Little Current will host 2018 Men's Northern Ontario Curling Provincials

by Robin Burrige

LITTLE CURRENT—Little Current has won the bid to host the 2018 Travelers Men's Northern Ontario Curling Provincials February 7 to 11.

"We are so excited that we were awarded the bid," said Travelers Host Committee member Crystal Morra.

"This is great news," commented Northeast Town Mayor Al MacNevin. "We are happy that the host committee was successful with their bid and so glad that the community groups and council put their support behind the efforts to bring this event to Manitoulin."

"At the end of last year's AGM, the Little Current Curling Club discussed the possibility of putting a bid in for 2018 as the opportunity only comes once every six years," said Ms. Morra. "Club members expressed excitement over the possibility of hosting, noting it would be a wonderful opportunity for both the club and the town. Curling has been a beloved sport on Manitoulin for over 100 years so it will be wonderful to bring a Brier-like curling experience for all to enjoy."

The Travelers 2018 Bid Committee (now host committee) took the reins to develop the proposal with the support of the Little Current Curling Club and the Northeast Town mayor and council. The proposal was submitted at the end of January to the Northern Ontario Curling Association (NOCA), with the bid awarded to Little Current last month.

In the past, the Little Current Curling Club has hosted the Provincial Mixed, Provincial Mixed Doubles, Provincial Juniors and summer bonspiels, but this is the first time that Manitoulin has hosted the NOCA Men's Curling Provincials.

"We hope to create a similar experience to that of the 2015 Travelers Men's Provincials in Kenora," said fellow Travelers Host Committee member and curler Jordan Chandler. "The host club, Keewatin

Salmon Classic, Manitoulin Island gets much love from southwestern Ontario

LONDON—Manitoulin Island was well represented in southwestern Ontario last weekend as a team from The Manitoulin Expositor represented the Salmon Classic, This is Manitoulin, the M.S. Chi-Cheemaun and all things Manitoulin at the 34th annual London Boat, Fishing and Outdoors Show.

"Our booth was very, very well received," said Salmon Classic coordinator Dave Patterson. "We had hundreds of great 'goodie bags' loaded with brochures from Island accommodations and events, ferry schedules, and the 2017 edition of This is Manitoulin—hot off the press."

"Last year the Salmon Classic held fort at the Toronto Sportsmen's Show but this year we decided to try a different audience and we're quite positive it's going to pay off—the visitors to our booth were so receptive and many of them were already familiar with Manitoulin so it's an easy sell," Mr. Patterson added.

"Those who are familiar with Manitoulin Island were quick to light up as soon as they saw the booth and wanted to spend time with us and share their Island memories," added Alicia McCutcheon, editor of The Expositor. "If they said, 'Manitoulin, I haven't been there in many years,' we'd counter with 'Well, it's time to come back!' They always agreed," Ms. McCutcheon laughed.

The Salmon Classic, gearing up for its second run, has already gained a good reputation among the angling set with some of last year's derby fishermen stopping by the booth to share their excitement for this year's month-long tournament and even greater cash prizes. Many more had heard about the start-up derby and were keen to learn more. "We even had people double checking the derby dates so they could book their holidays!" Mr. Patterson enthused.

Police alert public to deadly carfentanil's impending arrival

World's most potent commercial opioid

by Robin Burrige

MANITOULIN—The United Chiefs and Councils of Manitoulin (UCCM) Anishnaabe Police have issued a drug alert in partnership with the M'Chigeeng Health Centre advising the public of a serious health concern involving a drug known as carfentanil—a drug similar to Fentanyl but 100 times more toxic.

"The M'Chigeeng Health Centre contacted us and felt we should let the public know about carfentanil," explained UCCM Anishnaabe Police Chief Rodney Nahwegahbow. "We are aware it has been found in Hamilton and Toronto and are concerned that with the presence of drugs on the Island we could see it on Manitoulin soon. We both felt that it was in the best interest of the public to bring attention to the drug and the danger."

Police Chief Nahwegahbow explained that carfentanil looks like table salt and can be absorbed through the skin or inhaled. He also said that it can take as little as 20 micrograms to kill a person.

"It looks like table salt and is a cheaper compound, so it's being mixed with other drugs like cocaine, which has had a presence on Manitoulin for a number of years," said Police Chief Nahwegahbow. "It's a scary thing. It was developed as an elephant tranquilizer and the smallest amount can be deadly."

"We started to see it in western Canada, but now it's in southern Ontario and we are concerned it could be making its way to Manitoulin next," said Police Chief Nahwegahbow.

Carfentanil has been linked to at least 15 deaths in Alberta between last summer and November, with Health Canada confirming the presence of the drug in

Plans for lakeside nuclear waste storage moving swiftly forward

by Michael Erskine

TORONTO—The public commentary period on plans to build a permanent storage site for low to medium radioactive waste from nuclear plants such as clothing, tools and parts deep within the limestone formation less than a mile from the shores of Lake Huron ends on Monday, March 6, and the proponents are citing a lack of participation as a sign that the plan is not very high on Ontarians' radar.

Ontario Power Generation's (OPG) proposed Deep Geological Repository (DGR) would store low and intermediate level nuclear waste deep beneath the earth's surface beside OPG's Western Waste Management Facility at the Bruce nuclear generating station located in Kincardine.

Designed to hold about 200,000 cubic metres of low and intermediate level waste from Ontario's nuclear generating stations, loads of radioactive mops, rags, paper towels and clothing (aka low level waste) would be joined by the more radioactive waste such as filters, resins and pressure tubes, most of which is currently stored above ground in specialized storage buildings. No spent fuel rods would be part of this group.

The ion shielding resins included in the intermediate waste category contain significant amounts of carbon-14, a radionuclide that has a half life of more than 5,700 years. A long term solution is therefore obviously a high priority.

The DGR would be carved out of the sedimentary shale and limestone rock, some 680 metres (2,230 feet) below the surface in rock formations that OPG's research has determined have been stable for more than 450 million years. But the site is located less than a mile from the shores of Lake Huron and the opposition to the facility has been widespread despite the $130 million in research spent by the OPG since 2001

by Michael Erskine

GORE BAY—'Boiler Room Suite,' this year's Gore Bay Theatre entry in the QUONTA Festival competition will present a challenge for the actors, particularly John Hawke and Shannon McMullan, who will have to perform a variety of roles in the play's fantasy sequences, but as luck and planning would have it, both thespians have considerable experience before the footlights.

"It will be, um, tough," admits Andrea Emmerton, who is co-directing the production with Walter Maskell. "Well they are all tough, but this play has many challenges. There are layers upon layers to it."

This will be actor John Robertson's first "serious" play, although he has had a great deal of experience in musicals among other acting gigs. "He is very good," said the director.

The play is by a Canadian playwright and Ms. Emmerton notes that Theatre Ontario is encouraging Canadian plays in their festival, taking place in Ottawa this year, in honour of Canada's 150th birthday. "All three plays in this year's QUONTA festival have been written by Canadians," she said.

'Boiler Room Suite' by Rex Deverell "is a wonderful Canadian play about Aggie and Sprugg, two derelicts who have taken refuge in the boiler room of an old hotel to find warmth. The 'boiler room suite is Aggie's secret hideout," notes Ms. Emmerton in a synopsis she provided to The Expositor. "Aggie was once an actress, Sprugg was once a poet. Together they while away an evening and a jug of wine in their sanctuary. Their sometimes hilarious, sometimes tragic comradeship reveals much about being poor in material possessions and having a wealth of imagination. When Pete, the custodian appears, the drama intensifies with the boiler room becoming alternatively their heaven or their hell, with powerful results."

"The world the Canadian playwright portrays in 'Boiler Room Suite' is one of loss, regret, sorrow, humiliation, despair and loneliness," notes critic Robert Reid in The Waterloo Record. "Conversely, it's a world of warmth, imagination, caring, compassion, kindness and hope."

The multi-award winning theatre troupe has never failed to bring engaging and high quality theatre to the Gore Bay stage, and with the depth of talent of the cast and crew in this production, 'Boiler Room Suite' is bound to continue that stellar

Three Island youth to represent zone at the District H Legion public speaking competition

by Robin Burrige

ONAPING Falls—Three Island youth placed first at the Zone H3 Royal Canadian Legion Public Speaking competition in Onaping Falls last weekend and will be moving on to represent the area at District H competition in Sudbury on Saturday, March 25.

Representing the Little Current Legion Branch #117 was Eric Wahl from Central Manitoulin Public School in the primary division, Thomas Green from Little Current Public School in the junior division, Darci Debassige from Lakeview School in the intermediate division and Manitoulin Secondary School student Sandi Kuntsi in the high school division.

From the Gore Bay Legion Branch #514 were Amara Wilson-Zegil in the primary division, Mason Leighton in the junior division, Malia Leighton in the intermediate division and April Torkopolous in the high school division.

Eric placed first in his division, as did April and Mason—with all three advancing to the district competition later this month.

Fellow Island competitors also placed strongly in their divisions with Thomas placing second, Darci third, Cassandra third and Amara third.

Eric, a seven-year-old Central Manitoulin Public School Grade 2 student, did his speech on his family Christmas.

"I was a little nervous before," said Eric of presenting his speech at zone competition.

Eric made it to the zone competition last year as well for his speech on his big sister, placing third.

"I starting working on my speech a lot sooner this year," said Eric. "I also practice a lot."

Eric said that he is ready for the next competition and will be practicing in front of his parents to help him prepare.

April, a Grade 10 student at Manitoulin Secondary School, also made it to the zone competition two years ago for her speech about going to high school, placing third.

"I wrote my speech about Canada and Canada's 150th birthday," said April. "I spoke about the confederation, what Canada was like 150 years ago, Canadian stereotypes, and our future as a coun-

Island cattlemen well represented at BFO AGM

by Robin Burrige

TORONTO—Three representatives from Manitoulin joined more than 500 other farmers from across Ontario last week at the Beef Farmers of Ontario (BFO) annual general meeting (AGM) in Toronto.

Tehkummah beef farmer John McNaughton attended the AGM along with fellow Islanders and voting delegates Brent Best and advisory council member Jordan Miller.

"A lot of the AGM is bringing everyone up to date on the activities of the BFO," explained Mr. McNaughton.

It was a jam-packed agenda squeezed into two days with presentations from some of the industry's top professionals.

