Little Current's Doric Lodge honours Brother Andy Watson for his 70 years of Masonry

LITTLE CURRENT—May 10 was a golden evening at the Masonic Lodge in Little Current. The Watson family had just arrived from Sandfield and were greeted formally at the door by Brother Ron Towns. They were ushered into a reception area prior to the awards ceremony. This vestibule is bestowed with a series of photos, historical Masters dating from 1902 to the present. These Brothers 'of old' lend an extra feeling of historical relevance to the organization. For today's ceremony we were expecting Clive Stephenson, District Deputy Grand Master of the Sudbury-Manitoulin District, and Stan Waltenbury, Sitting Master of the Sudbury Lodge.

Within the formal chamber, the Masons were doing their official opening, which includes the singing of the Canadian anthem. Within a few minutes, a knock is heard and the guardian of the door knocks in return. As the door opens and the special guests are ushered into the PROVIDENCE BAY—The Providence Bay Village Square initiative is turning the once vacant lot next to the community hall into a much needed parking lot and green space.

"The lot is one of the first things you see when you come into the village so we wanted to combine the parking lot with a green space," explained project lead Mary-Jo Gordon.

The municipality of Central Manitoulin purchased the lot adjacent to the Providence Bay Community Hall several years ago for extra hall parking. The lot remained ungraded and partially covered in brush until the community approached Central Manitoulin council with the idea of the Providence Bay Village Square

Child Poverty Task Force utilizing raised beds for Island food security

LITTLE CURRENT—Give a man a fish and you feed him for a day; teach a man to fish and you feed him for a lifetime, but teach a family to garden and they will have a much healthier diet. Many people are aware that Child Poverty Task Force (CPTF) is taking on the challenge of improving Manitoulin family diets through the Good Food Box program, but the group is now looking at cutting out the middleman and teaching people how to make their own healthy

To that end a hardy group of local volunteers and CPTF staff are busy constructing 25 raised bed garden frames to act as a base for the gardening project.

"These five boxes will be staying here at the Little Current United Church," said project coordinator Kristen Bickell. "Everything grown in those boxes will go into the Good Food Box program. The rest of the raise bed frames are going into different areas."

Some of the boxes will find their way to Mindemoya and Manitoulin Family Resources, a couple are going into various community gardens and the rest are destined for families across Manitoulin that have expressed an interest in learning how to grow their own food. "There have been different people that have expressed an interest in learning how to garden and who have requested to have gardens.

The idea behind the raised bed project is that raised beds are low maintenance, there is not a lot of weeding involved and you can produce a lot more food per square foot," said Ms. Bickell. "There are no rows between the veggies.

The overarching goal of the Good Food Box program, and by extension the CPTF, is to create food

MSS students to take part in alumni career day May 25

by Alicia McCutcheon

M'CHIGEENG—Next Wednesday, May 25, the Manitoulin Secondary School (MSS) student body will be taking part in a career day at the school, specially catered to the wants of the students.

Sue Whynott, cooperative education teacher at MSS, explained that at the end of February she polled the students and, based on those surveys, chose 32 careers that were most prevalent in the students' answers. Ms. Whynott also went with as many alumni as she could, citing Cassie Esposto, pharmacist, and Janelle Proulx, lawyer, as a couple of examples of those who will be giving sessions to the students.

"People are fantastic to give up their days for us," Ms. Whynott added.

Each student will be given a timetable and broken into groups of 20 to attend five sessions throughout the day, roughly half of which are trades-related, the balance academic. The students have also been armed with questions with which to pepper the guests, such as what is involved in a typical day and the advantages and disadvantages in a particular field of work.

"We did it in 2008 and again in 2010," she said of the career day. "(Sessions) are the best way to run a career day."

She said she is hoping parents will read this article and get behind the students, encouraging them to take full advantage of the sessions.

The careers being highlighted at the 'Next stop, your future!' career day are: accounting/commerce; agriculture/food science; arborist; automotive service technician; alternative energy; busi-

Hughes reintroduces bill for Defence of Canada Medal

OTTAWA-The Cold War may be well behind us, but Carol Hughes thinks it's important to give back to those who defended our country from the threat that lurked behind the Iron Curtain.

Ms. Hughes, the MP for Algoma-Manitoulin-Kapuskasing, reintroduced her Private Member's Bill in the House of Commons last Wednesday. The bill would establish and award a Defence of Canada Medal for these cold warriors.

"The medal serves to formally Algoma Manitoulin-Kapuskasing MP honour the people who defended our Carol Hughes country from within for the period from 1946 to 1989," said Ms. Hughes.

"During this time, we became aware of how fragile peace can be and how vulnerable we may become to advances in weapons of warfare."

The MP wants Canadians to see how these hard-working individuals were first and foremost concerned with the protection of Canada in an area of nuclear proliferation and constant threat from tension between the West and communist-block countries.

"This medal is intended to be awarded to those who served in the regular and reserve forces, police forces, emergency measures organization, as well as civil organizations," said Ms. Hughes. "They were trained and prepared to defend Canada in all ways necessary, but fortunately were never engaged on home soil."

Ms. Hughes also said that "this act represents the vision of retired Captain Ulrich Krings and has wide-spread support across the country, especially from those who worked so hard to keep us safe and prepared during those unsettling times.

Perivale Gallery opens this Sunday with Ivan Wheale exhibit unveiling

PERIVALE—Perivale Gallery is celebrating its 35th season this summer, officially opening for the summer this Sunday, May 22 with its annual unveiling (and meet and greet with the artist) of renowned Little Current artist Ivan Wheale's works.

"Although works of all of our wonderful artists will be displayed, the main focus will be on the unveiling of our beloved Ivan Wheale's new paintings," shared Perivale Gallery curator Sharon McMullan. "It will be, essentially, his showcase, and Ivan will be present to greet all visitors to our 35th season's opening when the doors open at 1 pm."

Ms. McMullan promises an exciting season at Perivale Gallery with a number of new artists bringing diverse styles, experience and energy to the mix of almost 60 artists and artisans. "There is something for everyone to enjoy," she said.

Art workshop offerings will also continue throughout the summer led by "vibrant and inspiring" instructors. All levels are welcome.

Perivale Gallery's annual show, 'In the Spirit of Tom Thomson and the Group of Seven' will run from July 23 to August 7 and will feature works inspired by Canada's iconic artists. A number of guest artists, including the famous Charles Pachter, will be in the mix.

Perivale Gallery will be open from 10 am to 5 pm on weekends until mid-June, then daily until mid-September.

The official opening and Ivan Wheale exhibit and meet and greet will take place this Sunday, May 22 from 1 to 5 pm. Perivale Gallery is located at 1320 Perivale Road East, Spring Bay.

BILLINGS—The fate of Franklin Expedition is one of the most enduring mysteries of the 19th century and forms a key brick in the foundation of Canada's claims to Arctic sovereignty—this year the Franklin Expedition is the focus of a new exhibit at the Old Mill Heritage Centre in Kagawong.

In 1845 experienced explorer Captain Sir John Franklin departed England with 128 hardy British sailors and two ships, the HMS Erebus and the HMS Terror, in search of the fabled Northwest Passage to the Orient. Both Captain Franklin, his men and his ships disappeared into the mists of time with all hands presumed

The two ships had become icebound in the Victoria Strait near King William Island and in 1848, the first of several expeditions set out to rescue or recover the lost party. Tantalizing clues were found, including bodies of dead crewmen and artifacts, oral histo-

Flexibility needed to deal with Northern challenges

Small rural communities, such as those to be found on Manitoulin Island, face many significant hurdles in overcoming the plethora of challenges that distance and geography present to the development and growth of their local economies. The Island stands as a metaphor for Northern Ontario itself, where even the larger so-called hub communities such as Sudbury, Timmins and Sault Ste. Marie often face challenges in providing public transportation and accommodating the needs of a modern economic society.

Many of those people living in larger urban centres in the south dismiss the issues that face rural and remote communities by simply saying "move somewhere else." Sadly, a cursory glance at the provincial Grow North Plan would confirm that, not so very deeply buried between the lines, government policy largely follows that line of

But within the current infrastructure in place in many rural and Northern communities, there is room for accommodation that could go a long way toward solving some transportation issues and helping smaller communities continue to thrive.

We have plenty of historical examples of thinking outside the box here on Manitoulin Island that have leveraged existing assets to alleviate some of the challenges presented by a lack of public transportation.

Several years ago it was deemed impossible to accommodate the students of Hope Farm within the school buses of the transportation consortium that runs the bus systems of four of the Sudbury and District school boards, yet a solution was found to that challenge using existing assets, a system that has been working to the present day.

Despite this, every few years it seems the transportation battle must be fought again—most recently with challenges to Rainbow District School Board co-op students using the school buses to get to their jobs after school. While much of that challenge has apparently been solved to some extent, the battle seems to resurface almost every year.

A worse and even more egregious issue that remains unsolved is that students at Manitoulin Secondary School wishing to partake in extracurricular activities must either live in an area that has a sufficient number of students to justify a late bus, be wealthy enough to have their own source of transportation, a parent willing and able to take up the task, or be deprived of that opportunity. Most often it is students from Gore Bay and other Western Manitoulin communities that feel the brunt of this policy.

There are great examples of innovative thinking currently being studied by the Rainbow District School Board, the plan to utilize excess space in smaller schools for other purposes such as dentist and doctor's offices or other complementary community services are a great example. Rather than simply closing schools and busing students across ever-greater distances to the next school building, this approach will allow smaller communities to retain their schools and perhaps even enhance local services.

As anyone involved in real estate can tell you, the presence of schools in a community is vital to that community's growth and even survival. Young families are not likely to entertain the idea of having their children spend hours getting to and from school.

The winds of prevailing policy direction at the higher levels of government are not generally favourable to this kind of approach, witness the underpinnings of the Grow North Plan. Rather the aggregation of population in "service hubs" is being encouraged through legislation and regulation, sometimes in an overt manner, but most often through subtle interpretations and a death of a thousand cuts.

Northerners and Manitoulin Island residents in particular must remain vigilant in dealing with policy decisions being made outside their region that would see rural communities wither and die simply to satisfy bureaucratic rationalization and the easing of service delivery in the geographically dispersed regions such as the North.

Just as technology and the Internet has advanced to the point where young professionals can viably consider plying their professions in rural communities, the race to find the cheapest solutions to service delivery threaten to derail that opportunity for rural residents to maintain their communities and lifestyle. The health and future of rural communities require that policy makers not only think outside the box in finding solutions, but they must also have the political will required to make that effort.

The embers of political will are fanned when the public expresses an interest in an issue. Complacency and inaction are not an option if our way of life is to survive over the long run.

Wynne swansong should be 'Nineteenth Nervous Breakdown'

Can polling numbers go into negative digits?

