Central nixes rezoning ask for sixplex in subdivision

Neighbours applaud decision by Michael Erskine

CENTRAL MANITOULIN—The municipal council in Central Manitoulin turned down a rezoning request from a developer seeking to build a series of sixplex affordable housing units on property zoned for a maximum density of duplex buildings. The Anglin Subdivision has been the subject of two public meetings.

Although the motion "to allow for a site specific zoning amendment be given its first reading' was moved by Councillor Derek Stephens, who supported the development, and seconded by Councillor Alex Baran, "in order to allow debate on the issue," the recorded vote saw only Councillor Stephens and Mayor Richard Stephens voting in favour.

"I know there have been concerns expressed by citizens in the acknowledged Mayor Richard Stephens in opening the debate. "We have a developer who is willing to provide a facility that is needed in this community.

"Central Manitoulin is one of the few places on the Island that is growing," said Councillor Stephens. "I am in favour of this development. The developer is answering all of the questions raised." Councillor Stephens said that drainage issues that have been raised are actually a municipal issue, and that he has received assurances that those issues can be adequately met. "Everybody is saying that we need senior friendly homes. With this development, businesses will expand, more young people will be employed," said Councillor Stephens. "This is a good development for this com-

Mayor Stephens noted that the town has received assurances that water drainage problems can be resolved.

"I am not opposed to development," said Councillor Patricia MacDonald. "I think there are other options to development of MANITOULIN—The Manitoulin Brewing Company will be launching its flagship beer, Manitoulin Swing Bridge Blond Ale, later this month. From a garage dream two years ago to a reality this summer, brewers Blair Hagman and Nishin Meawasige combined their passion for beer and love of Manitoulin to create a brew that Islanders can be proud to call their own.

Growing up in Blind River, the 34-year-olds first met in Grade 10 and have been close friends ever since.

"We've both always had a fondness for beer and trying new types," explained Mr. Hagman. "We also have both always been into

from Tom Sasvari
GORE BAY—The Manitoulin Planning Board (MPB) defeated a motion from the Northeast Town, moved at last month's MPB meeting by Northeast Town representative on the board, Councillor Melissa Peters, for the board to support the Northeast Town in leaving the MPB to establish its own planning authority.

"At our last Northeast Town council meeting on May 5, our planning board representative advised our council that the MPB made a decision to not reconsider our request to change the board's recently adopted weighted voting model," stated a letter to the MPB from Northeast Town Mayor Al MacNevin on the subject on behalf of the Northeast Town council. "It is unfortunate that the board has chosen not to recognize the need for a model that fairly represents both the financial contribution and population represented by its member municipalities. Let me also express my disappointment continued regarding the document that was circulated by Mr. (Doug) Head. In my opinion he continues to embody all that is not well with the Manitoulin Planning Board in serving the needs of its mem-

"I met with Lvnn Buckham (regional director for the northeast office of the Ministry of Municipal Affairs and Housing) on May 6, following the planning board's rejection of my request to amend the weighted vote procedure," continued Mayor Mac-Nevin's letter. "I advised her that our council wishes to have the minister grant us approval to create our own planning authority and withdraw from the Manitoulin Planning Board as we asked over a year ago. Director Buckham asked us to prepare a formal submission for her to present to the minister for review on this matter. We are preparing it now and I am confident that the minister will see that we have the ability to move ahead and take control of our own planning matters. My council has requested that (MPB member) Melissa Peters put a motion forward at the next planning board meeting, asking for the board's support for the Northeast Town's effort to form its own planning authority. I hope that the board will recognize that it would be in the best interest of all the parties to support our request.

Following the review of the letter by the MPB, Councillor Peters put a motion on the table asking for the MPB's support for the Northeast Town to leave the board and establish its own planning authority.

"I feel the Manitoulin Planning Board is here to represent all of Manitoulin," said MPB chair Ken AUNDECK OMNI KANING—The UCCM Anishnaabe Police Service has charged an individual with assault in the ongoing investigation of the Negaan'abik Daycare in Aundeck Omni Kaning (AOK).

As The Expositor previously reported, a claim was made on April 10 to the UCCM Anishnaabe Police Service regarding incident(s) of alleged assault at the Negaan'abik Day Care.

On Thursday, May 28, the UCCM Police issued a press release stating that a charge had been laid as a result of the report and subsequent investigation.

"As a result of an extensive investigation, a staff member of the daycare, 41-year-old Frances Taylor of AOK, has been charged with one count of assault," states a press release from UCCM Police

Tim Shaw in the spotlight at celebration show and dance

by Lori Thompson

TEHKUMMA—If Tim Shaw had his way, there would have been no spotlight on his musical career or Celebration Show and Dance held on Saturday night at the Tehkummah Community Hall. He would have preferred to stay behind his drum kit while he shared the stage with long time Down Yonder bandmates and special guests. Tim Shaw didn't get his way as well over one hundred people attended the celebration of his induction into the Great Northern

'We chose Tim for his longevity in the music," said Glen McDougall, Manitoulin Island district representative for the Northern Ontario Country Music Association (NOCMA). "He's there every time. He's always willing to give up his time to play a show. And especially for his aptitude and ability.'

The Great Northern Opry honours Northern Ontario musicians that could have chased after professional and commercial success but instead made a conscious choice to stay home and raise a family here, Mr. McDougall explained.

Mr. Shaw taught himself to play drums out of high school. He was good enough to be noticed by Ken Elford who asked him to play with his band, Ken Elford and Country Gold. He's been playing with Down Yonder for the past eleven years. As the 104th inductee into the Opry, Mr. Shaw will be sharing the honour with the rest of the Down Yonder band members who are all previous inductees.

In fact, Tehkummah Hall was a showcase for the Great Northern Opry on Saturday night. Special guests included Wayne Smith, Ken Elford, Jim Beech, Eugene Manitowabi and Ben Lentir-all inductees, as well as the talented Al Ryan. One by one the guests took the stage to sing a few songs and offer a tribute to Tim Shaw. The only Opry members missing from the stage were Doug Hore and Hardy

It's a balancing act, Mr. Shaw said of his music. "In the summertime we practice a lot and we're very busy with shows. We're working at the same time, and there's family life too.'

Mr. Shaw's wife Monic is able to attend more shows now that their children are grown, and she was in the audience to share in the excitement. Music is a passion for him, she said, but "he's very humble. He never recognizes his own talent. He's never had any training. He listens, and plays from there. I'm very excited for him.'

He feels fortunate to be where he is. "For a young fellow like myself, I have been very blessed to play with the amount of talented people that I have, both on and off the Island," he said. "It's been amazing when I look back at the number of talented musicians I've played with over the years. I can't name names," he laughed. "I don't want to leave anyone What's next for Tim Shaw? "I'm a closet guitar player," he said. "Glen's after me to sing. That will come. Maybe." He laughed. "It would be fun to play at

Municipalities to receive 2014 DSB surplus

ESPANOLA—Member municipalities received some good news during the May board meeting of the Manitoulin-Sudbury District Services Board (DSB). With the DSB's reserves in decent shape, and no major expenditures forecasted for 2015, the municipalities will each be receiving their share of the 2014 surplus.

The board learned that, following a review of its audited 2014 financial statements, the DSB was left with a surplus of $219,540.

DSB CAO Fern Dominelli said

reserve was low (the working fund reserve must be kept at least 15 percent of the municipal share), "there is nothing projected that would keep us (the DSB) from hanging on to it (the surplus)." Mr. Dominelli made the recommendation to the board that the surplus be returned to the municipalities, according to their shares of the municipal budget.

Northeast Town Mayor Al Mac-Nevin made the motion to return the surplus to the member municipalities, with all in favour.

The townships without municipal organization, among them Dawson and Robinson, will receive $34,615.85 and Killarney will see $14,242.92 in surplus funding returned.

Jobs for Youth program still accepting applications for students, employers

by Alicia McCutcheon

MANITOULIN—Applications are still being accepted for the Manitoulin-Sudbury District Services Board (DSB) Jobs for Youth program, for both students seeking work and potential employers.

The Jobs for Youth program pairs youths aged 15 to 18 with employers in their area, paying their full wage (adult minimum wage) for six weeks or 210 hours. Last year, 28 students received summer employment on Manitoulin thanks to the program, which also provides one week of employee training as well as first aid certification. Students will also have the support of a youth worker leader throughout the placement.

Applications for both students and employers are due this Friday. June 5 and are available online at www.msdsb.net/careers or by dropping into the Little Current office located at the Manitoulin Business Centre in Little Current, 9050 Highway 6, Unit D.

Truth and Reconciliation Commission wraps up this week in Ottawa

by Michael Erskine

OTTAWA—After criss-crossing the country from coast to coast over the past six years of its existence and hearing from over 7,000 witnesses who experienced Canada's notorious residential school system first hand, the national Truth and Reconciliation Commission (TRC) delivered its final report in Ottawa this week.

The end of the TRC may be bringing the culmination of six years of reflection on what has been labelled a national attempt at cultural genocide by Canadian governments, aided and abetted by many of the nation's mainstream churches, but many Native and non-Native political and community leaders are calling the end of the TRC the beginning of the process of reconciliation, not the end. In the words of one West Coast chief, "reconciliation implies that we were once friends" and that the process going forward would be more appropriately labelled "relationship building."

"The TRC is a beginning," agreed Wikwemikong Chief Duke Peltier, "but there is a long way to go to build a solid relationship between our peoples and Canada.3

Some of the truth part of the TRC included horrific tales of homemade electric chairs, malnutrition experiments and the deaths of at least 6,000 children taken from their families in an effort to make good citizens out of them to serve the British Empire—mostly as lower class domestics and labourers.

"Undoubtedly, the most shocking piece of information that we uncovered was the number of children who died in the schools," said Justice Murray Sinclair, chair of the TRC. "The number of children who died was a significant number, and we think that we have not uncovered anywhere near what the total would be because the record keeping around that question was very poor." The true number of those who died while in the custody of church and state will likely never be known.

The report, when released in its entirety, will be a massive tome. The executive summary expected to be released by Justice Sinclair yesterday (Tuesday, June 2) runs to some 300 pages.

