used to consult. Later with a Wintario grant, they got some space in town. I find I love working in the Gore Bay library, putting books in order." Willie still has her 90-piece moose collection which decorates the apartment.

"Someone I admired? Leila Sloan, my mother. Maime Gordon, teacher at SS#1 Billings in the 1940s was special too. She was the only elementary teacher I ever had," Willie offers. "Another person was Jean Barber. She taught English History and Latin in high school. She made Latin come alive." Jim adds that he "respected Reverend Arthur Higgenbotham who married us; he was a quiet, humble and patient man, a truly good man, and a good cribbage player. "Recipe for happiness? A sense of humour."

"There isn't any comparison between Manitoulin and anywhere else. We couldn't wait to come back here. The people are different and we all know the Island moves at a different pace. You know your neighbours are really your neighbours. They help when they are needed, and they will be there for you without asking. In Grimsby our male neighbours saw Willie and Leslie shoveling the driveway but offered no help. That wouldn't happen here. Manitoulin is the best."

Favourite verse or quotation? Jim, "I enjoy the stories of courageous women,

'Ruth and Esther' in the Old Testament; Willie, "God gave us memories, so we would have roses in December."

MFAA holds open house at the Northeast Town artisan centre

Northeast Town Mayor Al MacNevin welcomed art lovers to the open house reception for the Manitoulin Fine Arts Association Art Show being held at the town's Artisan Incubation Centre (municipal chambers). Mayor MacNevin gave a brief history of the artisan centre during his remarks, noting that there is a huge wealth of artistic talent to be found in the municipality and on Manitoulin Island.

hand just how integrated local news is with its community when the local restaurant hosted the pre-release tasting event for the newspaper.

The geography of place is an important focus for Ms. Long. "It is a strength of local news," she explained. "No one else knows what you know. I've visited a lot of papers now. I could probably pull out a map and tell you what a local paper's front page story will be, based upon its location and geography. The papers that are surviving harness that sense of place."

Manitoulin must have compared favourably to small communities across Canada. Ms. Long wasn't quite ready to go home and extended her stay here, attending the Leonard Cohen Koans concert in Providence Bay. "It was amazing," she said. She's pretty sure she'll be back.

A little rain couldn't dampen Summer Fest spirits

by Lori Thompson

KAGAWONG—The inflatable screen was set up at the municipal office beside Kagawong's main beach. People brought chairs and blankets, paddle boats and inflatable life rafts, all gathering to watch the waterside screening of the original 1975 version of 'Jaws.' Unfortunately, this launch to Kagawong's 2018 Summerfest did not happen. The only show was the storm rolling in. Friday night's movie was rescheduled for Sunday due to lightning; however, rain washed out movie night again on Sunday. In between movie attempts, however, Summerfest was jam-packed with fun activities, good food and happy visitors.

From 10 am until 3 pm last Saturday, there were demonstrations in spinning, wooden toy making, quilting, lace making, seat caning, and more. A games area for the kids was well staffed with volunteers to help out. A very lively game of musical chairs was hosted by the Mad Hatter; an even livelier game was played by members of the Recreation Committee. Several vendors set up shop in the pavilion and members of the museum board manned the barbecue. Music played throughout the day.

Deputy Fire Chief Randy Peters and volunteer firefighter Sean Patterson demonstrated what firefighters go through from the time of a call; driving down to the pavilion area with green light flashing, then suiting up with assistance from other firefighters. They always pair up when putting on their gear, the audience was told. This ensures that the gear is 'shingled' to prevent embers from falling inside their gear or into their pockets, and that everything fits and is working properly. The fully suited-up firefighters walked across the road to pick up some ice cream sundaes from the Recreation Committee's Soda Shoppe before walking another hundred feet or so to the fire truck where other members of the fire department offered equipment demonstrations.

Flathead Ford set up at

A growing crowd, on land and water, showed up for the outdoor screening of the 1975 classic 'Jaws,' which had to be postponed due to inclement weather.