"Anne Wasko (of Gateway Livestock and a market analyst) did an interesting presentation on the cattle market and what she saw moving forward," Mr. McNaughton said. "She said the market will be staying in the range it currently is—currently the market is down over the previous year's highs due to the growing production of pork and poultry."

Mr. McNaughton said he also found Dalhousie

Anishinabek stand with Iroquois on radioactive shipping

NIPISSING—Anishinabek Nation Grand Council Chief Patrick Madahbee says that the Anishinabek Nation is standing with the Iroquois Caucus opposing the transporting of radioactive liquid through Anishinabek Nation and Iroquois Territories.

"We assert inherent ownership of the water and jurisdiction within our regions and traditional territories," says the Grand Council Chief of 40 Anishinabek First Nations. "We will stand with our Iroquois allies to protect the drinking water. Water is the lifeblood of Mother Earth. Why would we put our precious resource in jeopardy? A spill into any of the waterways would have a tremendous impact on the Great Lakes. Millions of people would be affected—on both sides of the border."

The transport of radioactive liquid waste could pose substantial threats to the environmental and human health as hazardous materials and waste cannot be disposed of by common means, the press release from the Anishinabek Nation continues. It has the potential to cause contamination to the largest fresh water supply in the world which provides drinking water to approximately 40 million people.

The plan is to truck 23,000 litres of highly radioactive liquid from Chalk River, Ontario across the international border to the Savannah River Site, South Carolina, using public roads and bridges.

In 2010, Anishinabek Chiefs in Assembly passed resolutions opposing the exporting and storage of nuclear waste across the Anishinabek Nation to other provinces or countries by either land or water.

Anishinabek First Nations are the caretakers of the land, water air and resources within our regions and traditional territories, the press release adds.

"Our water technicians will be monitoring this development closely as the Great Lakes water quality is so critical to the Anishinabek Nation," said Grand Council Chief Madahbee. "Transporting nuclear waste poses too much risk."

From left, Mason Leighton placed first in the junior division, Amara Wilson-Zegil placed third in the primary division and April Torkopolous placed first in the high school division at the Zone H3 Royal Canadian Legion Public Speaking competition in Onaping Falls. All three along with Malia Leighton competing in the intermediate division, were representatives of the Gore Bay Legion Branch #514.

Don't throw the baby out with the milk quota

It seems somewhat counterintuitive for a party that holds sway largely with voters residing in rural Canada to put the dairy supply management system in the crosshairs of proposed policy, but that is exactly what the Conservative Party of Canada has traditionally done.

Stepping into power, one of the first things the Conservatives under Stephen Harper scuttled was the Grain Marketing Board, the cooperative entity that for generations had taken the uncertainty out of grain production on the Canadian prairies and negotiated large scale sales on behalf of grain farmers. The move had wide a wide ranging, and in some cases unanticipated, impact on the Canadian economy and the development of Canada's North.

The resulting dearth of grain trains headed to the Port of Churchill on Manitoba's portion of the James Bay coast has led largely to the mothballing of that port in what is certainly a totally unanticipated result that played havoc with Mr. Harper's avowed intention to strengthen our nation's Arctic presence.

Unintended consequences tend to be the norm when it comes to government interaction with the economy, but in the case of supply management, the intended outcome of keeping our farming communities and agricultural sector strong seems to have been at least a qualified success.

Thanks to the various supply management boards in place, Canadians can be assured that the eggs, turkeys, chickens, milk and other dairy products they find in their grocery stores are produced in Canada and that those who labour to produce those products can receive a living wage in return—all without the need for government (i.e. taxpayer's) subsidies. Our food supplies are the envy of much of the world and a strength that would not be there but for the supply management system.

Today, the Canadian supply management system ensures that our food supply remains of the highest quality and untainted by an influx of cheap substandard products created in an environment with poor, if any, safeguards. Ontario's agri-food industry is one of the leading strengths of our economy when approaching Asian markets and the burgeoning middle class that is appearing on the other side of the Pacific Rim.

There are challenges to supply management, to be sure. Many small farmers chafe under the restrictions imposed by having to purchase quota in order to exceed the production limits found under a supply management system. But the protections and supports for our agricultural sector that are in place supply management benefits us all, even if it does add slightly to the cost of doing meals.

The anger and angst of the Trump legions, chafing against the loss of high paying jobs to overseas markets, need look no further than to the low wages and lack of regulation in those same markets for the underlying cause of the hollowing out of the manufacturing sector that has led to such devastating job losses.

There are tradeoffs to be found in economic policy decisions that have to be made at the provincial and federal levels, but too often in those decisions ideology trumps sound economic sense.

The current actual frontrunner in the Conservative race is the libertarian focussed former Conservative cabinet minister and Quebec MP Maxime Bernier (Kevin O'Leary leads among Conservative voters with his television celebrity profile, but only a fraction of those being polled are actually party members) and he has indicated that the dismantling of Canada's supply management system is high on his priority list as he seeks the Conservative leadership.

While such a policy would bring lower prices into Canadian supermarkets, the losses among Canada's agricultural sector would be devastating and our nation's food security and sovereignty would be the long term victim of that short sighted and ideologically driven policy.

Canada's supply management system works, there is no reason to throw it out simply because it fits better into an ideology based on theories better suited to natural selection and novels glorifying the supremacy of the individual in society.

Let's keep Canada's food supply as local as it can be.

Shirley Cheechoo and Debajehmujig impacts go beyond theatre

They make an important contribution to effecting social change

To the Expositor:

Hello Manitoulin! Aanii!

Been thinking about life on Manitoulin Island lately as I am recently in touch with colleagues from Debajehmujig. Those years at Debaj had a major impact on me and heightened my awareness for First Nations issues. Currently I am involved with an advocacy group to draw attention to the Adam Capay story.

This young Ojibwe man from a small reserve in Northwestern Ontario, has made headline news since October 7, 2017, when Ontario Human Rights Commissioner Renu Mandhane visited Thunder Bay District Jail. A prison guard at the jail tipped her off to a prisoner, held without trial in solitary confinement for four years! In a cell the size of an elevator shaft, 23 hours a day, a lightbulb burning constantly a young man, Adam Capay endured.

Shortly after Commissioner Mandhane's expose the news broke on CBC's 'The Sunday Edition' with Michael Enright, who gave a scathing report on the use of torture (as defined by the UN) for the treatment of Capay. That very day, my daughter Lilly Woodbury was leaving for New Zealand. She is the same age as Adam Capay, 23. After obtaining a degree in Environmental Studies at University of Toronto, she is working for Greenpeace in New Zealand, following her dreams. This contrasted so sharply to Adam Capay, who's life had become a nightmare. Recently Brett Storey, who grew on the beautiful Manitoulin, has received recognition for her film 'Twelve Landscapes of Prison.' This film explores solitary confinement in the USA. In Canada we have a kinder, gentler term—administrative segregation.

Our advocacy group has an online "Care 2" petition with 80,000 signatures. We are now working on a GoFundMe campaign—A Family for Visit for Adam Capay—as, due to public pressure, he was moved to Penetanguishene, 1,700 miles from home. As we plodded along with our efforts I kept thinking, who do I know that can spread the word on our campaign and in a flash I thought Debajehmujig!

Without people like Shirley Cheechoo, without Debaj, I may not have become involved in Adam's plight. I'd like to thank Shirley Cheechoo, Marsha Coffey, Blake Debassige and Audrey Wemigwans for getting back to me on this important issue, Miigwetch!

The arts such as theatre and film make a major contribution to the important work of affecting change on social justice issues. Weengushk Film Institute and Debajehmujig, right there on Manitoulin, with so much local support, continue to make a difference!

Correcting a Bible quote misquoted

Let us beat swords into plowshares instead of retaliation

To the Expositor:

I would like to thank Michael Erskine for his continued support of the Eritrean families in our community and his sensitive and detailed account of the vigil held in Little Current in memory of the victims of the Quebec City mosque attack.

Unfortunately, Michael misquoted the Bible text I read that evening. To clarify, I did not read Isaiah 11:4, but Isaiah 2:4, which reads as follows:

He will judge between the nations and will settle disputes for many peoples. They will beat their swords into plowshares and their spears into pruning hooks. Nation will not take up sword against nation, nor will they train for war anymore.

My point was that by avoiding retaliation and seeking justice instead of revenge, we are following Jesus' commandment to turn the other cheek. Further, we may not be able to stop the atrocities that are being committed throughout the world, but by reaching out to people in need through word, action and prayer, we are in fact, beating swords into plowshares and spears into pruning hooks.

Good luck wishes to Manitoulin's Special Olympic athletes

Bluegrass in the Country is coming up June 9-11

To the Expositor:

How amazing is that! TSN here on Manitoulin to interview two Island athletes. Manitoulin Special Olympic athlete's Kelsey Mellan and Matthew Bedard, who both hail from Manitowaning, will be leaving soon for Austria. They have trained hard and qualified at the Regional, Provincial and National levels to represent Canada at the World Games on March 14-23 in snowshoeing.

As the treasurer for Manitoulin Special Olympics, I would like to say good luck!

We are so proud of all our athletes whether they finish a race or qualify for Worlds. There are over 50 athletes on Manitoulin participating in seven different sports.

Wonderful coaches and volunteers put their time in every week to provide instruction to these athletes.

Our big fundraiser, Bluegrass in the Country, provides all the funding necessary to purchase equipment, pay registration and cover transportation to all the events off-Island. We are so lucky here to have community support. From the businesses who sponsor our festival to anyone who has purchased a ticket or worked the gate.

Bluegrass in the Country 2017 will be coming up June 9-11. We have some amazing talent coming to entertain, so please purchase a ticket and help Manitoulin Special Olympics encourage all our athletes to "Go for Gold!"

Thank you.

Shades of Our Sisters celebrates the lives behind the statistics

by Michael Erskine

ESPANOLA—Numbers are sterile. They stand stark and impersonal on the newsprint page or echo passionless in our ears as we listen to the Six O’Clock News. Even through the new-age medium of a social media meme, the more than 1,200 missing and murdered indigenous women and girls that are currently the subject of a long-cried for national inquiry comes across as impersonal and distant—something happening somewhere else and to somebody else. But behind each and every single digit that comprises that stark number was a living breathing human being—a person with dreams and aspirations, and loved ones who watched them grow, shared their peaks and valleys as they made their way through life.