Chi-Cheemaun dinner cruises shaping up a delicious diversion

MANITOULIN—The Owen Sound Transportation Company (OSTC), operators of the Chi-Cheemaun ferry service, have lined up a great selection of musical talent to entertain the folks taking part in the ferry's popular dinner cruises.

Cyclists visiting Manitoulin Island on Chi-Cheemaun Manitoulin Passage Ride

by Michael Erskine

MANITOULIN—"We are sold out," enthused Manitoulin Island Cycling Associates spokesperson Maja Mielonen, noting that the Manitoulin Passage Ride cycling partnership with the Chi-Cheemaun ferry has been growing by leaps and bounds with each passing year. "There will be 165 cyclists arriving by ferry, with over 230 riders taking part in the ride."

Ms. Mielonen said that the Manitoulin Passage Ride success is thanks in large part to a "wagonload of volunteers" and the positive buy in by local businesses.

"We are very happy that the Manitoulin North Shore Dairy Producers have donated 250 chocolate milks," she said. "That is a tremendous boost to us in terms of support."

The Manitoulin Passage Ride will be focussing on the two Manitoulin legs of the Georgian Bay Cycle Route. "We will be highlighting the Manitoulin Core A and Core B legs of the route," said Ms. Mielonen. "These are now recognized by the province as an official route and part of the Georgian Bay Cycle Route."

The cyclists will be arriving on the 10:50 am ferry on June 6 and travelling across Manitoulin to arrive for 6 pm at a celebration dinner and entertainment at Batman's Tent and Trailer Park in Sheguiandah. "There will be a pork roast from Burt Farm (from Ice Lake) and Garden's Gate (restaurant in Tehkummah) will be providing the salad," she said. "The Uppers will be performing live at the park as well. That is Peter Nelson and Jamie Mohammed and they are great entertainers."

"We have a beautiful new T-shirt showcasing our brand," said the cycling advocate.

Ms. Mielonen said that MICA was "absolutely thrilled" with the response to the Passage to Manitoulin program, a feeling shared by the ferry operators as well.

"It has been a great program and we are very pleased to be a part of

Trillium changes will have profound impact on the North

Governments of late have been fixated on the concept on budgets, deficits and value for taxpayer's money, all of which are laudable preoccupations for those entrusted with our tax dollars, but when it comes to public service, the foundations of a just and equitable society and investments for the greatest weal across a landscape as vast and diverse as Ontario, a close tally of beans does not always bring the greatest harvest.

The auditor general is charged with looking over the many shoulders of a bureaucratic behemoth that dwarves that of many small nations, operating in a modern social democratic mixed economy society. Nothing gives an accountant the shivers quite as bad as a system where the outcomes are difficult, if not impossible, to quantify. Their solution is, and by their own definitions and standards must be, to put in place systems and counters that allow the measurement of outcomes priority of place in all decisions. But many things that lead to a greater quality of life are very difficult to quantify, at least to the satisfaction of bookkeepers.

The current raft of changes being implemented by the Ontario Trillium Foundation have that most laudable of goals, to measure the impact of the investment of tax dollars into the province's not-for-profit sector, which these days include municipalities and First Nations, and to create a level playing field where the inference of favouritism and bias is eliminated.

For Northerners, the experience of how these efforts, particularly the latter, play out has not been universally positive. Under the new regime, support for those seeking Trillium grants will have to dial up a central call centre based (you guessed it) in a southern Ontario office tower. Gone are the days of working with a local program manager to craft an application that stands a good chance of success when the decisions to dole out the funding are being made.

The knowledge of how applications should be worded for success will now largely be the domain of professional grant writers, for they are the only ones who will have the experience and history needed to sort out and craft a winning entry in the ever more competitive race for funding. For the rest of us, that local wisdom will be replaced by a system that, as history has amply demonstrated, will see someone for whom the North lies somewhere north of Toronto's Steeles Avenue giving critical advice on the completion of project applications. This is a system that has always proven disastrous for Northern Ontario.

The Trillium Foundation has often wished to fund deeper and longer projects, attaching its name to the projects more likely to impress their political masters and urban media organizations due to their sheer size and scale—when measuring impact, larger always appears to give a bigger bang for the buck.

But Trillium's true impact in the North, as any small municipal community leader can tell you, is in the tiny micro-investments in new roofs for remote community centres, the new stove for a struggling local Royal Canadian Legion or tables and chairs for an off the beaten path seniors' club. The kinds of projects that project managers have guided gently through the intricacies of the system since the foundations' very beginning.

Legion kitchens and community hall roofs are not terribly sexy, and the impacts of a small community arts programs for children are admittedly difficult things to measure, but they have immeasurable impact on the quality of small, remote Northern communities.

We can pray that the changes that have come to the Ontario Trillium Foundation will prove to be positive for Northern communities, but sadly, history suggests the opposite will prove true. Should that prove to be the case, the quality of life in Northern Ontario will suffer, despite the best efforts of those tabulating the public weal in the provincial counting house to accomplish a greater public good.

Admiration expressed for student's strike stand

Ship sails on Liberal back to work legislation

To the Expositor

Mr. Chapman, I applaud your standing up for fellow students and taking a stand ('Student feels back to work legislation unfair,' May 27, page 4). This is clear indication that our future is in good hands having students, such as yourself, step forward and speaking out.

Please do not read this as support or in opposition to your efforts, but in admiration of you taking your place in your community on behalf of your fellow students and sharing. I only point out that the Government of Ontario, not the Rainbow Board, has chosen to call this legislation.

The Protecting the School Year Act was a Liberal Government of Ontario action. I hear you saying clearly, "that ship has sailed."

Outrage expressed over denial of Little Current Yacht Club

Activities bring sailors and their families to the community to spend dollars

To the Expositor:

Re: 'Yacht Club on its own for North Channel race dockage' (Northeast Town Council Notes, May 27, Page 8).

I read in amazement the defeat of the motion to donate dockage and the use of the pavilion to the North Channel Regatta participants. The Little Current Yacht Club (LCYC) has always worked diligently to bring events to Little Current and the Island in general such as the MacMan race in the past and the club races through the summer and early fall. Let us not forget the LCYC's work to revive the Learn to Sail Program. If I recall correctly, the pavilion was constructed using funds raised in part from the MacMan Race as well as time donated from LCYC members.

These activities bring sailors and their families to the community and serve to showcase the beautiful downtown dock facilities in Little Current. I'm sure the participants also support local businesses during their stay at the Marina. Probably with purchases that far exceed the $1,575 in dock rentals plus the $50 rental for the pavilion. It seems to be a win-win situation for the community as a whole. Surely the donation of dockage and the use of the pavilion to the participants would be a benefit to all parties. Let's keep people coming back to these events ensuring the future of the events as well as the future of the LCYC.

What about the third class?

Living under $12,000 is a joke

To the Expositor:

I keep hearing the three parties of government talking about the middle income class citizens, how they help them out. But what about the third class income people, because there are more of them. People who are making thirty thousand dollars or more a year are well off and there are more people who are living under twenty five thousand dollars a year and these are the people who really need that extra help because they are struggling with their incomes. Then there are people who are living way under the income level because some of these people are living on twelve thousand dollars a year and when you look at the rising cost of living, that's chicken feed money you're living on. When will this government wake up from their dreams and start dealing with the truth and really start helping the people who really need it?

I do very well with numbers when I take a look at the economy and when you are living under $25,000 a year, that's not very much and then if you are living on $12,000 a year, that's just a joke.

Following Hope's Path: Part XVII

Visiting the past and rejoicing in the future

EDITOR'S NOTE—This is the seventeenth story in an ongoing series that followed Kagawong's Mary Buie and her brave battle with breast cancer and now her life after cancer. The series chronicled Ms. Buie's journey as she navigated through doctors' appointments, surgery, chemotherapy and recovery as well as exploring the various groups and resources that exist on Manitoulin for women fighting the disease. In 2013, Ms. Buie learned that she was officially cancer free and began to regain her health and energy after recovering from a modified radical mastectomy and undergoing chemotherapy treatment. She is now back to living life to the fullest and sharing her cancer journey with other Island women battling the disease. No stranger to uphill battles, Ms. Buie, an English-trained nurse, pushed emphatically for Ontario to recognize midwifery as a medical discipline and then returned to university to re-qualify as a midwife before founding Manitoulin Midwifery.

by Robin Burridge

CALGARY—The Expositor caught up with Manitoulin's Mary Buie in Calgary during a trip to visit her newest granddaughter Brooke via phone interview last week. Ms. Buie had just returned from another trip to her mother country of England to take a stroll down memory lane, visiting old nursing and midwife friends, childhood friends and family.

"It's really nice to be here with Brooke and my other grandchildren," said Ms. Buie. "Brooke is only 11-days-old and very sweet."

Ms. Buie said this spring has been a whirlwind of travel for her, but that she is doing well and enjoying life.

"I really missed the English spring which is why I decided to visit England at the end of March," said Ms. Buie. "I haven't been back in seven years, and I hadn't seen my nursing friends or midwifery friends in over 50 years."

Manitoulin Health Centre Board Minutes

CEO report

Manitoulin Health Centre (MHC) CEO Derek Graham began his May report to the board by announcing a significant donation which will be made to the Sweet Slumbers bed campaign on Wednesday, June 3.

"The ministry will move forward with a pilot project implementation of self-directed funding for some home care services in selected settings across the province," continued Mr. Graham. "The mechanism involved and the location of the pilots have not yet been announced."

Mr. Graham also noted that a provincial capacity plan for home care had been announced as a major improvement initiative.

"The construction of the Family Health Team addition at the Mindemoya site is entering the final phase," continued Mr. Graham. "This capacity will be a welcome addition at the new site. Planning towards the Little Current site emergency department redevelopment renovation is progressing well, with positive engagement with staff and physicians taking place concerning the layout under consideration."

"We have been really pleased with the efforts of our physician recruiter and we will be welcoming two new doctors, one for the Little Current site and one for the Mindemoya site," said Mr. Graham.