The music of Flathead Ford rocked the Kagawong waterfront Saturday night.

the Aus Hunt Marina on Saturday night. Lawn chairs lined on the pier and the grass around the marina. People stood in the parking lot or sat on steps across the road to listen. The more adventurous had a good time dancing to the lively music from the 50s, 60s and 70s.

Summerfest wound up Sunday morning following the annual marine service. Officiant The Reverend George Gaiser arrived at the marina in a small aluminum fishing boat for the annual 'blessing of the boats.' Following the blessing, with Doug Alkenbrack on guitar, Mary Buie led the singing of an amended version of 'He's Got the Whole World.' Everyone proceeded inside St. John the Evangelist Anglican Church for the remainder of the service. "I love this church," one attendee remarked. "Coming here is like receiving a big warm hug."

Billings Councillor Barbara Erskine and Recreation Committee member Charlene Chambers both expressed satisfaction with this year's event and the turnout.

Community celebrates Jean McLennan's 100th birthday

by Alicia McCutcheon
MANITOWANING—The Assiginack Curling Club was bursting at the seams with well-wishers and family members last Saturday, July 21 to help fete Manitowaning's own Jean McLennan on the occasion of her 100th birthday.

Ms. McLennan was seated at the centre of the hall she had so lovingly helped to create and has cared for since its inception. She was sitting beside her Sandfield cousin, Andy Watson, age 101.

Granddaughter Melanie Carr was the emcee for the event and thanked everyone for coming to celebrate "this huge milestone for this very wonderful lady, my grandmother."

Ms. Carr also thanked the curling club for hosting the event in a place that's so special to Ms. McLennan and the entire family, and thanking the Knox United Church Women for catering their third event on that busy Summerfest day.

People know her as an advisor, friend and problem solver, Ms. Carr said of her grandmother, "with a heart full of love and kindness."

The running theme of the afternoon is Ms. McLennan's well-known penchant for getting things done, with no messing around. Small talk doesn't aid in seeing a task accomplished.

Algoma-Manitoulin-Kapuskasing MP Carol

Jean McLennan of Manitowaning celebrated her 100th birthday during a special event at the Assiginack Curling Club Saturday. She's seen with first cousin Andy Watson of Sandfield, who turned 101 this year.

Hughes was on hand for the birthday party and noted Ms. McLennan's century of "building community."

"You've done so much; we look up to you and can only hope for that kind of life," Ms. Hughes said. "The amount of people here is a testament to you. Happy century!"

Fellow Assiginack Historical Society board member Dave Smith also gave his birthday wishes from the board, known locally, he joked, as the 'Assiginack Hysterical Society.'

"Jean was one of the founding members but she was a mere 37 when it was founded in 1955," Mr. Smith recounted. "Even then, she was one of the movers and shakers of this community, and for all these years, like Mel said, we all jump when we get a call from Jean."

Mr. Smith noted the curling club, golf course, arena, museum and Knox United Church have all been projects that Ms. McLennan has had a major part in.

"Jean has been an ardent supporter (of the museum) since she helped to start it 67 years ago," he continued. "I could always count on Jean's support; and we're almost always on the same page."

He recalled a meeting where Ms. McLennan announced that she had just purchased a new piano for the Society so they could host barn dances with live music. The committee was horrified as they only had $67 to their name. Bev Maguire, treasurer, told Ms. McLennan there would be no piano; the order must be cancelled. "To this day the old barn remains piano-less."

"She also took a great interest in Michael's Bay," Mr. Smith continued, sharing the story of travelling annually to the historic townsite by horse and buggy with Ms. McLennan to place name markers on gravesites.

For this work, and so much more, Mr. Smith announced that a bench in Ms. McLennan's name would be placed on the museum grounds "in recognition of the time and expertise she gives, and still gives."

"Her attitude is always to give to community," Mr. Smith added. "I challenge young people to be a Jean McLennan; that is the greatest birthday gift you could give to Jean."

