Gore Bay's 'Kindertransport' scores big at 2016 QUONTA

Production awarded Best Director, Best Visual Production, Best Supporting Actor, Best Supporting Actress and two Adjudicator Awards for Acting

by Michael Erskine

SUDBURY—The Gore Bay Theatre cast and crew came home from the QUONTA Northern Ontario Theatre Festival with a wheelbarrow full of awards for their directing and acting performances as well as stage and lighting design.

The "Gore Bay Theatre production kept us spellbound for an hour and 40 minutes with brilliant acting, strong set and lighting design for a magical evening of theatre," said adjudicator Rita Huschka in her remarks on the Gore Bay Theatre production of 'Kindertransport.'

"We got the most awards of any production at the festival," said a jubilant Walter Maskel, who co-directed 'Kindertransport' with Andrea Emmerton. Mr. Maskel had high praise for this year's QUONTA hosts, noting that "everything went very smoothly."

Mr. Maskel and Ms. Emmerton won Best Director and Best Visual Production.

Newcomer Jack Clark took home the Best Supporting Actor award for his outstanding work filling five male roles ranging from the jocular to the sinister and back again, while Gore Bay veteran

Tara Bernatchez won Best Supporting Actress for her portrayal of a tormented mother who has to give up her daughter, not once but twice.

Kayla Greenman, who played Eva, the young girl torn from her family in Nazi dominated Germany to grow up in an English family, later turning her back on her past and her biological mother and Shannon McMullan, who played the older Eva (now calling herself Evelynnn) each received Adjudicator's Awards for Acting.

The cast also received a number of award nominations, including Best Supporting Actress for Lori Evans, who played the role of the English mother who takes the young Jewish girl, and Best Lead Actress for Ms. Greenman. The production was also nominated for Best Technical Achievement.

Those who missed the QUONTA performances of 'Kindertransport' and the three performances held earlier this month in Gore Bay will get another opportunity in early July, when the production will form part of this year's Gore Bay Theatre summer productions. The summer lineup will also include Norm Foster's 'Old Love.'

The Easter Bunny reveals egg hunts on Manitoulin Island this weekend

by Robin Burrige

MANITOULIN—Spring is officially here and the Easter Bunny will be hopping over the swing bridge this weekend, hiding eggs across Manitoulin for Island youth to find. The Expositor spoke with Mr. Bunny himself to find out where and when the big Easter egg hunts will be.

"I've been very busy getting ready for Easter," Mr. Bunny told The Expositor during a phone interview last week. "It's not only a lot of work getting the eggs and treats prepared, I also train all year to be in peak physical shape to be able to hop and set up all the hunts across the world. It's a lot of work!"

Mr. Bunny said the first hunt on Manitoulin will take place on Friday, March 25 at 11 am in Gore Bay. The event will take place on Lilly Third's lot on the East Bluff. All kids are welcome, Grade 8 and under.

Get your dance on at the Easter dance at the Little Current Legion on Friday, March 25 from 6-8 pm. The dance is open to children 4 to 12 and admission is $5.

"The next hunt that I'm working on will be on Saturday, March 26 at 10 am at the Kagawong Park Centre," said Mr. Bunny. "Not only will I be hiding eggs, but I will also be making a guest appearance."

After the hunt in Kagawong, Mr. Bunny will be making a quick hop over to Mindemoya to get ready for the Mindemoya Easter egg hunt at the Lions Club Pavilion, behind the ball fields. The fun will get underway starting at 11 am.

Also on Saturday, there will be an Easter egg hunt at the Centennial Museum of Sheguiandah starting at 1 pm.

The last hunt of the weekend will be a big one, the 30th annual Assiginack Easter egg hunt on Sunday, March 27 at 1:30 pm. The hunt will be located at Field's Marine on Highway 6 across from the OPP station in Manitowaning. The hunt is open to children up to the age of 12.

"Don't forget to bring a basket or a bag to collect your eggs in," Mr. Bunny reminded Island youth. "Have fun and have a hoppy Easter!"

Fun for the whole family can also be found in the

Manitoulin to welcome new dance station April 1

New country station to have expanded broadcasting

by Robin Burrige

LITTLE CURRENT—The highly anticipated changes to Manitoulin's air waves are finally here, with the launch of Manitoulin's hot dance Glow 100 (100.7 FM) and the transition of the current 100.7 The Island country station to CHAW Great Lakes Country 103.1 FM taking place Friday, April 1.

"It has almost been six year's in the making," explained co-owner Kelly Timmermans. "We were approved last spring, and we had hoped to launch the new station and make the transition to CHAW last summer, but there was so much work to be done."

Craig Timmermans said that when they originally created the radio station 100.7 The Island, he built the infrastructure to handle a second station. He has spent five years actively trying to get a second broadcast licence, with his dreams finally realized in the spring of 2015.

Salmon Classic a hit at the Toronto Sportsmen's Show

TORONTO—The Manitoulin Expositor had a successful week at the Toronto Sportsmen's Show held over the March Break, showcasing its Salmon Classic and doing double duty to promote Manitoulin tourism and the Chi-Cheemaun ferry.

"We had great interest from the public," said Dave Patterson, avid fisherman, Expositor product manager and Salmon Classic lead. "People were very excited to see an event of this calibre on Manitoulin Island and were wowed by the $12,000 first prize on offer."

Expositor staffers Mr. Patterson, Rick and Alicia McCutcheon, Carly Gordon and Steve Green were joined by Fuel the Fire TV's Neil Debassige and Rob Seifried, who really drew in the crowds to The Expositor booth. "A video of Fuel the Fire TV's salmon episode played constantly at the booth and when the 'screaming reels' went off, it stopped people dead in their tracks," Mr. Patterson added.

"We gave away upwards of 2,000 This is Manitoulin's, Chi-Cheemaun schedules and other Island promotional items," said

Ms. McCutcheon. "It's amazing how many people we spoke to who have been to Manitoulin at some point in their lives and are big fans, and for those who haven't, we invited them to come and visit."

Sportsmen Show fishermen were happy to learn that thanks to the hard work of Island Fish and Game Clubs, the salmon fishery is on the rebound and ready for action at this year's Salmon Classic.

This is the second show of the year where 2016 This is Manitoulin's have been handed out to those looking for more information on Manitoulin and its many offerings. Last month Maja Mielonen and Guy Nielen handed out 1,200 of the magazines along with ferry schedules and municipal brochures to attendees of the International Bicycling Show in Toronto with yet more enthusiastic response for the world's largest freshwater island.

Health Unit expanding harm reduction supplies and services programming

SUDBURY-MANITOULIN—The Sudbury and District Health Unit (SDHU) is pleased to announce that over the next six months, access to publicly funded needle exchange services is expanding to include Health Unit office locations throughout the Sudbury and Manitoulin districts. Ontario Public Health Standards mandate the SDHU to ensure access to harm reduction services in its service area.

To achieve this expansion, the administrative responsibility for distributing safe drug injection and inhalation supplies is being transferred back to the Health Unit from the Sudbury Action Centre for Youth (SACY). This approach is consistent with other programs across Ontario where public health units administer harm reduction programs.

The administrative transfer will have no impact on clients' access to services through existing sites, including SACY, Réseau ACCESS Network and the Ontario Aboriginal HIV/AIDS Strategy (OAHAS). For example, clients who currently access needle exchange services at The Point, located at the Sudbury Action Centre for Youth, may continue to get supplies and services there. SACY historically distributes over 700,000 needles a year through its main site and street outreach programs.

"It is no secret that for over 20 years, the Sudbury Action Centre for Youth has demonstrated tremendous leadership in providing these much needed harm reduction services to help protect and improve the health of their clients," said Dr. Penny Sutcliffe, Sudbury and District Medical Officer of Health. "We are committed to working closely with SACY and all partners to ensure that clients continue to have access to these essential services."

The Point has worked hard to earn the trust and respect of its clients by offering services without ever passing judgment. Regardless of whether clients are experimenting with drugs, using regularly, or living with longer term addiction, the program is available to them.

Réseau ACCESS Network and the Ontario Aboriginal HIV/AIDS Strategy (OAHAS) have also been longtime partners in providing harm reduction outreach services, and these partnerships will be maintained with the Health Unit.

For some clients, needle exchange programs are their first point of access to basic health care services, such as counselling and addiction services. Harm reduction programs have been shown to reduce the spread of diseases as well as other serious health conditions. Having access to clean needles and other supplies decreases the spread of infectious diseases such as HIV and hepatitis B and C.

In addition to providing safe injection and inhalation supplies, clients receive education about safer drug use practices to reduce risky behaviours, safe disposal of used sharps and other drug use equipment.

"A key pillar of the Community Drug Strategy is harm reduction. Access to harm reduction supplies and services is a proven way to help to protect the health of our community," said Chief Paul Pedersen, Greater Sudbury Police Service, and Co-chair of the Community Drug Strategy. "We are pleased to be working with such a committed group of organizations who provide these much needed services that are critical for public safety."