Re: An Open Letter to Premier Kathleen Wynne

Mark Volpini certainly nailed it in his letter to the editor in the May 11, 2016 edition of The Expositor ("Looking forward to a future without you").

With Premier Wynne and the provincial Liberal Party polling down around the 20 percent mark and still falling, the current Ontario government might disappear on its own if they go into the negative numbers. However, I doubt the people of this province will be so lucky, and we'll at least have to wait until the next election, more than two years

In the meantime, the provincial Liberals should start thinking of a good theme song for their next election run. With the Wynne government likely to become history anyway, it's only right that they should look back in time for an 'oldie-goldie' tune that they can campaign to.

I think the most appropriate song for the Liberals would be an old rock 'n roll tune quite familiar to the baby boom generation, and sung by that octogenarian rock band, the Rolling Stones. The song was called 'Nineteenth Nervous Breakdown."

Fort McMurray fire a tragedy that will take years to recover from

It is time for First Nations to create their own nation states

To the Expositor:

Huge fire in Fort McMurray recently sending the entire population of the city out of the city environs. Thousands were forced from their homes by wildfire, evacuated to safety out of the city. Homelessness is capricious-it can happen to anyone anytime for any number of reasons. In the case of Fort McMurray, a forest fire rendered thousands of people homeless. Recovery may take weeks, months, even years.

Closer to home, the dispossession of the homeless is taking Once again, Whitefish River First Nation is going to forcibly evict an Anishinaabe female elder from traditional Anishinaabe lands. Why is it acceptable for a First Nation to eject an Anishinaabe female, a woman whose family, clan and network roots reach back into the antiquity of Wiigwaaskinaga, from traditional indigenous territory? Why is it that traditional Anishinaabe customs and protocols about indigenous land tenure are not recognized or accepted? Why is it that Indigenous and Northern Affairs Canada does not acknowledge their own documented words, "that informal land holdings are recognized?" Why did officials of Whitefish River present an undefended female with an unaddressed envelope which contained a Notice of Trespass and Order to Vacate? Why do verbal promises of assistance not match up with the ham-fisted legalese of a Notice of Trespass and Order to Vacate? Why did seven separate written requests for assistance regarding home and land to Whitefish River First Nation go unanswered? How is it possible for an Anishinaabe female to be trespassing on her own traditional indigenous territory? How is it possible for an Anishinaabe woman to be homeless in her own homeland? How many other indigenous females has this happened to before, and not a peep out of anyone about it?

There are some serious misunderstandings about what constitutes Anishinaabe lands. For example, the Indian Act, a legal instrument created by the Government of Canada, without input by Anishinaabe people, asserts that "Indian" lands are "held" by the "Crown" for the use and benefit of "Indians." In reality, the Government of Canada behaves as if "Indian lands" are government lands. "Indian lands" are not government lands. They are the sovereign territory of the Anishinaabek and other indigenous nations across Canada not having been given, or given up, or given over, to the Government of Canada.

Someone suggested to me one day recently, "you can't take it with you when you die." Interesting, isn't it, that someone who is comfortably ensconced in their own "certificate of possession" can be so matter-offact about not taking it with you, when landless females in their midst are struggling to hold on to their own indigenous homelands?

In Sheguiandah, there is a billboard that says, "Welcome to the oldest settlement on Manitoulin Island." It is a reference to the 10,000 years of indigenous habitation and ownership of the Sheguiandah area, and indeed, all of Turtle Island. In contrast, the nation called Canada has only been in existence since 1867, a mere 149 years.

First Peoples worldwide says that there are about 400 million indigenous peoples around the globe. There are more than 5,000 indigenous tribes, across 90 countries, yet constitute only six percent of the world's peoples. Indigenous peoples are representative of 90 percent of the global cultural diversity. Indigenous peoples own 20 percent of Mother Earth's lands, and these lands contain 80 percent of the planet's remaining diversity. Big responsibility—so little time remaining. It takes mere minutes to cut down a tree, and yet it takes decades for a tree to take root, grow, and mature. Destruction requires no big genius. Creation is one of the most challenging, stimulating, and restorative practices that humans can exercise.

So, Canada is finally going to ratify the United Nations Declaration on the Rights of Indigenous People, 10 years after other countries have accepted the same document.

I think it's time for the Anishinaabek of Wiigwaaskinaga to create our own community-nation-state. Notice that I did not say "Indian reserve" or "First Nation" or "tribe." None of those words accurately describe who we are. None of those words are words that we used traditionally to describe ourselves. It's up to us to say who we are, to say where we come from, and to say what our purpose on Mother Earth is. That is not the prerogative of Whitefish River First Nation, or Indigenous and Northern Affairs Canada or even the Government of Canada. We say who we are, and we say that we own our own lands. Ghomeshi trial was a case study of justice system flaws in dealing with sexual violence

EDITOR'S NOTE: May is Sexual Assault Awareness Month and, in light of recent of recent developments in the ongoing Jian Ghomeshi case, Manitoulin Family resources executive director Marnie Hall Brown has penned the following op-ed

In 2014, when allegations of violence against women were first brought against Jian Ghomeshi, many responded with disbelief: but as disclosures about Ghomeshi from women piled up, a different reflection began. The disclosures sparked important conversations in the public about the prevalence of unreported sexual assault in Canada. It also questioned the adequacy of the criminal justice system, and the many reasons why survivor-victims do not report—or in many cases, tell anyone at all. Survivors of sexual violence agreed, sharing their stories about the limitations of the criminal justice system and the enormous barriers that survivor-victims face.

Today, we have learned that Ghomeshi will avoid a second sex assault trial in June 2016 by signing a peace bond, and the charges will be dropped.

We are not in any way surprised by this development in the Ghomeshi case. On the contrary, we acknowledge that our current system is rife with problems that do not make the court process easy for sexual violence survivors.

Resources support what the survivor wishes and can imagine the complexities any survivor faces in preparing for court. For example, oftentimes survivors choose to forgo the charges because: they simply want the case to be over; they do not wish to testify; they fear being cross-examined in court. We know that the credibility of victim-survivors, for example, is too-frequently questioned when reporting system based largely on verbal testimony, physical evidence, and the credibility of the complainant—commonly proves less accessible to those assaulted by an offender that is known to them or in historical cases; they may have come to understand or been told that their case has a low chance of prosecution. As advocates, we know that, conviction rates are very low, which de-validates the experiences of survivors; and works to suggest that sexual assault is a assault is also a difficult crime to prove—there are rarely any witnesses and not always physical evidence.

Survivors of sexual violence can and ought to feel they have the right to report: but they will also need information, support—and alternatives to reporting, should they choose not to. We recommend strategies, solutions and support services that start by believing survivors who disclose their stories of violation, and understand these stories as

In response to the recent Ghomeshi case developments, Manitoulin Family Resources reaches out to those affected by sexual violence. We affirm (as we have from the very beginning) that sexual violence cases are not often resolved through the criminal justice system.

If something has happened to you, there are people who will believe and support you. You can talk to a trusted friend, family member, or contact a sexual assault centre support line. If you are considering reporting, we can help you think through your options. If you are not considering reporting, that's okay too. All calls are free and confidential. You can contact Manitoulin Family Resources: call 705-377-5160 or 1-800-465-6788.

If you are a friend or family member of someone who is dealing with sexual violence, there are things you can do too. You can be an ally to the person who is victimized, instead of the accused. You can listen to the person's story without judgement, scrutiny or expectations that they formally report. You can them to find safe places to seek additional support, if needed, too.

The very essence of an irresistible force personified

Frank Reynolds was a champion for Manitoulin: a man who made you laugh, think, and challenged you! Frank was full of ideas, enthusiasm and suggestions. Through the years, he had done so much and been so much for people on Manitoulin. He became my dear friend, and in the 24 years of my lively friendship with Connie and Frank, he took every opportunity to tease me.

"That's because you're so tease-able," Connie said to me last week, from their home in Wellandport.

Frank died on March 30, 2016. He was 70, and he died after a series of operations. Connie was by his side.

This next operation might be it, Bonnie," he said to me on the phone, cheerfully, a few weeks ago. "I've had a marvelous life, with my wonderful wife Connie for 26 years, my two daughters and three stepsons. And my grandchildren!'

We bantered normally, remembering anecdotes of our many times together as I often travelled with Connie and Frank.

"Frank, I love you and Connie,"

'We know you do, Kogos," he said. "We met in April 1992. You were interviewing Eva Skippen at the Sheguiandah Museum for your new column in The Sudbury Star. She told you how she began and shared her family treasures!"

I vividly remember Frank bustling in, all energy and a big smile, toward our desk as Eva and I completed the interview. His hand reaching for mine, "Hello, I'm Frank Reynolds, happy to meet you. You're the lady from New York City: I have a present for you.

"A present! You don't know me!" I responded.

"I know you're sharing something good for Manitoulin," he said, presenting me with a shiny Haweater Dollar. It's on my desk, this minute, as I write this remembrance. His sense of humor was so fast, I thought he came from New York City, I told

"Not a chance!" he laughed, "but let me tell vou more!"

I listened.

Frank was a graduate of Brock University majoring in English, entering professional life as a Financial Planner and Life Insurance agent in Sudbury. He and Connie moved to Manitoulin where they lived and he worked for 33 years. He spoke enthusiastically about being part of the Little Current Lions Club and their philanthropic work, his development and coordination of the Manitoulin Trade Fair, his being on the Board of Directors for the Sheguiandah Museum, and that he was Economic Development Office of the Howland Township. And I listened

A few weeks later, I phoned Frank to talk about writing a possible newspaper column about him. His wife Connie answered the phone: our repartee was open and such fun, we laughed for 20 minutes! She told me she was finishing the house in Sunsite Estates by doing carpentry, painting. She also made jewellery and was raising kids! I wrote about both of them in a Window Seat column. Thus began my equal, wonderful friendship with Frank and Connie.

Two years went by, and my fellow in Kagawong and I called it a day, remaining friends. I was returning to live in New York City, yet I had 10 Window Seat columns ready. My Sudbury Star editor said, "Of course, you send them in. With phone and Internet, and your earned knowledge of Manitoulin. continue your stories."

A joke that came much later: that I was able to give up the man, but not Manitoulin Island, Each summer for 24 years, sometimes in the fall, spring or winter, I hurry back to Manitoulin.

The first time I staved at the Reynolds home in Sunsite, I proudly drove all the way from Sudbury without incident and pulled up eagerly in front of their house, parked and knocked on the door.

"Bonnie, you parked over the septic tank, Drive on to the driveway, where you're supposed to be," Frank said, leaning out the door. I backed up a second time over the tank. The grass was so green. Waiting for his rant about me being a New Yorker and unconscious about septic tanks, since I lived on the fifth floor of a building, and had a building superintendent, I sat in the car and waited. Had I broken the septic tank? What was a septic tank?