Former Assiginack reeve and Manitowaning businessman Dave Ham has sat on many a committee with

Ms. McLennan and also spoke to her community mindedness.

"My goodness," Mr. Ham began, "Jean has always had a project or two, or three, or four, all at the same time."

He told the story of a fire that razed the old Manitowaning arena in 1960 "on a cold January night; a devastating thing for the community. Who jumped up to get it back but Jean, working with council," he shared.

"She got together a gang

Kenjgewin Teg Educational Institute proudly holds the 2018 graduation ceremonies

by Michael Erskine

M'CHIGEENG—The 2018 Kenjgewin Teg Educational Institute (KTEI) celebrated its graduating students and award winners during a recent ceremony held at the college's M'Chigeeng campus.

"On behalf of the Board of Directors and Staff, we are so very proud of each and every one of our graduates for 2017-2018," reads the message to graduates from the board and staff of Kenjgewin Teg Educational Institute. "We are truly humbled to have been only a small part of your learning journey, and that you chose Kenjgewin Teg as one path in your journey."

"Graduation day marks a celebration of your hard work, dedication and commitment," continues the message, "while we will be taking the time to celebrate this tremendous milestone of achievement with you today, you will soon find yourself taking on new challenges and setting new milestones for your future. We are never given a dream without being given the power to make it come true!"

The board and staff message concludes "As graduates, and now alumni of Kenjgewin Teg, we hope you will always dream big dreams, and make all of them come true. Be sure to live, learn and take advantage of new opportunities as you move along in your personal journey of Anishinaabe maadziwin...and know that we will be cheering you on as you share your special gifts with the world."

Among the awards given out this year were the Kenjgewin Teg Board of Director's Award, presented by Stephanie Roy "to a deserving student who demonstrates exceptional achievement in their personal educational goals, serving as an exemplary role model in the Kenjgewin Teg learning environment" to recipient Emile Edwards.

The Kenjgewin Teg Educational Excellence Award in Memoriam of Sara M. Peltier was presented by Josephine Pelletier to "a deserving student demonstrating exceptional commitment and dedication to their personal educational goals, serving as an exemplary role model in the Kenjgewin Teg learning environment to recipient Nathan Shawanda.

WHO IS GOD? Is God really real? This study will help young people come to an understanding of their personal identity and lets them know that identity comes from God! Is God really my Father? It's one thing to think of God as the Creator, it's another to call him our Father especially when so many of us have distorted ideas of what a father is. Is Jesus really Divine? God in the flesh. This study will explore the claims of Jesus in the Bible and push to a decisive answer. Was he a liar, or the Lord? Is the Holy Spirit really a Person? In this study, we'll look closely at the real Holy Spirit—a Person as real as the Father and the Son—with whom we are meant to have a relationship. But what does that relationship look like, and what does it mean in a teen's journey as a disciple? 8-week program and then a Christmas play along with scriptures study games and activity. Program start on September 20. Location: Our Lady of Canada Catholic church. Time: 5-7 pm. Ages 14years to 18years. To sign up please email keithle- gree@hotmail.com or call 705-968-0822. God Bless.

of volunteers to erect the steel building that was shipped from Montreal and, by golly, it went up." By late 1962 the new arena was in operation.

"I'm looking for people like you to come and work for me," he chuckled, addressing the centenarian.

Mr. Ham noted her work with the curling club, organizing many a volunteer event all while running a successful insurance brokerage.

"She's a lifelong member of Knox Church, also organizing volunteers as well as building additions," he added.

He said he always made sure to help Jean as you never know when you might need that help to be reciprocated. A case-in-point was the US Air Force commanding officer Ms. McLennan just happened to know who helped make the opening of the Manitoulin East Municipal Airport a splashy affair with plenty of impressive US aircraft on hand.

"Jean calls me regularly, three to four times a day, and I appreciate that," Mr. Ham continued, "and she hasn't even thought of retirement yet."