For more information about harm reduction programs and services, please contact the SDHU at 705-522-9200, ext. 733 (toll-free 1-866-522-9200).

Anishinabek Nation chief congratulates Justice Sinclair on Senate appointment

"Mizanay Gheezhik, Justice Murray Sinclair, is deserving of this appointment," says Grand Council Chief Madahbee. "We are proud that he will be representing Indigenous Peoples interests in an under-represented government body. The work that he did with the Truth and Reconciliation Commission is an example of how he will seek the truth for First Nations people in Canada."

Justice Sinclair was appointed the Chair of Canada's Indian Residential Schools Truth and Reconciliation Commission in June 2009. The Commission's mandate is to inform all Canadians about what happened in Indian Residential Schools and document the accounts of survivors, families, communities and anyone personally affected by the Indian Residential Schools experience.

Simple solution ignored by the Ontario Energy Board

That the Ontario government has sought to cushion the most vulnerable citizens in the province from escalating electricity costs is laudable, but with uptake in the Ontario Electricity Support Program (OESP) languishing barely above 25 percent we beg to differ with the Ontario Energy Board's excitement over the efficacy of the program.

By the Ontario Energy Board's own estimates, there are more than half a million low income Ontarians who are eligible for relief through the OESP. Many of those people are regularly faced with the decision of whether they will buy enough groceries to feed themselves and their families for the month or make their rent payment. Shelter or food, it is the daily reality still faced by thousands of residents of one of the wealthiest regions on the planet, and this decades past the days of the Mike Harris slash and burn run through the Ontario Works (OW) and Ontario Disability Support Program (ODSP) and the less-than-inflation increases applied by his successors, Progressive Conservative or Liberal.

There are reasons that people find themselves on welfare and, despite the coffee shop rants of the curmudgeonly inclined, statistics clearly establish that those reasons are only most rarely that recipients don't want to work. Adding to that, the numbers clearly indicate that most Ontario Works recipients are "on the dole" for a very short period of time. Also to be mentioned are the so-called "deserving poor," those whose disabilities prevent them from being able to hold down a job and who find themselves on the slightly less meagre stipend provided by ODSP.

Then there are the working poor. There are many reasons that people find themselves unable to find employment that does much more than keep the wolf from the door, barely managing to keep their heads above water, anything that can be reasonably done to lighten that load should be done.

For the latter group, the outreach programs, YouTube videos, newspaper, radio and television advertisements may be the only real option to bring the OESP to their attention, but for those on Ontario Works and ODSP there was, and is, a much simpler and more elegant solution.

Since everyone on OW and ODSP qualifies for the relief, they could (and should) have been automatically qualified for the program, as could/should everyone who receives the Guaranteed Income Supplement component of Canada's old age security safety net.

While there are some challenges to that approach, those challenges could hardly exceed those challenges created through the current program, never mind the duplication of resources necessary to vet the applicants and to validate the individual consents that applicants are required to submit.

With the validation of the social workers who already assess each OW or ODSP applicant for their eligibility already taking place (never mind that those workers are also already seconded to assisting people who need such help with preparing their applications) it seems counterintuitive that a duplicate process is put in place with a completely separate agency.

Since any error or omission in an application can short circuit that application, causing further delay and hardship for those in society the OESP is purported to assist, the elegance of working through existing programs would seem, on the face of it at least, a sensible course of action.

There are those who might suggest that the provincial government is more interested in being seen to do good than actually solving the problem, since the fewer successful applicants taking up the offer reduces the immediate costs and, since the program is not retroactive, delays in bringing those eligible into the program also helps to mitigate those costs (albeit on the backs of those who can least afford it). With the ongoing privatization of Hydro One it also begs the question of who is paying for what is, in its essence, a social program. Social relief is properly the purview of the provincial government and should not be provided through the inefficient and indirect vehicle of the hydro bills of other users of the system.

The provincial government should recognize the lack of efficacy inherent in the current approach to providing electricity cost relief to those most in need and take steps to provide that relief through the proper channels.

Governments just don't seem to listen to protests

Politicians lunch in first class restaurants while ordinary citizens are having mac and cheese

To the Expositor:

I was watching Canada AM and this person comes on talking about the end of protest, that it does not seem to work. I have been observing these protests and they do not work, especially when it has to do with financial equality. Governments just do not listen.

People who are living on fixed incomes are usually getting hit hard because of inadequate incomes and these incomes never catch up to the cost of living. The only way these protests would work is when they are very well organized. To keep disrupting economic growth or even stopping it for a day, believe me, it's probably the only way these governments will start listening. Even if the country is in deficit, do not feel sorry for them. This is their own doing because of mismanagement of the finances. They are the ones who should be paying for their mistakes, not the citizens, but citizens are always bailing them out for their mistakes. They have to be taught a lesson for their own doing. This has to stop; citizens are struggling to live in this country while these politicians are living it up in style at the taxpayers' expense. They're probably having lunches and dinners at a first class restaurant, but the ordinary citizens are having macaroni and cheese, or spaghetti for their meals, maybe even worse meals, all because their income is going to the cost of paying bills, hydro, heating bills. I have never seen so much evil before, it's getting worse, and it is the government's fault.

Colon Cancer Awareness Month: a personal experience

Aundeck Omni Kaning Chief Patsy Corbiere relates her own family's experience

AUNDECK OMNI KANING—It is a silent killer that doesn't have to be. March is Colon Cancer Awareness Month and a local First Nation chief has brought her own family's story forward in order to shed light on one of the major causes of untimely death in Anishinaabe communities.

In 2000, Aundeck Omni Kaning First Nation Chief Patsy Corbiere's husband was shocked when he was diagnosed with colon cancer following a routine test for an unrelated health concern.

"We didn't know anyone who had had cancer and the fear of his diagnosis led us to believe he was dying," recalled Chief Corbiere. "Then I discovered that there had been a lot of cancer in our community but people just didn't talk about it." Chief Corbiere explained that her husband travelled to Toronto from their home in Aundeck Omni Kaning First Nation for surgery and treatment. Today her husband is cancer-free.

The experience led Chief Corbiere to start the conversation and promote cancer awareness and prevention in her own community and when she learned about the Canadian Cancer Society's Screening Saves Lives program, she signed on to be a volunteer Health Ambassador.

The Screening Saves Lives program recruits and trains community-based volunteers to deliver cancer screening messages and guidelines. These Health Ambassadors then engage their friends, families and networks in conversations about cancer screening. The initiative promotes screening of colon, breast, and cervical cancers in under- and never-screened populations in Ontario.

In Ontario's First Nations communities, the overall rate for new cancer cases nearly doubled between 1968 and 2001. Today, incidence rates of some cancers in these communities are approaching or even surpassing levels of the general population primarily, due to growing colon cancer rates. These communities are less likely to be regularly screened for colon, breast and cervical cancers, putting them at greater risk of dying from cancer.

Chief Corbiere says that fear of the test results and fear of travelling somewhere they don't know is why many in her community don't get screened.

"Many people don't want to take the time to get screened because they're scared. The volunteers in the Screening Saves Lives program help them understand that it's not the test or the place they fear, it's the results," said Chief Corbiere, adding that "we also help them understand that the earlier the cancer is detected, the better off they will be."

The peer educator approach of the Screening Saves Lives program successfully addresses screening barriers in many communities in Ontario. As the First Nation chief and as someone who has lived on the reserve for most of her life, Chief Corbiere has a good understanding of the barriers to screening and the misconceptions people have.

"Even though this is a remote area, I'm helping people to understand that there are services, that they're not scary and that they need to use them," she said. "Early detection of cancer can save your life."

"We are proud of the work that our volunteers have accomplished with our First Nation communities in collaboration with our local health centers and health partners to increase screening rates among our First Nation people," said Jo-Anne Thibodeau Audette, coordinator of Screening Saves Lives for Manitoulin Island First Nation communities. Ms. Thibodeau Audette said that she hopes more volunteers will come forward to help get the word out in local communities. "We need more volunteers in our communities. Too many people are dying needlessly."

Ms. Thibodeau can be contacted at 705-368-3837 or 705-968-1004 or through email at JThibodeauAudette@ontario.cancer.ca.

Expositor correction

The editorial of March 16 incorrectly states that the Central Manitoulin Lions Club built the children's play structure in Mindemoya's Old Schoolyard Park. In fact, a parent group headed by Erin Smith, Fawn Bridgeman and Ashley Jewell saw the structure built. The group coordinated and tapped various funding sources, decided on the components and colour scheme, and even recruited the backs and backhoes needed to spread the sand to finish things off. The Central Manitoulin Lions were, however, one of several contributing groups. The Expositor regrets the error.

Misery Bay Blanding's turtle researcher awaits final field results

by Robin Burridge

MISERY BAY—Misery Bay Blanding's turtle researcher Donnell Gasbarrini says a conclusion has yet to be made in the cause of death of over 71 turtles in 2013, but the researcher says she will know more once further data is collected next month.