"The Island's health settings will host a two-year NOSM (Northern Ontario School of Medicine) family practice resident, the first for our region," added Mr. Graham. "MHC looks forward to welcoming Mary Ellen Gedye, who is slated to begin her Manitoulin experience on July 1."

Mr. Graham also noted that the Deputy Minister of Health and Long Term Care Doctor (MOHLTC), Bob Bell, will be visiting Manitoulin the first week of June to meet with Island healthcare leaders and visit health sites.

Chief Nursing Officer Report

MHC Chief Nursing Officer and Vice President of Clinical Services Pat Morka presented her report to the board following Mr. Graham.

"The lab along with the nursing department received a very positive report from Newborn Screening Ontario, with a result of 100 percent compliance for the timely submission of newborn screening samples inclusive of sample preparation and transport time," Mr. Morka's report began. "The Senior Friendly Cohort Team attended the three day workshop in Toronto in April. The team found the experience very worthwhile and are planning their projects which include assessment of malnutrition and dehydration in patients over the age of 75, as well as functional mobility. They return in January 2016 to report on their success to the MOHLTC Senior Friendly project leads from the MOHLTC."

"Another first for MHC is the Electronic E-Referral to First Nation Homecare Services, which will go live on June 15," said Mr. Morka. "The E-Referral will enable MHC staff and physicians to refer our First Nation patients for home care services more quickly and efficiently to Mnaamodzoin Health Services, M'Chigeeng Health Services and Wikwemikong Health Services."

Ms. Morka explained that two registered nurses (RN) from MHC will be attending a wound care conference sponsored by MHC's provider of wound and skin dressings. She noted that each RN attending has a "keen interest in wound and skin care and would like to contribute further to our patients in the near future with knowledge gained."

CFO report

Chief Financial Officer and Vice-President of Corporate Support Services Lynn Foster gave an update to the board about the Manitoulin Central FHT construction.

"Central Manitoulin's building inspector has issued the occupancy certificate," she began. "A few reports and certificates are outstanding from various manuals required under the construction contact in order to achieve substantial completion. Substantial completion is important as it allows the FHT to move forward with its plan to assume the new space. The construction of the north parking lot will start shortly. MHC has paid eight progress billings to date which represents approximately 87 percent of the value of the contract. There have been three chances orders with a financial impact totaling approximately $5,000 and 90 percent of the architect's contract has been paid out."

"The Corporate Support Services (CSS) team through the Manager of Environmental Services has been supporting the clinical team on the redesign project," continued Ms. Foster's report. "Liaising with the architects, Yallowega Belanger, a final sketch has been reviewed and accepted. The next step includes a quote for engineering

Investigation continues into K&T fire

The Ontario Provincial Police (OPP) Crime Unit, assisted by the Ontario Fire Marshal, is continuing to investigate the fire at K&T Variety in Little Current, which took place on Monday, May 11 and which was attended by the Northeast Town Fire Department.

According to Constable Al Boyd, community services officer, the investigation is ongoing with interviews being conducted by police. Officer Steve Hart is the investigating detective constable on the case. No arrests have yet been made in relation to this incident, Constable Boyd avalaged.

and construction."

Ms. Foster also noted an MHC pilot initiative, in acknowledgment of Manitoulin's aboriginal population, offering two First Nation traditional menu items, hominy corn soup with scone, made on-site at each hospital. "Response to this new offering is being recorded and results will be reviewed after three months," said Ms. Foster.

During her financial update, Ms. Foster reported that MHC ended its 2014-2015 year end with a $101,000 surplus from hospital operations and an overall $393,000 surplus including other revenues and expenses.

"MHC's investment portfolio has been managed by Beutel Goodman since January 2006," said Ms. Foster. "MHC's assets under management at book value equals $4,800,477 with a fair market value of $5,796,456. The asset mix is currently 46 percent fixed income and 54 percent equity, which is consistent with the board established investment policy of 50/50 (target rand of 45/55)."

Chief of Staff report

MHC Chief of Staff Dr. Stephen Cooper added to Mr. Graham's announcement that both physician positions had been filled between the two MHC sites.

"The vacancies had been an issue for a long time," said Dr. Cooper. "The physician recruiter played a huge role in filling these positions. Little Current actually had two great candidates."

"There has been some problems getting coverage for some specialists in the Northeast, particularly plastic surgery," Dr. Cooper's report continued. "There are some work-arounds but they are not as satisfactory as the previous one number access. Health Sciences North continues to have capacity issues which affects the entire region.

Ambulance service is also considering delaying transfer, if possible, during the changing of shifts to reduce staff fatigue and cost."

Dr. Cooper said he was disappointed that the Northeast Physician Leadership Conference had to be delayed, but was confident that it will be held in the fall.

Auxiliary notes

Little Current Hospital Auxiliary Chair Dave Sylvester recognized the passing of longtime auxiliary member and past MHC board member Wayne Orr.

"He was a very active member and an avid raffle ticket seller," said Mr. Sylvester. "He, Dawn (Orr) and the family are in our thoughts."

Mr. Graham added that a letter of condolences would be sent to the family on behalf of the board.

Mr. Sylvester also noted that the auxiliary would be celebrating its 70th anniversary on Thursday, June 4 with a dinner and special announcements.

Mindemoya Hospital Auxiliary Chair Mary Alice Lewis announced that the auxiliary had presented its third $10,000 cheque towards the Sweet Slumber bed campaign for a bed at the Mindemoya site and that they would be making a fourth donation to go towards a bed at the Little Current site.

She also gave her regrets that she would be resigning as chair of the auxiliary and that Judy McKenzie would be taking over.

Board losing six members

Mr. Graham stressed that if any of the board members who were planning on not returning to the board next year were able to stay for another year it would be greatly appre-

OFSAA bound!

James Scott is off to Toronto this week to compete in the all-Ontario OFSAA track and field championships. James will compete in two events on the strength of a third in the 1500m (4:46) and a second place finish in the 800m (2:13) at last week's NOSSA held in Sturgeon Falls. Another Islander, Jacob Pitawanakwat who attends St. Charles in Sudbury, will also be heading to Toronto for the 4 X 100m relay. Good luck, guys!

RDSB Elementary T and F

Congratulations to all the Manitoulin athletes who competed in the R.E. Gibson Senior Meet held at Laurentian last week. Students from CMPS, CC McLean and LCPS as usual, did very well when compared with the Sudbury and Espanola schools. Britney Biederman, in fact, tied for first as the top Grade 7 female athlete by amassing 26 points. Britney had a first in the long jump and a second in each of the 100 and 200m sprints. Mackenzie Cortes and Marjorie Scott tied for 8th place overall. Mackenzie was 7th in the 200m, 5th - triple jump and 2nd -400m. Marjorie was 3rd - triple, 5th - 200m and 5th - long jump. Ayden Farquhar was the 11th overall Grade 7 boy with his 8th in long jump, 4th - 400m and 5th - 800m. Ben Marshall was a place behind in 12th spot. Ben took 7th – 400m, 4th - 800m and 8th – triple.

CC McLean's Hannah Woestenenk was the 7th Grade 8 girl in aggregate. She finished second in a photo finish just four tenths of a second behind then 3rd in shot put. Sydney Koehler took the ninth best spot with her 8th in high jump, 2nd – 800m and 7th - 1500m.

Here are the individual, top-eight performances from more Island kids and will therefore qualify for the RDSB Champions Meet. Gabby Corbiere 4th – 1500m; Ethan Corbiere 3rd – 800m; Paige Vander-Weerden 8th - shot put; Wyatt Dearing 5th - 1500m; Parker Hall 4th long jump; Alex Ingraham 7th – long jump; Olivia Hall 7th – 100m, 6th – triple jump; Boston Thibeault 5th – triple, 8th – 100m, 7th – high jump; Carter Abotossaway 5th - 200m, 6th - long jump; Quentis Wood 6th – 200m; Willow Corbiere 4th – long jump, 8th – 400m; Jasmine Clark 5th – 800m; Kyleigh Biederman 3rd – shot put; Kyler Fletcher 8th - shot put; Jessica Craig 7th - high jump; Faith Taylor 5th - 100m,

Ottawa Race Weekend

Congratulations to all of the Manitoulin runners who were in the nation's capital last weekend to for one of the races from 2k to 42km. In the 5km distance the Hollidays made it a family event with Gerry, Sue and Carissa all running. Congratulations as well to Kagawong's Barbara Erskine as well. In the 10k race hats off to Pamela and David Williamson. In the full marathon, Little Current's Steve Fessenden finished just 3:17.

Miner's Mayhem soon

The fourth annual MINER'S MAYHEM will happen on June 20th at the Adanac Ski Hill in Sudbury. Run, Climb, Dig, Crawl, Curse, Cry and Laugh your way through a 6.5 km mining themed obstacle course! New to the race this year is the Optimum Health Team challenge..." no miner finishes alone is our motto." Proceeds will go to the Human League Association P.L.A.Y. program. For more information go to the Miner's Mayhem Website at www.minersmayhem.com. Come out to the hill on June 20th and have a blast! Don't hesitate, register today!

Mindemoya Classic in a month!

The 14th annual Mindemoya Classic is just over four weeks away, on July 5th. The fun begins at 9 am Sunday morning, at the Government Dock down on Lake Mindemoya. Part of the Central Manitoulin Lions Club fun, Homecoming Weekend, the race is for anyone from the elite to the occasional athlete. You can do it all on your own or with one or three other helpers. There is also something for joggers with the 5.5 km run; canoe/kayakers paddle 4k and/or a bike route of just 13km. If you would like more information on the Classic visit the brand new race website at www.mindemoyaclassic.com

Ashten Buck clinches bikini bod title at first bodybuilding championships

by Alicia McCutcheon

LITTLE CURRENT—On May 23, Little Current's Ashten Buck competed in her first ever bodybuilding competition, the Sudbury GNC Classic Championships, and took home the gold in the bikini figure division.

A beaming Ms. Buck stopped by The Expositor office last week to share her journey in fitness and talk of her big win the weekend

For those who frequent the Manitoulin Fitness Centre in Little Current, Ms. Buck can often be seen there and it was through encouragement of other fitness friends that led her to the GNC Championships—the first time she had ever taken in part in such a competition.