Graham Lloyd, a retired officer with the OPP and long-time Manitowaning resident, also spoke at the birthday function.

"What a lady," he said. "I just can't say enough about her."

Mr. Graham shared the story of the curling club hall and how it came to fruition under Ms. McLennan's vision and guidance.

"It's unbelievable what this lady can do," he said. "She and Leona are life members, meaning they don't pay a fee to work at this club."

"Jean lives and eats for this place; she loves this place, and the one before it," Mr. Graham concluded, sharing that Ms. McLennan still attends the Halloween dance and remarked on her costumes each year.

Mr. Graham shared a dance with Ms. McLennan before letting the band get to work to entertain the masses.

Happy birthday, Jean, and thanks for helping generate news for quite some time!

MCCAULEY--In loving memory of Ian McCauley, son, brother, husband and father who passed away two years ago on July 23, 2016. You've gone across the river To a shore of peaceful rest. Your Lazy Boy chair is empty, As you sang in it, the best. Your laugh is gone forever, Since you left us that sad day. Your hand we cannot touch, As you walk with us each day. You are missed, Ian, in every way, And if we listen closely, You are whispering to us I'm alright and you're OK. Alicia McCauley - July 25, 2005
Liam McCauley - January 21, 2011
Trisha McCauley - September 23, 2017
Put your arms around them, Ian, Treat them with special care And all that seems unfair. Sadly missed, love and kisses, Your family

MOORE-- In loving memory of Waawaaskonenh "Wasse" Charity Moore. Born on a beautiful warm day, May 12, 1978, who started her spirit journey peacefully surrounded by her family at the Hamilton General Hospital on July 29, 2014, at the age of 36. A Little While For just a little while, You shared my every breath. I carried you inside me, Dancing out the rhythm Of the same sweet song, Our hearts beat in harmony. For just a little while, I held you deep within. I nurtured you with body, mind and soul. When you slipped away, The absence of your presence Took a wrenching and tormenting toll. For just a little while, Our dreams and hopes Grew right along with you. But they came crashing down When you slipped away from me, And there was nothing anyone could do. If, for a little while, I could hold you once again, And we could share the Rhythm of our hearts, If we could say hello, goodbye, Like loved ones do When one of them departs, If, for a little while, We could have precious moments Stopped in time I'd tell you that I love you, And I'd share my joy In knowing you were mine. For just a little while. Lovingly remembered always, Mom, Clarence, Riley, Danny and aunts

BOWERMAN--In loving memory of a dear father, grandfather, and great-grandfather, William (Bill), who left us suddenly on July 23, 2002. Memories of Dad... We do not need a special day to bring you to our minds; The days we do not think of you are very hard to find. Each morning when we awake we know that you are gone, And no one knows the heartache as we try to carry on. Our hearts still ache with sadness and secret tears still flow. What it meant to lose you no one will ever know. Our thoughts are always with you, your place no one can fill. In life we loved you dearly; in death we love you still. There will always be a heartache, and often a silent tear But always a precious memory of the days when you were here. If tears would make a staircase, and heartaches make a lane We'd walk the path to heaven and bring you home again. We hold you close within our hearts, and there you will remain To walk with us throughout our lives until we meet again. Our family chain is broken now, and nothing seems the same But as God calls us one by one, the chain will link again. Lovingly remembered by your daughter Marilyn, son-in-law Jim, grandchildren Marilee, Mallory and Mitchell, and great-grandchildren Landen and Hailee.

Wow, we finally received some long awaited rain. I could feel the plants in my garden just opening up their leaves to absorb the moisture and laughing with glee. So was I, because, even with the watering, the garden just wasn't growing like it would with a good rain-fall. My red currant bush produced very little this season, about one cup full, but enough to make some muffins which were delicious.

Blueberry Oat Muffins

I used one cup red currants and one cup fresh blueberries. Instead of brown sugar I switched it to coconut and date sugar. When you use either of the coconut or date sugar I find the sweetness cut in half. I also added hemp and black sesame seeds for extra crunch.