Shades of Our Sisters, a powerful multimedia documentary exhibition produced by a passionate group of Ryerson students, in conjunction with a group of relatives of

The left hand portion of the Shades of Our Sisters exhibit was dedicated to artifacts related to the life, aspirations and dreams of Sonya Cywink. The artifacts were accompanied by iPads that further explain the relevance of each item.

menting the birth of her son, Dakota, her writings and her books, the wallet containing her photos of her and her brothers and her baby’s ultrasounds, and again, iPads and video screens to explain the significance of each of the items.

“This is a smaller version of the exhibit,” explains Ms. Tse. “We usually display in a larger auditorium. We had to trim it down for the smaller space. It was a very challenging process.”

At the end of the exhibit rows of chairs sit before a large flat screen television. Upon the screen, two 20-minute documentary films delved into the lives of the two young women.

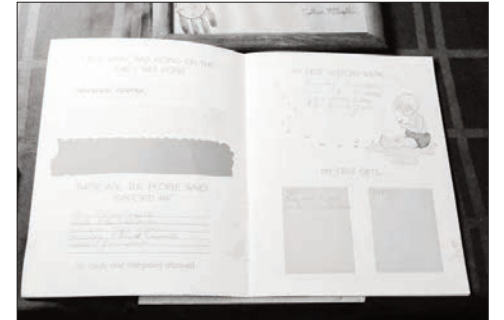

We meet Patricia’s mother (one of the producers of the documentary on her daughter), who talks about her Patricia’s childhood and how the 14-year-old unwed mother faced the birth of her child with pride and excitement. We hear from her brother, her cousins, each relaying snippets

A heart-wrenching juxtaposition of Patricia Carpenter’s Brownie uniform with the jumper of the six-week-old son left behind spoke of sorrow on many different levels.

The Patricia Carpenter portion of the exhibit occupied the right hand side of the installation and included photos, toys, books and clothing that brought life to the memory of a young 14-year-old unwed mother from the Andersonville First Nation.

The young mother’s baby book documents the joy of the birth of Patricia Carpenter’s son Dakota. The very familiar items that make up our lives brought a sharp contrast to the impersonal numbers behind the statistics.

two of the missing and murdered indigenous women and girls, was held at the Espanola High School last week.

Shades of Our Sisters brought the lives of Whitefish River First Nation’s Sonya Cywink and Andersonville First Nation’s Patricia Carpenter into focus through the lens of two 20-minute documentaries and the anguished recollections of those who they left behind.

The Shades of Our Sisters exhibit at Espanola High School is the last of three public presentations, one at the Ryerson Student Centre and the second at Ms. Carpenter’s home community of Andersonville First Nation.

Just outside the exhibit hall, volunteers from the Manitoulin Sudbury Victim Services sat ready to provide support to those who might be overcome by the emotions which could well up from seeing/participating in the exhibit.

Entering the exhibit hall, a visitor is greeted first by a floating mobile containing hundreds of feathers. Feathers for Women is a massive mobile comprised of more than 1,200 paper feathers upon each of which are written thoughts on violence garnered from a questionnaire sent to schools and communities across the country.

Each of those feathers represents the life of a missing or murdered indigenous woman or girl, transgendered or spirit person. The mobile was created by Cree artist Waylon Goodwin of Kashechewan First from the life of Patricia that rounded out her character and personality.

We meet Sonya’s family members, who recall stories of her as a vibrant, engaging and funny young child and woman and listen to a letter Sonya wrote to her father, read by her sister Maggie Cywink.

Throughout the day on Friday, students at Espanola High School visited the exhibit with their teachers. So powerful was the exhibit that some teachers expressed difficulty in dealing with the subject matter. “This is someone whose family members we know,” said one teacher. She recalled the reaction of one of her students following the exhibit. “What happened to them?”

It was a question asked by many of the visitors to the exhibit, to which the answer is “that is the point.”

Getting to know Sonya and Patricia as people, not faceless numbers, we become engaged with their fates, by getting to know Sonya and Patricia on a personal level, we cannot help but to care deeply about the fate of these two young women.

But Shades of Our Sister does not answer the question “what happened to them?” A visitor can easily turn to Google to discover the news stories that focussed on their deaths.

“I want people to know my sister, her life, not her death,” said co-producer Alex Cywink.

“She was a good person, with her whole life ahead of her,” said Patricia’s cousin Shauna, “and a son that she never got to know.”

As to what happens next, perhaps that answer lies in the words of co-producer Maggie Cywink contained upon the Shades of Our Sister website.

“There needs to be a sacred circle of healing,” she wrote. “When the healing starts our family and community grows stronger. We have the answers, we just need to start listening.”

Cabbage Patch dolls were a favourite toy of Patricia Carpenter and were displayed with other memories from her childhood.

The cross from Sonya Cywink’s grave in Birch Island formed part of the exhibit, a rare allusion to her death in an installation focussed on the celebration of her life.

Nation and serves as the exhibit’s centre-piece.

Beneath the mobile the students behind the project, storyteller/researcher Michael Rebellato, director of photography/assistant editor Adam Gualtieri, project manager/digital director Josephine Tse, executive producer Laura Heidenheim, artistic director Tomas Maturana, editor/cinematographer Melissa Gonzalez, financial officer/marketing director Joshua Howe and director of audio Antonietta Emmanuel, stood waiting to take people through the exhibit.

On the left hand side of the exhibit were artifacts from the life of Sonya Cywink. Her writings, family photos from throughout her short life, the material she used as a Miss Manitoulin contestant, her favourite music and the stark remains of her cross from the Whitefish River First Nation cemetery. Audio and video clips with headphones and iPads at each section explain the significance of the items of display.

Northeast Town Council Notes

Fire department report

Northeast Town Fire Department Chief Darren Bailey presented council with the January department report. He said there were four calls to service to date so far this year. The calls included a carbon monoxide call to Blake Street on January 13, an electrical fire in Sheguiandah First Nation on January 18, a chimney fire on North Channel Drive on January 20 and a chimney fire on Highway 6 south on February 8. Fire Chief Bailey also noted that the fire trucks and equipment are in good working order.

Community services and public works

Reid Taylor reviewed the community services report. He said that the ice schedule is still busy at the recreation centre and that staff are busy prepping for upcoming events. "They are also completing maintenance, repair and painting tasks," said Mr. Taylor. "The adult craft days have gone well and will continue until the end of April and the children's craft days have also been well attended and will continue until April."

Mr. Taylor said that this month at the recreation centre the Skate Canada programs will continue, the Manitoulin Panthers playoffs will occur, along with the Manitoulin Secondary Schools boys playoffs and Little Current Howland Minor Hockey. He noted that the ballet, martial arts and fitness programs are also going well.

"The Manitoulin Panthers will be hosting the Northern Ontario Hockey Association Tournament of Champions on March 10 to 12," said Mr. Taylor.

He said there were children's activities planned for March 13 to 17 and a fundraising event on March 18.

Coming soon is a 'Soup and Tomatoes' exercise program for seniors.

In terms of the parks and marina, he said that all the marina building and docks are continuing to be monitored and preparations for spring opening of marinas and buildings are being planned. "Renewals will be sent out for seasonal slip rentals and marina rates are to be set," Mr. Taylor said.

He listed upcoming community events including an Old Fashioned Family Fun Day at the museum in Sheguiandah on Saturday, March 4 and a Spring Tea and Sale at the museum on Saturday, March 25.

Mr. Reid also reviewed the recommendations for the Port of Little Current and Spider Bay Marina dockage, ramping and service rate increases for 2017. He noted that the fees reflect a two percent increase for anything that uses hydro. The committee made a recommendation to council to accept the proposed rates for 2017.

Town CAO Dave Williamson presented the public works report, noting that the manager of public works, Gary May, was busy dealing with a water main break.

He said that snow removal is underway on the connecting link and other areas as needed. In terms of water and sewer, Mr. Williamson explained that the second pump is out for repair at the main lift station and that a replacement generator is on order for the lift station with a temporary portable wired in.

Mr. Williamson also noted that public works staff have been watching for a second trackless as the rear differential went out on the town's recently.

The community services and public works committee reviewed a used trackless that Mr. May had found for sale for $14,900. He said that it could be purchased using funds left in a stabilization reserves that weren't being used plus funds from the public works department.

There were mixed opinions from the councillors regarding the purchase, but in the end a motion was carried recommending to council that the trackless be purchased.

Library update

Council's representative on the Little Current Public Library board, Laurie Cook, told council that the board had selected a new librarian and made an offer to the individual.

She also said that two of the library's employees had been "holding down the fort" since the resignation of the last librarian and that the board had opted to give the two employees a temporary $3 an hour increase to their wages while they had been assuming the responsibilities of the librarian.

Budget

The Northeast Town reviewed the draft 2017 municipal budget. Northeast Town CAO Dave Williamson walked council through some of the changes since staff first presented the budget including an increase in the municipal allocation to the Manitoulin Centennial Manor and a decrease in the Northeast Town's contribution to the District Services Board. He also commended council on its due diligence going through the budget and recommended changes.

"Thanks to the efforts of council, I am very pleased to present a budget with a 1.65 percent increase to the levy," said Mr. Williamson.

Councillor Melissa Peters said that she couldn't support the budget as the municipality is stretched too thin, in her opinion, and the budget should include future increases.

Councillor Bill Koehler said that he also couldn't support the budget. "Staff does a good job, but council needs to take a long, hard look at the town's finances," said Councillor Koehler. "Government funding is being cut back, but we can't keep coming back to the taxpayers to pick up the extra."

In a recorded vote, Councillor Koehler voted against approving the 2017 municipal budget, while Councillor Michael Erskine, Marcel Gauthier, Melissa Peters, Bruce Wood and Mayor Al MacNevin voted in favour of the budget.

RV park

Council discussed a deputation that was made last month about the municipality building an RV park at Spider Bay Marina.

Mr. Williamson said he spoke to RV business owners in the municipality who were opposed to the town creating an RV park.

"We have a policy to not compete with the private sector," Mr. Williamson reminded council.

Mr. Williamson also went over some of the costs that would be associated with building a park.

Councillor Erskine said he didn't see the benefit of the municipality competing with the private sector and noted that RV camping was already being handled by business owners in the municipality.