"Everyone at the gym had been telling me it would be easy (to get into top form) and that I should go for it," Ms. Buck said.

She explained that she has always had a love of fitness (Ms. Buck is a certified personal trainer), but made the decision three months ago to train hard for the Sudbury competition. Sending a message to Troy Thompson, owner of The Gym in Sudbury, she asked the trainer if he would take a look at her and asked his opinion as to whether she could be ready in three months time—the date of the competition. His response was that "she totally would," and so the training and diet began. "It was the hardest 12 weeks mentally ever," she said.

During those three months, Ms. Buck would do 45 minutes of cardio before breakfast followed by another intense 45 minutes at the gym, taking shorter breaks and pushing herself harder. "Your goal is to fatigue the muscle," Ms. Buck said. But this is not enough.

"Diet is key," she added, explaining that she stuck to a high protein, high fat diet, which served her body best.

Ms. Buck allowed herself a few "cheat meals" in the beginning but practiced self control soon after. Ms. Buck works as a server at the Anchor Inn, and this reporter asked if this ever caused temptation. "Sometimes when I was serving dessert," she laughed. "I have a sweet tooth."

"Some days I would be really hungry—'hangry' is the word," Ms. Buck added. "I promised my family I would only do one show a year," she smiled.

"It's very unhealthy to stay contest-lean for a year," explained. "I've now started reverse dieting-gradually reintroducing things to ensure your body doesn't rebound."

On May 23, Ms. Buck headed for life, competing in the bikini figure division against 12 other girls. She was named to the top five and then, following the naming of third and second place, Ms. Buck said she just kept repeating the mantra 'I'm in first place!' in her head until they called her name.

"It was a lot of fun—I had more fun than I was nervous," she said.

Her Sudbury win means she has now qualified for the provincials, which she intends to do, but will wait until next year and will remain in the bikini class that she termed "the most feminine" of the bodybuilding divisions.

Ms. Buck will now be offering her expertise through her new business, Ashten Buck Fitness, offering online nutrition and fitness help. "I will create customized workout plans, sample meal plans, check-ins to reassess goals and on-the-spot advice through text messaging or email. Every single exercise has a detailed description, complete with illustration. "It took me forever to do," she admitted. Along with being a certified vote on the motion, which saw all board members in attendance, including Brent St. Denis, Richard Stephens, Ken Noland, Lyle Noland, Lee Hayden, Eric Russell and Paul Moffatt voting against the Northeast Town motion for support, with Ms. Peters voting in favour of the motion. Austin Hunt abstained

"You are your own motivation," she said.

Ms. Peters asked for a recorded from voting (which is counted as a negative vote).

The board also carried a motion to ask the MMAH if the planning board will have the opportunity to respond to the Northeast Town's application to leave the MPB.

"I'm disappointed with their decision, but I'm not surprised," Mayor MacNevin told The Expositor following the MPB meeting last week. "Judging by comments made by MPB members in the past, they wanted us to leave the board, but they obviously don't want to lose the third of their budget that we contribute through our municipal requisition."

"Ms. Buckham told us to submit a detailed report which the minister (of the MMAH) will review and ultimately make the decision if we can leave the board to establish our own planning authority,' added Mayor MacNevin. "We plan on doing this and following up with the minister at the AMO (Association of Municipalities of Ontario) conference in August."

these lots." Councillor MacDonald pointed out that the property is already zoned for duplex development. "Half the number of units being proposed could still be constructed with duplexes instead of the sixplexes being proposed. I don't know if this is a good fit given the opposition from ratepayers. There are more appropriate sites. I support development, just not development in that location."

Ms. MacDonald said that she has researched the types of decisions rendered by the Ontario Municipal Board and that she believed it was in the best interest of the municipality to review its multi-residential zoning bylaws, especially in light of the new Manitoulin Official Plan. "I believe this issue should drive us to take a close look at that before we are reacting."

Councillor Dale Scott said that he had also taken a close look at the proposal and that a number of people had called him to express their concerns. "I am not against development," he said. "I think the town is at the edge of where development is going to have to take place. It is going to be need-

But when the majority of people within the designated area to be notified of the zoning change were opposed to that change taking place, "that is of concern to me," he said. Councillor Scott suggested the rezoning would be "premature" and that it would be at least a year before the municipality was ready to look at its zoning policy. "We need to look at whether we want multiplexes, industry, manufacturing.'

Councillor Scott pointed out that the recommendation from the Manitoulin Planning Board suggested that the municipality should access how much the municipality wants that development and that it might not be the best policy to "mingle multiunit housing with single.'

Councillor Stephens rebutted that the developer's decision on what to build was likely driven by what the market was seeking and that turning down the rezoning might amount to a lost opportunity for the municipality.

The debate took place with a significant number of people in the council chambers, most of whom appeared to be in attendance on this issue, but the crowd remained intent and quiet throughout the proceedings, although a number thanked the council for their decision as they left the cham-

"We are increasing this strike action because of the obstinacy of the government and OPSBA (Ontario Public School Boards' Association) in addressing real issues that affect teachers and the learning conditions in our schools,' said Mr. Hammond. "That is our priority during this round of bargaining. It's time the government and OPSBA stopped playing games and adopted the same priorities."

According to the union release, until they have reached a deal with the school boards, teachers will no longer: complete any paperwork, applications or proposals to the Ministry of Education for special grants or funding; participate in the preparation or completion of Grade 8 to Grade 9 transition reports; participate in any grade-to-grade transition meetings; complete end of year Ontario Student Record (OSR) activities including filing, sorting and completion of French cards participate in any in-school meetings or professional learning activities on the end of year Professional Activity (PA) day; or book any field trips for the 2015-16 instructional year.

The union warned that teachers will continue to step up job action "until the province adopts the same priorities. This further withdrawal of services comes one month after teachers began their work to rule actions. Elementary school teachers have been without a contract for nine Today, Ontario passed the Protecting the School Year Act, 2015, which will save the school year for 72,000 secondary students in Durham, Rainbow and Peel district school boards who have missed weeks of class after strikes by the OSSTF, reads a release from the Ministry of Education. "The Protecting the School Year Act, 2015, was introduced following an advisement from the Education Relations Commission on May 25 that secondary students in the three affected boards were in jeopardy of not being able to complete their school year.'

The release went on to cite the Ontario Labour Relations Board May 26 decision, which ruled that the strikes in Durham, Peel and Sudbury were unlawful and ordered a two-week moratorium on future "however, the strikes. board's ruling does not prevent a strike in Durham, Peel and Sudbury from resuming in June.'

By passing the Protecting the School Year Act, 2015, all secondary students in Durham, Rainbow and Peel district school boards are assured of successfully completing their school year without fear of further interruptions, notes the release. "This legislation ensures that the Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Federation is prevented from legally striking in the three affected school boards for the remainder of 2014-2015 school year.'

A revised school year calendar is now in effect for Rainbow District School Board's secondary schools which re-opened to students and staff on May 27.

"We maintained, from the outset, that our students and their families were caught in a dispute between OSSTF and the province," said RDSB Chair Doreen Dewar. Adding that "we are pleased with the OLRB ruling. The ruling will help to define what is central and what is local in this complex bargaining

On the heels of the OLRB hearing and the back-towork legislation, the RDSB statement issued a announcing that "all students are required to return to class in order to obtain their credits and graduate.'

According to the release, "learning will be prioritized and maximized to enable students to complete the school year within the remaining number of school days; there will be no extension to the school day or the school year; while students will continue to be evaluated on their achievement of overall curriculum expectations, there will be no formal exams; dates previously set aside for exams will become instructional the Professional Activity Day scheduled for Friday, June 12 will be an instructional day for secondary students: transportation will be provided to secondary students on Friday, June 12; the Grade 9 EQAO mathematics assessment has been cancelled; and the last day of school for secondary students will be Thursday, June 25.

Both the unions and opposition parties were quick to criticize the government on their handling of the education portfolio.

The OSSTF said it is disappointed with the ruling, which stated that the withdrawal of services by teachers in the Durham, Rainhow and Peel District School Boards was unlawful, reads a release from the teachers' union. "In his ruling, OLRB Chair Bernard Fishbein stated that elements of the strikes by OSSTF/FEESO contravened the School Boards Collective Bargaining

"We will comply with the ruling of the OLRB and our members will be back at work tomorrow," said Paul Elliott, president of OSSTF/FEESO. "However, this ruling does not change the fact that our members have grown increasingly frustrated by the lack of progress at both the local and central bargaining tables. If these school boards had just made an honest effort to engage in meaningful negotiations at their local bargaining tables, there would have been no strike and no need for a hearing.'

"The Durham, Peel and Rainbow boards should have been focussed on getting deals at their local bargaining tables rather than on attacking their employees at the OLRB," agreed Fred Hahn, president of CUPE Ontario in a release following the OLRB decision. "CUPE's bargaining has been proceeding at a glacial pace and we comunderstand the pletely frustration of OSSTF teachers." CUPE's education workers gave their union an overwhelming strike mandate of 93 percent in province-wide votes held earlier this spring, notes the same release. "CUPE

Residents of Little Current are taking their brain out for a walk

LITTLE CURRENT—Residents of Sudbury, Little Current, Espanola and North Bay are stepping forward on Sunday, June 7 to support people affected by Alzheimer's disease and other dementias. Over the past 30 years our community has been raising funds for programs and services for the over 5,000 individuals living with dementia in this community, and for other critical activities like education and public awareness.

The Alzheimer Society Walk for Alzheimer's is the most important fundraising activity for Alzheimer's disease and other dementias in Canada. Manitoulin is one of 65 communities in Ontario to raise funds and awareness. Supporters can donate or register to walk and collect pledges at www.walkforalzheimers.ca.

Alzheimer's disease is the most common form of dementia, affecting men and women of all races, religions and socio-economic backgrounds. No one is immune, and changes in the brain that lead to dementia can begin more than 10 years before symptoms appear. Today, one out of 10 Ontario seniors is living with Alzheimer's disease or other dementia. But Alzheimer's is not a normal part of aging.