2 cups fresh or frozen blueberries
2 cups Loon Song oats or large flaked oats
1 cup chopped walnuts or substitute with your favourite nuts or seeds
2 cups skim milk, coconut, soy, or almond milk
1 cup all-purpose flour or spelt (I didn't use white just spelt)
1 cup whole wheat or spelt flour
3 tsp baking powder
1/2 tsp baking soda
1 cup light brown sugar or date or coconut
1/2 tsp cinnamon
2 tsp grated orange
2/3 cup sun flower seed or coconut oil
2 eggs

Garnish (optional)
1 cup blueberries frozen or fresh
6 Tbsp powdered sugar

Instructions

Mix oats and milk in a bowl. Soak for about 10 mins. Add egg, sugar, oil, orange rind and stir until well blended.

In a separate dish, combine flours, baking powder, baking soda and walnuts. Mix well and fold into oatmeal mixture until just moistened. Gently fold in 2 cups of blueberries.

Fill muffin pan 2/3 full with batter. Sprinkle a few blueberries on top of each muffin. Bake for about 20 minutes at 375°F.

Using a strainer or sifter, sprinkle muffins with powdered sugar as they cool.

It wouldn't be a Summerfest parade without Jean McLennan being escorted by Harold Clarke. It was extra special this year as Saturday also marked Ms. McLennan's 100th birthday celebrations.

No Summerfest Parade would be complete without tractors and lawnmowers—a few sure signs of a rural summer.

Visiting Manitoulin?

Traditional and contemporary Anishinaabe

by Isobel Harry

M'CHIGEENG—The modern architectural form of the Ojibwe Cultural Foundation (OCF), fully situated in the present, pays homage to the everlasting traditions of the Anishinaabek—the Odawa, Ojibwe and Potawatomi of Manitoulin Island and the Great Lakes region.

Light permeates the open circular atrium that forms the heart of the entryway and of the building itself. Towering cedar poles buttress the room's soaring canopy, lifting the spirit in the upward gaze. Activities radiate like spokes from a wheel in offices, a large workshop and activities area, a Healing Lodge, also circular, that holds a sacred fire for ceremonies, Ojibwe language radio station CHYF-FM and a museum that reflects on the inexorable links between traditional creative expression and modern manifestations of Anishinaabek art.

Upon entering the OCF's museum, a large dreamcatcher bathed in soft spotlight compels the visitor to consider the meanings it conjures. Originally crafted by Ojibwe mothers to protect sleeping children from harm, the dreamcatcher still acts as a symbolic filter, trapping evil and letting good flow through wherever it is hung. This dreamcatcher, in forged steel by M'Chigeeng steelworker artist Kathryn Corbiere, evokes the traditional uses and construction of this beloved cultural emblem, but seems imbued with even more than the usual resistance in its use of materials, perhaps in response to increasing modern threats to the environment, and thus to identity and way of life. A beautiful work of art, Ms. Corbiere's Dreamcatcher is hung near the museum's entry doors, a powerful sentinel, a steely reminder of what endures, its metal web perhaps shredding malevolent spirits to bits, allowing only positivity to pass into the museum experience beyond. It's immediately the sort of cultural encounter that is repeated throughout the exhibits in myriad inspired forms.

"Anishinaabek art history is one of incorporating new materials, of playing with materials in continually re-interpreting traditional art forms," says OCF Executive expression celebrated in M'Chigeeng museums

Lillian's Museum is adjacent to Lillian's Crafts on Highway 540 in M'Chigeeng First Nation. A donation gains entry to a storehouse of traditional Anishinaabe arts and crafts collected over more than 50 years.

Director Anong Migwans Beam, who is a member of M'Chigeeng First Nation and a widely exhibited multimedia artist.