"Things are starting to wrap up, I am aiming to have my final defence this coming August, which will be the final step in finishing the masters degree," Ms. Gasbarrini told The Expositor earlier this week. "Similar to last winter, I have been out at Misery Bay once per month since October—I was going roughly every two weeks during the fall—and have been collecting information such as ice thickness, snow depth, dissolved oxygen content of the water, evidence of predators such as tracks in the snow, scat, trail camera photos and turtle locations. While the turtles do hibernate during the winter, Blanding's turtles elsewhere have been known to move small distances (a few meters or so) during the winter, possibly to reach flowing water with a higher dissolved oxygen content. This data has been collected to evaluate the failed overwintering hypotheses for cause(s) of death: a) lack of sufficient oxygen in the water; b) predation during the winter months, and c) freezing."

Ms. Gasbarrini explained while tracking these turtles during the late fall and into the winter, it was "really incredible" to see some of them return to the exact sites where they overwintered last year.

"I've read about overwintering site fidelity in papers about Blanding's turtles elsewhere, but it was really neat to see it firsthand in this population," she said. "While most of them are overwintering where they were last year, some of them have chosen different areas to spend this winter in. With only a couple of exceptions, all of the turtles are overwintering in groups, very few are alone, although there could be turtles with those individuals that we don't know about because they're so good at hiding. Overwintering in groups is hypothesized to be advantageous for these turtles as it provides opportunities for them to mate in the spring, when they are in close proximity to one another. I've actually seen several pairs mating during the spring over the past two years! This is great news for the future of this population."

With winter quickly coming to a close, Ms. Gasbarrini said she has collected all of the data for the dissolved oxygen and predation, but has not yet got all of the temperature data needed for the freezing hypothesis.

"I have temperature data loggers adhered to 22 of the turtles' shells, and also to 21 'fake turtles' (bricks stationed in the wetland)," Ms. Gasbarrini explained. "The bricks are a similar size to the turtles, so the data logger will remain at a similar height from the substrate as they would be on a turtle's shell. These bricks are stationed in areas where we do not know of any turtles overwintering, focused on areas where mortality occurred. To collect the data loggers, we need to wait until the turtles emerge from their overwintering sites, as pulling them out of their sites in such cold temperatures before they are ready could be fatal. At the rate that temperatures are warming and ice is melting, they will likely emerge at some point in April."

Since some of the data has only just been collected, and because Ms. Gasbarrini must wait a little longer to retrieve some of it, the analyses have not been completed to the same degree for all hypotheses.

"However, at this point there is strong supporting evidence for the 'predation during the active season' line of evidence," she shared. "We have identified predators within the park, we have had a turtle exhibit markings on her shell that suggest a recent predation attempt, though she lived and is fine, and one of the decoy turtles that was stationed in the wetland has been dismembered in a very particular way. It's head, limbs, and tail were removed while the rest of it, the shelled area, remained essentially untouched. This is a very similar fashion as what has been recorded as occurring in otter predation events elsewhere, whereby otters would consume the head and limbs, as they contain high protein and fat content, and would leave the remainder of the carcass. While this line of evidence is strongest to date, it is important to keep in mind that it is also the area in which all of the data has been collected and analyzed. I must stress that the other lines of evidence are still in the works, so no conclusions can be made as of yet."

In addition to determining the cause(s) of death at Misery Bay Provincial Park, Ms. Gasbarrini is also working on critically evaluating multiple recovery strategies to determine the most effective conservation initiative to recommend to the park managers (the Friends of Misery Bay and Ontario Parks/Ministry of Natural Resources and Forestry).

"To do this, I am using population viability analyses (PVAs) which are models that can be used to estimate a population's success into the future," she explained. "These models are provided with as much site-specific information as possible, and will be supplemented with information from other populations of Blanding's turtles where necessary. Since this study has only been going on at Misery Bay Provincial Park for three years, and a Blanding's turtle can live in excess of 75 years, we truly have only gotten a glimpse at their lives in the park. Some of the information that is incorporated into a PVA includes age at sexual maturity, average clutch size (number of eggs per clutch), sex ratios, and the number of adults and juveniles currently present. With prior knowledge that the loss of only 10 percent of the adults in a turtle population can have effects that last for decades, this approach enables us to both gain information about the mass mortality event by determining the cause(s) of death, as well as ensure the success of this population into the future."

"As I said earlier, it is important to note that no conclusions can be made as of yet, as analyses are still underway," Ms. Gasbarrini concluded.

As The Expositor previously reported, Ms. Gasbarrini, a Laurentian University Masters of Science student working on her masters under Dr. Jacqueline Litzgus, a professor and herpetologist in the Department of Biology at the university, extended her field study over the winter, visiting the park monthly to further explore theories of predation and hibernation.

Ms. Gasbarrini lived near Misery Bay from May to September 2014, conducting daily monitoring of the Blanding's turtles as part of an $80,000 (over two years) grant to the Friends of Misery Bay (FOMB), in conjunction with Laurentian University, from the Ministry of Natural Resources and Forestry's (MNR) Species at Risk Stewardship Fund.

Using radio trackers, Ms. Gasbarrini and her field assistant Amber Koldzik monitored a total of 18 Blanding's turtles in the park in addition to using turtle decoys and field cameras to monitor potential predators.

Ontario Parks ecologists Anna Sheppard and Ed Mooris discovered dead turtles throughout April and May 2013 at Misery Bay Provincial Park while working on radio-tracking turtle movements, habitat and behavior, which initially raised the alarm.

Powerful, profane and disturbing, Huff storms Debaj stage

by Michael Erskine

MANITOWANING—If one word was to be used to describe Cliff Cardinal's onstage performance in Huff this past week at the Larry E. Lewis Creation Centre that word is "intense."

During his one-man show Mr. Cardinal brings several characters to life, racing through a breakneck paced 70-minute production (spoiler alerts) that begins with the startling revelation of Wind, the main protagonist, attempting suicide as the stage lights rise.

In Wind's opening monologue, the audience's gaze is locked in horrified fascination on the plastic bag as it puffs in and out with each breath.

The actor deftly pierces the fourth wall by acknowledging the audience as his imaginary friends/hallucinations, before enlisting one of his newfound 'friends' to rescue him from his current suicide attempt, entrusting the volunteer with the means of his demise and admonishing him not to give it back under any circumstances, while promising that his course of action has a perfectly rational explanation—and, as we journey along with Wind through his family's beginnings, dragged along through a path of soul destroying barrage of alcohol and drug abuse infused with domestic violence, sexual abuse, profanity and mental health issues, horror arises to new levels as the realization that Wind's chosen course of action takes on an irrational rationality.

The Thursday afternoon matinee performance attended by The Expositor was also attended by a full house of senior high school students from Wikwemikong. One young audience member could be heard to sum up the barrage of imagery conjured by Mr. Cardinal during his performance gasping "that's f*d up." It was. As the story of Wind and his brothers unfolds, your heart is ripped from your ribcage and brutally shoved back in your face. Some audience members could be seen getting up and leaving shaken during the performance.

The youngest sibling's gift from Creator, the ability to send a wave of joy through a person by reaching his arms back and blowing on them, is not able to protect him from the violent sexual abuse of his eldest brother, the FASD afflicted Charles. That Creator's gift is lost in the 10-year-old's accidental suicide following his rape.

The loss of culture and mangling of stories related by the characters in the story is particularly poignant taken in the context of the Truth and Reconciliation process—although the TRC is not directly referenced in the production.

Mr. Cardinal's play (he wrote the script over the course of a year) is set on a remote reserve, the kind of community beset with an epidemic of suicides, murders and abuse. The kind of community that remains far outside the comprehension of most viewers of the six o'clock news. But surprisingly, Mr. Cardinal, who hails from a successful thespian family and was raised in Los Angeles and urban Alberta, has little personal experience with the rez life directly—surprising because the writer/actor's script dialogue and the events and environment he paints upon the canvas of the stage resonate with authenticity for those who do.

Chatting with the artist following his performance Mr. Cardinal admits that most of what he so deftly brings to life on the stage has come from acquaintances and research—he goes on to add, "and of course I am an Indian."

The unseen villain of 'Huff' is Trickster. It is telling that one of the young Anishinaabe audience members asks Mr. Cardinal if Trickster is a Metis legend. He responds that Trickster exists in many First Nations cultures, including the Anishinaabe. The student could be forgiven for not recognizing the Trickster familiar in local stories in the malevolent spirit that inhabits Huff. There is a reason that the elders admonish the children not to speak his name when the blanket of snow is not on the ground, lest they attract his attention. Trickster is not a pleasant companion.

"Don't do anything you see in this play," admonishes Mr. Cardinal as he chats with the students following the play. "Don't even repeat the jokes." So sombre is the audience response to that caveat he has to add, "that was a joke."

As the play draws to a close, and Wind approaches the audience member for the return of his freezer bag and duct tape, the audience leans forward on their seats, holding their breath.

"Does anyone ever give the bag back?" asks veteran Wikwemikong actor Greg Odjig.