In Little Current, registration, barbecue and entertainment will begin at 12:30 pm on Sunday, June 7. The walk starts at 2 pm with all activities taking place at the Market Garden Pavilion on Water Street East.

Burns Wharf Theatre presents 'Trial by Jury' this July

by Alicia McCutcheon

MANITOWANING—Fans of the Burns Wharf Theatre can take heart in knowing that the players will be back for another season—one that hopefully gets them closer to their ultimate goal of getting back to their home stage.

This year, audiences can see the Burns Wharf Theatre Players (BWTP) on the Debajehmujig Creation Centre stage where they will be performing 'Trial by Jury,' a one act operetta by, who else, Gilbert and Sullivan. The shows will also feature a selection of highlights from seasons past—'HMS Pinafore,' 'Pirates of Penzance,' 'Iolanthe,' 'The Mikado,' 'The Gondoliers' and 'Ruddigore.' 'Trial by Jury' revolves around a "breach of promise of marriage" lawsuit in which the judge and legal system are the objects of lighthearted satire.

Until last week, the Players had been using the Assiginack Public School gym for rehearsals, but they held their first fullday rehearsal at Debaj last

"Our company is happy to be able to use this (Creation Centre) amazing space for our upcoming show," said an enthusias-tic Marilyn Wohlberg, BWTP artistic director.

The BWTP are out of their historic Burns Wharf home in the Manitowaning waterfront building until enough funds are raised for the upgrades it needs to bring it up to accessibility and fire code.

This show is acting as a fundraiser for that project.

"Our aim is to be back in 'our home' for the 2016 season," Ms. Wohlberg added.

Show dates at the Debaj Creation Centre are as follows: July 14 to 19 at 7:30 pm and July 22 to 25, also at 7:30 pm, with tickets just $20. Tax receipts will be issued for donations to the BWTP upgrade project from the Municipality of Assiginack.

stomp box (Gryner), a fiddle and a shaker here and there. You can hear the watermarks of greats like Spirit of The West, Simon and Garfunkel, Tom Petty, Joni Mitchell, Hazel Dickens and Alice Gerrard. The sound of this band is Canadiana (in capital letters) based in folk, roots and old country.'

Another exciting group will be JUNO award nominees and musical dynamos Digging Roots, who will be appearing in August.

Also scheduled to appear will be the McKenzie Blues Band, winners of the 2014 Maple Blues Award for 'Best New Group or Artist' and two time semi-finalists at the International Blues Challenge in Memphis, Tennessee. "The MacKenzie Blues Band have been enjoying the recognition of a hard working band as "blues rockers with style. They emit the energy of a small, joyful supernova, firmly rooted in blues traditions, the group writes their songs from their experiences and world view. The group consists of Tara MacKenzie on vocals, Trevor MacKenzie on guitar, Joel Dawson on bass and Mike Weir on drums.

Musical acts will range from country, roots and blues, with something for just about anybody. But music is the only great thing happening. On July 8 the ferry will be featuring "An Evening with Tom," a tribute to Canadian art legend Tom Tomson.

Unfortunately for Island residents, the musical dinner offerings will be setting out and returning to the Tobermory side on the last trip of the day, so those wanting to take in the events will need to book an overnight in Tobermory.

"The dinner takes place on the way to South Baymouth, while the entertainment takes place on the way back," said Ms. Scrempf. "We have to do it this way due to the other commitments of the artists we have booked." The ferry is looking into partnerships that will enable the ferry to leverage those to offer the dinner cruises in the other direction. "We are looking into how we can do it," said Ms. Schrempf. "But we think this will be a phenomenal experience."

Those interested in learning more about the dinner cruises and other events on board the ferry are invited to call the ticket office at 1-800-265-3163 or to visit the ferry's Facebook page for updates.

music. We met up at a music festival in Guelph, Hillside, a few years ago and had a few different craft beers. We started talking about how great it would be to start our own craft brewing company."

"I had just moved to Manitoulin and Nishin came for a visit a few months later and we couldn't stop talking about it (starting their own brewery)," continued Mr. Hagman.

"We started researching, reading any books on brewing we could find and exploring the history of brewing, but we knew we were just scratching the surface," said Mr. Meawasige. "We felt Manitoulin would be an ideal place—it's such a unique and special place and we thought it deserves its own unique beer."

"We had the passion, but not the knowledge, so we hired brewmaster Mark Lewis, who has worked for Flying Monkey (Craft Brewery), Collingwood Brew and is head brewmaster at King Brewery," explained Mr. Meawasige. "We worked with Mark experimenting with different styles of beer. We created 12 different styles before we developed our flagship beer."

To create their brew, the pair purchased a system from BrewFab Ltd.

"We researched nano brewery equipment and came across this system," said Mr. Meawasige. "We wanted something practical that we could start on, but continue to use in the future."

"This system is actually what Muskoka Brewery and Amsterdam Brewery use to make sample batches," added Mr. Hagman, who noted that the system creates a batch of 405 pints.

After many lessons with Mr. Lewis, the Manitoulin Brewing Company partners started brewing on their own, bringing Mr. Lewis back to sample and help fine-tune the brew.

"Swing Bridge Blond Ale is slightly bitter to start, but not strong," explained Mr. Hagman of their finished product. "It is full bodied but has light feet and features a white foamy head with no strong aftertaste. We wanted to introduce a classic beer, a beer that everyone could appreciate and enjoy. The Swing Bridge is something that can be enjoyed on a hot festival day or after a day of ice fishing. We targeted the beer to be paired with what people do on Manitoulin."

"It's a very easy drinking beer," Mr. Meawasige said. "As our flagship beer, we wanted to create something that will appeal to everyone."

Mr. Meawasige and Mr. Hagman have been working on creating the Swing thing universal on Manitoulin, which is why we choice the Hawberry," said Mr. Hagman.

The Manitoulin Brewing

The Manitoulin Brewing Company launched its social media campaign last Wednesday, including a splash website where individuals can sign up to receive updates on the company. The full website will launch later this month.

'We are currently able to sell to licenced establishments and have been travelling across Manitoulin, meeting with restaurant owners and bars and introducing ourselves and our product," shared Mr. Meawasige. "We plan to launch exclusively on Manitoulin later this month, with a focus on Manitoulin establishments and festivals this summer. We have been receiving some amazing feedback and a lot of support and interest."

The Manitoulin Swing Bridge Ale will also be available at Haweater Weekend this year, complete with customized beer cans for Manitoulin's largest festival.

The pair have purchased a Little Current location which they will be using as a distribution centre this summer, with the intention of the building becoming their permanent brewery location in the fall. The new location will also allow for growth moving forward and they plan to offer brewery tours.

Swing Bridge Blonde Ale will also be hitting LCBOs this fall and will be available in select restaurants and bars across the North later this year.

Other types of brews are also in the works, but the guys aren't giving up the type or name of the new brews yet.

"We have two other beers in the works, and names," revealed Mr. Hagman. "We want to create a family of beers for the Manitoulin Brewing Company."

"We would like to launch our next beer in the fall, but we want to engage with the public this summer and really draw on the feedback we receive," said Mr. Meawasige.

Being a Manitoulin company, Island partnerships are important to Mr. Meawasige and Mr. Hagman.

"We want to support other local business and are looking into Island grown hops," said Mr. Meawasige. "We have also been working with photographer Peter Baumgarten whose photo is featured on our splash page and Kathryn Corbiere of One KWE who is making the branding iron to make our tap handles."

Mindful Meditation teaches mind over matter for pain control

by Betty Bardswich

MINDEMOYA—The Canadian Pain Coalition estimates that there are one in five people in this country living with chronic pain, a serious and long lasting condition for a total of 6.8 million Canadians. This reporter had the dubious distinction of joining that group a few years ago. A third try at the claustrophobia causing Magnetic Resonance Imaging (MRI) machine showed a diagnosis of spinal stenosis and multilevel degenerative disc disease with effects on nerve roots which led to surgery for spinal fusion and a laminectomy.

Chronic pain shrinks your world. It is debilitating and nerve racking. Actions like getting in and out of a vehicle, cooking a meal, sweeping a floor, all things that were once done by rote are now almost impossible at times. Some people have to give up their jobs or lose their ability to help with community projects. Chronic pain is long lasting, indeed can last for the rest of your life, and can lead to depression and even death by suicide. It impacts on every facet of your life and affects your partner, your family and friends and even your pet.

A few months ago, I had the privilege of joining a group at the Mindemoya hospital to participate in a mindfulness meditation based chronic pain management teleconference, initiated here by the Family Health Team. People taking part in the classes were from Sudbury, Parry Sound and Noelville as well as Manitoulin.

This course was based on the book 'The Mindfulness Solution to Pain' by Doctor Jackie Gardner-Nix and her former patient and now colleague Lucie Costin-Hall and facilitated by Annie Hebert, a nurse and chronic pain sufferer. As Dr. Gardner-Nix explains in the book, "the formal practice of meditation involves intentionally setting aside a specific period (or periods) in your day to systematically cultivate mindfulness by focusing your attention moment by moment on some particular aspect of your experience, and actively noting when your mind wanders and then bringing it back into focus." This practice is done using one thing to focus on, such as your breathing or a candle. Another part of the meditation process is to look at yourself, people and things without judgement when a thought occurs to you.

Kelly Gordon, who resides in Spring Bay, was part of the group at the hospital. She suffered a massive pulmonary embolism in 2006 and has pain throughout her body. She explained that she has probably been meditating for about seven years. "It is big time helpful," she said. "It allows me to fall asleep. It is rare for me to fall asleep without meditation. It definitely helps with the quality and quantity of sleep. Before, I would be awake all night. And this course is good because it forces me to meditate." Ms. Gordon went on to say that she had to give up a job she loved with Manitoulin Transport, but is grateful for the huge support system that she has with her parents and her husband.

Chris McCartney, from the Ice Lake area, also said that the course does help. "If I can keep doing it," she observed, "it would be good for my sleep. I think it is a good idea to keep the electronics off and do meditation. Get rid of the excess noise. It makes you confront a lot of your boogey man things. I think it helps you confront the fears that limit us, that we can make boundaries.