Councillor Gauthier said he agreed with Councillor Erskine and didn't want to see the municipality competing with the private business owners in the municipality.

No motion was made towards the town building a RV park at Spider Bay Marina.

Donation

Council carried a motion to donate $200 to the Manitoulin Panthers. The Panthers requested funds to help host the Tournament of Champions March 10 to 12.

There will be 10 teams coming to Little Current from across Northern Ontario as part of the conference.

Library board

Council reviewed a request for a new board member for the Little Current Public Library Board.

"I have owned property in the Northeast Town since 1989 and built a home here in 2005," said the request to council from John Royal. "I am a retired, formerly working with the Simcoe County Children's Aid Society and prior to that, with the Simcoe County Housing Authority."

Mr. Royal noted that he was a member of the Midland Library Board in the 1980s, active in promoting the new library when he moved to Barrie and has experience on other boards.

Council carried a motion to appoint Mr. Royal to the library board.

Accounts receivable

Town Treasurer Sheryl Wilkin went through the accounts receivable for January with council. For taxes, she reported that there had been $158,975.50 made in payment for the month. For water and sewer, Ms. Wilkin said that there had been $134,176.68 made in payments for January. She added that there were 29 accounts over the $400 limit, with 24 accounts over the limit due to the recent billing and penalty added. She said two accounts had been disconnected and three account holders had made arrangements.

Off “the Rock” hockey

Little Current’s Nick Esposto continues to shine for the Laurentian University Voyageurs. After 27 games, Esposto has racked up 17 points on 11 goals and 6 assists. Nick is a well-rounded former OHL player (Oshawa Generals) and a key contingent of the OUAA squad.

Two of the Peltier brothers of the very athletic Wikwemikong (Gerard, Maxine) have made big hockey jumps lately. The older, Bo, has completed 3 games with the Ontario Hockey League’s North Bay Battalion while still playing a regular shift with the NOJHL’s Powassan Voodoos. His former Powassan teammate is now the second highest scorer for the Battalion.

Meanwhile, younger brother Evan, who recently was signed for the NDSSA (High School) Widdifield Wildcats by the NOJHL’s French River Rapids had a solid game against the Iroquois Falls Eskimos. Evan faced a barrage of shots in a close 8 to 6 loss but managed to make 41 saves in an admirable effort.

Panther points

The Manitoulin Atom Panthers with the Nickel District League had a great performance in a tough division last weekend at the Soo Extravaganza Tournament. They opened with a fine 1 to 0 victory over Soo Prouse followed by a 2 to 2 tie with the Chapleau Huskies. On day-two the Atom Panthers rambled over the Soo Major Novice Select by an 8 to 1 count. They followed this with a 4 to 1 triumph over the tough minor atoms from Copper Cliff in the semifinal. The champion final was a major back and forth contest but our atoms came up on the wrong side of a 4 to 2 score. As a reward, the local rep team was awarded the silver medal. Congrats to the atoms, who so far had the opportunity of playing 50+ games. Experience is a great teacher!

Naakwam Shawanda (son of former Pontiac student, Moheengun Shawanda and Bernadette George) has won himself a spot in the all-Ontario high school wrestling championships. Last weekend in Sudbury, Naakwam collected the silver medal in the 61 kilo division which qualified him for OFFSA to be held in Brampton to held March 1-3.

By the way Team Ontario, NAIG is calling all wrestlers to an Ontario try-out this April 1. The selection camp will go from 1 to 3pm at the University of Guelph.

Last week we reported that M’Chigeeng’s Lakeview winning the Sagamok Beedabin Classic. We also wish to congratulate the Pontiac School’s runners-up, led by well-known coach Shelly Ann Trudeau. Pontiac opened with a 3-3 tie with a strong A.B Ellis squad and then followed it with a 4-3 victory over the host, Sagamok. Team members included Jordan Cheechoo, Taryn Peltier, Kordell Elijah, Julian Wemigwans, Victoria Trudeau, C.J. Newberry, Ken Kagige, Lat-trell Peltier, Raven Bolton, Alex Peltier and Cordell Fox. Further high fives to Latrell Peltier who was named to the all-star team for the tournament. Ruby Trudeau, very active in Wiky hockey, assisted Ms. Trudeau as coach.

Rookie Voyageur turns heads

Kennedy Lanktree and her Laurentian Vees played their last home game of the regular season against York last week. Needing a win to secure a spot in the playoffs they headed into the second period tied at zero. 56 seconds into the next stanza, Kennedy outraced a York defender and fired a backhand over the glove of the goaltender giving Laurentian a 1-0 lead and remained scoreless through the remainder of the period. With approximately 13 min left in the 3rd, Laurentian went on a power play, again beating a York player, Lanktree gained possession of the puck and dished the puck off to line-mates who buried the second goal of the game and giving Laurentian a 2-0 lead. The game would finish 3-0 and a berth in the playoffs where they will most likely face northern rival, Nipissing in the first round. Lanktree finishes the regular season with 5 goals and 6 assists in 20 games played.

Mend well, Earl

A big get-well wish to long time referee Earl Debassige of M’Chigeeng. Unfortunately big Earl caught an edge in a recent Manitoulin minor hockey league contest, badly wrecking his ankle. The injury was serious enough to require surgery and Earl came through that with flying colours. We hope to see you on the ice with the stripes next year Earl. Best wishes!

Manitoulin Minor spotlight

Hats off to the Wikwemikong Bantams of the MMHA for their recent semi-finals triumph over the Gore Bay Bruins. In the second game, Wiky downed Gore Bay 2 to nothing. Then in the final, the Hawks prevailed the Bruins by a 7 to 5 count. They are currently waiting to see who they will play in the Island Championships.

Top, former Island athlete gives back

Former local multi-athlete Evan Bayer (top goal-tender, cross country runner, track and field competitor), who is now living in Calgary, is into cycling, marathons, tri-athlons, etc. On March 6 he will be in a competition known as “Spin for Strong Kids”. It is a program to raise money for healthy children. He is looking for contributions to help the kids and Evan is a generous young man. If you wish to assist check out the website. <https://www.crowdrise.com/the-lead-out-project-spin-for-strong-kids>.

Island Wolf and her team reach finals of top-notch tourney

Hailey McGillis-Prior and her Sudbury Lady Wolves B team was at the Durham west tournament on the weekend and made it to the semi-finals! They played an Ottawa team Friday morning and tied them 1-1 with Hailey getting the goal to tie it up. They then played the number-one ranked team in the province the Cornwall Typhoons and tied them 1-1 as well. The third game was against Leaside and the S.L.W. won 2-0 which put them into the semis against the same Ottawa team they tied Friday. They played hard but came up short and lost 2-0. The Cornwall team went on to win the tournament, 1-0 over Ottawa.

Lakeview court, hosts intense floor hockey league

For the past few weeks Lakeview School students have been competing for the top spot in the L.V.S. 2017 Floor Hockey Intramurals. There are five teams with an even mix of grade 5-8 students and they battled it out through a very, close-matched regular season. Special mention to Ms. Mavec for the lowest goals against average, allowing only 10 goals for the season and to Mr. Roy for a close second for an average of 13 goals against. The team with the highest goals-for, on the season goes to principal, Neil Debassige’s team of Noah, Damion, Arnold, Preston, Wesley and Adrian with 25 goals. The playoffs have just begun and teams are now battling it out for the championships.

Hoops holler

Dion Killens, son of former Manitoulin resident and long-time rep hockey player Mark Killens, continues to shine in basketball skills. Recently he won his second district free-throw championships for his school.

Way to play, Lakeview!

Mustang boys face off against St. Ben Bears in series final

by Robin Burridge

MANITOULIN—The Manitoulin Secondary School Mustang Boys hockey team will battle the St. Benedict Bears in the Division II final series this week.

In the best of three series, the games have been scheduled for Tuesday, February 28 at 3:30 pm at the Countryside Arena in Sudbury; Wednesday, March 1 at 5:30 pm at the Little Current Recreation Centre and if necessary, Thursday, March 2 at 3:45 pm at the Countryside Arena.

“The boys are in good spirits going into the final series,” said MSS boys’ hockey coach Steve Doane. “We know that we can play with them from our past game against St. Benedict which was the 4-4 tie here in Little Current back in January. We got behind in that game and battled back to take the lead at one point. It is going to be important that we start well in these games and not give St. Bens that early lead.”

Mustang girls fight to earn a spot in B division finals

by Robin Burridge

MANITOULIN—The Manitoulin Secondary School Mustang girls’ hockey team had a tie breaker game against the Bishop Alexander Carter Catholic Secondary School team on Sudbury ice yesterday, Tuesday, February 28, to determine who would be heading to the B division finals.

“Their first round against St. Benedict (Catholic Secondary School) they played fantastic,” said coach Mike Meeker. “It was an amazing game, especially since their regular goalie (Sophie Bondi) was away on a school trip. Hannah Woestenenk filled in. It was her first time in net and she did great—she is a good athlete. The girls won 5 to 3.”

The Mustangs then started their series against Bishop Carter.

“Their first game last Thursday didn’t go well, they lost 6 to 1—Bishop Carter is a strong team,” said Mr. Meeker.

Their second game against Bishop Carter on Monday, February 27 on home turf went to their advantage with the Mustangs winning 4 to 1.

“The girls played really well,” said Mr. Meeker. “Tomorrow (Tuesday, February 28) they head back to Sudbury for a final game

"The challenge will be dealing with their speed at Countryside Arena, which has an Olympic size ice early surface," added Coach Doane. "The other key is going to be getting traffic in front of their goalie and banging away at the rebound goals. He is the kind of strong goalie that usually stops pucks if he can see them. We are healthy with a full lineup and our goaltending has really improved each week this season, so I'm fairly optimistic."

The Mustangs have been working on their two power play units and hope it will pay off and they can convert some big goals for the team.

"We are looking forward to the series and think that we can give them a good battle," concluded Coach Doane. "Hopefully a good crowd shows up Wednesday at 5:30 pm in Little Current and cheers the boys on. They always seem to up their game in front of our fans."

Congratulations, Jordanna!
 Go Team!