"No," replies Mr. Cardinal, before qualifying his answer, "the audience always steps in to stop them if they try." Stage manager Jennifer Stobart adds, "at one show there was a lady who was so mesmerized by Cliff's performance that you could see her just automatically reaching for the bag, but the audience began to shout at her."

If there is a redemption or hope contained within this play, perhaps that audience reaction is where it lies.

Island Basketball Championships

The annual drive for Manitoulin basketball supremacy took place last week at Lakeview School for the boys' event and Little Current for the girls' contest. Lakeview took advantage of their home court advantage by winning the title. Congratulations to Coaches Travis Corbiere and Ory Menzies and their charges: Shade Kaiser, Johnny Bushey, Shannon Debassige, Steven Bebonang, Gabe Hare, Damion Debassige, Quentin Jacko-Nokwegijig, Dylan Corbiere, R.J. McLean and Hudson Hare.

Over in the bridge town the Central Manitoulin Eagles were winning their second tournament of the season and are still undefeated on their campaign! Hats off to Hailey McGillis-Prior, Amber Wahl, Marjorie Scott, Avery Sheppard, Chloe Peltier, Zoe Redmond, Leah Spry, Haylee Cress, Reagan Hutchinson, Lindsay Sheppard, Holly Sagle and Coach Chris King.

E.B. Ellis Basketball Invitational

The CMPS Eagles prepped for the Island Champion by first winning the Espanola tournament in fashion; undefeated! Congrats to: Hailey McGillis-Prior, Amber Wahl, Marjorie Scott, Avery Sheppard, Chloe Peltier, Zoe Redmond, Leah Spry, Haylee Cress, Reagan Hutchinson, Lindsay Sheppard, Holly Sagle and Coach Chris King.

The Eagle Boys, a very young squad, were not able to pick up a win over the tournament but it was a great learning experience. For many of them it was their first ever basketball games and they kept their spirits up despite the challenge of facing more seasoned teams, and learned a lot. They look forward to using these preliminary experiences to bring their game up another notch!

Congratulations to: Jasen Millette, Alex Smith, Michael Hore, Tyler Leeson, Owen Duncanson, Carter Moggy, Joe Graham, Trevor White, Aiden Case, Jaemie Moore and Coach Christa King.

Little Native Hockey League

Here are a few highlights from this past Break's LNHL event in Mississauga. Taz Lewis has been named a recipient of the 2016 Vicky Corbiere $1,000 Scholarship Award given annually to former Little NHL players and standout students. Former Panther Jeremy Couchie was also recognized with a scholarship.

Some of the other impressive results from local teams included: The Wikwemikong Lady PeeWee Hawks came within an inch of winning the "A" Final but dropped a close one to CMO. Congrats on your silver girls!

The Wikwemikong Atom B Hawks ended up as runners-up in the "B" final. The Aundeck Omni Kaning Eagles, led by Sam Assinewai and Carson Shawana, fell a single goal in the "A" Championship. They dropped a narrow 7-6 decision to pick up the silver medal: great showing in a very strong division.

The coaching staff of Adolphus Trudeau (a former outstanding goaltender with the Wiky Hawks of the 1980s), Jamie Peltier, Randy Recollet, Alanna Trudeau and Sue Ann Oshkabewisens took the Wikwemikong Novice Hawks to the "A" Division Bronze.

Meanwhile the M'Chigeeng Midgets won the "D" Division of the tournament with Nate Debassige leading the way. Finally, the AOK Lady Wolverines fought hard to take the "B" Division Championship final. The event was a great annual cultural home-coming (including hockey) as many families and friends went to have an annual meeting with family and friends from widespread communities.

Deidre, Provincial champion

Former M'Chigeeng and Sudbury Lady Wolves defender Deidre Debassige won another championship this past weekend. Deidre was a standout as her Intermediate "A" squad won the All-Ontario Ladies Gold medal! Deidre is also a member of the Brock University Badgers.

Panther Points

In the NOHA Tournament of Champions Tourneys the Manitoulin Bantam Panthers won two and lost two to barely miss advancing to the semi-finals.

The Midget Panthers had three games in Sturgeon Falls in the Midget "B" T.O.C. sponsored by the West Nipissing Warriors. The Midgets dropped games to West Nipissing 4-0, Sault Ste. Marie 9-4 before downing Temiskaming Shores by a 4-2 count. The eventual winners, West Nipissing, were backed by the solid goaltending of Wiky-boy, Evan Peltier.

In another NOHA final, the Nickel City Sons Minor Pee Wee AA/AAA team picked up the NOHA Silver dropping the series to the Sault Greyhounds. Former Manitoulin Panthers Carson Shawana (Wiky) and Samuel Assinewai (AOK) played strong roles all year for the success of the Sons.

House-league T.O.C.

The Little Current Midget House League sponsored the NOHA House League T.O.C. for the first time ever. The Flyers showed well, tying two games and losing one, just missing the semis!

Laidley shines in Ivy League

The Sudbury Star had a long complimentary story on Michael Laidley and his St. Lawrence Saints last week. Laidley's coach spoke of Michael as his best freshman who plays with an edge and a fast and his most dependable skater. He also added that Laidley played like a veteran all season and was good enough to be used in all situations.

A good sport is good for sports.

Little Current hosts successful first Tournament of Champions

by Robin Burridge

LITTLE CURRENT—It was a great weekend of hockey on Manitoulin, as the Little Current Howland Minor Hockey Association (LCHMHA) hosted the first ever Northern Ontario Hockey Association (NOHA) Midget House League Tournament of Champions.

The tournament saw eight teams from across the North, including the Little Current Midget Flyers, competing this past weekend at the Little Current recreation centre.

Though the Flyers didn't make it to the championships, they played hard, tying their first game against the Massey Predators 4-4 on Friday afternoon.

Saturday morning saw the Flyers face off against the Powassan Hawks, but lost 9-3.

In their final game of the weekend, the Flyers played the Temiskaming Shores Rooster Bar and Grill Puck Hounds, the teams tying 6-6 in a fast paced game.

In the championship game Sunday afternoon, the Hornepayne Bears battled the Valley East Urban Window and doors, with Valley East Urban Windows and Doors being named the champions of the tournament, winning the final game 3-2.

"The tournament went really well," LCHMHA Vice President Jackie Hubbard told The Expositor on Monday. "We've received a lot of positive feedback about the weekend and it was a lot of fun."

Ms. Hubbard said that there were good crowds for the various games throughout the weekend and that the overall weekend ran smoothly.

"The teams all really enjoyed the skills competitions Saturday night, which Hornepayne won," added Ms. Hubbard. "The players were all really good all weekend and left whatever happened on the ice, on the ice and even cheered on other teams when they weren't playing."

The Little Current Flyers go head-to-head against the Massey Predators, tying their first game 4-4 last Friday afternoon.

Ms. Hubbard stressed that the weekend wouldn't have been possible without all the support from volunteers and parents who were "wonderful," as were the referees. She also noted the hard work of her fellow LCHMHA executive.

OPP curl for a cause

On the February 16, Manitoulin OPP Constables Randy Dedman and Alan Haner organized a curling bonspiel for officers' families including officers from the UCCM and Wikwemikong Tribal Police Services. Over 80 people attended and the Little Current Curling Club donated the club for the day. A total of $1,121 was raised and it was presented to the Manitoulin Health Centre to be used for Patient Care. Director Derek Graham thanked the OPP and the Curling Club for their generous donation. Al Boyd stated that the OPP is looking forward to next year's event "where we can donate the proceeds to another organization or charity." Two-time National, three-time Provincial Champion

As a Brock Intermediate Badger, Deidre Debassige, right in photo, has won another provincial gold title. This championship win gives Debassige three gold provincial championships in 2014, 2015 and again in 2016, capturing the gold by a 2-1 win over Etibicoke in the Intermediate Championships held March 18-20 in Etibicoke. The Badgers went undefeated in 5 games to capture the title. Deidre just keeps landing on a winning team and now has six championship titles under her belt, since 2012, where her team won the Ontario Winter Games Gold Medal and went on to win Provincial Gold in 2014, 2015 and 2016, and the National Bronze in 2014 and National Gold in 2015 with Sudbury Lady Wolves Midget AA. Deidre's Brock Intermediate Badgers have also finished in 1st place in the Lower Lakes Female Hockey League and will wrap up their season in a play-off round in early April.

station, Glow 100, which will feature hot dance, top 40 and adult contemporary. The coverage of the station reaches as far as Thessalon to Port Elgin and the Bruce Peninsula and into parts of Sudbury.

"We really felt there was a market for a dance station on the Island and in the area," said Ms. Timmermans, "so we decided to create the new station."

The new country station frequency will be 103.1, Great Lakes Country. The station will be high power (50,000 thousand watts) and will be able to transmit to Sudbury, the Sault, Parry Sound and possibly as far as the Georgian Bay coastline.

"The huge coverage is why we named it Great Lakes Country," noted Mr. Timmermans.