A Providence Bay resident, Bonnie Pegelo, has suffered from back and leg pain for many years and issues and that the authors enjoyed taking the course. "At first it is hard to meditate," she explained, "but as the weeks go by it gets better. And we learn from each other's experiences. I found the course very interesting and if you have pain of any sort, you should try this course to bring peace to your pain."

Longboat of Joanne Noelville has taken the mindfulness meditation course at three levels. "I have lived with chronic physical pain since 1985," she told The Expositor, "and I came to understand my emotional pain that was unattended for over 38 years. Learning about the science of pain, chronic stress, meditation and their interconnectedness of their impact on my body, mind and spirit enlightened me to do what I need to do to keep balanced."

Although meditation has been practised for thousands of years in Eastern countries, it, like acupuncture, has gone mainstream here for a few decades now. In just the past couple of months articles on the subject have appeared in a special report supplement to the Mayo Clinic Health letter, and in Prevention, World Woman's and Women First magazines. In the latter magazine, actress Jane Seymour is quoted as saying, "I did a series last year about healthy living for people over 50. When I talked to the doctors, I asked if there is one thing we can all do for our health. I expected them to say exercise or nutrition. Every single one of them said there is science on meditation.'

The Medical Daily Internet newsletter states that meditation can alter the brain and new research shows that it can be used as therapy for cognitive impairment migraines. It stated that a study was done with people 55 to 90 who had memory believe that meditation can help fight Alzheimer's disease and dementia. Other studies have shown that the practice leads to stronger immune systems, boosts memory and empathy, reduces stress and improves sleep quality.

In Zoomer magazine, an article on the Science of Longevity Now stated that after two months of therapy that included mindfulness meditation and yoga, people with mild cognitive impairment (MCI)-a risk for dementia-had reduction of areas in the brain associated with anxiety and stress and increased volume in the area that deals with memory and learning.

has not vet been able to reach agreement with the management team composed of school boards and the province regarding what items will be centrally bargained versus locally bargained. CUPE has hearing dates set at the OLRB in

"Minister Sandals should be directing boards to meaningfully bargain to end these strikes," said Terri Preston, chair of CUPE's central bargaining committee for education workers. "The events of the last few days have shown that the new bargaining structure has not prevented the chaos that took place under Bill 115 in Ontario, as the Liberal government promised it would. Labour peace is not going to be possible without a serious change in direction on the part of the government."

"This Liberal government hides behind others first the Education Relations Commission, now the Ontario Labour Relations Board," continued Mr. Hahn. "Our members see this for what it is, and it will only double our resolve to stand with OSSTF and to continue to fight for a fair collective agreement for our members.'

Both the unions and opposition party spokespersons indicated that the government's route, while ensuring that students will not lose their year, have increased the tension at the bargaining table and foreshadow a fall session rife with labour unrest.

Both Ontario Premier Kathleen Wynne and Minister Sandals reject that characterization, pointing out that the start of the new year remains three months away and that the government is determined to find common ground with the teachers.

Under the proposed legislation, all parties to the negotiation remain able to bargain on outstanding local issues with the assistance of a mediator-arbitrator, according to the province. If the parties are not able to resolve outstanding local issues, a binding decision by the mediator-arbitrator will be provided.

Under the legislation, the mediator-arbitrator has up to 120 days to issue an arbitration award and the parties may extend this time by agreement.

Knox United Church prepares to host first Charity Golf Tournament

MANITOWANING—Knox United Church in Manitowaning is preparing for its first annual Charity Golf Tournament to be held on Wednesday, July 15 at the Rainbow Ridge Golf Course. The tournament is in support of the Knox Building Fund and many of the charitable organizations within the Manitoulin and Manitowaning community, with a substantial portion of the proceeds going to support these groups.

In putting this endeavour together, the church is seeking donations to help make this venture a success, in turn benefitting the entire community. Manitowaning Mill Home Hardware has stepped up as a major sponsor with a generous donation of $2,000 to the events, making them the title spon-

Tickets to the tournament are $100, which includes 18 holes of golf, cart rental, lunch, dinner and a special 'check-in bag' of goodies. Members of Rainbow Ridge pay only $85, and if you've got your own cart, take off another $15, getting you in the action for just $70. Each player will receive a $25 charitable receipt too. The maximum number of players is 112, so be sure to get yours soon. There are also a limited number of dinner tickets (featuring chicken and ribs at the Knox Church Hall following the tournament, with many of the popular Knox side dishes and desserts) on offer for

The charity golf tournament committee is still looking for sponsors, which can be contributed in the following ways: become a significant sponsor with a $1,000 donation (your name will appear in all printed material); become a benefactor with a cash donation of $250 or more (your name will appear in the program); become a hole sponsor with a $100 donation (your name and logo will appear on a sign at the hole and appear in the program); or donate a prize for the various event winners or the silent auction. Cheques can be made payable to Knox United Church Golf.

Spiritual Journey Gathering

Sunday, June 14th, 2pm - 4pm

The Island Jar, Water Street, Little Current

Free, everyone welcome. Bring a friend!

Last month we met to learn about gathering to study virtues and now we will begin our practice together to reveal and unfold the virtues which are latent and concealed in our human realities. Practicing virtues leads to spiritual maturity. It is an opportunity for spiritual development, a process of inner transformation. This spiritual journey is your soul's journey

For more information, please call Pastor Jane 705-368-2941, or Pam 705-662-1845 Co-hosted by the Little Current United Church and the Baha'is of Manitoulin

"Man must attach himself to an infinite reality, so that his glory, his joy, and his progress may be infinite. Only the spirit is real; everything else is as shadow. All bodies are disintegrated in the end; only reality subsists. All physical perfections come to an end; but the divine virtues are infinite.'

Bells will be peeling to mark 90th anniversary of formation of the United Church of Canada

Canada.

To mark this occasion, Manitoulin United Churches with steeples will be ringing their bells on Wednesday, June 10 beginning at 10:30 am—the same time the union service began those 90 years ago. In Little Current, the Little Current United Church (LCUC) will also be ringing the bell 90 times, with the help of a crack bell ringing team made up of church volunteers (one of whose job it will be to count to 90).

LCUC Pastor Jane Blannin-Bruleigh invited the community to attend the event, which comes complete with birthday cake and iced tea on the lawn of the Robinson Street church.

That evening, the celebration continues in Gore starting at 7:30 pm. The cel-Bay at the Lyons Memorial ebratory service will be made up of 13 congregations and will include a massed choir led by Little Current's Barb Cranston and Gore Bay's Maureen Armstrong. All with a love of song are encouraged to join, Pastor Blannin-Bruleigh urged.

Gore Bay was chosen as the site of the celebration as the town is marking its 125th anniversary incorporation this year.

"It's been a long time since there was an Island-wide service I've been told," she said. "And this is a fitting occasion to hold one."

The service will be followed with a social time with yes, more cake. The guest speaker at the event will be Rev. Lillian Roberts of the United Church of Canada's Manitou Conference.

All are welcome to attend.

Island musician/teacher creating empowering children's album

by Michael Erskine

MINDEMOYA—Manitoulin Secondary School (MSS) teacher and local musician/songwriter Peter Nelson is perhaps not so wellknown for his community contributions (including several years as a key backup musician on the annual Lions Telethon in Sudbury), but while travelling his own road of spiritual discovery he found himself embarking on a collaborative effort with singer Carl Steadmond of Ajax to create a children's album of empowering tunes to which adults would also find themselves humming along.

"It all really began to come together when I met Carl (Steadmond), a guy with a really fascinating story, at a retreat in southern Ontario," he said. Mr. Nelson has been on a journev of spiritual and personal discovery for many years and he and the Ajax singer connected almost immedi-

"Peter is a great musician," said Mr. Steadman. "I don't play an instrument, but I do sing. Peter likes to be more in the background, but I am the kind of guy who gets out in front.'

Mr. Steadman teaches at a Montessori school, so there was also that connection between the two composers, and he has earned a fifth dan black belt in the martial arts-an accomplishment made all the more incredible when you learn that he spent his childhood years between eight and 11 years confined to a wheelchair. A native of Liverpool, England, Mr. Steadmond was 14-yearsold when he began to study the martial arts.

"In 2005 I had a shift in consciousness in life," he said. At that point Mr. Steadmond looked around him and discovered that there were many children who grow up in life with low self-esteem.

When the singer connected with Mr. Nelson, who is a veteran music composer, the concept of creating a children's album of song of empowerment began to germinate.

"I am really excited about out there." Monetary gain is far a secondary consideration to this songwriting team

"This is a guy who really doesn't care that much about material things," said Mr. Nelson

The album consists of 10 songs, nine written by Mr. Nelson and one by Mr. Steadmond, and the team has collaborated over long distance for several months to bring the CD to fruition—and the work isn't over vet.

"I imagine that in about two months it will be done," said Mr. Nelson, who has committed about two years to the project, but he said every minute was worth it. "I want these ideas to trav-

The lyrics are empowering, but tunes are designed to be catchy as well. "These are children's songs that adults can like," said Mr. Nelson. "They are listenable, Jason Moraz-type songs."

That is the same sentiment expressed by Mr. Steadmond, who said that music has a tremendous power to inspire and to uplift the human spirit and that he hopes to build chilcharacter dren's through the use of that power.

The CDs and the songs will play a part in the workshops and talks that it," Mr. Steadmond said. Mr. Steadmond delivers "The intention is to get it" while on his personal mission to improve the outlook and mental health of children through music.

Mr. Nelson has spent the last few decades building up a significant homebased recording studio and he said that he has been itching for a chance to put his skills and equipment to work on a project he could be passionate about. He even picked up a ukulele and learned how to play it for some of the songs.

The sample song provided by Mr. Nelson begins as a catchy ukulele based tune that starts out with the tag line lyric "who decides if I smile, who decides if cry, who decides if I play, who decides if I stay or if I go" and answers "I decide, it will be me. I can be who I want to be and I choose to be the greatest lives up to this lyrical taste, there might well be a new Sharon, Lois and Bram on the road

Jim Beech launches 'The Possum and the Devil' CD, available at Expositor office

by Diane Eaton

MANITOULIN—Jim Beech, well-loved singersongwriter and country musician, just finished recording a new CD called 'The Possum and the Dev-Mr. Beech, 66, has performed frequently on Manitoulin where he and his wife Neen spend half the year. He grew up near Paisley and has worked with many fine musicians from the Bruce County area. He selected all local musicians for his CD.