Frank had remembered one of my first Window Seat winter columns, where I confessed driving into the frozen Manitoulin rhubarb, in my new small pick-up truck into a frozen ditch around Mudge Bay the past Boxing Day in Kagawong. He referred to it even in summer. The truck lived, but the front end needed work.

He saw me, deflated, waiting for the Reynolds Invective. But he was gracious. "Get in this house, Kogos. But promise to take driving lessons and learn about septic

When my first book, 'Manitoulin Adventures: I Was Mistaken for a Rich, Red, Ripe Tomato,' was published, and the launch was in Kagawong at the new Community Centre, Connie and Frank were there. Dressed in red. And no jokes, just photographs. There we were, all standing up straight and healthy. He did not mention septic tanks. And I learned not to say anything about his smoking; it came with the Reynolds territory.

Many years and many columns later, Frank got me on the phone. "It's six months before the Manitoulin Trade Fair the following May. Kogos, we need your support! You've been writing Window Seat for years. You're a rich woman! We need you to write a check for $500 to support The Trade Fair."

I did what anyone who knows Frank would do: "Where do I send the check?"

At The Manitoulin Trade Fair, no one could match his lively banter and sales promotion. Give that man a microphone and his fun-filled personality bloomed even bigger. Interviewing people, inviting you to this booth: "Come to this booth, Bonnie, where they sell the best septic tanks! You almost bought one!'

He never let up, kidding how I specialized in driving into ditches, into the rhubarb. Frank, it was one ditch dive!

When I told him I was driving from Sudbury to the Fair in a snazzy rental, he put out a fake Ontario Provincial Police Report titled; The Kogos is coming, The Kogos is coming! Everyone get out of the way! This New Yorker loves to drive into ditches!

I thought it was mildly funny, until I asked Constable Al Boyd if he heard of this. Constable Al. evervone's wonderful pal, just smiled. And held back a laugh.

One summer in Gore Bay, I was covering the Lace Camp, a local well-dressed lady came to me and asked point-blank: "Who gave you permission to write about Mani-

My soul deflated: I'd been writing Window Seat for 15 years. I took a breath to keep from falling over. I whispered back, "Maybe someone from a big city can easily see the miracles that keep happening on Manitoulin, in so many domains...

Sniffing, she walked away. I immediately phoned Frank and Connie for counsel.

"Pay no attention," Frank said and laughed. "She probably didn't understand the word domain. Keep on, Kogos, mostly we laugh with you, not atcha!'

Many of my newspaper columns about Manitoulin were sparked by Frank's spirit and guidance. "For the good of Mani-

Saving lives during Canada Road Safety Week

May 17 to 23 will mark Canada Road Safety Week, a national campaign aimed at making Canada's roads the safest in the world.

This campaign is a police initiative designed to remind people that an essential part of the enforcement component is to save lives and reduce injuries on our roadways. Educating the public about safe driving practices is a priority. The focus will be on behaviours that put drivers, passengers, pedestrians and other vulnerable road users most at risk. These are impaired driving; either by alcohol and/or drugs, occupant restraint use, and all aspects related to aggressive and distracted driving. All enforcement agencies across the country have been invited to par-

"The deaths, pain and broken hearts that result from carelessness behind the wheel can be prevented," says Staff Sergeant Kevin Webb of the Manitoulin OPP. "Police agencies across the country are collaborating on this initiative and asking you to choose safe behaviours while travelling on our roadways, whether you are driving or a passenger. It is incumbent upon the police and the public to work together to ensure that Canada's roadways are the safest in the world."

"Here on Manitoulin Island, there have been 141 serious injuries over the last five years related to vehicle collisions. These are just numbers but these preventable injuries have a lifelong impact on many individuals and families in our communities. In support of Canada Road Safety Week, members of the Manitoulin Detachment of the OPP are continuing the commitment to the Provincial Traffic Safety Program.'

Canada Road Safety Week is sponsored by the Canadian Association of Chiefs of Police (CACP) and Transport Canada and is part of Canada's Road Safety Strategy 2025, which has a goal of making Canada's roads the safest in the world by 2025.

Hitchhiker arrested for outstanding warrants 43-year-old wemikong resident, who was wanted on three outstanding warrants after sne falled to appear in court and for prints in the fall of 2015, was arrested by the Espanola Police on May 9 while hitchhiking on Centre Street in Espanola.

At 2:40 pm, a member of the Wikwemikong Tribal Police, who was driving on Centre Street and recognized the female as a wanted person, contacted the Espanola Police, who attended and spoke to the female. In speaking to the officers, the female tried to provide a false name, but as her identity was already known, she was arrested on the outstanding warrants and during a search of her person incident to arrest, a half gram of cocaine was located as well as $21 in sundry items she admitted she stole from a store at the Espanola Mall earlier in the day.

As a result of the incident, the 43year-old was charged with possession of a controlled substance, possession of property obtained by crime, and obstruct police. She appeared in Bail Court in Sudbury on May 10 to answer to her charges.

Little Current duo busted with oxycodone

On May 5, 2016 at 1:25 am, a member of the Espanola Police Service stopped a vehicle on Centre Street for a licence plate light infraction, and while speaking to the male driver, the officer observed there to be marijuana on the lap of the female passenger, who handed over a baggy containing approximately 10 grams of the substance to the officer. During a search of the vehicle incident to arrest, the officer located 15 oxycodone pills in the glove

As a result of the traffic stop, a 36-year-old male and a 37-year-old female from Current Little were charged with two counts of possession of a controlled substance. They will appear in Espanola Court on July 12 to answer to their charges.

OPP traffic stop catches impaired driver

In the afternoon on Tuesday, May 10, a member of the Manitoulin Detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police (OPP) conducted a traffic stop on Highway 540 at Gordon Township. The driver of the automobile was arrested after he failed the Approved Screening Device test for alcohol on the roadside.

As a result of this investigation, a 54-year-old male of Meldrum Bay has been charged with impaired driving, and exceeding the legal limit of alcohol in his blood, contrary to section 253(1) (a) and 253(1) (b) of the Criminal Code of Cana-

The accused is scheduled to appear at the Ontario

Court of Justice in Gore Bay on June 27, 2016.

Speed enforcement to focus on community safety zones

After receiving complaints of speeding in various Community Safety Zones on Manitoulin Island, members of the Manitoulin Detachment of the OPP will be concentrating speed enforcement efforts at those locations through the summer months.

Recently, the OPP monitored vehicle speeds on Yonge St. Mindemova in front Central Manitoulin Public School (CMPS), and found 80 percent of the vehicles were travelling in excess of the posted 40 km/h speed limit. The fastest speeds were found to have occurred during school hours.

"The Community Safety Zone designation and the 40 KPH speed limit at CMPS are there to help protect the students," stated Staff Sergeant Kevin Webb. "I have directed our officers to focus speed enforcement efforts in the school area in the coming weeks to fulfill our commitment to road safety. If you are found to be speeding, you can expect strict enforcement action by our officers."

Speed fines within Community Safety Zones are doubled, and speeding in excess of 50 km/h over any posted speed limit will result in a seven-day vehicle impoundment, and an automatic driver's licence suspension.

Island Elementary Soccer Championships

The annual contest for elementary school soccer supremacy was on the line last Thursday. In Mindemoya, Grade 7/8 teams vied in a new nine-team format (six schools with one team and three schools bringing an A and B squad) where so-called A and B teams from schools played against each other. As often happens, the motivation to play in the same division as your own schoolmates brings out the best in their competitive spirit to make things interesting.

In the LCPS case, the B side narrowly prevailed over the A team to make it to the semi-finals only to be pitted against a hot Lakeview squad who made it to the championship game against the CC McLean B team who slid by Gore Bays' top draftees. In the intense finale, the winner could not be determined in regular time and went to the nail-biting, shoot-out!

With amazing goaltending from Lakeview's Malcolm Bushey and CC McLean's Lily-Faith Hore, the contest went down to the ridiculous "sudden-death" rounds where one mistake in a cycle ensured your team, second place.

With a heart-breaking end for each team in the offing, it was Gore Bay who made the least mistakes and took home this year's trophy. Hats off to Coach Dan Smith and players Rory Dearing, Abby Smith, Nathan Temple, Lily-Faith Hore, Kyle Wood, Madison Swihart, Michael Bailey, Amber Wiwchar, Will Gordon, Larissa Chevrette, Chase Hester and Bailey Yaschuk-Middaugh.

In Wikwemikong, the Juniors also had amazingly close matches to determine the Grade 4-6 winners. The CMPS Junior A team won their first 3 games, then drew Assiginack 0 - 0 in the fourth, losing that game on penalty kicks 3 - 2. The scoreless result, however, did open a window for CMPS to take the title only if they beat host Pontiac in their final game, and in regulation, to receive the full 3 points. In a closely fought final match of the day, CMPS came out on top 1 - 0, giving them first with 11 points, over second place Assiginack with 10 and Pontiac in third with 9. It was a pretty exciting, closely fought championship, and the kids from all teams played spirited soccer and showed great sportsmanship all day long. Thanks as well to Deana Debassige and her team in Wiky for a well, organized and executed day. Congrats to the A champion Eagles: Chloe Peltier, Liam Bridgeman, Delaney Bridgeman, Ben Dewar, Carter Moggy, Jacob Wilson, Madison Skippen, Zoe Redmond, Kasch Lentir, Leah Spry, Laura Orford, Lindsay Sheppard, keeper Landon Hare and Coach Michael Bridgeman.

On the B field, the Assiginack All-stars topped second place, CMPS to take home their well-deserved hardware. Congratulations to: Chris White, Cord Hughson, Ayla Closs, Mathis Bredin, Emile Moore, Cole Hughson, Brodie Pennie, Lauren, Osawamick, Sonya Jacko, Natalia Bell, Lane Philips and Coach Joanne Roy-Peltier!

Mustangs love tennis!

The MSS Tennis team went to Blind River this past Thursday to compete for the NSSSA title and despite having quite a young team this year, they won the North Shore Secondary Schools Association banner! Congratulations to the court masters who are moving on to NOSSA tomorrow, back in Blind River:

Bryce Mastelko and Mackenzie Turner who were golden in mixed doubles; Jackie Cooper (gold) and Faith Taylor (silver) in girls' singles; Alayna Cranston/Maddy Niven (gold) and Sarah Hovingh and Shelby Hester (silver) in girls' doubles. Also having a great tournament were: A.J. VanKesteren, Sophie Bondi, Ethan Closs, Connor Bellmore, Hannah Woestenenk, Nathan Howard and of course hard-working Coach Chris Theijsmeijer.

What is Pickleball you say?

Pickleball is the fastest growing sport in North America. For a quick primer check out this video at: https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=qmYF67dqNaQ. Intrigued? The local club plays in Little Current at the Little Current Recreation Centre's Curling Club. The club's regular two-hour time slots are every Monday, Wednesday and Friday from 10 am to 12 noon. They are also creating an additional Thursday evening opportunity for those who busy during the day.