The Timmermans moved their office and studio onto main street Little Current last summer, setting up shop in part of the former IDA drug store on Water Street. A large window allows individuals passing by to see right into the studio and allow DJs to interact and engage with local residents and tourists.

Mr. Timmermans started his radio station in 2001. During his teenage years he listened to Q92 in Sudbury and had a dream to start his own station. In 2000, he started actively procuring a licence and was successful in 2001, choosing CFRM as his call sign, Craig and Friends Rocking Manitoulin.

After meeting his soulmate Kelly a few years later, he started to listen to country music. Examining the demographic of the Island, the pair switched the station to country music in 2006.

The couple said that although the launch of Glow 100 and the transition to CHAW Great Lakes Country 103.1 FM is taking place on April Fool's, "It ain't no joke."

"We are very excited for the new Glow 100, and for the extended coverage with CHAW and the opportunity to showcase the North," concluded Ms. Timmermans.

...truck recovery in Lake Wolsey delayed

From a relatively safe and sound base the world had turned swiftly to dangerous unsound ice.

Mr. Barlett, whose company he estimates has recovered over 60 sunken vehicles in the past 15 years (the company has been towing for 30), said that he has never understood chancing taking a vehicle out onto the ice when the temperatures start to rise. "Back in the day, when we had to fish for food, maybe, but not now," he said.

Mr. Barlett said that it is far easier to work from the ice, but that his company has to put safety first.

The decision to go out on the ice is costly, but Mr. Barlett was hesitant to estimate an average. "It's a lot like asking 'how much does it cost to build a house?' There are a lot of variables with each job," he said. "If we had been able to go out and do the job (on Lake Wolsey) in one day, it would have likely come in under $10,000." Now all bets on that prediction are off, but there was some good news.

"Because the bumper was still sticking out, we were able to attach a line and airbags to the vehicle," explained Mr. Barlett. Under normal circumstances, the team would have cut a series of holes to the shoreline (the vehicle is located some distance from shore), passing the rope from hole to hole to the shore, where it would be attached to a winch mechanism.

"Then we would sink the truck to just under the ice and float it in," said Mr. Barlett. Once near the shore, the team would have cut a channel that would allow them finish pulling the truck onto the shore.

"Now we will likely have to wait until the ice is out," he said. "But then the weather has gotten colder, so we will have to reassess the situation and we may be able to move forward."

For vehicle owners caught in the situation of having their vehicle go through the ice the good news is that they are likely covered under their insurance. "Most people are insured for at least the recovery," he said. "If they have full insurance, they may even be covered for replacement."

While that may be some consolation, it hardly covers the danger of the situation for the driver and their passengers and the environmental impact of leakage from the vehicle.

And then there is the environmental (and associated legal) implications. "In accordance with ministry regulations, every person who discharges a contaminant into the natural environment shall immediately notify the ministry if the discharge causes or is likely to cause an adverse effect," explained Steven Moggy, environmental officer with the Ministry of the Environment and Climate Change Sudbury office citing the regulations. "Persons responsible for a discharge of a contaminant also have a duty to mitigate any effects of the spill." That means if you spill it, you pay to have it cleaned up.

So far, there have been no reports of leakage or a spill from the Lake Wolsey incident.

So will charges be laid regarding the vehicle that went through the ice in Lake Wolsey (or the snow-machine that went through the ice in McGregor Bay)? "It's too early to determine if any charges will be laid," responded Mr. Moggy. "Right now we're focused on ensuring that the vehicles will be removed. We have had no reports of any spill at this time. In the event that there is a spill, persons who cause or permit the discharge of a contaminant to the natural environment so that there is damage to the natural environment can be ordered to repair the damage. The Ministry will continue to monitor the incidents to ensure there is no spill or environmental impact as a result of these incidents and that the vehicles will be removed."

...adopts its own Official Plan

...continued from page 1 adopt the Northeast Town OP, council carried a motion stating: "The Northeast Town, 1, requests that the minister of MMAH approve the town's OP as quickly as possible since the ministry's 'pre-consultation' process was followed; 2, request that the minister of MMAH confirm that this will be a stand-alone plan for the Northeast Town and that the Northeast Town will not be included within, nor be subject to, the District of Manitoulin OP prepared by the Manitoulin Planning Board (MPB); 3, requests that the minister of MMAH confirm that the Northeast Town become the approval authority for consent applications within the town; and requests that the minister of MMAH confirm that the Northeast Town will become the approval authority for subdivisions within the town."

Earlier this month, the MPB reached out to Island municipalities looking for a formal response from each council on whether they support or oppose the Northeast Town's proposal to leave the MPB and establish its own planning authority. The Northeast Town responded, sending a letter to Island municipalities asking for support in their proposal to leave the board.

As The Expositor previously reported, several mayors/reeves have weighed in, so far all opposing the Northeast Town leaving the MPB including Billings, Assiginack, Gordon/Barrie Island and Burpee Mills.

Gore Bay council has also added its name to the list of municipalities opposed to the Northeast Town leaving the MPB, declaring at its Monday, March 21 meeting that it does not support the request from the Northeast Town.

...numbers improve, but fall short of eligible recipients

Ms. Evans went on to explain that the Ontario Energy Board (which is responsible for handling the program) “expect between 300,000-340,000 consumers to enroll by year-end 2016. We are already more than one third of the way there after just four months.”

While the response to the program remains far short of the number who are believed eligible for the program, the OEB considers the numbers to be positive.

“We believe the application performance is very good and there are a number of reasons for this,” said Ms. Evans. “We have done a great deal to communicate the program to consumers through agencies, utilities and other government offices. The communications plan (started November 1, 2015) included print, radio and transit advertising. Additionally, bill inserts were included in all ODSP and Ontario Works cheques twice and with electricity utility bills and websites. We have also engaged online through social media, targeted digital advertising and created a ‘how-to’ video for YouTube (www.youtube.com/watch?v=aP7C4my8Ym0). We are continuing to work with social service agencies, food banks, libraries, MPP offices, the Ontario Native Welfare Administrators Association, legal aid offices, senior living centres and others to ensure that eligible Ontarians are aware of this program.”

Apparently the campaign has had some success. Ms. Evans notes that “our research shows that 41 percent of Ontarians are aware of the OESP (as of January 2016). At the time of this research the program had been in market just two months.” But when one considers the positive impact a reduced Hydro One bill would have for those whose incomes qualify, the uptake is still puzzlingly low.

Ms. Evans notes that efforts to expand the number enrolled have continued unabated. “We have contracted with more than 120 agencies in 172 locations across Ontario to help consumers apply in-person,” she said. “This is especially helpful for those without computer access, those who prefer to apply on-paper and for those who may not have filed income taxes recently. Consumers are encouraged to contact one of these agencies if they need application assistance. For a list of agencies, customers can visit the application portal or give us a call – OntarioElectricitySupport.ca or 1-855-831-8151.

Ms. Evans asserted that “we have designed the online application process to be user friendly and it seems to be working for most consumers. We do have a rigorous approval process so it is necessary for consumers to fully complete their applications and ensure that the information they enter matches their income documentation and utility bills exactly. Sometimes, customers will be notified that we are unable to advance their application because their information is incomplete or doesn’t match their documents. At this point customers can call us to verify and correct their application information or they can contact an intake agency nearest to them.”

The Manitoulin Sudbury District Services Board (DSB) has been firing on all cylinders in an effort to get all their clients (Ontario Works and Ontario Disability Support Program recipients’ income falls well below the threshold for the program), notes DSB CAO Fern Dominelli. “We have 96 applicants,” he noted. “Of those, 83 are on social assistance.”

Despite all efforts (including hosting workshops and walk-in clinics before Christmas for those needing help with the application), Mr. Dominelli admits the response “hasn’t been great.”

On the bright side, the CAO notes that a number of those who have been approved have been entered into the program for a five-year period, meaning they do not have to reapply every year or two (which is more the norm).

Once approved, the amount of credit an applicant can receive depends on how many people live in the home and the combined household income. The OESP website gives the example of a home with four people and an annual income of $37,000 who would receive an on-bill credit of $34 each month. The website goes on to explain that if your home is electrically heated, or you rely on medical devices requiring a lot of power, OESP offers a higher level of assistance. First Nations and Métis also qualify for a higher level of assistance.

There are a number of caveats, however. The program is not retroactive and it takes several weeks for the application to be approved.

When making an application, make sure you have your electricity bill, the names and birthdates of all the residents in your home as registered with the Canada Revenue Agency, and Social Insurance Numbers (SINs), individual tax numbers or temporary taxation numbers for residents over the age of 16.

If you are found eligible, the credit will appear directly on your electricity bill in about six to eight weeks from the date of approval. You will receive OESP for two years before having to reapply.

But if you have not filed an income tax return recently, or if your situation has changed since you last filed, you can apply for OESP through a local intake agency (such as DSB). You will need to bring all of the documents listed above, plus proof of your household income. The application can be found online at ontarioelectricitysupport.ca, and if you are unable to access the Internet yourself, or have issues in working with computers and or literacy, contact your local DSB office to access support. The Little Current office is located at 9050 Hwy 6, Unit D, Little Current, P0P 1K0, 1 (800) 667-3145 or by email shps@msdsb.net.