We pause before two glass cases, each displaying an elaborately beaded 1870s 'bandolier bag' gifted to the OCF; with a flat bag in front conceived "to show off a big panel of beaded design," according to Ms. Beam, the bandolier has a wide beaded strap diagonally crossing the chest to one shoulder.

Anishinaabe bandolier bags, modeled on rifle bags worn by Europeans, "evolved with increasing trade in the Great Lakes region and the acquisition of new materials such as cotton and wool cloth, beads and ribbons." The tiny glass 'seed beads,' sewn densely in elaborate patterns onto cotton, wool or hide backing by the women, carpeted the bags in symbolic imagery and dazzling colour to be worn ceremonially by the men. "Beads allowed for curves in patterns where before, the use of quills did not," says Anong Beam. "The signature floral patterns on these bags were made possible by the flexibility of the newly available materials."

Beyond the antique bags, another bag is displayed close by, 'beaded' by contemporary artist Barry Ace, using salvaged computer components and copper wire to form complex floral motifs based on traditional designs. Says the artist: "I am referencing Anishinaabeg beadwork as a metaphor for cultural continuity, bridging the past with the present and the future, and as a demonstrable act of nationhood, resistance and modernity. My contemporary practice intentionally, yet respectfully, transcends and moves forward conventional Anishinaabeg cultural boundaries as a confluence between the historical and contemporary."

Confluence is felt in all the Museum's exhibits: in the art of Christian Chapman, entitled 'Kings and Queens,' that fuses silkscreen onto Woodlands-style paintings, in the traditional jingle dress side by side with one silkscreened all over in small faces, in the quill box made by Mamie Migwans and designed by Carl Beam ("she was the first to use toned-down colours in quill work," says Anong) and in the large display of contemporary quill, black ash and textile art by members of today's community next to a wall-size interactive introduction to Anishinaabe life precepts.

Anong Beam scans the visually evocative space: "With Anishinaabe art, there is a constant push for new expression. The push comes from a desire to build bridges between traditional and contemporary expressions, to show them together in a continuum of creativity."

Ojibwe Cultural Foundation: 15 Hwy 551, M'Chigeeng, Tel: 705-377-4902. Open Monday to Friday 8:30 am to 4 pm; Saturday 10 am to 4 pm. Admission by donation. <https://ojibweculture.ca>

A stone's throw from the OCF, around the corner and east on Hwy 540, is the unmissable Lillian's Museum, a dedicated space attached to Lillian's Crafts' large shop that holds owner Lillian Debassige's prized 70-odd-year-old collection of Anishinaabe arts and crafts.

A big room is arrayed from floor to ceiling in unique pieces of local Anishinaabe art dating back to the 1940s: rare ash baskets woven with consummate dexterity and intricate quill boxes with lifelike animals and plants tufted in quills by artists Anne Pangowish, Rose Williams, Josette Debassige, Mildred and Melanie Aguonie and many others whose work is preserved here for posterity.

The distinctive and highly collectable paintings of Wiikwemkoong artist Leland Bell line the back wall; ceramic bowls, beaded hide moccasins with fur trim and skillful carvings of antler and bone, going back many decades, line glass cases. Lillian's collection is far reaching but intimate, inviting viewers to appreciate the age-old techniques, materials and designs used in the creation of these cultural treasures.

Lillian's Museum: 5950 Hwy. 540, M'Chigeeng, Tel.: 705-377-4987. Hours: Monday to Friday, 9 am to 6 pm; Saturday 9 am to 5 pm; Sunday 10 am to 5 pm. Admission by donation. <http://lilliansindiancrafts.com>

Ray Fox exhibit on now at Debaj's K.B. Reynolds Mastin Gallery

by Giselle Aiabens
 MANITOWANING—A series of original drawings and framed prints by multi-talented Wiikwemkoong artist, Ray Fox, are currently being exhibited at the K. B. Reynolds Mastin Gallery at the Debajehmujig Creation Centre in Manitowaning. All of the drawings, which are graphite on paper, were produced in the past year and are based on people or wildlife.