Proud Supporter of our MSS Mustangs

Jordanna Dedman

Jordanna Dedman is an outgoing and adventurous grade 12 student at Manitoulin Secondary School. She believes that no matter what an individual's skill level is in a sport, there is always room for improvement to become better. When Jordanna was in public school she was on the track and field, soccer, volleyball and basketball teams. In high school, Jordanna is on the gymnastics team. When she was in grade 9, she played for her local soccer team. Jordanna's favourite sport is soccer because she enjoys playing with a team and spending time outside, running on an open field. In school, her favourite subject is law. Jordanna's inspiration comes from her mother because she shows her how to work hard for what you want, to never give up and to always stay strong. In her spare time, Jordanna enjoys swimming, fishing, shopping and spending time with her friends. After high school, Jordanna is planning on attending university for a program in criminology and will later pursue a career as a crime scene investigator. When she is in university she is planning on trying out for the volleyball and cheerleading teams. Congratulations, Jordanna, for all of your hard work and dedication to school and sports! Good luck in the future!

...deadly carfentanil's impending arrival

Ontario in December.

Manitoulin was also ranked as having the highest number of opioid-related deaths per capita in the world last summer, a ranking that has since dropped to 15 but is still high and an additional warning that the deadly opioid carfentanil could have deadly consequences for Islanders.

"We have been keeping track of the drug and the overdoses out west," said M'Chigeeng Health Centre Alternative Program worker Mark Forsythe, noting the overdose epidemic that has caused the BC government to declare a public health emergency. "We figured it was only a matter of time before it made its way over to Ontario and now that it has we think it's only a matter of time before it's found on Manitoulin."

"Carfentanil is a synthetic opiate which is very strong and cheap, which is why it's being used to cut other drugs," said Mr. Forsythe. "Our main concern is with cocaine. We know that a lot of the cocaine in the area is coming from Toronto and carfentanil is in Toronto."

Mr. Forsythe said that due to the strength of carfentanil, an overdose would happen much more quickly with the typical signs of respiratory failure—blue lips, low heart rate and breathing slowing down. "It would be the same as other opiate overdoses, but a lot quicker," said Mr. Forsythe. "With Manitoulin being a rural area and emergency services having slower response times, this could be especially dangerous."

Mr. Forsythe said that carfentanil is so strong that it can be absorbed through the skin, putting first responders at risk.

UCCM Police have begun looking into carrying Naloxone, a counteragent that blocks or reverses the opioid, with the hope that other police services on the Island will follow suit.

Island paramedics also carry Naloxone, as do the Manitoulin Health Centre sites and the three Guardian Pharmacies (in Little Current, Manitowaning and Mindemoya).

A government program has made Naloxone kits available to the public for free through Ontario pharmacies.

"The kits contain two vials of Naloxone, two syringes, gloves, swabs and a CPR mask," explained Little Current Guardian Pharmacist Steve Bondi. "The kit is free to anyone who might want one on hand—a drug user, a bar owner, a friend or family member of a drug user."

"Naloxone is a competitive inhibitor of opioids (such as morphine, oxycodone and heroin in addition to carfentanil)," said Mr. Bondi.

The MHC sites in Little Current and Mindemoya are also stocked with Naloxone and have implemented protocols to help protect staff.

"We have a protocol for staff to wear double gloves and masks when dealing with a patient who has overdosed on carfentanil because of the toxicity of the drug," said MHC CEO Derek Graham. "We've made staff aware of any (carfentanil) protocols that have been recommended for Ontario hospitals and will add to it if any future protocols are implemented from the province."

"Police are urging the public to exercise caution with the growing presence of carfentanil in our area and ask that anyone with information regarding illegal drug activity can contact the UCCM Anishnaabe Police at 1-888-377-7135 or Crime Stoppers at 1-800-222-TIPS(8477)," said Police Chief Nahwegahbow.

The Travelers Host Committee will be in charge of running the event and is currently in development. Anyone interested in supporting the event can contact Crystal Morra at travelers2018@gmail.com.

"There is lots of work ahead securing sponsors, volunteers and spreading the word that this amazing event is coming to town," said Ms. Morra. "Transforming the arena into a professional curling rink will also require a great deal of coordination over the coming months."

Interested sponsors of the event can email travelers2018@gmail.com, care of Jordan Chandler.

"The committee could not have secured this bid without the amazing support of the community and would like to thank all those who supported the bid proposal including the mayor and council, Northeast Town, recreation centre user groups and the Little Current Curling Club executive committee and club members," concluded Ms. Morra.

...lakeside nuclear waste storage moving forward endorsed by the joint review panel appointed to oversee the proposal. The proponents like to point out that the storage facility is "450 million years away from Lake Huron." Opponents take little comfort in either the endorsements or the analogy.

"This idea of a 'dump' for nuclear waste has been the only option explored by CNSC since the '60s," notes Sandfield's Sarah Hutchinson, CEO for the Algoma-Manitoulin Green Party of Ontario Constituency Association and a vocal opponent of the plan. "In Europe, they are only pursuing plans for nuclear waste management facilities. The difference is, in a dump such as that proposed for Kincardine, if something goes wrong the material is irretrievable. In a management facility, the canisters for the waste can be serviced or changed if needed. Of course a management facility is much, much more expensive. What's important to know is that this facility will be the first of its kind in the world. Scientists agree that the synergy of heat from the earth, moisture and pressure will have an effect on the canisters in ways we do not yet fully understand. To me it seems dangerous to create an experiment we can not control with radioactive waste, and goes against the Green precautionary principle."

Ms. Hutchinson is far from alone in her concerns, in fact, more than 160 cities, counties and states around the Great Lakes have weighed in with resolutions opposing the repository, including heavyweights like the American cities of Detroit, Milwaukee and Chicago, as well as Ontario's Toronto. The Saugeen First Nation, upon whose traditional territories the DGR would be located have also weighed in against the proposal.

Despite the upwelling of opposition, both the US Environmental Protection Agency and the Michigan Department of Environmental Quality have clearly stated they have no objection to the project. The Town of Kincardine, the proposed location for the DGR, is, however, onside with the plan.

Opponents of the DGR

A map showing the proposed Deep Geological Repository (DGR) that would store low and intermediate level nuclear waste near the shore of Lake Huron.

have criticized the proponents for not exploring alternative sites that are not located beside the Great Lakes from which literally tens of millions of people draw their drinking water. In response to a government request to the OPG to provide a map of alternative sites for the DGR, OPG interpreted those instructions to mean other possible geological formations, one consisting of crystalline rock (aka granite) and one of sedimentary rock. Those two formations cover an area that encompasses roughly three-quarters of the province.

OPG maintains that they have met the minister's parameters by distinguishing between a "site" and a "location." Identifying an alternative "site," they contend, would involve a multi-year process, complete with multiple phases, that would include finding another willing host—basically starting the process all over again from scratch, while simply identifying an alternative location involves identifying which geological formations are technically and economically feasible.

The semantic gymnastics can likely be traced to the bottom line. Finding an alternate location at this point would entail something on the order of $380 million to $1.4 billion dollars. Nothing nuclear comes cheap, it seems.

The comment period on the latest information submitted by the OPG on the DGR ends on March 6. So far, the OPG contends that the facility is not generating much interest on the public's radar. On Monday, December 12, 2016 the Governor in Council extended the time limit for the issuance of a decision statement by 243 days.

The documents to weigh in on the project's pros and cons can be found at www.ceaa-acee.gc.ca.

...Salmon Classic gets much love from southwestern Ontario

"Everyone was so excited to learn about the new dates, July 29 to August 27, and even bigger cash prizes coming in at $30,000 with a prize of $100 a day for the heaviest catch, plus more opportunities to win," Mr. Patterson continued.

"We developed the Salmon Classic as a way to help bolster tourism on Manitoulin," he added, "and we encourage Island businesses to use the derby to their advantage. Accommodations, for instance, may want to come up with a fishermen's rate during that month or community groups could host a dinner as a fundraiser for their cause, inviting the derby participants to come. There's no shortage of ways to get involved and cross-promote."

Island elementary school chess champions crowned

by Tom Sasvari
MANITOWANING—Six Manitoulin elementary schools took part in the Island chess tournament held at Assiginack Public

Ben Dewar, of Central Manitoulin Public School, won the junior division, at the Island elementary chess championships.

Liam Bebonang, of Lakeview School, was the winner in the senior division of the Manitoulin elementary school chess championships.

School in Manitowaning recently. Champions in two divisions were crowned.

Participating schools included Pontiac School, Lakeview School, Charles C. McLean Public School, Central Manitoulin Public School, Little Current Public School and Assiginack Public School. There were eight students sent from each school for a total of 48 students in total competing.

Students were grouped in A and B divisions, in both junior and senior groupings, and participated in round-robin play. The quarter finals saw the top six players from the A division and the top two players from the B division advance into the final playdowns.

In the junior division, Macie Settington of Assiginack Public School took on Ben Dewar of Central Manitoulin Public School, but after the dust settled it was Mr. Dewar who was crowned as the champion.

In the senior division, the final match was between Liam Bebonang of Lakeview School against Nathan Temple of C.C. McLean Public School. The 2017 champion is Liam Bebonang.

The tournament was organized by Joanne Peltier, Jeremy Mailloux and Janet McCarville of Assiginack Public School.

Manitowaning Atom Wolves rock the Soo Extravaganza

The Manitowaning Wolves Atom team won the Atom Minor House League division of the Soo Peeewe 2017 Extravaganza Tournament recently. They won all four games played and had three shutouts. The final game was against Team Bouchard and the Wolves won 7 - 0. The management team was coach Jeff Pitawanakwat, Brent Assinewai assistant coach, Janet McComb trainer and Dawn Roque manager. Teina Pitawanakwat and Ray Moreau are assistant coaches but were not with the team that weekend. On the photo are team members Emily Roque, Ava Fields, Brooke Gibeault, William McComb, Brodie Pennie, Xavier Mara, Ava Assinewai, Grace Pitawanakwat, Kordell Elijah, Alex Peltier, Ryley Wassegijig-Migwans, Andrew Cooper, Zoey Trudeau and Jacob Smith in net. A novice team and a peeewe team from Manitowaning attended this tournament as well. The Peeewe team made it to the semi-finals but got shut down. The novice team fought hard but in the end tied a game and lost their other two.