...$1 million awarded to local communities

The micro-grid will utilize existing battery technology to store electricity, backstopped by the current electricity grid.

Burpee and Mills Township received $11,753 to install a solar-powered heating system in their municipal garage. Once completed, notes a news release on the funding announcement, “this new clean-energy technology will help generate cleaner electricity that will improve the local community’s environment and health.”

The Municipality of Killarney received $276,512 to expand a local landfill site and install a new system to collect and treat environmentally harmful liquids. “These upgrades will help mitigate waste disposal-related environmental impacts,” notes the news release.

“We are very excited to see the money come in,” noted Killarney Mayor Ginny Rook. “We applied for this back in 2014, so we didn’t think we were getting it.” Since the community could not afford to complete the project on their own they were forced to put it on the back burner. Although the municipality will have to take another look at their budget, the news is very exciting nonetheless. “This will help us to extend the life of our landfill site,” noted Mayor Rook. “We have been told in the past that we are nearing the end of the lifespan of the landfill.” Any community engaged in the costs associated with building a landfill site, a tab that generally comes in at the multi-million-dollar range, knows all too well how important it is to extend existing landfill assets.

Patricia A. Hadju, Federal Minister of Status of Women, and Michael Gravelle, Ontario Minister of Northern Development and Mines, announced the funding for infrastructure projects in Thunder Bay. Ontario and the federal government are each providing over $5 million for the 13 projects, with the communities responsible for the remainder.

Ontario is making the largest investment in public infrastructure in the province’s history, noted Minister Hadju. That investment includes close to $160 billion over 12 years and will support 110,000 jobs every year across the province, focussing on projects such as roads, bridges, transit systems, schools and hospitals.

The $10 billion Provincial-Territorial Infrastructure Component (PTIC) provides support for projects of national, local or regional significance. This includes the Small Communities Fund (PTIC-SCF) that will provide $1 billion for projects in municipalities with fewer than 100,000 residents.

...Fourth Eritrean family arrives on Manitoulin

Ms. Hovingh said the family seemed very grateful for the home they have settled into in Manitowaning.

"The two youngest children had their first day at Assiginack Public School today (Monday, March 21)," Ms. Hovingh said. "One of the parents of a couple of students at the school told me that all her kids could talk about when they got home was the 11-year-old boy's soccer skills. I guess he was pretty impressive and friendly and is making friends quickly."

Ms. Hovingh said that the 19-year-old son has started at Manitoulin Secondary School, and will be joined by his two sisters on for a visit from Ottawa during the break," continued Ms. Quackenbush. "She (the sister) has been in Ottawa for a year but had asylum in a European country for eight years prior, so the two women hadn't seen each other in nine years and the sister was able to meet her niece and nephew for the first time. It was really amazing."

Ms. Quackenbush said the reunited sisters spent the week cooking Eritrean food and catching up.

"The sister also knows the (Eritrean) family that is coming to Mindemoya," shared Ms. Quackenbush. "The mother knows them as well, but her sister keeps in contact with them daily, so we asked her to let them

"They are doing fabulously," said Ms. Erskine. "A group of women have taken the mom (a widow in her 50s) under their wing and are doing arts weekly. She did a painting last week that was just beautiful. The kids are also doing well. They all love school and are getting involved with sports. They are looking forward to soccer season, but have been watching hockey and want to try it next winter."

The eldest son, aged 21, is also doing well and has started a job in Little Current.

In Gore Bay, volunteers have been having a great time getting to know their family, a grandmother and her teenage son.

"They are both doing friends, with many coming to his party.

"The grandmother had a long list of errands on Saturday morning such as going to the grocery store and the used clothing store," said Mr. Bond, noting that it's a good sign of her settling in. "I always have them over for lunch on Saturdays and we like making something new. This past Saturday was tacos and they thought they were pretty funny because of how messy they were."

A cake befitting a 17-year-old soccer aficionado. Over 100 people gathered in Mindemoya over the weekend to celebrate the 17th birthday of one of Manitoulin's Eritrean-Canadian residents.

Wednesday of this week.

"We have been very lucky in that the father speaks fairly good English," said Ms. Hovingh. "He and his wife have a background in farming and he was also a merchant who sold clothing. Right now their focus has really been on getting the children settled in and their education."

She said that the Assiginack community has been very welcoming, dropping off flowers and even bikes to the new family.

"As happy as they are, they left a daughter and her three children behind in a refugee camp and the father said he won't have a good night's sleep until they are reunited," added Ms. Hovingh.

Across the Island, the other Eritrean-Canadian families who arrived last month also continue to settle in well.

In Little Current, Sarah Quackenbush said her family, a mother and two children—a girl, 7, and boy, 8—have been doing very well.

"The family had a wonderful March break," said Ms. Quackenbush. "The children were busy with my children (also aged 7 and 8). We attended many of the activities the town was putting on at the recreation centre and visited a maple syrup bush—the whole family loved that. The mother worked very hard collecting sap and they all really enjoyed the experience."

The two children have been attending Little Current Public School where they have made the transition well and are making new friends.

"It was also really nice for the mother and the kids when her sister came know that we are thinking of them and anxious for their arrival."

As The Expositor has previously reported, the Mindemoya family the community has been awaiting is on temporary hold as everyone, including volunteers and the Canadian government, didn't realize there was a new addition to the family, a baby who didn't have a visa, therefore slowing the immigration process.

Ms. Quackenbush said that they have been assured by the Mennonite Central Committee that the families visas won't be revoked as they await the visa for the new baby.

The other Little Current family is also doing well. Linda Erskine, the Little Current core group lead, said that they are having a lot of fun.

really well," said volunteer Greg Bond. "It was the son's 17th birthday and we had a big party for him at the Mindemoya Missionary Church and brought all the Manitoulin Eritrean-Canadian families and volunteers together to celebrate."

"It was a great party and I think the families really liked socializing with each other and welcoming the new Manitowaning family," said Mr. Bond. "We had about 100 people at the party and there was lots of food, a cake and presents. I've been teasing him that it's his birthday week, as he's been getting presents over the last two-three days."

Mr. Bond said the teenager is settling into school at Manitoulin Secondary School and enjoys sports and is making lots of new March Break is over and students are back in school for a few days before Easter weekend begins on Friday. Over March Break, some students travelled to Europe, some people stayed home and relaxed with their families, and others skied and snowmobiled. Maybe a few even did schoolwork.

A group of 42 students left for their trip to Greece and Italy on Saturday, March 12. The students and chaperones flew from Sudbury Airport to Milan, Italy. The students have been posting pictures of their travels on Facebook and have seen some amazing sights including the Colosseum, the Leaning Tower of Pisa, Vatican City, Saint Peter's Basilica, and several more beautiful places. The group spent their nine-day trip immersing themselves into a new culture. While in Greece, Grade 10 student Laura

M.S.S. Kids in the Halls

Brown said, "The trip was amazing! We saw and did so much. My favourite sights were the Leaning Tower of Pisa and the Colosseum." The group came back to the Island on March 21 to share their experiences with family and friends.

Students' Council is once again hosting Spymaster, the game where friends turn against friends. In Spymaster students have to clothespin a target without being seen. Students can test out their ninja skills in this game. Spymaster sign up is from March 21-24. There are always great prizes for the winners. The game continues until one Spy remains standing.

The literacy test is approaching quickly and students in Grade 10 and others who need to retake the test are busy preparing. The test is on March 31st from 9 am to noon with a break mid-way. Ms. Bauer, the Literacy Program Leader at MSS says, "Performance on the literacy test comes down to effort and skill. Because students need 75 percent or higher to pass and because it is a graduation requirement, it is probably one of the most challenging tests students will ever take." Students have already participated in information sessions, practice tests, and tutorials. Further preparation sessions will take place prior to test day.

On April 4, the gymnastics team travels to Sudbury to compete at NOS-SA championships. There will be floor routines, balance beam, vault, parallel bars and aerobics. The team competing at NOS-SA consists of Roxanna Rojas-Brizuela, Maggie McDonald, Yohana Ogbamichael, Edén Beaudin, Alyssa Green, Victoria Tardif, Kendra Jordison, Jill Cooper, Jada McGraw, Jordanna Dedman, Zabrina Cosby, Emily Granville, and Donnshai Bruleigh. The coaches are Mrs. Theijsmeyer and Ms. Ferguson. The time between March Break and Easter is very short this year, but all school activities will be back in full swing. 'Til next time, stay golden, Mustangs.