Mr. Fox, who studied for two years at the Ontario College of Art and Design, took inspiration for many of the nostalgic drawings from old black and white photos. The photos were either from old family photos of relatives and family friends, which his mother kept in an old red leather suitcase that Mr. Fox remembered as being “jammed pack with

Tehkummah Talk and Times

Sure enough I tracked my little jean jacket down; it was at the Pierside Restaurant. Thanks. Apparently “The Beer on the Pier” afternoon was a great success. Split Rail Brewing from Gore Bay co-hosted this event, providing the refreshments, and the restaurant provided the fish and chips. Sounded too good to miss, but we were setting up for our Strawberry Social that afternoon.

A yell from the Wigwam’s little food court brought my attention once again to “Em” from Barrie. The family was enjoying pizza. So, I got to meet Norman, Wendy, Cody and Clifford. Will get to meet Winter and Willow on Friday.

This morning I went to the laundromat, got the dirty clean. Met some nice folk from New Brunswick who were also enjoying our Island. I do believe half of Tehkummah was in Mindemoya this morning, as well.

Got a hug from Jacob this afternoon. I don’t see him so much lately. He’s taking a course online and has other interests. Skylar likes it at Kicking Mule. (She likes horses?)

At Bingo last night, Norma Thomas had her sister Wilda with her. She is staying a week, visiting relatives.

What a job to try to keep the flower pots surviving. It’s a full-time job watering. The perennials have to fend for themselves and don’t look so hot (or maybe they do?).

We’re into the “Billowing Pillowing” cloud formation time again, just beautiful creations on Tuesday. Every once in a while, you get the confusion of high clouds going one way and low going against the grain, so to speak. Fascinating!

Beans! I said! That’s after I saw two of my beans eaten off. I only had about ten. It looked like a bear cub paw evidence. Fat pad, toes and claws?

Friday at market met Marjorie, I don’t remember Cathy? Wilson girls. “Bad words.” I said lots of them this morning when I looked out the door to see my bag of garbage scattered all over. The darling raccoons!? It’s not so much the picking up, but the pain before I have my bath or get loosened up. It is not easy!

Helen Oswald too, is having her issues. Had a nice long chat this morning, she said they had a wonderful singer entertain Tuesday at the Nursing Home out in the garden. His name was Peter? An hour and a half’s worth. Really good! Later on, family is having a 40/50/60 birthday celebration this year. Sometimes they line up nicely.

Happy birthday to Rick Gordon, Wednesday the 18th.

Sissy’s gone and done it again. She cooked, as she says. This is the Knox Turkey Supper in Manitowaning where her two Dads, her twin sister and her Mom “today” were her guests. Somehow there is no getting ahead of this girl and her generous heart. Thank you, too, for all the hard-working ladies and guests who put this together each year. Yummy!

Jim was doing his physically fit thing as he came riding in on his bike from his morning run. I was visiting with Sharon. They are the 4H replacement team when Grant and Eileen go cottaging for the summer. Audrie was doing a morning nap thing (a girl after my own heart, but we did get about a ten-minute visit before I had to go and set up for cribbage. She is looking amazingly well!

Cribbage today, eight full tables: high hands, Janet Dunn and Rod Pyette; first place, Cal and Rod, 964; second and third tied, Rita and Edgar; Laura and Patrysha, 925 each; Mary J. and I were low, 838 with three skunks?; door prizes today, Jay, Bert and Wooden Heart. Thanks once again to our food providers. Lunch is always good, and a happy birthday cake for Rick Gordon and the song of course.

Found a little purse near the Bank of Montreal in Manitowaning. Call me 705-859-3191.

Well, a hummingbird had a couple drinks and then went for his shower. I feel it was long overdue! He fluffed and fanned and cleaned, flew away and then came back for more, or maybe it was another hummingbird. Every creature says, “Thanks for the rain.” Friday. It’s coming down pretty good as I write. A bit of thunder and lightning, our second rain this year? Speaking to a fellow from Kingston on a smaller motorbike, he says they are parching down his way as well. I hear it easing off already, I hope that’s not it!