Mr. Beech's musical path started on a precarious note. "When I was four I lost all my fingers in a farm accident," he said. But that didn't stop Jim from learning to play piano, even with each of his fingers half gone. He started at an early age. As a vouth he got interested in guitar. At 17, his parents gave him a guitar of his own.

"My parents encouraged me all the way along. I taught myself because, without fingers, no one could teach me." Jim tunes his guitar to an open G chord and plays mostly bar chords. That works well for him. His limitations did not hinder him from being a fine performer.

"I was grateful that I could play guitar," he said. "I love entertaining people. I can play a show to 10 people or 5,000 people. It doesn't matter. I enjoy making someone happy. I tell a lot of stories."

Mr. Beech has performed across Ontario and in the US. For 12 years he was a lead singer with Yesterday's Wine (1984-96). In 1990 the group went to Nashville and had the opportunity to play an afternoon performance on the Grand Ole Opry stage.

Of all the CDs he produced, this one is different, Mr. Beech said. "I did this CD because I wanted to record songs I wrote and never had a chance to record. I also included some of my favourites."

The CD contains 14 songs showcasing Mr. Beech's style of country music. A few gospel songs are included. Five numbers are Mr. Beech's original compositions, while the remaining ones are remakes of familiar tunes done in his own style. They sound just as you would hear them at a music country event.

A song which stands out is 'The Possum and the Devil,' an original by Mr. Beech. It pays homage to the late great country icon

George Jones. George sometimes didn't show up for a scheduled show, hence he was nicknamed "No-show Jones." The song is quite a clever take on this! Another song of note is 'Roses in the Snow,' co-written by Mr. Beech. It speaks to the great and beautiful everyday things in life that we often overlook.

Another of Mr. Beech's own songs is called 'Mani-Style,' toulin which expresses his fondness of Island life:

"...Cause the people that you meet on your journey will make you feel the Island is your home.

But when you're on the Island

You'll think it's paradise! Ah you'll never beat Manitoulin;

It's a better way of life." CDs will be available at The Source Electronics – Hardman Photo and TV in Gore Bay, The Manitoulin Expositor Office in Little Current and Wilson's Corner Store in Mindemoya.

Medical school grads learn wilderness medicine on Manitoulin

by Michael Erskine

MANITOULIN—The Northern Ontario School of Medicine (NOSM) has been a resounding success in attracting young medical professionals to come to learn, live and eventually set up practices in the North. As part of their graduation wrap-up, 120 grad students from the program came to Manitoulin last week to learn more about rural medicine and to take part in a mini-WilderMed program.

"These are all residents of the physician program at NOSM, including general surgeons from Thunder Bay, pediatricians from Sudbury and family residents from Timmins and Sault Ste. Marie," said Dr. Maurianne Reade. "There are about 120 students coming to take part in the program on Manitoulin and they will be split into two groups."

Half of the students began their visit at the new Manitoulin Hotel and Conference Centre in Little Current, while the second group proceeded directly to Dr. Bedard's property in Bidwell, home of the popular WilderMed program.

The visit is a collaborative effort on Manitoulin, with actors from Debajehmujig taking on roles as victims of various rural trauma and scattered at stations around the property. The victims range from those wounded in a bear attack, exhibiting nasty wounds from falling on tree branches and even a number of knife wound victims from a drug party in the bush that went wrong.

"The students will be getting a taste of WilderMed," said Dr. Reade. "There will be seven to eight stations set up and the residents will be going to each station in teams of five."

Not all the stations involved trauma, however, as representatives of the OPP and EMS services were on hand to provide wilderness survival training and rescue techniques and veteran fire firefighters like John McNaughton took part, providing short workshops on useful rope knots.

"The students will be learning how to cope with typical trauma with limited resources," she said.

In addition to the Debaj crew, there were about 15 high school students from Manitoulin Secondary School and the Wikwemikong High School taking part. "We hope that the students will be taking an interest in careers in medicine," said Dr. Reade. "We know from experience that students from the North are most likely to stay in the North to set up their practices."

Along with the students, Professor Dr. Hoy Chou from the Laurentian University English department went along, video camera in hand, to record the event. Dr. Chou originally filmed a documentary at the beginning of NOSM and is working on a new documentary to celebrate the school's 10th anniversary.

"It seemed to be a good time to revisit the school," said Dr. Chou, who brought along his sister visiting from Hong Kong. "She really likes to hike," quipped the professor.

Manitoulin cattle fetch great prices at first sale of the year

ASSIGINACK—The Manitoulin Livestock Exchange (MLE) held its first cattle sale of the year on May 23, with 91 steers and 61 heifers on offer.

For steers, animals weighing 900 to 1,000 pounds fetched, $2,100; 800 to 900 pounds, $2,030; 700 to 800 pounds, between $1,810 and $1,890; 600 to 700 pounds, between $1,585 and $1,860; 500 and 600 pounds, between $1,600 and $1,670; 400 and 500 pounds, between $1,325 and $1,530; and 400 pounds and less. $1.080.

Heifers weighing over 900 pounds saw a price of $1,770; 800 to 900 pounds, $1,940; 700 to 800 pounds, $1,650 to $1,930; 600 to 700 pounds, $1,460 to $1,660; 500 to 600 pounds, $1,340 to $1,450; and heifers 400 to 500 pounds, $1,150 to $1,350.

Last day

After 38 years and 27 years respectively, Russ Moore of Moore Auto Services, centre, and Jim McDonald of the Highway 6 Service Centre, left, pose for a photo on their last day together as co-proprietors of the Highway 6 garage and service station in Little Current. Mr. McDonald plans to enjoy retirement but will still be helping out at the gas pumps from time to time while Mr. Moore will still be seen running Island roads with his red tow truck and auto sales business. Mark Aelick, right, who has worked for Mr. Moore for the past number of years initially as an apprentice mechanic and then a licenced Class A mechanic, took full ownership of the garage and Shell station business on Monday, June 1. All the best to everyone on your new endeavours.

Working in teams of five, the young graduate doctors quickly assess the situation and take appropriate action to stabilize patients using minimum resources under the watchful eye of Dr. Maurianne Reade.

There were no complaints to be heard from the NOSM students as they set out for the stations slightly obscured by the season's crop of black flies. Thankfully the early morning sun sent the small black pests packing in rather short order, providing a very pleasant day for the students in the bush.

The other set of students, which rotated with the morning group come afternoon, took in a series of workshop presentations at the hotel before setting out on a scavenger hunt with lists of clues in hand.

Patient stabilized, the medical students follow up with diagnosis and triage techniques on a Debajehmujig actor simulating a bear attack victim

LITTLE CURRENT—The crowds have come and gone, the vendor booths are packed up and stowed away, while the vendors themselves have likely headed off to soak their feet in Epsom salts, but the folks at LAMBAC are still dancing in the aisles over this year's attendance figures.

Alan Corbiere hosts talk on First Nation clans of Manitoulin

by Betty Bardswich

M'CHIGEENG—The main hall at the Ojibwe Cultural Foundation was near full on May 19 as people gathered to hear M'Chigeeng First Nation historian Alan Corbiere talk of the many different First Nation clans in and around Manitoulin. Mr. Corbiere had many slides to show and told his audience that his talk was based on documentary and archival evidence.

Mr. Corbiere said that there were seven original clans including the fish, crane, moose, bear, marten, bird and loon, although some people say there are only five clans. "That is just the tradition," Mr. Corbiere explained, "the way of thinking, the oral tradition. We do not have a book that says this is the way it is and I don't think we should." He pointed out, however, that the number seven is significant all over the world from the Bible to seven days in a week and even seven colours in a rainbow. He next talked of the many clans today that evolved from the original seven including the eagle, goose, caribou, the buffalo, which is now a cow, moose, elk, small catfish, pike, rabbit, large catfish, turtle, sucker, sturgeon, snake, a lion (which does mean the African lion, Mr. Corbiere explained) and the tornado.

Mr. Corbiere also explained the laws associated with clan names. "Under Anishinabek law," he said, "you follow your father's clan all the way back to Creation. When life is done, you go through the Western door and meet all your relatives." He further explained that there is a river and a bridge and dogs before the door and if you are mean, say, to dogs, if you hit or killed a dog, they will bark and wake up the big snake to get you. The second law Mr. Corbiere talked about is that one does not marry within their clan and he also added that one's name has nothing to do with a clan name.

The next slide up showed the Ojibwe Kinship Chart and Mr. Corbiere noted that people kept track of bloodlines through their mother and clan lines through their father. He explained that the way the clan system works, if a person went to the big city and met a person of their clan, it was expected that that person would provide hospitality for the visitor including food and a place to sleep.

During his talk, Mr. Corbiere spelled out the use of clan symbols for communication. These symbols would be drawn on birch bark and would show a very specific place to meet. They were also used to mark graves and he showed tombstones with a fish and bear and bird markers.

There were several slides at the event which showed peace treaties signed by First Nation individuals that showed names, but also a clan symbol behind the name. These included the Great Peace of 1702, the Saint Joseph Island Conveyance of 1798, the Bond Head Treaty of 1836 and the Wikwemikong Chiefs Petition of 1849, which stated that anyone who brought whiskey to that reserve would be banned.

Mr. Corbiere also had slides to show of two chiefs from the North Shore who had walked to Montreal with a petition to give to the governor-general as the first copper mine in Canada, named Bruce Mine, had been opened on their land without a treaty being signed.

The Manitoulin Treaty of 1894 was also shown with signatures such as J.B. Assiginack and Tehkummah followed by a clan drawing while other documents had familiar names such as Anwhatin and Bebonang.

Mr. Corbiere also informed his audience that this month he will be talking about the Treaties of 1836, 1850 and 1862.