The club is a great bunch who are into this fun, social game that gets you moving. Equipment and lessons are provided for beginners. They also boast some of the best provincially, nationally and internationally ranked players from here, on Manitoulin!

So for a measly $15 you get up to 4 days a week to play as well as a Pickle Ball of Ontario membership, which provides the required insurance coverage. The local organization plays from May until October. For more information please contact Bud and Pierrette Hebner at bphebner@gmail.com, Home: 705-368-1953 or by cell at 705-869-8656.

Building on the success of previous years, Manitoulin Island Cycling Advocates (MICA) held their annual general meeting on May 9. Pump Your Pedals on Manitoulin Island

by Betty Bardswich

MINDEMOYA—'Pump Your Pedals on Manitoulin Island,' reads the banner that was on display at the annual general meeting of the Manitoulin Island Cycling Advocates (MICA) held May 9 at Central Manitoulin Public School (CMPS). MICA has come a long way since the association was formed and the number of cyclists to be found on the Island has increased year after year due in no small part to the executive and membership of this very vibrant organization.

Maja Mielonen, president of MICA, spoke of the presence of MICA at the Toronto International Bike Show that she attended once again, along with Guy Nielen, vice president, and noted that the annual Passage Ride, now in its 6th year, will again see large numbers of cyclists taking part as the number has steadfastly increased year after year. There are already 180 people registered for the event which takes place on June 4th and 5th and which provides free passage for cyclists on the Chi-Cheemaun as well as insurance and snacks along the way. Ms. Mielonen also mentioned that there will be a dinner this year for the passage riders, which will take place in Mindemova on June 4. "This is always a wonderful time," Ms. Mielonen said, as she noted that the event started on Highway 6 and that Highway 551 will be highlighted this year as the roadway connects so well between Mindemoya and M'Chigeeng. "There are five schools on those 12 kilometres,' she spelled out, "and now the children can cycle safely." Indeed, present at the meeting was Child and Youth Worker Cher Panamick who wants to start a cycling program for youth

Ms. Mielonen also spoke of the benefit that cyclists are bringing to Manitoulin with some business people who provide accommodation saying that their annual income has risen from five percent to 20 percent. "And," Ms. Mielonen said, "a cyclist coming to Manitoulin stays for an average of 6.5 days. The ferry count shows over 5,000 cyclists have taken the boat over two years. A fifth of those have been walk-ons and the rest is bikes strapped to vehicles. The ferry has been a really good partner for us and is a big life blood for the Island." Ms. Mielonon also added that there are over 30 cycling friendly businesses on Manitoulin and that bikes do mean business. Cyclists over the age of 50, for example, will do a different route each day, but do not like camping and so will book a hotel or motel room.

Guest speaker for this meeting was Jeff Sewell, now retired from the Ministry of Northern Development and Mines and, along with his wife Judith, is an avid cyclist. Mr. Sewell's talk focussed on rail trails and the ones he had ridden from Ontario to British Columbia to Nova Scotia and also included North and South Carolina. These trails included the Sequin trail by Parry Sound, the Kingston and Pembroke trails, trails around Dartmouth and Halifax and the Kettle Rail Trail in British Columbia. He showed slides of places on a rail trail in France which he had taken, along with his wife, and which elicited sighs of envy from the audience. The Sewells spent two months cycling in France and he noted that there are many rail trails in that country, some of which are over 70 years-old.

Mr. Sewell has also been involved in trail building in Sudbury and Lively and has worked on the Trans Canada Trail. He has looked into the potential of rail trail from Little Current to Espanola and has cycled said trail. He explained that there are concepts of ownership for that trail that are very blurry and that Alexander Industries owns about 50 percent of the route and noted that very good signage is needed to map out the route. "It is such a treasure," Ms. Mielonen remarked, "Families can be walking, pushing wheelchairs," as well as cycling. Mr. Nielon also spoke at the meeting and told those in attendance that the third edition of MICA's map is now available. Close to 8,000 of the maps have been sold and this year, the group is highlighting the fact that there are 800 kilometres of trails for cyclists as outlined on the maps and 45 kilometres of off-road routes. He also talked about the resurfacing of Highway 540 over the next three years and that MICA is petitioning the provincial government for paved shoulders on that route with a petition online and also hard copies and that Kagawong has also petitioned the government for this. MICA will send another letter to the government and, as was noted, paved shoulders increases the life of highways by 20 percent and prevents accidents up to 45 percent less. "The government is saying no at the present time," Mr. Nielen said, "but they had said no to Highway 6." Efforts for paved shoulders on this highway are ongoing and this year will show the work done from Ten Mile Point to Little Current.

MICA is asking for backing for the petition. For more information about MICA and to lend your support, go to www.manitoulincycling.com To sign the petition, click on Paved Shoulders HWY 540 and the letter on hand will be sent, with your signature, to the Honorable Steve Del Duca, the Minister of Transportation Ontario, the area Provincial Member of Parliament, Mike Mantha, the riding Federal Member of Parliament, Carol Hughes, and to MICA.

...charity sends 64,000 tons of supplies

The Expositor in a Saturday afternoon interview at the bustling Bargain Barn in Assiginack. "We found out that they still had a big need for personal care, so decided to ship more."

On Monday of this week, Manitoulin Transport, who graciously volunteered to ship the goods, picked up 26 skids, or 48,000 pounds, of toiletries. They will be hauling the load to a rail yard, where a railway company has donated the rest of the transport. When asked how the charity keeps such quantities, Mr. Deforge explains that he keeps it in stock for just such occasions, noting that they always go through the Salvation Army or Red Cross when it comes to handing the goods out.

"Ninety-five percent of the time we stay in-province, but this is such a national pride thing, so we decided to expand our borders and ship to Alberta," Pastor Deforge explains.

The Cornerstone staff gets the skids organized, under the direction of yard manager Jim Dunn, who actually made the initial call to Red Cross with their generous offer.

Their generosity doesn't stop at disaster. Each week, Cornerstone Christian Charities supplies 10,000 pounds of food to food banks across Ontario. They are currently in the process of arranging a shipment to communities around James Bay. "Because of the store, we can waive all the fees now," Pastor Deforge says brightly.

Each week five transports arrive on Manitoulin, three of which are for the store with the other two dedicated to the charity. All of these goods are bought at auction.

The store allows him to make contact with people from all walks of life on Manitoulin, Pastor Deforge adds, some with need, and some without. A $5 lunch at the Bargain Barn, open Friday from noon to 6 pm and Saturday from 9 am to 3 pm, brings a steady stream of area senior citizens in, making the lunch spot a regular social outing, a sight which pleases the pastor to no end. He says he hopes to one day see a full service restaurant open at his Manitowaning Lodge location (and where the store will be located come September), but for now his focus is on finding a more permanent home for the charity, preferably in Little Current, in part to draw a line between store and charity, "so people know what's what."

Currently, the food bank is located at 440 Clover Valley Road in Assignack Wikwemikong Junior School staff and students also did their part to help fire-ravaged Fort McMurray by taking part in an inter-agency twoonie walk recently. The students helped to raise $670 for the cause.

time and when Noojmowin Teg received funding for an event like this, everything seemed to come into place."

Through Noojmowin Teg, Ms. Seabrook attended the Rainbow Health Ontario Conference with a co-worker to help plan a similar Manitoulin event and Rainbow Health Ontario signed on to be a part of the conference.

Rainbow Health Ontario is an organization that provides LGBTQ health awareness to service providers and agencies looking to make safer spaces.

Ms. Seabrook also brought in two spirited elder Laureen Blu Waters from Toronto as the second key speaker at the event. Ms. Waters will be presenting on Reclaiming the Two Spirit, an introduction to two spirited people and the cultural aspects of LGBTQ health and education.

"Day one of the conference will be for service providers and focus on how to make Island agencies more safe for the LGBTQ community," said Ms. Seabrook. "Day two will be open to youth, service providers and the community and will include a panel of individuals."

The panel will include members of Youth Equality (a group that Ms. Seabrook started), a representative from EGALE (Equality for Gays and Lesbians Everywhere) and Island members of the LGBTQ community.

"I know in my personal health I have had struggles and I know the difficulty," shared Ms. Seabrook of dealing with agencies who were untrained in supporting LGBTQ individuals.

"It is still very much a grand assumption everywhere that people are straight," she added. "We need to change the way people speak and get service providers more comfortable with supporting everyone."

Ms. Seabrook told The Expositor that the support for the conference has been overwhelming so far, with over 100 service providers registered as of press time on Monday.

"This is a great first step, that people are seeing that there is a need for this type of dialogue and training," said Ms. Seabrook. "My hope for this conference is that more people on Manitoulin become better equipped to serve the LGBTQ community."

...Providence Bay now sports a town square

"A nine-year-old in the community even participated in the input and provided a really interesting perspective from a kids point of view," said Ms. Gordon.

Utilizing her masters in landscape architecture, Ms. Gordon combined the input from the community session into three designs. Each design was then distributed to the community for further input before a final design was selected and approved by the Providence Bay Hall board.

From the board, the design was taken to Central Manitoulin council.

"There weren't any funds for the project, so the community of Providence Bay did what they do and stepped up to help—that's just the spirit of the community," said Ms. Gordon.

Last year volunteers cleaned up the site, clearing brush and removing trees, and a waterline was put in to water the plants. The site was also prepped with crushed stone which has since been laid. Large boulders were placed at the edge of the lot to create a new garden bed.

"All the work has been done thanks to amazing volunteers which includes community members and local contractors," said Ms. Gordon. "I have really been impressed by the time donated by Taylor Sawmill, Calvin Pearson and Rob Cranston and so many more who have stepped up to help."

This year, planting is in store as is working on the green space. A large village sign is also in the works with a nautical theme to complement the community known for its beach and fishing. Also, sculpture pads will be installed, with Ms. Gordon in talks with artists to install sculptures next year. Spacers will be put in place in the parking lot section as well.

Volunteers are accepting donations of perennials, shrubs and annuals for the project and can be dropped off at Ms. Gordon's home (5252 Highway 551) and planted in the bed at the east end of the driveway.

Donations for the project can be made through the Bank of Montreal or donation jars are located at Buie's Grocery in Spring Bay and at the Providence Bay Post Office.

was well represented at the Miss North Ontario (MNO) pageant this past weekend in Sudbury by Miss Manitoulin 2015 Brittany Manitowabi and Gore Bay's Delaney Madore.

Both young ladies competed in the 2015 Miss Manitoulin pageant with Ms. Manitowabi going on to represent Manitoulin Island in the MNO pageant and Ms. Madore being selected to compete as well, representing Gore Bay.