Deadstock-Planning and Management

farm facts and furrows

by OMAFRA Ag Rep Brian Bell

The Ontario Office of the Fire Marshal and Emergency Management estimates that barn fires cost Ontario farmers more than $25 million per year (2012-2014 average). Do you know what to do in the event of a farm emergency? Do you know what to do if you have deadstock to manage? Barn fires, natural disasters, equipment failures and diseases are devastating events for farmers, their families and workers, and the neighbouring community. Planning ahead to reduce risks, and preventing accidents with a safe operation will help to protect employees, family members and animals. Emergency events can cause substantial loss to a farm operation and create unique challenges for farmers, including disposing of large volumes of deadstock. The Ontario Ministry of Agriculture, Food and Rural Affairs (OMAFRA) have a regulation that gives you options for deadstock management. These options help to protect water quality, reduce environmental impacts and minimize biosecurity hazards, such as scavenging. Collection of deadstock by a licenced collector is recognized as the most effective and sustainable disposal method. In emergency situations, you can apply to OMAFRA for an emergency authorization for the storage, disposal or transportation of deadstock. These authorizations can be used when emergency conditions exist that make it difficult for you to dispose of deadstock according to the regulation. OMAFRA works with the province's farmers, commodity groups, insurance companies, municipalities and trucking companies to ensure that deadstock is disposed of as soon as possible. In granting an exemption, OMAFRA considers the various factors of the situation, such as:

the urgency of the situation; the number of animals to be disposed; biosecurity risks; time of year; the condition of the deadstock; site conditions, including proximity to tile drains, location of surface water and wells, and depth to groundwater. Planning ahead can help alleviate some of the stress during an emergency. Our web page found at ontario.ca/farmsafety has useful resources for farm owners, including information on preventative maintenance for farm buildings and our book, "Reducing the Risk of Fire on Your Farm." Visit ontario.ca/deadstock for information on contingency deadstock planning and the regulation.

by Robin Burrige
 MANITOWANING—Manitowaning farmer Tom Hughson and his partner Ashley Taylor have opened Kernel's Feed and Farm Supply on Highway 6, just outside of Manitowaning.
 "Most people in the (feed and farming supply) business on the Island have retired or gotten out of it, so we saw a need," said Mr. Hughson of why they decided to start the business. "We got tired of not being able to get the stuff we need and we wanted to offer every day materials and supplies that farmers like us need on Manitoulin need."

Mr. Hughson has been running a cow and calf operation for over 20 years and is the third generation in his family to farm his Manitoulin homestead, while Ms. Taylor grew up in Mindemoya.
 "We hope to supply farmers with a good quality product with competitive prices," he added. "We will be stocking most feeds and our inventory will change with the seasons."

Tom Hughson and Ashley Taylor are the proprietors of Kernel's Feed Supply in Manitowaning.

He added that bulk feed orders will be taken as well, pending on the size of the order.

"We will also be carrying Kubota oil and filters and some new Holland haybines and sections and guards and drive belts," said Mr. Hughson.

Some of the feed items in stock include cracked corn, whole corn, Double cleaned oats, 14 percent beef pellets, scratch grain, egg layer, 12 percent horse rations, Timothy cubes, bagged shavings, dog food, cat food, bird seed, salt blocks and bagged choice cow mineral.

"Ashley also has her licence for selling common animal medicines such as penicillin, Pour-On for cattle and Noromectin," Mr. Hughson noted.

The name 'Kernel's' is near and dear to Mr. Hughson, coming from a family member's nickname.

"My father Clive Hughson was known to everyone as the Kernel, so we wanted to name the business after him," shared Mr. Hughson.

Kernel's Feed and Farm Supply is located at 15339 Highway 6 in Manitowaning and is open Mondays to Saturdays from 10 am to 6 pm and is closed on Sundays.

When I roast a ham for Easter I usually buy a big one! Leftovers are the highlight from sandwiches with a savory mustard, ham and eggs for breakfast, adding diced ham to homemade macaroni and cheese and then if your tired of ham you can freeze it up to 30 days. Try the following recipe.

Brown Sugar Glazed Ham with Raisin Drippings

This is a slowly roasted ham with lots of flavour. You can omit the raisins which won't change the flavour but make sure you do use a Dijon mustard.

- 1 cup dark brown sugar
- 1/2 cup Dijon mustard
- 1/2 cup apple juice or white wine
- 1 cup raisins
- 1 large bone-in ham (8 to 10 pounds/3.5 to 4.5 kg)
- A handful of whole cloves (optional)

1. Preheat the oven to 325°F.
2. Stir the sugar, mustard and juice together in a small saucepan over medium high heat. Bring to a boil then reduce the heat and simmer for a few minutes. Cool.
3. Tightly pile the raisins in the middle of a roasting pan.
4. Using a sharp knife, carefully score the fatty surface of the ham in a diamond pattern, cutting all the way through the fat and about 1/2 inch into the meat beneath. Place the ham (cut side up) down over the raisins making sure the raisins stay underneath the ham.
5. Pour about half of the glaze over the ham, thoroughly working it into the crevices with your fingers. If you want to take the time and like the flavour of cloves, pierce the center of each diamond with a whole clove.
6. Cover the ham to make a tight seal (tin foil works better than the lid of the roasting pan). Bake the ham until it is tender, about 2.5 hours.
7. Uncover and carefully pour the remaining glaze over the ham. Bake, uncovered, for another 5 minutes or so. Remove from the oven and spoon the juices and glaze back over the ham. Continue baking for another 5 minutes. Continue basting and baking until you have a rich, shiny glaze, 20 minutes or so.
8. Rest the ham for 15 minutes or so before slicing. Stir the pan juices, drippings, scrapings and raisins together, forming a sauce of sorts. Add some water if needed to make it moiré saucy.
9. Slice the ham and serve with the sauce.

Cheese Crumble-topped Mash

Potatoes to me are just potatoes, I'd rather cook and eat rice. When I do add potatoes to the main meal I search really hard to find a recipe that will take the potato to a new high. It always means extra work but the end result is delicious. You can make this recipe the day before but let it sit out for an hour before putting it in the oven.

- 2 pounds potatoes, diced (use a potato variety meant for mashing)
- 2 Tbsp butter
- 2 Tbsp milk
- 1/2 cup grated sharp cheese or blue cheese

- CRUMBLE TOPPING:
- 3 tbs butter
 - 1 onion, diced

- 2 garlic cloves, minced
- 2 tbs wholegrain mustard
- 3 cups fresh whole-wheat bread crumbs
- 4 Tbsp chopped fresh parsley
- Salt and pepper

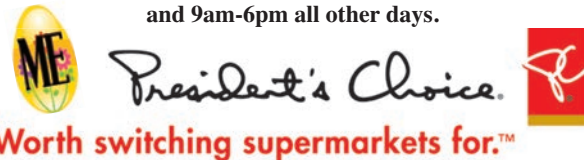

1. Cook the potatoes in boiling water for about 10 minutes, until they are tender
2. In the meantime make the crumble topping. Melt the butter in a skillet. Add the onion, garlic, and mustard and fry gently for 5 minutes, until the onion is softened, stirring constantly.
3. Put the bread crumbs in a mixing bowl and stir in the fried onion mixture. Season with salt and pepper.
4. Drain the potatoes thoroughly and place them in a mixing bowl. Add the butter and milk, then mash until smooth. Stir in the grated cheese while the potato is still hot.
5. Spoon the mashed potato into a shallow ovenproof dish and sprinkle with the crumb topping.
6. Cook in a preheated oven for 20 minutes until the crumble topping is golden brown and crunchy. Serve.

For extra flavour, add freshly cooked vegetables, such as celery, carrot or bell peppers, to the mashed potato in step 4.

Tehkummah Talk and Times

Monday, Mum made me French fries for my lunch. She skunked and beat me but I did a “better” skunk, then I left.

I went to Bingo but was weary and glad to get home. Right now I have some Irish soda bread in the oven for our cribbage lunch today.

Tuesday I had an early doctor’s appointment. Picked up Ed (Haggith) on his way shopping. Dr. Martina is a nice young lady. Afterwards, did some laundry, where this young man comes in and asks if this is the car wash? What a lovely surprise. My nephew Steve Martin, his mum right behind him. So Mum and I got an invite to supper. Another nice man comes in and tells me he worked with my brother at Budd’s. Tom and Ed too. His name is Ralph McKenzie and says he lives on the Island. (I didn’t ask where?) A trip to Foodland where I jammed my finger pretty purple, ouch! Drugstore too. I hurried home, went unloaded some, around to the birthday party in full swing. Mary Hall is the only March Birthday. The musicians, Darrell and Lyle Dewar, Carol Gilmore and Wayne Smith. I was glad when lunch was served. Quite a while since breakfast. Went home to rest, but remembered the supper invite, called Mum. Soon we were there enjoying their company. Delicious pork chop dinner and birthday cake Wayne and Steve brought up, and one game of Tiki, home before 10. Golly, it’s not even 11am and I’m done in this morning, I just cannot cut it anymore. (I think that’s how they wrote the song, too old to “cut” the mustard anymore??)

Cribbage: five tables, great lunch!

High hand, Bert, 24; first place (not a misprint), Ruth; Cal and Pat, 926; second, Betty Jean and Bill, 924; Bert and Joy, 907; low (not a misprint?) 850.5, Graham and Sheila; door, Joy and Dorothy.