What a difference a sweep of a broom can make in a day

We would like to share an act of kindness shown to us this winter. Dave Siberry, a resident of our little village, cleans the snow from the sidewalk in front of the apartments across the road. On his way home while walking by our driveway—broom and shovel in hand—he stops and cleans the snow from our vehicle. My husband injured his arm and shoulder last fall so this kind gesture is very much appreciated.

The Northeast Town's unofficial ambassador does it again!

Last Saturday afternoon we did our usual rush trip to the Little Current landfill site. Ten minutes later, on our way home, my husband reached for his stainless steel water bottle so he could take his medication. Not there! With a sinking feeling, he remembered placing not only the bottle but his reading glasses on top of either the paper or cardboard recycling box. Back to the landfill site with just five minutes before closing time. Hearing about our plight, Dave Draper jumped into the paper dumpster. No luck! Then he climbed into the cardboard dumpster. With arms moving through waves of cardboard, like an Olympic swimmer, Dave soon found the water bottle. Could Dave pull off a second miracle? After a more than reasonable time of searching we thanked Dave for trying so hard to find the glasses and started back to the car. Just then we heard a shout from the dumpster, "Would these be yours?" Sure enough, Dave found the glasses! Thank you, Dave, you saved the day.

Stories From Our Land

Celebrating Canada's 150

A child immigrant arrives in Canada

EDITOR'S NOTE: In conjunction with Canada's Sesquicentennial in 2017, members of the Manitoulin Writers' Circle are crafting stories and poems to pay tribute to our country on this pivotal milestone birthday. The following memoir takes the reader back to that period just before Expo '67 when both the country and the Baby Boomers were coming of age.

by Rose McCormick
Brandon

Grace Griffin Galbraith, my grandmother, wrote these words in 1928: "I can never regret coming to Canada. I have had, to work hard but I don't mind that for I love to work." She was 25 and a perfect candidate for regret. She immigrated to Canada as an eight year-old with her sister, Lily. The two, and later their brother, Edward, arrived through a child reneged on their contractual responsibility to send Grace to school for at least three months each year. One day, a local minister, Rev. Munroe, arrived at the farm and found Grace in alarming condition. He immediately removed her and took her to live with a family that attended his church, the Gilpins. She stayed at this safe and kind home until her marriage at age 17.

One year after her marriage to James Galbraith, a farmer with Scottish roots, Grace received the sad news that Lily had died of tuberculosis. She wrote, "It was lonesome for me when Lily died. I missed her sisterly letters."

Meanwhile, Grace's brother, Edward, who had the good fortune to live with a couple who considered him a son and included him in their will, had returned to England where he visited cult childhood days over, Grace's writings reveal a full and happy life. "I have a good and loving husband and a good home," she wrote. "We have a 100 acre farm, a large barn and a fairly good house. Jim is very good to help me. He is very fond of children. We have our place paid for now and I must add that we have a 1918 model car but we intend dealing on a new one next spring."

The Home Children were unprepared for the harshness and isolation of Canadian farm life. One boy expressed it this way: "When I landed on that farm, I looked up and said, 'Oh God, where am I?'" Whereas most immigrants form communities in their adopted homelands, these children were scattered in ones throughout Canada's towns and farms. Like Grace, most had more than one placement making it positive attitude is reflected in her statement—"I can never regret coming to Canada."

Grace spent her last 12 years at the Lodge in Gore Bay where she passed away at age 99 in 2003.

Grace Galbraith with her five children, Mildred McCormick, Lorma Middaugh, Ransford Galbraith, Evelyn Legge Pattison, Leona Sloss.

immigration agreement between the United Kingdom and Canada. After their father's death and their mother's remarriage, Grace and her siblings were placed in the Annie MacPherson Home for Children in the east end of London, England. They remained there until their mother's death, after which their paternal grandmother signed the Canada Clause giving the Home permission to send the children to Canada.

Thus, Grace became one of more than 100,000 children to immigrate to Canada between 1869 and 1939. She landed in Quebec on May 13, 1912.

Most child immigrants became indentured servants contracted to work as farm hands and mother's helpers. Lily was sent to Toronto and Grace to a southern Ontario farm. At the end of her 30-day trial period Grace was returned to MacPherson's Canadian Home in Stratford because she was "not wholly satisfactory." This isn't surprising since she had never been on a farm. Her next placement also ended after 30 days.

Grace's third placement took her to Manitoulin Island. This home welcomed her at first but later relatives and contacted MacPherson's for information about his sisters. On his return to Canada, he began a search for Grace. By the time he found her they had been separated for fourteen years.

Grace wrote, "I always have a longing to see some of my folks." She also made the sad statement, "I can never remember seeing my mother." How happy she must have been to reunite with her brother. Edward spent a lot of time on Manitoulin with Grace and then moved from Southern Ontario to Sudbury to be closer to her.

By 1928 when Grace wrote that she had no regrets about coming to Canada, she was married, had four daughters and had re-united with Edward. (A son arrived later.) Her difficult childhood days over, Grace's writings reveal a full and happy life.

As we celebrate Canada's 150th anniversary, it's estimated that the descendants of Canada's child immigrants, the Home Children, make up 10 percent of the population. This period in our history serves to remind us how much immigration practices have changed. Today, no serious consideration would be given to a program that sends children overseas to live with and work for strangers. What a debt our country owes these young ones who endured heartbreak and loneliness to become some of Canada's hardest and most dedicated citizens.

Grace might have become bitter. Instead, she, like most child immigrants, chose to find hope in her new land. Grace's

The purpose of this public meeting is to consider a proposed amendment to Zoning By-law No. 2002-32, as amended for the Town of Northeastern Manitoulin and the Islands pursuant to the provisions of Section 34 of the Planning Act, R.S.O. 1990, Chapter C. P. 13, to allow a site specific zoning amendment on Howland Concession 12, Lot 21, Plan 31R2665 Part 2 Town of Northeastern Manitoulin and the Islands to allow for two (2) Portable Storage Containers.

ANY PERSON may attend the public meeting and/or make written or verbal representation either in support of, or in opposition to, the proposed By-law Amendment.

If a person or public body does not make oral submissions at a public meeting or make written submissions to the Town of Northeastern Manitoulin & the Islands before the proposed By-law Amendment is passed, the person or public body is not entitled to appeal the decision of the Council of the Town of Northeastern Manitoulin & the Islands to the Ontario Municipal Board.

If a person or public body does not make oral submissions at a public meeting, or make written submissions to the Town of Northeastern Manitoulin & the Islands before the proposed By-law Amendment is passed, the person or public body may not be added as a party to the hearing of an appeal before the Ontario Municipal Board unless, in the opinion of the Board, there are reasonable grounds to do so.

For more information about this matter, including information about preserving your appeal rights, contact Pam Cress, Clerk, Box 608, Little Current, On, POP 1K0.

If you wish to be notified of the decision of the Town of Northeastern Manitoulin and the Islands on the proposed zoning by-law amendment, you must make a written request to Pam Cress, Clerk, Box 608, Little Current, ON, POP 1K0.

An explanation of the purpose and effect of the proposed By-law Amendment, describing the affected property, a Key Map showing the location of the affected property to which the proposed By-law Amendment applies, and a copy of the complete proposed By-law Amendment is available for inspection during regular office hours at the Municipal Office, 14 Water Street East, Little Current.

DATED at the Town of Northeastern Manitoulin & the Islands on 2017-03-01.

M'Chigeeng officially welcomes 2016 babies to the community

by Giovanna Debassige
M'CHIGEENG—Birth: this incredible and miraculous event was described by a woman “as touching heaven” at the moment of the birth of her child.

On Saturday, February 4, the Anishinabe people of M'Chigeeng First Nation gathered to celebrate the birth of newborns in 2016. The annual celebration took place at the M'Chigeeng Community Centre with Chief Linda Debassige in attendance.

The decor was festive and welcoming with big dream catchers and balloons on the walls. At the long tables mason jars were used as centre pieces containing canola oil and pictures of the baby. In an adjoining room a set of parents laid their baby girl on a white fur rug and were taking pictures. The majority of parents had their baby's picture taken as well as family photos, if they wished too.

Alma Jean Migwans opened the ceremony with a prayer and smudging ceremony using the four medicines (cedar, tobacco, sweetgrass, sage). This ceremony is a traditional ceremony to ask the Creator to help guide them in their life and to cleanse their spirit. Health Services Manager Roger Beaudin welcomed and thanked everyone present for attending this annual ceremony.

Five women (Mary D'Antouze, Alma Jean Migwans, Bonita Bebmash, Geraldine Ense McGregor and Eria Beboning) then proceeded to the front with hand drums and sang an opening song. A touch of humour was provided by a male elder when he joined the quintet and danced to the drum beat.

Lunch was then set out on the table, chicken parmesan on a bed of spaghetti with bolognese sauce, garlic bread, choice of salads, desserts and juices. Pursuant to tradition and as a sign of respect, the community elders were first to be served. The young people present were asked to help get food for those who were unable to.

After a delicious lunch the babies were called to the front to receive a gift. The children's names are: Andralene, Blake, Mikayla, Layla, Paisley, Trinity, Kizheb Naabkawaagaan (Amelia), Serene, Rosalee, Annalise, Malika, Allison and Jackson. All babies received a welcome basket. They divided the baskets up into three different categories, which included: breast fed, bottle fed, and solid food. These baskets all had a little something different in them: breast-fed babies received nursing pads, nipple cream, teething ring and a rattle while bottle-fed babies received a book, teething ring and a rattle; babies graduated to solid food received a plate, spoon, fork and cup. While these baskets were unique they also had similar gifts in them; such as stuffed toy, outfit, Healthy Babies Healthy Children pamphlet, blanket with their names and date of births embroidered, smudge kit with a dream-catcher, children's drum CD and a group photo.

The ceremony came to a close as the five women sang a closing song. Mr. Beaudin thanked the community, the parents and the babies for their participation.

Healthy Babies Healthy Children Program coordinators Deanna Sampson-Beaudin and Crystal Taibossigai organized the 2016 Baby Welcoming.

Wikwemikong High School students explore career opportunities

by Michael Erskine
WIKWEMIKONG—Students at the Wikwemikong High School took part in the 'Finding Your Path' career fair on Wednesday, February 15.