Dignitaries attending the opening ceremonies were escorted to the doors and ribbon cutting (untying actually) by the Manitoulin Sea Cadet Corps, who were also to be found having a tag day during the trade fair to raise funds for their pro-

Was it worth all the effort? "Yes," was Mr. Addison's response. "Allison (Bentley, the Manitoulin Trade Fair coordinator) and I were out on the floor visiting the vendors all weekend," he said. The smiles on the faces of the exhibitors said it all.

Rez Fest was a huge success. Students of the music business class will now be heading to Toronto to record music at the Coalition Studios. I asked student Kira Dowdall (who is a part of the music business class and also performed at Rez Fest) how she felt after Rez Fest and she said, "It's nothing like you could ever imagine." Kira now realizes how much hard work it is behind the scenes of a concert. It completely changed her perspective of the music industry. "It's a lot of hard work and dedication to put on a show like this. very fast. It is always the most exciting and stressful part of the year, but it is worth it in the end! Exams are quickly approaching for the Warriors, coming up on June 19 and June 23. Everybody is going into study mode and working hard in order to prepare for exams. Students are handing in work and going to SSB classes to get extra help that they need! The Grade 12s are eagerly awaiting graduation day, which is on June 25. They have completed a photo shoot for their graduation pictures with Ireva Photography recently. On a sports note, the Warriors that went to NOSSA did a fantastic job. Good job Dehmin Eshkawkogan who placed eighth in high jump and Delani Trudeau who placed ninth in shot put. We will be having an athletic banquet for all the athletes at school and will be handing out awards to certain athletes for all their hard work and dedication.

This week's athlete of the week is Dehmin Eshkawkogan. Congratulations! Dehmin has been running for as long as she can remember and competing in races since she started at the Junior School. "I've really enjoyed it. I like how before the race you get this adrenaline, how you never know what place you will come in and even when you're

Recipes to me mean "gathering of ingredients and mixing." It can be food, laundry detergent, toothpaste, cleaning products and even a weed killer. I found a recipe for weed control and tried it last week. Wow, it was amazing. It worked in one day with the rain helping it along. Give it a try

Basic Weed Control Recipe

It calls for a spray bottle which I didn't have on hand so I used my watering can instead.

- 4 cups vinegar
- ½ cup salt
- 2 Tbsp liquid dish soap

Mix ingredients together and pour into spray bottle. You can use boiling water instead of vinegar. Spray or pour directly on weeds. Make sure you only hit your target plants, the weeds! Apply only on clear, sunny days when no rain is forecast for a few days.

Whole-Grain Blondies Master Recipe

Sometimes changing the recipe doesn't work that well. I used coconut sugar and half coconut oil. The brownies were pretty dry-great for dunking though. The recipe makes a batch of plain blondies. Experiment with your own combinations or choose from below

- 8 Tbsp butter (1 stick) (1/2 cup)
- 1 cup light brown sugar
- 11/2 cup whole-wheat flour (Loon Song)
- 1 tsp baking powder
- rge eggs, lightly be
- 2 Tbsp vanilla extract
- *Add-ins (choose a variation from below)
- 1. Preheat oven to 350°F. Line a 9X13-inch pan with parchment paper or foil, allowing it to slightly overhang opposite edges. Coat with cooking spray.
- 2. Melt butter in a large saucepan over medium heat. Cook, swirling often, until starting to brown, 4 to 5 minutes. Remove from heat. Whisk in brown sugar, let cool for
 - 3. Whisk flour and baking powder in a medium bowl.
- 4. Whisk eggs and vanilla into the cooled butter mixture until well combined. Add the flour mixture in 2 additions, gently folding until just combined. Fold in the add-in. Evenly spread the batter into the prepared pan.
- 5. Bake until light brown around the edges, 18 to 22 minutes. They will appear slightly underbaked in the center, but will firm up as they cool. Let cool then cut into bars.

*Add-ins

- 2. 3/4 cup toasted pecans, chopped and 3/4 cup semisweet or bittersweet chocolate chips 3. ¾ cup coarsely chopped thin pretzel sticks, and ¾ cup
- white chocolate chips
- 4. ¾ cup salted roasted peanuts chopped and ½ cup strawberry all-fruit preserves

Twelve people crowded the boardroom/lunchroom of the NEMI Public Library on Monday, May 25 to take part in Pauline Tofflemire's watercolour workshop. There were absolute beginners like Barbara Baker. "First time I have tried watercolour," she claimed. "It was fun!"

Attendance at activities like this, the Creation Station on Fridays, and the iPad classes with John Savage, show that Little Current's older adults want to keep active and keep learning. Due to demand for his help, Judy Kift has now scheduled Wes Cline's tech mornings on both the first and third Tuesdays of every month into the fall.

Susan Lampinen and Sharon Preen's plein air event (painting or drawing outdoors) is coming on July 13-sign-up for this begins at the library this week. "We'd like to do additional dates later in the summer," Susan told the volunteer organiz-"We hope for one a

Tehkummah Talk and Times

Whoops, how can you forget someone special's anniversary? I'm good at it lately. The forgetting stuff, sad part is we were there the proper date and all, but? Sorry Sherry and Dave! I didn't even remember how many years even? 38? Now it's Kim and Kathy's and? So I was a day late calling them too.

They had a quiet dinner at home, 36 years! Already, Kris's birthday too! Friday am. The sun is just touching the tops of my trees here. I can't believe its past 7 am, I've been sitting out for ages. We have a new hummingbird in our yard today, he's after sparkly things and is being chased from the feeder; time to put another one out. Two separate pairs of wild ducks and a pair of geese barely a whisper of wing. A huge hawk flew over too. The cherry tree and apples are beautiful in bloom. I was hoping the bad little hawk was gone, but not yesterday. I scared him off when he was checking the feeding area. Money plant beautiful in bloom, and my lilacs are perfuming the air.

Cal was in for a minute or two last evening, and helped our neighbor gave advise on how to get the lawn tractor going. Tara was doing it push method.

I hope everyone is taking time to admire pear trees, cherry and apple! But here in my back yard not a bee to be found in the fruit blossoms. Not a good omen for our future? What are the bug eating birds living on?

Have you admired our Memorial Gardens this spring? Thanks to four dedicated gardeners things look great. Tara and I were at the Garden Shed on Tuesday. Shawn (right spelling this time?) Elaine and her daughter Jackie.

In the last couple of weeks house cleaning went on in the library; every cabinet and bit of dust has been swept away. Good work gals.

Five and a half tables at cribbage on Wednesday as always a fun afternoon.

Thank you to all who bring goodies and snacks, just wonderful. Two high hands, 24, Ruth and Cal; high, Gib and Florence, 963; second-Eugene and Dorothy, 940; third, Audrie and Del, 934; low, Lori and Rich and Margaret and Lois, 857; door, Betty Jean and Rick.

There has been a busy crew at the library in the past week packing books in boxes. Cleaning shelves and cobwebs and unpacking books from boxes.

The Memorial Garden has been just beautiful in the past few weeks. Hall gardens too. Thanks to the T.L.C of Reuben, Jeneen, Daisy and Robert.

Well Shawn did I get it right?

Tara and I saw Elaine Bosje and at the Garden Shed on Tuesday. Mom fed me lunch after beating her at cards on Monday, but last evening (Wednesday) she skunked me and beat me too. Sent out six cards and notes this a.m. Of course I sat in the sun with my coffee to do it. So it's doubly beneficial, right?

Happy plenty-ninth birthday Lester!

So lovely to see my friend Jean Livingstone from Hamilton. Se's here with her son Bill and Beryl for a few days, always good to see her. Never time enough for a long visit.

Well I must have invented an amazing new species of plant (in last column) my 'MARSH MARIGOLDS" came out?

Well I left Mom's and she was smiling today after our cribbage game after the euchre. Pot luck supper and it was delicious. We had 3 3/4 tables and a couple of supper guests extra. Now I know I almost won? Pauline, ladies high, 92; I had the lone hands, 4, men's high, Hugh, 74; men's low, Betty Jean won the cut, ladies low, Margaret Case. Door prize?

Reta (Vanhorn) is away this week, She's had both her eyes done. I think that means lasered, not make day night Tehkummah Hall to welcome/ congratulate Tim Shaw with the ranks of the Great Northern Opry.

The regular gang Glen, Debbie, Jeff, Mauria and Tim were supplemented by Al Ryan's fine fiddling, as Doug Hore was busy with the Trade Fair music.

The guests were amazing, the voices (Humorous) Eugene Manitowabi (Pass Me By) Wayne Smith (Almost Persuaded) Ben Lentir, Jimmy Brown the Newsboy, Ken Elford (Waltz Across Texas) Tim got his start with "Country Gold Band" Jim Beech (a new Manitoulin song) and (Amanda for Marie) a prolific song writer! (like me?) Jeff Gilmore, another inductee, announced at this music night. Sang (Streets of Bakersfield) more songs, Riding my Thumb, What Part of No and Maple Sugar. They all sang lots of songs just a few highlights. I especially enjoyed "Those Were the Days," a keyboard masterpiece! My left shoelace kept coming undone too much toe tapping I guess.

Just crawled into my bunk. Gib and Florence dropped me off on their way home. We met them at C's and E's, and afterwards went to Cal's. Florence and I got skunked the last game, but we won five or six, I'm guessing. A fun evening. I planted a few spuds and viewed Ray's mushrooms. They are looking super productive at the minute.

"A mansion over the hilltop?" June McDougall's sermon "Follow that star," Pauline, Wayne, Simon, Mom and I, at C's and E's after church. We saw Reegan lunching with Grandma Bids.

It seems everywhere I went this week I saw cousin Sheila (Hall) and hubby Ernest. Missed talking to them and cousin Joan at the show. Carole Middaugh has been plastered, mustard plastered that is; fighting her pneumonia her own way. Cathy Size has been in the hospital, hopefully on the mend, take care.

Liz Grier, hope your surgery did the trick and you are on the mend at last.

Don't forget our coffee house afternoon Gospel and Country and more surprises. Refreshments – 2-4 pm $8. A fundraiser for our Sr. U.C.W group. Hey, wouldn't it be fun if anyone has saved their hippie outfits but however, it's a come as you are. All welcome.