I forgot to mention in last week’s column that on Saturday night Sherry and Dave came to Cal’s for a game of sequence, fun. Dave looked rested. The week before at their place he was having knee pain. The wild March winds have my lawn chairs upside down. Yes we have been sitting out in the sun already. So lovely (not I think.)

Was it crimson or vermilion with shades of hot pink? But it disappeared in an instant it seems. The glorious start left grey clouds behind?

Made a chocolate cake for euchre lunch. Martin was in while it was baking and brought a St. Patrick’s Day card. I just mentioned it was 62 years ago, my wedding day? Happy Birthday to Brian McCarthy. Tara just brought me in the most beautiful burgundy Hydrangea.

The news is out! Two bears in town! Fairly new residents I’m assuming! Careful. Friday’s sky: apricot, plum, grape and tangerine. Makes you hungry, doesn’t it? (Sunrise.)

The wearing of the green showed up, all the Irish at the Tehkummah hall, a lady with green hair, and an Irish cowboy? They do say things are a mite strange if you live there too?

Ten and a half tables at euchre. First, Graham and Sheila; 90; Second, Janice and Sharlene, 80; third and fourth ties, Burt and Joy and Blaine and Pat, 76; low, Gib and Florence, 43; four skunks were awarded, and refused? Door prize; Bill Case (pulled his own?). Joan (Beard) and I were on K.P. duty. Joan did lots, as I played partner with Dave James.

Right now my windows are blooming, actually the prettiest part of my environment. Geraniums getting busy. A red and a white Amaryllis, each with four lovely blooms.

Cal and I drove out to Barney’s on Saturday always meet lots of folk we know. Rodney was away in Sudbury visiting Carole (Mid-daugh) who we hear is not too well. God’s Blessing and care.

On Friday evening Sherry took me in to the healing service at Knox Church. Lots of lovely hymns sung. Bill Sawyer sang. Blessing and healings to all who were there. Thanks, Martin. Refreshments served afterwards.

The first crocus popped up this week. Actually the neighbour’s cat almost bombed it!

Hey, all you wonderful people have a Happy Easter. Thanks for all the thoughts and cards. Good Friday service S.B.M. 11:30. Easter Sunrise Service at Fossil Hill, at St. Andrews, 7AM. Met Bob and Terry Smith from Sandfield on Sunday at Carol’s and Earl’s. Saturday evening the “Girls” had a get together, always lots of laugh? Love those sisters of mine and their sense of humor. Susan has a way of looking at life?

Some cute barnyard stories; I’m laughing as I write. Dancer, her little horse, stole her earmuffs. Pauline read a story from 2002 that Susan had written us, laughed till tears were falling! My daughter too. We missed Lori who was enjoying curling, got home about 11, I think.

A dog and deer in Gordon’s and Anstice’s fields tonight. We only saw four from South Baymouth out. I guess they’re all back home again. We had supper at the usual place, so busy tonight, as it was this afternoon, Mum and I, and Elaine (Bosje) then. Good to have her with us again. “I will follow him” Today, Palm Sunday’s, sermon.

Signs of spring around

South Baymouth. Dave and June are back getting Pier-side set up for another season. Good to see their smiling faces. Sherry gave me a cute little yellow rose, and a very welcome and happy spring to all.

Good to see Helen O. out and about with her family.

More signs of spring. The “Browns” are reappearing in South Baymouth too! Just like the robins.

Got a nice, long phone call from Derek this morning 6:30 here, but had just got in from work out in MacKenzie. He says just a couple more weeks of logging there.

Providence Bay News and Notes

The winners of the Providence Bay Men's Spiel that was held March 11 - 13 for the 1st event was Jack White's team with other players being Mike White, Mike Johnston and Steve Orford. Congratulations on your good curling. The runner up was Bob Smith's team. The winner of the 2nd event was Peter Bond's team and the runner up was Dave McDermid's team. The winner of the 3rd event was Jack Ferguson's team and the runner up was Darren Smith's team. Another successful annual event.

Work has begun on the new Bell cell tower that is going up on the west side of Highway 551 as you come into town. The road has been built and we look forward to the erection of the tower and having service in Providence Bay.

Carol and Bill Dewar have returned from a two month visit to Melaque, a small fishing village on the west coast of Mexico. Their daughter Jayme and husband Curtis Watson along with their children Emery and Anders went down to visit them for two weeks. Bill and Curtis went deep sea fishing and caught a 70 kg marlin. They brought it back to the resort who prepared it on the barbecue for 40 people and still had plenty left.

The Dewars also welcomed their fourth grandchild. Travis and Lauren Dewar had their second child born March 10, 2016. Welcome to the little one. We hope to see you grow and enjoy Providence Bay. Travis recently held a fundraising auction to raise money for the Health Sciences North, North East Cancer Centre by opening bidding on the first litre of maple syrup made in their sugar shack. This was the second annual event. The winning bid was by Rob Smith for $400. What a fantastic donation for cancer research.

Many people are busy out in their sugar shacks. It's one sure sign that spring has arrived. There have been numerous reports of the return of the robins. The official date of spring has come and gone but don't let it fool you. We still might not be done with the battle between Old Man Winter and spring flowers.

Birthday wishes go out to our friends Wendy Wunsch and Don Patterson (aka "Duck"). We also send out get well wishes to Sharlene Kay who is home recovering from recent surgery.

Mike and Anna Neill recently travelled to Toronto to the Toronto Sportsmen's show.

The Providence Bay Centennial Hall work is progressing well and should be finished soon.

The annual Fun Spiel and Fish Fry was held at the Curling Club on March 20. This is the wind up to curling spiels SOUTHWIND--In loving memory of my dear son Adam, born March 14, 1984. Hi, son. It's Dad. Two and half years since you left us. Hasn't a day gone by I don't think about you. It's hard on me at times. I cry at nights when I'm alone. Miss your smile. The times we spent together. We worked together, laughed, and I liked the talks you and I had. I'm happy you're here with me at home. Sister Destiny is missing you so much, and your brothers too. It's going to take time for me. It's only that Dad loves you so much, my son. Baa Maa Pii, my son. Always in our hearts. She was also known as a Mshoodeh-kwe with strong personal will to fight for her beliefs and her life. Charlotte was also famously known for making her homemade bread, buns and pies, which she also graciously shared at community events and feasts. Charlotte was a true matriarch of her family, and she had a special love for her children and her grandchildren; who she had an influential part in raising many of her grandchildren; John Boy, Julie, Angus, Adam, Virginia, Alwyn, Arizona, Leslie, Edward, Brendan, Kayla and Tyler. She was also known as the neighbourhood grandmother who often took in her children's and grandchildren's friends when they needed support, and these youth were always grateful for her guidance (Crystal). Charlotte enjoyed spending time at the family camp and would often have family cookouts and would create tasty meals on an open campfire. She enjoyed the company of family and friends over a cup of tea beside an open fire. This was when Charlotte and Henry were truly at peace and tranquility. Charlotte was a keeper of the language and spoke the Anishnabe language fluently and also encouraged her children and grandchildren to learn the language. She found comfort and faith in teachings of the church and traditional ceremonies and was also knowledgeable in traditional medicines, and would take her children to pick sweet grass and sage. Her children and grandchildren were very proud of her and inspired by her courage in battling kidney disease and were in awe when she bravely received a kidney from her youngest child. This enabled Charlotte to continue the gift of life, which her family was eternally grateful for. Charlotte will be tremendously missed for her laughter, smile, and love for life. She will be missed dearly by her children, grandchildren, great-grandchildren, nieces and nephews and friends near and far. Charlotte will be resting at the Rabbit Island Community Centre from Monday, March 21, 2016 at 1 pm. Funeral will be held on Wednesday, March 23, 2016 at 3 pm at the Holy Cross Church in Wikwemikong. Burial to be at Wikwemikong Upper Cemetery, where she will be resting beside her beloved partner Henry.

in memoriam

CADY--Ryan Charles Cady, May 13, 1971 - March 22, 1976. We walked together, you and I, And what a special child. We had hopes and dreams for tomorrow But tomorrow did not come. We walked together, you and I, We talked, we laughed, we loved. We shared so many happy times, And for that I thank the Lord above. We walked together, you and I, But only for a short time. For all too soon it ended, Leaving broken hearts behind. And even though I miss you, More than words can say, I thank God I got to walk with you Every precious second of every day. Thanks for leaving your footprints in the sand. Miss you, Mom and Stephen 45oa

in memoriam

KAY--In loving memory of Kenny Kay, 1985 - 2006. The moment that you died My heart was torn in two. One side filled with heartache The other died with you. I lie awake at night when the world is fast asleep And take a walk down memory lane with tears upon my cheek. Remembering is easy; I do it every day. I hold you tightly within my heart And there you will remain. Sadly missed by Mom and Dad 45oa

Thank you to Travis and Jennifer Willoughby for your endless help. As well, thank you to Jamie and Jasen Millette for your many acts of kindness. All donations are greatly appreciated. Diane Willoughby 45oa