Ms. Manitowabi and Ms. Madore competed against 43 other girls from across Northern Ontario this past weekend over three days. They were judged on their preliminary night formal wear worth 15 percent of their overall score; a personal interview with the judges worth 40 percent; beauty with a purpose, 20 percent; scholastic testing, 20 percent; final night opening number, 15 percent; public speaking, 20 percent; preliminary night formal wear, 15 percent; and prepageant participation and cooperation, 10 percent.

Twenty-year-old Manitowabi is from Wikwemikong and is in her second vear at Laurentian University in social work.

Though Ms. Manitowabi wasn't named MNO 2016, she placed first runner up for Miss Photogenic and was selected as a national finalist for Miss Universe Canada 2017.

She was also one of four finalists in the talent portion of the competition for her performance of an original song.

"MNO went great," Ms. Manitowabi told Expositor on Monday. "I had so much fun. I am so proud of myself and I am so happy and thankful to have represented Manitoulin.'

brewery in the former Manitoulin Chrysler building (located on Highway 6).

The pair will be starting renovations on the building soon with the brewery to open later this year.

The Expositor also learned that the opening of the brewery will be accompanied by the launch of a new brew, but Mr. Hagman was close lipped about the beer.

'It is a pretty great beer, but we won't be divulging anything just yet," laughed Mr. Hagman.

Both the Manitowaning and Little Current LCBO locations are working on Manitoulin Swing Bridge Blonde Ale retail displays, and there could be an opportunity to sample the ale at the Little Current location this long weekend (details were not confirmed as of Monday).

Mr. Hagman and Mr. Meawasige combined their passion for beer and love of Manitoulin, creating the MBC and launching their first brew, the Manitoulin Swing Bridge Blonde Ale, last summer.

The duo grew up in Blind River, but both made Manitoulin their homes.

Working with brewmaster Mark Lewis, who has worked for Flying Monkey Craft Brewery, Collingwood Brew and King Brewery, Mr. Hagman and Mr. Meawasige created 12 styles of beer before developing their flagship brew.

The Swing Bridge Blond Ale is an easy drinking beer. It is full-bodied, but with light notes and a white foamy head with no strong aftertaste.

The pair said they created the brew to be enjoyed all year-round—from a hot festival day or after a day of ice fishing—and to be paired with the activities Islanders enjoy on Manitoulin.

inner sanctum of this special fraternity. The brothers all sit in a circle at the periphery of the room which boasts elegant and traditional furniture in strategic locations around the room. This furniture arrived to Turners store 114 years ago by boat. This writer is given a chair in the centre and feels rather conspicuous by both her location and her gender. Nevertheless, the brothers are all very kind and gracious and the awards ceremony begins.

Four members were to receive pins today: David Ham, Elgin Bock, Sandy Buchan and Andy Watson. David and Elgin were slated to receive 50-year pins. Sandy Buchan was in line for his 60-year pin and Andy, 98, a few weeks from his 99th birthday, was getting his 70-year pin. Unfortunately, David Ham, a Manitowaning businessman, was not able to attend. He had joined the Doric Lodge at age 21 and achieved the various milestones, after initiation, with his friend Rene Mastin.

Elgin Bock, whose father Mel was a former longserving principal of Little Current Public School, was not able to attend for health issues. Elgin was secretary for the Doric Lodge for many years, and had joined in September of 1955. He did his passing in London, Ontario and was raised in Leamington in 1957. He ascended until he was initiated and is still a member of the Doric Lodge in Little Current.

Sandy Buchan, likewise, was absent due to health issues. Daughter Jo Woods shared by phone on May 12 that the Masonic Family has always been an important aspect of the Buchan family. "Although Sandy himself has never held office, many of our family members were part of the Eastern Star, The White the Shriners. Shrine and other related organizations. began his Masonic relationship in Sudbury's Nickel Lodge and spent many years in Sault St. Marie where he also worked for Algoma Steel.'

Keith Legge had the honours and introduced 'Worshipful Brother Samuel Andrew Watson' to the members present. He introduced Andy's wife, Dot, their son Bob, his wife Sharon, and son Larry. Daughter Janice was not able to attend. Keith gave a brief summary of Andy's

'Journey in the Masonry'. "There are 3.2 million Masons across the world and 40,000 members in Ontario and Doric Lodge is very fortunate.... We are privileged to have our very own Worshipful Brother Andy Watson as a valued member of our Lodge for the past 70 years. What a milestone for Brother Watson and for the members of our Lodge to have you in our midst. Andy was born on May 21, 1917," Brother Keith continues. The first World War was still being fought. "At the age of 29 years, he joined our fraternity on March 12, 1946. Andy passed to the second degree on April 23, 1946, then raised to the third degree on October 8, 1946. (All preparation for each degrees involves full recitation of the contents provided by the Lodge). He served as our Worshipful Master of Doric Lodge in 1958 and 1959. He became a Life Member in 1982.

"In 1996 Brother Watson

received his 50-year pin and ten years later, in 2006, he received his 60-year pin. This evening, at the young age of 98, we have the honour and privilege to present him with his 70-year pin for his services to our fraternity and to the membership of Doric Lodge. Brother Watson expressed the principles of kindness, honesty in business, courtesy to others, dependability in his work and compassion for the less fortunate, and he has been a good citizen of his community. At this time, I would ask that the Worshipful Master Brother Mike Maciuk and Right Worshipful Brother Clive District Stephenson. Deputy Grand Master of Sudbury-Manitoulin District and Right Worshipful Brother John Hodder to attend on the level, to make presentations to our worthy Brother Worshipful Brother Andy Watson.'

The world-wide motto of the club is "Masonry is not to make a bad man good but make a good man better." It seems that has been the case for Andy and his peers.

The plaque awarded to Brother Andy Watson was skillfully crafted by Rob Paxton from a piece of oak that John Hodder had pro-John Mastelko vided. added the scripted metal plate. After the ceremony, Brother Watson was asked about his contribution to the Masonry and today's proceedings. He said he was very proud to be a member of the fraternity and he wants to "offer thanks to everyone who put this on for me. I am very pleased with this honour, I can't thank them enough," he shares. "I wasn't supposed to know about this event but I figured it out. Questions came to me about the dates I joined. At first I couldn't find the papers either, but then they turned up.'

Andy still loves to golf in the summer. He walks almost daily, either in the house for his 'circle' route in bad weather, or outside where his home sits on a small side street, off the highway in Sandfield. "I love to golf too and if I'm not swinging the clubs, I make sure I get out there to watch the proceedings and enjoy the good weather."

At this point, the Watson family withdrew to their vehicles and returned home. The Masons continued with their meeting. All was good and the Manitoulin skies were still enchanted with an evening security and sustainability, notes Ms. Bickell.

The raised bed project has captured the imagination (and support) of a number of organizations. "Noojmowin Teg Educational Institute funds and helps to coordinate the project, the Manitoulin District Services Board provides funding for materials and the Little Current United Church provides us with space and volunteers," said Ms. Bickell. "We also received a donation from the Redrum Motorcycle group from their rally last year."

Over the course of the next two years, this pilot project will be implemented and evaluated for its effectiveness in creating better food security and healthier diets in Manitoulin communities

"We will be following it up with cooking classes to help teach people how to cook what they grow in their gardens," said Ms. Bickell.

The Child Poverty Nutrition Task Force is working to understand and address children's nutrition and foodrelated health challenges in at-risk communities on Manitoulin Island, especially First Nations communities. Collaboration between agencies and communities at monthly meetings and for other projects is raising awareness of effective work already happening, as well as discovering shared questions.

The Good Food Box Program offers affordable boxes of fresh produce to be purchased once a month. The program worked with Sudbury's Good Food Box program for the first year in 2013, but now the program runs directly out of Little Current. The Good Food Box Program includes a Grow-A-Row program where home gardeners can donate produce to supplement the items purchased for the boxes

There is also a Fruit Gleaning project that takes place at farms across Manitoulin each fall, where volunteers harvest fruit that would otherwise not be used, and making this food available to the Good Food Box program.

"We are promoting healthy eating, cooking and gardening skills for atrisk families," said Ms. Bickell. The Task Force has recently completed a Community Food Security Directory for Manitoulin that can be found at the Noojmowin Teg's website noojmowin-teg.ca.

Mr. Nelson made a connection with Parks Canada's Marty Magne, who will be coming to Manitoulin Island on August 11 for the museum's annual History Day in Kagawong. "Through my contacts I had been dealing with on the lighthouse (in Kagawong), they put me in touch with the contact at Parks Canada," he said.

"We are really excited about this year's Franklin Expedition exhibit and all of the other great things we have on display at the museum," said Mr. Nelson. "The ongoing mystery (the fate of the sister ship HMS Terror has yet to be determined) adds a fair bit to the story. Everybody loves a good mystery and this particular story plays an important role in both Canada's maritime history and how things will go forward with our nation's claims to the Arctic."

M'Chigeeng water walkers embark on 7th annual Lake Mindemoya walk

LAKE MINDEMOYA—A group of M'Chigeeng water walkers, accompanied by neighbouring community walkers, embarked on the seventh annual Lake Mindemoya water walk on Saturday.

The walk began with a water ceremony along the shores of Lake Mindemoya. Josephine Mandamin spoke of the importance of water and the need to change the phrase 'climate change' to 'human change,' because of the impact humans have had on the climate.

On April 18, 2003, the Mother Earth Water Walkers began their 2,090-kilometre journey from Bad River, Wisconsin around Lake Superior. On their journey they carried with them a copper bucket of water and an eagle staff, which symbolized the traditional role in Ojibwe culture of women as water protectors. Along their journey, Ms. Mandamin said that they "found the majesty of the lake overpowering. It was so strong, so pure, so clear.'

The Mother Earth Water Walkers did not stop at

In 2011, the walkers decided to unite all the waters of Mother Earth. Walkers from each of the four directions travelled across North America to bring water from the Pacific Ocean, the Gulf of Mexico, the Atlantic Ocean, and from Hudson Bay. All the water was gathered in copper pails and hand carried to Lake Superior, specifically Bad River, Wisconsin, where the original journey

The Lake Mindemoya group walked around the shores of Lake Mindemoya, finishing the walk

"I was inspired by Josephine Mandamin and her walk in 2003," Ms. Taibossigai told The Expositor of the history of the Lake Mindemoya walk. "I was in university and my roommate and I couldn't attend, but wanted to help so we made posters. Then when I moved home to M'Chigeeng I spoke with Dora Bebamash and Elma Jean Migwans about holding a walk here and we started the Lake Mindemoya water

"There is so much water being polluted," explained Ms. Bebamash of why water walks are important. "With walks like this, we are trying to bring awareness to the problem. It is not just a First Nation issue, but a global one—we need to all come together to protect our water."

Wikwemikong born elder Ms. Mandamin was part of a group of Ojibwe women, who in 2003 decided to start a walk to raise awareness about the global water crisis. Ms. Mandamin and her group, Mother Earth Water Walkers, felt that people were taking water for granted and wanted to raise awareness and ensure that future generations have clean water.