The fair began with a keynote address by Captain Sabrina Manitowabi a 31 year-old airline captain for Air Creebec Inc. Captain Manitowabi maintains strong links to her cultural heritage even as she plies her trade among the clouds. "I'm a traditional jingle dress dancer and I continue my traditional ways of hunting, fishing, harvesting berries, vegetables and making maple syrup," she notes in her bio. In addition to her traditional pastimes, the airline pilot enjoys playing and teaching piano as well as painting and staying in shape through mixed martial arts, taking Fong Wei Do, Maui Thai and Jiu-jitsu. She also enjoys yoga. "My goal is to be an inspiration to everyone around me," she said.

Following the keynote, students had an opportunity to peruse the many career booths that filled the arena before heading out to the first period workshops.

The first series included topics such as 'Language Revitalization with the Use of Modern Technology' with Brian Peltier of the Wikwemikong Heritage Organization, 'Internet Killed Television' with Nimkeehns Wemigwans, freelance AV technician; 'Learning to Fly' with Cpt. Sabrina Manitowabi; 'Introduction to Policing' with Special Constable Alanna Eshkawkogan; 'Let's Build You Up' with Jonathan Nolan, of Sault College; 'Adventure Time with Canada World Youth' with Danielle Recollet-Saikkonen and 'The Importance and Benefits of Band Membership' with Jean Oshkabewisens.

Workshop presentations were also going on in the cafeteria, such as 'Conscious Human Adaption for Natural Growth and Empowerment' with Warren Lewis.

The second set of workshops included 'Writing Can Be an Interesting Career' with The Expositor's Mike Erskine; 'Finding Your Career Path' with Roxanne Recollet of Nadmadwin Wellness Centre; 'Fish Identification and Assessments' with Heidi Manitowabi of Anishinabek-Ontario Fisheries Resource Centre; 'Plumbing and Heating as a Career' with Barry Cooper; 'Agriculture: Careers that Grow' with Leslee Salo of AgScape; and 'Addictions Prevention' with Terry and Matt of the Nwaagan Gamig Recovery Centre.

"It was a great experience," said Expositor scribe Mike Erskine of his turn at the front of the class. "The students were engaged and asked questions about writing. The students had a wide range of interests, some were looking to write traditional novels, while others are already engaged in creative projects such as their own manga-style graphic novels. It really made me feel positive about the future of writing in Wikwemikong."

Mr. Erskine recalled discussions with his friend, the late Tom Peltier, an author whose book 'Bearwalker' was one of the first Canadian best sellers written by an Anishinabe writer. "Tom would have been really proud to see how much interest there is in our craft among the youth of his community," said Mr. Erskine. "Tom was a great believer in the arts as a positive career path for Anishinabe youth, he devoted a great deal of his life to promoting it."

Expositor staff writer Michael Erskine was one of the guest speakers at the Wikwemikong High School career fair held recently. Mr. Erskine spoke to this class about life as a journalist.

And the winners of the Central Manitoulin Lions Club Snow Sculpture Contest are...

First Place - The Smith Family for their snowman roasting a marshmallow (but not too close).

Second Place - The Lentir Family for this colourful caterpillar and snowman.

Third Place - The Wilton Family for their frosty racecars.

Tehkummah Talk and Times

This day started out the usual way. Trying to remember what I wanted in my column before faxing it out. Delivering some Valentines (got a candy one too, and a cute bug eyed cat one!)

Pauline had our Sr. U.C.W. meeting at her home, eight of us, a couple missing. We had a lovely meeting on a very lovely sunny day and a lovely lunch. What can I say? Hey they are a very lovely bunch! Fun! Planned some of our summer events. Our church celebrates its 120th anniversary this year. On the way home from the meeting a brilliant half rainbow sundog kept me/us enthralled.

Tara came in bearing gifts; a beautiful Valentine flower from Sherry, and Mum got some too. Sherry and the grandkids took in an archery course at Manitowaning.

Mum was winning big at bingo! My back is killing me tonight and I didn't even carry Mum's money home.

I get grunting and groaning around with pain in my ankles, knees, wrists, shoulder and back (my weather forecasters), plus I get moaning and groaning cause I'm tired and can't do anything. I complain (to the cats) about all the pills I take, and mumble and grumble about the weather, and you know there's not a darn thing I can do to change what is, nothing any of us can do about certain things, so I guess I might as well sing another song, or write a letter, or another poem, and try to be grateful for all the great things/people/family I have in my life. Hey, tomorrow is another day! And I'm not dead yet? Traveling that general direction. It's a year ago I had my surgery in Barrie, and yet a lot of the past year seems like a dream. It's hard to believe all I have come through.

I knew I had written more pages last week and couldn't find them when it came time to fax out. That's what happens when I'm in a poem-writing mood? Too many pages lying around!

We went to supper at Carol's and Earl's. Sat and visited with Doug and Marion. Earl had the back room decked out with Happy Birthday 80 signs. (A lot of that 80 stuff going around this year.) We all got a piece of the birthday cake too. Lori and her husband came from St. Catharine's Saturday to surprise Rick for his birthday. Earl sent him on an errand while the surprise visitors got situated. Marj introduced us to their daughter Lori. Earlier in the day Lawrence and I went to Barney's to look around and shopped in town. Then chased all the customers away from Loco Beanz?

I did the Mindemoya laundry thing Friday, got to say hello to Mary, Vance and Rylan, and hadn't seen them in ages (at Grill and Chill). Leaving actually. Skye carried my laundry all in for me. I play out too soon. They feed the birds most days too; it all helps my bones, as did the sun this amazing Saturday. Beautiful sunrise again Sunday.

I'm due to start sitting outside in the mornings, Monday, Sunday Family Day!

Finally made church after missing a couple of weeks. Laurene and I went to Mindemoya for lunch. She did a little shopping. We had lunch at Grill and Chill, Simon joined us there, I got a hug from Carol Lee, said hello to Reegan and the wee one. I hadn't seen them for ages. How are you doing, Audrey Haggart? Cal was in for a minute/worried.

As Sis Susan said, today we need to rent a family (Re:

Family Day). I did go and have a nice turkey supper there. She did take out for Wayne, Pauline and Mum, the later two, all with the bug. They even called off bingo due to illness: Linda, Mary, Betty Jean, Edith were there more? Keep well, all.

Consider yourselves wished well again as I wouldn't have enough cards to send to all who have colds and flu bugs right now.

We almost had four tables for cribbage on Wednesday. I played, and my name was Me and? High hand, Audrey, 24; first, Mary Ellen and Doris, 959; second, Patrysha and Laura, 942; third, Audrey and Ted, 935; low, Graham and Sheila, 846; door, Lloyd and Glenda.

Bloodwork for me in the a.m. and A getting checked out. Tara my medical care technician, is super and helpful and on top of stuff. Thanks.

I met Dorothy Anstice when I was shopping and she showed me photos of her beautiful little granddaughter Emily.

Funny and strange, the weather change! I slept through the thunderstorm; that's also strange. But unusual weather Friday. Has been quite a variety, and as well I drove through the morning, stopped in Tehkummah to find I didn't have a teleconference, cancelled. Some trips are so unnecessary, no phones I guess. When I heard about Kathleen Harasym's passing I thought I'd like to pay my respects but I got to town just as everyone was leaving the church hall. Years back

M.S.S. Kids in the Halls by Sandi Kuntsi

MSS is having a very busy, but successful semester so far. The MSS boys' hockey team played against Lo-Ellen on February 21. They won 9-1, qualifying for playoffs. The first game of the playoffs was February 28 against the St. Benedict Bears. The Mustangs play on home ice in Little Current today, Wednesday, March 1, at 5:30 pm. The girls' hockey team moved on to semifinals after their game against St. Benedict on Wednesday, February 15 with a 5-3 win. The first game in the best of three series against Bishop-Carter was on Thursday, February 23. The Mustangs played hard, but lost 6-1. The second game is of the series is on Monday, February 27 in M'Chigeeng at 5 pm.

From February 19-22, Madame Desbiens brought a group of 30 students from MSS to Saint Donat in Quebec. The group participated in several workshops, went x-country skiing, alpine skiing, skating, snowshoeing, and a scavenger hunt around the St. Donat village. The scavenger hunt gave students the chance to use the conversational French skills as they talked to locals and shop owners. At night there were musical shows and group dances for the 200 students staying in the village.

Julia Desbiens, a Grade 9 student, said, "My favourite part of the trip was doing all the activities with my friends. I loved skating and skiing as a group." The group returned to MSS bursting with stories of their adventures.

Sophie Bondi, a Grade 10 student, said, "There were people who taught us a bit about the natural medicines all around us. They taught us about all the types of trees in Quebec and what we use them for. It was super cool!"

The Classroom Closet Conference was held at the Clarion Hotel in Sudbury on February 23. Classroom Closet is focused on LBTQ+ students and supporters feeling supported and empowering them to be true to themselves. Nine MSS students attended the conference as well as nine students from Wikwemikong. The group was chaperoned by Miss Seabrook and Mr. Ferri. About 100 students attended the conference and had the opportunity to attend various workshops. There were workshops for staff and community members, English students, and francophone students offered in English and French. Megan Misner, a Grade 12 MSS student, attended a safe sex workshop in the morning and a presentation by gender and transgender activist Starr Daniyls. There was also an art workshop available for all students. Megan said, "My favourite part about the day is the same as any conference, the ability to meet new people, which is very important working with Pride Manitoulin and Grandma Seabrook's House."

On Friday, February 24, Ms. Ferguson took a group of students to Espanola to see the 'Shades of Our Sisters' exhibit. The exhibit is by Ryerson University and is travelling around the province. The exhibit is about the 1,000 missing and murdered indigenous women in Canada with unsolved cases, but it focused on two women in particular; one of which was from Birch Island. Grace Duncanson, a Grade 11 student, said, "It was very sobering and sad, but I think it's something that needed to be addressed and I'm glad I went."

The MSS Students' Council planned to host Winter Formal on Friday, February 24. Unfortunately, due to poor weather conditions, the dance was postponed. The new date for the dance will be announced soon.

After so many fun activities and trips, MSS is keeping busy as semester 2 continues. "Til next time, stay golden, Mustangs.

 when our kids were kids, they took figure skating together. Kathleen was a very active member of the club, a great community worker.
 Everybody had better stay off the ice after this thunder. You can use the arena.