Pauline, Cal and Yogi all visited in the shade of the birch this afternoon. There was a bit of a breeze, not too uncomfortable. Then I took a couple of folks on a tour of the mushroom site.

This morning I was at the Market, good to see Anna and Hart finally made it to the Island and their summer place. I met the total clan and I’m going to adopt them too, talented and musical, what a great family addition they will be. Em from Barrie is Myrna, her husband Norman, their daughter Wendy, the grands, Winter and Willow and the boys Colby and Clifford. (Their dad was a C name, reminded me of our K’s, D’s, T’s, etc. etc. A good fit I think.

Just collapsed into the Lazy Girl chair. Ray met me outside and said we had a supper invite at Sherry’s, but I said “no” if you can believe it? I just came from a delicious Pot Luck at Sandfield Hall, held in honour of Keith Size, special

...continued from page 9A birthday. I just walked through the door in time to get in the lineup (and me without a pot!) A beautiful cake decked out with three photographs? (The young man Kathy fell in love with, the man in uniform and the later stage.) Kelly sang beautifully, Keith sang, too, including one of his own compositions. Previous to this I took in the 100th birthday celebration for Jean McLennan. Andy Watson sat beside her sister Mary Lou and lots of folk offered best wishes. I would have loved to have had longer to look at all the wonderful old photos. Carol Hughes attended, was also in the Summerfest parade. A bunch of girls on the corner sang Happy Birthday to Jean as she held her usual place of honour.

Callie was catching snakes at the Blue Jay Creek, on the tenth, I've never seen so many in one area before. A huge milk snake too. I was only there a few minutes. Wayne was drowning a worm, as the expression goes! I drove by them, then turned around to say hello. A week at the camp sounds good.

Well, the smell of smoke was strong this morning. Forest fires too close for comfort. Derek and Jodi were held back, watched bombers doing their thing too, on their way here. Tory and the boys, Desmond and Declan, arrived at Green Acres campground Saturday.

Our sermon today on Common Courtesy and Good Manners, a reminder that none of us should need. Linda sang a lovely song. She's had a couple of weeks! I spilled the beans and Tim sang and encouraged us to sing along. (Mandoline) I'm sure we will have more music in the coming weeks. Lunch at Carol's and Earl's with Anna, Hart, Greta, Mumford, Tim, Ellie, Theo and Evie.

Sunday- Pray for rain and no wind! Well, rain we are getting. I hope there is enough to kill the forest fires, as we woke to a very smoky world this morning.

I'm always just home from somewhere and in my Lazy girl chair, when I go to add to my column. Then a cherry pie message on my answering machine and a call from Susan. Wayne is on his way to Sudbury by ambulance for a pacemaker. Things happen in a hurry sometimes! Family following.

Well, back to where I was? A nice crowd at South Baymouth Pavilion and the entertainment was super. The Islanders: Peter, Gordie, Lyle and Harold, Judy Mc for the 12th year. A young sax player too (I missed this); a bagpiper who just won big at the Highland games, Marion's grandson. Martin sang, closed with prayer. Jack, Gary and Grant Hamburg and hotdog distributors and ladies carried in some good-looking deserts. Thank you once again, everyone, for a very nice evening.

Parade- I stopped, checked out Heli Cotnam's artwork at the Little Schoolhouse Museum and visit! Euchre Tournament result, 10.5 tables, Robert and Lorna on KP: first, Betty Jean and Bill, 81; Marg and Marlaina, 79, eight lones and Marlaina won the door prize; third?; fourth tied, Ted and Ruth, Dennis and Don.

Free movie nights in the park weekly. July 28, Home-ward Bound, 7:30 pm. August 4, Star Wars and August 11, Last Jedi. Budd Park, free, snacks for sale.