They journeyed around Lake Michigan in 2004, Lake Huron in 2005, Lake Ontario in 2006, Lake Erie in 2007, Lake Michigan again in 2008, and followed the St. Lawrence River from Kingston to the Atlantic Ocean. women walked a total of 18,549 kilometers throughout their journey of water totalling awareness 24,113,700 steps.

Ms. Taibossigai explained that throughout the walk the group stopped and prayed at each of the four directions and that the entire walk was 34 km.

Funding to our health care system will increase by over $1 billion this year. Investing in new and better ways for all Ontarians to get the care they need means:

- 700 new doctors and specialists
- 35 hospitals currently being renewed, modernized or expanded
- $250 million invested in home and community care
- $345 million invested to improve wait times and access to care

These investments ensure a strong health care system for both today and tomorrow.

Education Committee

It was recommended by the committee and passed by council the motion that the amounts directed to be financed for the Mindemoya Drain as set out in the 2014 Budget be considered to be expensed in 2014, the year of construction. It was noted that this was simply a housekeeping item in the budget that had to be cleared.

Council passed the motion that the year to date financial report ending April 30, 2016 be approved as presented.

Council passed the motion that the Library Board Minutes of April 6, 2016 be accepted

Property Committee

It was recommended to council and passed that the severance of the property as described in proposal No. 2 proceed with a view to sell the property to the owners of the Island Animal Hospital and that it be understood that all costs associated with the severance will be assumed by the prospective purchaser.

It was passed that the Fire Hall Design Committee membership be reduced to include Mayor R. Stephens, Fire Chief Reid, Perry Keller, the Municipal Building Inspector and Municipal Coordinator. As noted by Mayor Stephens, it made for a more efficient committee to give the membership back to the specialists.

Council approved the "Open Mic" evenings at Huron Island Ice Cream as described in a letter April 19, 2016. Councillor Baran noted that it was very courteous of the new owners to ask for this again and that the sessions end at 10 pm.

Council was asked to proceed with signing the agreement for the approved Cana-Community 150 Infrastructure Program funding for the improvement of the J.H. Burt Memorial Arena – East Wall. Councillor Scott noted that these improvements are needed as the arena gets older and to allow safe access. Councillor Baran spoke against the motion as he questioned the lack of a plan for the arena while appreciating the valuable contributions the arena has made to the community. He stated that he will vote against the motion to get a plan. Councillor Farquhar agreed that a plan would be helpful. The motion passed.

Council agreed to accept the Providence Bay Community Centre Board minutes of May 4, 2016

Council approved the invitation of the Providence Bay Community Centre Board to the Property Committee to hold their June 14, 2016 meeting at the Providence Bay Community Centre so the Committee has the opportunity to see the completed kitchen renovations. Councillor Baran expressed his thanks to all those involved in this endeavour saying he was very proud of what was done at the Community Centre as a lot of volunteers gave of their time and effort while the tradesmen offered reduced rates of pay. "This is a really, really lovely kitchen," he said. "It is a fine improvement and kudos to council for their support.

Council approved the appointment of new members Anna Orford and Bonnie McFarlane to the Providence Bay Community Centre Board.

Council accepted the motion to approve the Property Committee's year to date financial report to April 30, 2016

Wagg's Park property sale approved

On a motion by Councillor Dale Scott, seconded by Councillor Alex Baran, council voted to proceed with the sale of a portion the parkland, known as Park, direct, Manitoulin Wagg's behind Chrysler, The Rock and Rail and Laura Martin's home at 100 feet deep behind Manitoulin Chrysler with the total of the three areas equaling approximately 5,000 square

"We are glad to help out in our local community to assist with commercial addition," stated Mayor Stephens.

"Should we include the name of the purchaser?" asked Councillor Dale Scott.

"No, we don't need that," responded Mayor Stephens.

"This will square up that property," noted Councillor Ted Taylor.

Councillor Patricia Mac-Donald noted that the motion was "in principal," but questioned if the motion was intended as "no matter the cost."

"We are negotiating the price," noted CAO Ruth Frawley.

Draft travel trailer placement bylaw given first readings

On a motion moved by Councillor Alex Baran and seconded by Councillor Dale Scott, council passed the first reading of bylaw number 2016-7, being a bylaw to amend the Municipality of Central Maniculin's Restricted Area Zoning bylaw number 2002-07 to control the placement and usage of travel trailers.

The motion amends a number of other town bylaws, including the Use of Parking Spaces and which sees the deletion of "sleeping accommodation may be provided in a tourist or travel trailer for a period not exceeding fourteen (14) days" and "sleeping accommodation may be provided in a tourist or travel trailer for a period of twenty-one (21) days consecutive or cumulative in a calendar year. Only one (1) tourist or travel trailer may be permitted on the property at any time and storage of a motor vehicle, boat, tourist trailer or other similar vehicles is not permitted in a hamlet, settlement or shoreline residential zone unless a principal residence has been established; but one (1) office trailer may be used on properties with a commercial or industrial zone designation and must be approved by the CAO/clerk and chief building official.

On a motion moved by Councillor Alex Baran and seconded by Councillor Dale Scott, council passed the first reading of bylaw number 2016-8, being a bylaw to amend the Municipality of Central Manitoulin's Restricted Area Zoning bylaw number 2007 to control the usage and placement of shipping Containers and/or portable storage containers.

The proposed bylaw is amended to add the following definitions: "shipping containers or portable storage containers" shall be defined as per the industry standard as a standardized, resealable transportation box for unitized freight handling with standardized equipment, and for the purpose of this bylaw a "Shipping Container or Portable Storage Container" shall mean a container, also known as a sea bin, used for the transportation of goods by air, sea or land. Under the amended bylaw, a shipping container or portable storage container shall be considered to be a structure or a building and is to be used for storage purposes only and not for human or animal habitation. Further such containers will only be allowed for the period of a maximum of one year, during the period of construction for which a valid building permit is in place, and shall be used for the storage of materials only. Otherwise a permit must be obtained. A further amendment was to delete the following: no car, van, truck, bus, coach, railway car. caboose or streetcar body or part thereof shall be located or used as a building or structure or as an accessory to a building or structure in any zone, other restrictions were applied in these cases, to wit no car, van, truck, tractor truck and/or trailer, straight truck box, bus, coach, railway car, caboose, streetcar body or any part thereof shall be located or used as a building or structure or as an accessory to a building or structure in a hamlet, settlement or shoreline residential zone.

Both bylaws will now go to public meetings before being brought back to council for second and third readings.

"As long as I have been here we have been trying to pass this bylaw," noted Councillor Derek Stephens. "People keep finding loopholes. I think, what we have here before us today, while I am not in favour per se, I do realize that we need it."

"I think now we can use a bylaw where the intent of the bylaw can be realized," agreed Councillor Scott, adding that the bylaw will provide guidance on what is allowed in the municipality.

As to the public meetings, Councillor Patricia Mac-Donald noted that "I hate to say it but that is where the loopholes will come out."

New RONA Home Building Centre opens in Little Current

by Michael Erskine Cheers rang out across the floor of the new RONA Little Current Building Centre as Grant Burnett came through the door, eliciting a startled double take from the Sheguiandah resident. He was the first customer through the doors of the new building located on Highway 6. "I hope they aren't too disappointed," he chuckled as he glanced around the bright wide space and glistening new shelves. "I just need a new water valve."

Whether their shopping list is long or short, customers will find the same dedication to quality customer service pervades the new building. "It's the first thing we moved over,' quipped manager Phil Bow-

Staff were kept busy over the past few days hauling stock from the previous location on Vankoughnet Street and setting it in place in the new 20,000 square garden centre out back).

"We wouldn't have been able to do it without our great staff," said manager Aaron Farquhar of the long hours and it was pretty hectic getting things set

The anticipation in the store was palpable as the

Customer Grant Burnett of Sheguiandah was first through the doors at the new RONA Little Current Building Centre location on Highway tomer. Although the store's official opening time is 8 am, "everybody knows that we are here from about 7:30," said assistant manager Phil Bowerman. "The contractors like to get in and be on the job site by 8 am." It is that dedication to customer service that has been the hallmark of Manitoulin's first home centre since founder Gerry Timmermans opened the doors on the old location.

"Our emphasis will always be on customer satisfaction and service,' affirmed Mr. Farquhar.

The new location project has been underway for about a year, he noted, and the new shelves will hold just about double the amount of stock as the old building. With that expanded new space, a wider range of products can be kept on hand and displayed. "People will not have to travel off-Island to find what they need," said Mr. Farquhar.

The decision on what to do with the old location has not been finalized, he said. 'We will probably be making that decision fairly

The May 16 opening is a "soft opening." "We didn't want to advertise it too much," admitted Mr. Farquhar. Although attracting a large crowd would be nice, having a lower key first opening helps keep any bugs in the system from causing any serious discomfort or delay. In any event, the first customers ran through the process without a hitch. "We will be having a more formal opening celebration in a couple of weeks," said Mr. Farquhar.

Mr. Burnett admitted that he had originally stopped by the old location, where he was greeted by a large sign noting that location was closed forever.

The store is now operating on summer hours, with its official opening each morning at 8 am and closing at 5 pm each day except Saturday, when the doors close at 4 pm. "The hours have worked well for us," admitted Mr. Farquhar.

Mr. Bowerman said that although the new building is great, larger, brighter and cheerful, leaving the old location held a bit of melancholy. "Looking at my cleaned out desk and office, it was almost like I was retiring (he's not)," he said. 'It's been almost 36 years."

Mr. Bowerman recalled his first days on the job. "I had just left a job and was walking by the store when Don Morphet called me over," he recalled. "He asked me if I wanted a couple of days' work. The next day a driver called in sick and he asked me if I had a driver's licence. I haven't been out of work since."

Mr. Bowerman isn't the longest running employee, however, that honour falls to Gary Morphet with his 39

"I guess you could say we like it here," smiled Mr. Bowerman.

With an experienced and knowledgeable focussed on friendly customer-oriented RONA Little Current Building Centre's new expanded location will be a valuable addition to the Island's commercial sector.

Alzheimer's Workshop (Hope, Faith, Miracle). Learn what you can do when memaphasia loss, Alzheimer's strikes your loved ones. Lyons Memorial United Church is holding a three-session workshop on Thursday, May 19, 26 and June 2 from 7 pm to 8 pm. Each interactive session will teach a different storytelling technique that can be used to initiate communication and help to trigger memories with those suffering from aphasia, loss, Alzheimer's. When a person experiences memory loss or brain trauma, it can feel like Alice falling through the looking glass...nothing to hold onto, an inability to communicate or to make sense of this very different world. Every day presents challenges for both patient and caregiver. These workshops will offer hands on teachings that draw from ten years of research with aphasia and Alzheimer's patients and use examples of actual case studies that had amazing results. Science has proven that the brain can generate new brain cells and storytelling has been named one of the top activities to do this. The techniques taught in the workshops are used to challenge the brain to remember and are age friendly. Everyone is welcome. Call 282-2011 for more information.