As I was driving to town I saw a flock of about 50 robins. So on my way home I thought it must be deer counting season and it was. I drove to South Baymouth home (the long way). Saw about forty deer. The trees were weighted with ice out there tonight. I was talking to Ray as he was walking Gemma. I made soup today so she had a couple of little meat treats.

 Saw a young couple kissing at the Garden's Gate!
 I'm tired after my day at the hall, and all I did was eat and play cards!

EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITY MENTAL HEALTH COUNSELLOR MNAAMODZAWIN HEALTH SERVICES (MHS)

Summary:

The Counsellor provides community based, culturally-appropriate mental health services and support to First Nation community members located within the communities of Aundeck Omni Kaning, Sheguiandah, Sheshegwaning, Whitefish River and Zhiibaahaasing. The Counsellor is responsible for helping clients through western and traditional counselling approaches, interviewing and sitting with clients, listening and preparing case history in order to assess successful interventions, appropriate treatment and counselling techniques. The Counsellor provides services to individuals, families, and groups within a First Nation cultural and socio-economic setting. Therapy and intervention may include: Trauma, Anger, Spirituality, Parenting, Abuse, Confusion, Stress, Depression, Anxiety, Dissociation, and Addiction issues. The Counsellor will work in a confidential environment that is inter-disciplinary and values the cultural philosophy of First Nation communities. Research and evaluation are also important components as MHS moves towards becoming an evidence-based organization, centered on continuous improvement.

Qualifications:

The candidate will possess a post-secondary degree/diploma in Social Work (BSW/MSW) and/or a combination of appropriate ongoing education and/or five years in a social work / helping profession. The candidate will be registered, or eligible to be registered with their respective bodies. Experience working within First Nation communities is preferred with at least two years related experience providing a wide range of community mental/traditional health supports and programming. Given the nature of the position, ongoing employment for a successful candidate is subject to submission of a clear Criminal Reference Check/ Vulnerable Sector Screening. CPIC and VSS must be conducted and submitted every 2 years. Mnaamodzawin communities are spread across Manitoulin Island and therefore the successful candidate must possess a valid driver's license and a reliable vehicle. Broadly, specific skill sets should include counselling, facilitation, communication, leadership, administrative, computer and program development and evaluation skills.

Government of Canada invests in dementia research about indigenous peoples

SUDBURY—On Monday, Paul Lefebvre, Member of Parliament for Sudbury, on behalf of the Honourable Jane Philpott, Minister of Health, announced an investment of $1 million for two research projects that will bring new and culturally-adapted approaches to address the needs of indigenous peoples living with or at risk of developing dementia. He was joined for the announcement by Marc Serré, Member of Parliament for Nickel Belt.

The new investment from the Canadian Institutes of Health Research (CIHR) will fund the work of top researchers at the Health Sciences North Research Institute and Laurentian University in Sudbury.

Dr. Janet McElhaney received $500,000 to use a community-based approach that will combine indigenous practices with Western technologies to empower caregivers supporting older Indigenous peoples with dementia.

Dr. Jennifer Walker received $500,000 to develop a Canadian Indigenous Cognitive Assessment Tool for widespread use and to lay a foundation for a national study of dementia in indigenous populations.

These projects are part of the CIHR Dementia Research Strategy, which supports research on the latest preventive, diagnostic and treatment approaches to Alzheimer's disease and related dementia.

Providence Bay News and Notes

The ol' Hindman Curling Cup is back in Providence Bay for 2017! Providence Bay won the competition this year and the top team that will be going on the cup is Skip Jack White, Mike White, Mike Johnston and Darren Dewar. Four teams from each club play. One night at each rink and they use a total points system to arrive at the winner. A big thank you goes out to Assiginack CC for their hospitality and for being part of this long running friendly competition. This competition has been going on for more than 60 years.

The result of last week's ladies curling bonspiel is as follows: 1st Event winners, Sherry Forest, Heather Hall, Sue Whynott, Jill Patterson. Runner up 1st Event, Nancy Leeson, Mae Bowerman, Lori Leeson, Janet Anning. 2nd Event winners, Helen Gordon, Kim Cooper, Irene Callaghan, Ardith Koski. Runner up 2nd Event, Angela Johnston, Bev McDermid, Patti Jo Woods, Lisa White. 3rd Event Winners, Shannon Douin, Andrea Tann, Anna Love, Tammy Groombridge. Runner up 3rd Event, Ellen Holroyd, Nancy Head, Leslie Morin, Judy Mackenzie. Thank you to all the spectators who came out to cheer on their favourite team/s and to all the wonderful volunteers who helped in making this event once again a huge success. And most importantly kudos to all the lady curlers who as always put so much effort into their fantastic costumes and hilarious comedy skits for everyone's enjoyment.

Cheryl Sheppard is enjoying Punta Cana, Dominican Republic and the Bavaro Beach, the sunshine, the Atlantic Ocean and the 28° sunny weather. She's reported that nothing's better than swimming up to the bar to have a fancy cocktail before leisurely strolling off for a wonderfully prepared lunch.

Ted Glasby told me his Aunt Echo (Sloan) passed away a month or so ago. We were good friends way back when, in the 50s.

I visited Mum for a minute or three. She sounded some better and says she does feel much improved.

Supper at Dave and Sherry's Saturday evening. After Cal and Ray left, Tara and I, and Dave and Sherry, had two games of Tiki. Tara won one and Dave, I think.

My chocolate cake sugarless (not international) turned into chocolate poke cake, I made some good chocolate syrup and poured!

Yogi brought me corn syrup for my pancakes (to the hall!)

Nature of Things Cats! Oscar! Red carpet Fashion, Snooze!

We're wondering if she'll come back since she's so blissfully happy. Last report she's off to the Coco Bongo bar for a wild evening. We hope to get a full update when she returns.

According to the Ontario Library Association, 28 percent of Ontarians rely on their local public library for Internet access. Northern Ontario's 161 public libraries could be at risk of losing their free Internet access if the provincial government decides to cut funding.

Half of Northern Ontario's small and rural library branches rely on that funding to pay for their Internet connections, according to Rebecca Hunt, head librarian at Temiskaming Shores Public Library. Our little Providence Bay library has three computers offering free Internet which is regularly used by our community elders, students, the unemployed, tourists and people who can't afford escalating Internet costs. The library is open Tuesday evening 6:30 - 8:30 pm, Wednesday 1 - 3:30 pm and Fridays from 1 - 4:30 pm.

Don't forget the Curling Club Breakfast Thursday, March 2 beginning at 7 - 9:30 am. Not only a good price but great food, wonderful people and don't forget it's all for the good cause of the upkeep of a valuable asset in our community.

If there is anything that you would like to contribute to the Providence Bay News and Notes, we'd love to hear from you. Please let us know of any upcoming birthdays, anniversaries, or events. You can email prov_chick@hotmail.com or call Cheryl at 705-377-7511. All submissions are required by 3 pm on the Sunday before each Wednesday publication of the paper. Have a great week everyone.

 thank you

Wishing everyone the best in the coming year. I am finally getting a thank you in for my many birthday parties. My first was a Come and Go Tea on August 12, 2016, put on by my family. Although it was pouring rain outside it sure didn't dampen the spirits inside of friends and relatives from all across Canada, over 200. The MC was grandson Steve Martin who gave away secrets, grandson Lance Heslop who brought Captain Morgan in verse and song, and grandson Tim Hall and Lori who provided the music and played the piano. The special lunch was served by the ladies of the Triangle Club. We finished the evening with a family reunion. My birthday went all summer with parties from Triangle Club, U.C.W., Red Hats and United Church who presented Audrie and me with beautiful carnations and a Prayer Shawl. Thank you for the gifts of flowers, money, stamps, gift certificates and scratch cards and others. Thank you to the girls from Timberlane Camp and the trio from Northernaire Lodge. I worked there many years ago. For the special card signed by all the doctors at Mindemoya and the Pink Elephant Note by Angela. These are treasures. All the sentiments from Ottawa. And last but not least, the front page story of Audrie and me and the two write-ups in the Expositor. On November 25, 2016 my daughter Susan put on a surprise party with so many people, presents, lots more gifts and music. Thank you everyone. I love you all.
Hugs, Jean McCauley

 thank you

My sincere apologies for such a delay in providing a sincere "Meegwetch," "thank you," to those who were there for us during the illness and passing of my late husband, friend and companion, Harvey Bondy. These past two months have been extremely difficult for me. We shared such a journey together. He is free of any more suffering and pain and is now with his loved ones who had gone before him. There was so much love, kindness and support that surrounded the family and me in providing palliative care. A sincere thank you to Dr. Bedard, Joanne Mellan, Nurse Kim, the Sundance Family, and the people of Wikwemikong and Turtle Island. A sincere thank you to those who provided assistance during the wake and funeral, to Island Funeral Home for assisting me with providing a special resting place for him. Sharon Lavallee and the Bondy family

Ontario Pesticide Education Program
The Ontario Pesticide Education Program has released a new manual for farm workers. If you work on a farm where pesticides are used, you need to know how to work safely around pesticides. The information in this manual explains how farm workers can work safely on a farm that uses pesticides. It can be downloaded from their website (5 MB). For those without Internet access or with a need for a print version, you can request the manual from OPEP: Phone: 1-800-652-8573 (Ontario only) or 519-674-2230, Email: rcoep@uoguelph.ca, mail Ontario Pesticide Education Program, 120 Main St. E., Ridgeway, ON N0P 2C0.

Drought stressed maples need tender care
At the recent First Nations maple syrup seminar at Birch Island, Todd Leuty, Agroforestry Specialist with OMAFRA, emphasized that maple trees were stressed with last year's drought storing less sugar for use in leafing out in the spring of 2017. Sap volume for 2017 is difficult to predict as a result. Due to these stress conditions, it is advisable to handle trees with extra care at tapping time and leave trees with enough sap for reasonable leaf production. This encourages long-term productivity. Practice healthy tapping. Avoid tapping when the trees are frozen to prevent splitting the tree. Tap at 5°C or above. Tap a new hole two inches to left or right and 12 inches above or below previous hole. Use 5/16" health spile to reduce drilling damage and drill to a depth of 1.5 inches. Use a sharp 5/16 inch diameter bit and drill the tap hole at a slight upward angle to drain sap and rain water by gravity flow after season ends reducing bacteria buildup. Tree diameter of 10-18 inches should be limited to 1 tap and larger trees a maximum of 2 taps.