MANITOULIN HEALTH CENTRE

Seeks Applicants – Board of Directors

The Nominating Committee of the Board of Directors, as the committee responsible for bringing forward suitable candidates to the Board, is seeking applications from persons residing in the District of Manitoulin who are interested in serving as Directors.

MHC is a two-site hospital corporation, with locations in Mindemoya and Little Current, whose Mission is "To contribute to the health and well-being of all who come to us in need." The Board governs the organization, and is responsible for issues such as strategic direction, capacity, quality, collaborative ventures, risk management and fiscal soundness of the organization. Towards these activities, Directors act in the best interest of the hospital corporation, ensuring through appropriate governance endeavours that the hospital fulfills its mission.

MHC selects Board Members with consideration based on skill sets, including:

- Geographical considerations (across the Manitoulin Region, bringing local knowledge of health issues);
- · Quality assurance/risk management knowledge
- · Financial knowledge
- · Legal skills
- First Nations
- Ethics
- Other relevant skills desirable to the Board

Diversity of skills, knowledge and viewpoints is desirable for a high-performing Board, and so the Board encourages applications from suitable individuals with an interest in serving in this capacity.

Interested persons are asked to submit:

- A cover letter indicating the reason(s) why they wish to sit as a Director;
- A resume outlining skills and qualities they will bring to the Board;
- · A description of any past experiences in serving other non-profit associations, organizations, or community groups; and
- Three (3) references

MINOOKAMI MSHKODEH NINI

Louis Gilbert Manitowabi, affectionately known as Luigi, a resident of Wikwemikong, died peacefully at the Manitoulin Health Centre in Little Current on Monday, May 9, 2016 at the age of 67. Louis was born to Henriette and Samuel Manitowabi in Manitowaning on May 28, 1948. Beloved husband of Agnes Manitowabi (nee Pitawanakwat) and loving father to Harley ba (predeceased 1985), Mary ba (predeceased 1971), Lenore, Joshua (fiance Marissa) and Robin. Proud grandfather of granddaughter Wassnodeh and grandsons, Noah, Kobe (Isaiah), Michael (Meeshen-Meshach), and Niigaan (Shadrach). Loving brother of Tina (Theodore) Mandamin, Julian Manitowabi, Connie (Malcolm) Pitawanakwat, Caroline Mandamin. Predeceased by siblings Mary, Theodore, Rene, Nancy, Alphonse, Dominic, Elizabeth, Marina, Francis, Wilfred, and Gertrude. Special in-laws Rosemary, Herman (predeceased) Joyce, Terrance Pitawanakwat, Eugene Dokum and Raymond, Grace and Donny. He will be lovingly remembered by many godchildren, nieces, nephews, and his brothers and sisters in Christ. Louis will be fondly remembered as a man of prayer. He had a strong faith in God and had so much love and prayer for his family and his community. He was such a hardworking man and despite his physical ailments, he persevered with strength and determination. He was one of the founding members of the Wikwemikong Annual Fall Fair, 4-H Club and the Rodeo. He took pride in his family's farm and his logging company, finding his solitude at the farm and forest. Family and friends gathered at St. Anthony Church in Kaboni at 3 pm on Tuesday, May 10, 2016. Funeral Service was at 1 pm on Thursday, May 12, 2016 at Holy Cross Mission with Father Jerry McDougall officiating. Burial was at the Wikwemikong Lower Cemetery. Predeceased by her parents James Edward and Ida (Vallier) Wharton, stepmother pearl Kivinen and stepbrother Gary Kivinen. At Brandy's request, there will be no visitation or funeral service. Cremation has taken place. Memorial donations may be made to the Manitoulin Hospital Auxiliary as expressions of sympathy. Arrangements entrusted to the Simpson Funeral Home, Gore Bay (www.simpsonfuneralhome.ca). A very special thanks to Shirley Sagle for providing care and support in the last months.

Billings councillor hosts first of a series of community focus group discussions

by Sharon Jackson

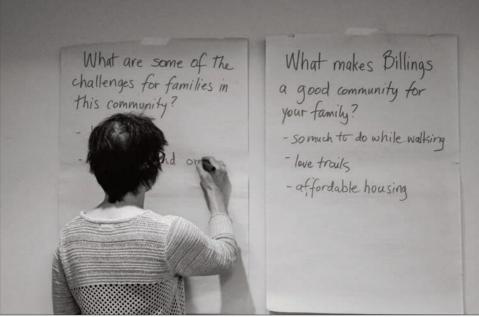

KAGAWONG—Enthusiastic parents and couples met at the Park Centre to "determine how family friendly we are (as a community), to build on our strengths, and address the gaps in support," stated Billings councillor and facilitator Barbara Erskine.

During the All Candidates' Night held in October 2014, Ms. Erskine expressed an interest in learning what families want and possible ways to make the community better. The goal of the focus group was to follow up with families to get some suggestions to move forward.

Ms. Erskine began the discussion by introducing herself and inviting the others to do the same.

"I love it here," shared Ms. Erskine, who has made Kagawong her home for the past 13 years. In addition to holding a seat on council, she is also chair of the Recreation Committee, a group of volunteers who hosts events throughout the vear, many of which are kid friendly or family focused. Some of these include Winter Fest, Easter egg hunt, Summer Fest, community pot luck, Bark in the Park, and a pumpkin carving par-

Jessie and Jordan have lived in Billings township for three years. Their family includes a dog and chickens. "Maybe one day we'll have a family," shared Jessie. Some of the things they use in the community include the hiking trails, Barb Erskine, facilitator of the family focus group discussion, compiles info on the challenges faced by residents and possible options for future activities and services.

farmers' market, library and dog park. Jessie commented that activities proposed should remain centrally located so parents could park their car, enjoy a coffee, do a bit of shopping while their kids played at the giant chess board, maze or basketball court.

Jenna and Steph, parents of three children (aged 10, five and 18 months), have made Kagawong their home for the past four years. "We use the library and trails \boldsymbol{a} lot," shared Jenna. They also enjoy sailing as a family along with other sports, art events and the farmers' market. "There is so much to do on foot," shared Jen-These include the library, cedar and rock mazes and the trails. "I wish there was a bike trail."

Jenna shared that what is missing is something for kids over 10 years to do. One of her suggestions was a skateboard park similar to the one at Low Island Park in Little Current. Having somewhere to spend time together might reduce vandalism and promote physical activity.

Steph wondered if there were not as many families living in Kagawong as there have been in the past and that he feels they "hit an era where there are more dogs than kids" in the community. While many people take their four legged children to the dog park, the beach area has limited use due to the lack of equipment.

Having the kids upstairs enjoying Zumba with Casey Boisvert while their parents were downstairs, was brilliant, shared Steph. Providing an opportunity for parents to get together separate from their children is challenging at best.

Steph shared an interest on behalf of another couple in the community: the outdoor skating rink. Two years ago a number of dedicated volunteers cleared off a section of snow in the marina, flooded and maintained it. Because of the cold temperatures, it was not used as much as hoped.

This past winter was an unseasonably mild one and plans to create one were not possible.

Beverly grew up in Gore Bay and her husband in Manitowaning. They chose Kagawong to purchase a home as it was centrally located between the two communities and more affordable than other areas. Their children are two and seven. Beverly would "love to have more for them to do here. We do nothing in Kagawong." Her children use the playground in Gore Bay as the equipment in Kagawong is not accessible for her young daughter.

Wade and his wife Annie currently rent in Gore Bay along with their children, ages 3 and 4. Wade agreed that while Kagawong is pretty and the homes affordable, there is no school or park for his young children to attend.

"What is the focal point of the community?" Wade asked. The response was the very building they were having the gathering in.

Years ago each community on the Island had a church, one or two room school house and a community hall. Those days are long gone as now there are only a hand full of elementary schools, one secondary school and many community halls are now closed. Wade also felt that a skateboard park may be possible through infrastructure funding through the municipality.

Beverly shared that she had approached the Township two years ago asking for them to consider expanding the playground equipment to include more pieces. The Central Manitoulin Lions Club was responsible for installing a spectacular play structure at the beach in Providence Bay for both kids and their parents to enjoy. It has become a model for many Island communities.

Ms. Erskine shared with the parents that in regards to having a play structure in their community, "it is not off the table. We recognize the need; you can do it." She asked that they do a bit of research, put some figures together and then, as a group, approach council. "It's about working together."

Another suggestion was for the parents to host an activity, as a group, at July's Summer Fest as a fundraiser. "It could work within our event; everyone wins, shared Ms. Erskine.

After some further discussion it was agreed they would create a Facebook page for families to share ideas and come up with ways to come together socially. Regular games night was one suggestion

Councillor Sharon Alkenbrack (who also holds the position of Deputy Mayor in Billings) will host the second focus group discussion at the Park Centre on Sunday, May 29 beginning at 2 pm. This session is for toulin," he'd say.

At a local Lions meeting, I got to go and write about

When Leslie Reynolds, Frank's plucky daughter, earned her way to become a full-fledged miner, I got to go and write about her.

I got to go and write more than 900 columns, and also write happily for The Expositor.

When Frank retired and he and Connie moved from Little Current to Breckin and Wellandport, we continued to talk, laugh, share and get together. We met in New York City, Atlantic City, Disney World in Orlando, and always on Manitoulin. One time, I visited them in Fort Lauderdale, at their time share. When it was time to leave. I stood as the fancy truck and huge trailer was brought to the entrance.

Ever see 'em pack a truck? Apoplectic with laughter, I watched at the big truck they drove and the trailer stuffed with papers, clothing, and chairs for the beach, sea shells gifts, and cases of Pepsi! I could have hidden in that trailer, survived for days with everything and they would not have discovered me until we reached the Canadian bor-

Having lunch at The Anchor Inn with Frank and Mike Erskine, we were having fun until Frank began, yet again, to chide me. While I don't remember the subject, I was feeling happy: proper weight, good hair colour, columns in on time, friends and my second book published, and no car accidents. But he kept on. I looked at Mike, mouthing silently, "Can you stop him?

Well-mannered, even tempered, smart Mike, my pal, wisely whispered, "Nobody stops Frank. If he's teasing you, he cares...

And I kept learning to take it from a Master Chider and Mentor

Frank was a teacher to many of us, making us laugh and taking us out of our comfort zones. The last time we were together was at the Manitoulin Trade Fair. We sat outside at lunch, and chatted away, discussing All Things Manitoulin. I was able to take a photo of Frank, smiling, with a twinkle in his eyes, happy to be at Fair, praising the people who had taken it over. Even though he was bent over and leaning on his walker, nothing stopped him from loving Manitoulin and all it meant.

A week before his last operation, The Frankster, in the hospital, spoke clearly about his state of being. "It's been a great run. I have loved many people, Connie the most. She knows how to put up with me. I've loved my 33 years on Manitoulin, and hope I made a difference."

"Frankster," I said, "You know what I'm going to say!"

"Yeah, yeah, you love me! Stop, Kogos," he said. "After all, life is about hope, love and respect, friendship and community. And Manitoulin and our memories."

Dr. Pauline Hogan of Fallsview Brethren in Christ Church in Niagara Falls, Ontario, led a Celebration Service of Frank's life on Saturday, May 14. When I talked with Dr. Hogan, she said, "We had a great send-off and were buoyed up by all the support. So many were here, from the Island and Sudbury. We had lunch downstairs and everyone stayed for the longest time.'

Community members come together for annual Providence Bay beach clean up by Robin BurridgePROVIDENCE BAY—A large group of volunteers assembled along the shore of Lake Huron in Providence Bay for the annual community beach cleanup.

Mary-Jo Gordon and her husband Central Manitoulin Councillor Alex Baran took the lead on the cleanup, which was a partnership between volunteers and Central Manitoulin.

Ms. Gordon explained to the group of volunteers that a beach management plan was in the works and that it would help create a balance between plant species and the people who enjoy the beach.

Katelyn Lentir, 10, and her brother George, 6, both of Providence Bay, help pick up garbage at the annual Providence Bay beach cleanup.

Community volunteers help clean up the Providence Bay beach.

She also recognized the children who were present for the cleanup and noted how wonderful it was that the next generation was getting involved.

Thank you to everyone for coming out today," said Ms. Gordon. "This is a community event that we do annually and really helps to clean up our shoreline.'

She told The Expositor that the cleanup has been going on over several decades and that it is a partnership between Central Manitoulin, who advertises the event and provides bags, gloves and a celebratory barbecue, and the community who volunteers

Lakeview School in M'Chigeeng presents 5th annual production, 'The Lion King'

Show combines dynamic costumes, great acting and stunning sets

by Robin Burridge

M'CHIGEENG—Lakeview School in M'Chigeeng has done it again with another great spring production, this year tackling the dramatic and vibrant The Lion King.

"This production has been four months in the making," explained co-director Connie Freeman at last Tuesday's dress rehearsal, noting how much work the students have put into the production.

The amazing cast, dynamic costumes and beautiful sets came together perfectly to create a production that will be remembered for years to come Darci Debassige gave a standout performance as Scar. Her portrayal of the sinister want-to-be king was spot on, as were her hyena companions Banzai (Dylan Corbiere), Ed (Hanna Lovelace) and Shenzi (Alex Joshua-Math-

The role of the precocious Simba was shared by Jaron Panamick, as young Simba, and Shade Kaiser, as adult Simba. Both actors shone in their challenging lead roles, as did their counterparts young Naia, played by Zaagaasge Corbiere, and adult Nala, played by Julie Panamick-Ense.

The hilarious duo of Timon and Pumbaa were performed by the talented Arnold Cada and Natashia Bebonang, respectively.

Crowd favourites were Zazu. played by Aspen Debassige, and Rafiki, played by Mitchal Roy.

Sarabi, played by Kaylee Corbiere, Sarafina, played by Odemin Beaudin, Lioness, acted by Sage Migwans and Mufasa, Kingsley Roy, were all fierce in their lioness/lion roles.

The chorus, who juggled multiple roles of the savannah animals, grass and a variety of other parts, included: Savannah Panamick. Mia Armstrong, Ian McCauley, Zaagaasge Corbiere, Hannah Lovelace, Aspen Debassgie, Destiney Bebonang, Ava Corbiere and Harmony Panamick.

Lakeview Principal Neil Debassige commented that it was one of the best dress rehearsals in recent years and commended the students and staff on an amazing production.

'Congratulations on a fantastic job," said Mr. Debassige. "The cast and all the crew behind the scenes doing the technique stuff-everyone did great. There were so many people involved in this production and a lot of hours put into making it such a success."

The crew included: directors, Kristin Farquhar, Craig Cress, Dianne Glasby-Debassige, Meagan Middleton and Connie Freeman; musical director, Jennifer Holub; dramatic consultant, Joanne Smith; props, John Roy and the Grade 8 class, Meagan Middleton and the Lakeview School Art Club, Nicole Fox and Dianne Glasby-Debassige; set design, Adam Roy, Bud Debassige and Nicole Fox; costume design, Dorothy Glasby, Deb Seabrook, Meagan Middleton, Dianne Glasby-Debassige, Isadora Bebamash and Ann Cada; makeup and hair, Kristin Farquhar, Candi Kaiser and Meagan Middleton; sound, Amy Mavec; lights, Bailey Laford; prompter, Karen McColman; graphic design, Candi Kaiser; refreshment canteen, Travis Corbiere and the Lakeview Grade 4 class; and door, Gayle Payette. The school performed three productions of The Lion King, all to full houses including the dress rehearsal of 300 individuals including Lakeview School students and Manitoulin Lodge residents, an Island school-wide production to over 350 students from Manitoulin public schools and an evening performance to another full house of parents, community members and Islanders.

Lakeview School has had great success with their spring productions including Cinderella, The Wizard of Oz, Snow White and Sleeping Beauty.

Island Quilters Guild welcome Jill Thorpe home

MINDEMOYA—Jill Thorpe will be returning to her roots this month to feature many of her quilts and garments at a Trunk Show for the Island Quilters on Thursday, May 19, and all are invited to attend.

Ms. Thorpe joined the guild early after its inception 20 years ago and was an active member until she and her husband Steve moved to Stratford 10 years ago. Since moving to Stratford, Jill has been active in the Heron Perth Quilt Guild and the Stratford Quilt Club.

Ms. Thorpe was the Grand Champion quilter at the Providence Bay Fair many times and continues to enter fair competition at Stratford. In 2014, her quilt was Grand Champion at the Stratford Fair, regionally and finally at OASS convention at the Royal York. Ms. Thorpe was recently commissioned by the Emmanuel United Church in Sebringville to make a wallhanging depicting their church building.

Many family and friends are fortunate to own some of Ms. Thorpe's creations.

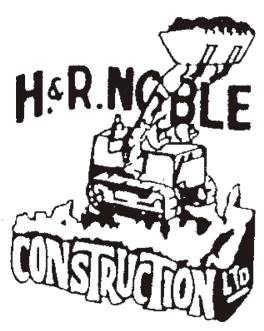

Everyone is invited to come out and enjoy this Trunk Show at the Mindemoya Community Hall at 7 pm on Thursday, May 19. The cost to non-members is $5.

resume! Viewers were always mesmerized by his marine documentaries and his awesome concern for the creatures and plant life of the sea was obvious to all. Author Brian Matsen's book, 'Jacques Cousteau: The Sea King' is a wonderful biography that delves into all aspects of this vibrant man's life. Every time someone takes a breath when using a scuba tank they should say a profound thank you to that equipment's creator-Cousteau. It gives all of us an opportunity to see the beauty of the deeps!

Two sisters, not on speaking terms for years-one a millionaire's showy wife, the other a struggling, in debt single mom. The one thing that they have in common is the numbing pain of their sister's disappearance some twenty years ago-and now that is a wound that is being reopened. 'Pretty Girls' by Karin Slaughter is a thriller that will have you racing through the pages to get to the answers!

Robert Galbraith (aka J.K. Rowling of 'Harry Potter' fame) has published her first crime novel. 'The Cuckoo's Calling' introduces readers to Cormoran Strike, an Afghanistan veteran who lost a leg to a land mine. Strike's private detective agency is not doing so well, debts are piling up and a break up with his long time flame has him sleeping on his office couch. That's when a man comes through the door with an incredible story—and the adventure is on. This new, if somewhat battered hero is a welcome addition to the crime fiction hero fold!

- Claire's Top 5 'The Apartment' by Danielle Steel
- 2. 'NYPD Red4' by James Patterson
- 3. 'Brotherhood In Death' by J.D. Robb 4. 'Scarecrow Returns' by
- Matthew Reilly
- 5. 'His Whole Life' by Elizabeth Hay

Apartment' by 'The Danielle Steel – "Four voung women at turning points in their lives come together by chance in the heart of New York City. This vibrant, tender, and moving tale pulses with the excitement of New York City as it explores twists of fate, and the way that sometimes, in special places, friends can be the family we need most." Delacorte Delacorte Press. I enjoyed this story and would recommend it for a nice light read.

'NYPD Red4' by James Patterson - James Patterson is one of my favourite authors and he never seems to disappoint his readers. This story takes place with a special task force called NYPD Red. They are hired to protect the rich and famous in New York City and beyond. There are two Detective investigators, Zach Jordan and his partner, Kylie MacDonald, who work hard to solve their assigned cases. "Zach and Kylie are soon in hot pursuit of a cold-blooded killer with everything to lose, and millions to gain if he can just shake the detectives on his trail. With the city on edge, the mayor out of patience, and the flames of their personal relationship threatening to reignite and ruin everything, Zach and Kylie are facing down their worst fears-and their worst enemy yet." – Little, Brown and Company (publishers). A good read. Brotherhood in Death' by

J. D. Robb - She has written over 42 books with main characters Lieutenant Eve Dallas and her husband Roarke and I have read and enjoyed every one of them. It's the kind of book you can't put down when you're reading it, but then when its finished you wish vou hadn't read it so fast. I become so immersed in J.D. Robb's books that I can forget about the dust that's lurking in the corners of my house and starting supper becomes a real chore because I have to finish the chapter. If you want to read a series that you just can't put down try the first book, 'Naked in Death,' which of course you can find at your library!

'Scarecrow Returns' by Matthew Reilly - "Deep in the Arctic, a long-forgotten military Soviet base enshrouds a weapon of unimaginably destructive force - a Cold War doomsday device with the power to obliterate the planet." – Simon & Schuster (publisher). I have read several of Reilly's books and have enjoyed them. Full of excitement and terrorist groups, it's another one vou cannot always put down. A good read.

'His Whole Life' by Elizabeth Hay - This is a story of what it is like to grow up in a small Canadian town. A small boy with a Canadian mother and a father who is an American moves from New York City to a small town in eastern Ontario. This is a coming of age story and describes how family members can hurt each other, some memories of which can never be forgotten. It's a story about a bond that occurs between a mother and a son. A very moving story that many will enjoy.

'Virtual Reality' has come to your Mindemoya library. Come in and walk through Jurassic Park and see the dinosaurs (be careful you don't get eaten!) or ride a roller coaster (be careful you don't scream!) or try travelling through space. Come in and try it out. It's another fun thing and an interesting experience to try at your library.

We will have a table again this summer at the Mindemoya Farmers' Market selling books on Saturdays. If you are willing to volunteer to man the table one Saturday morning please phone the library 705 377-5334 or drop in and put your name on the sheet. It will be

Spring Bay News

Spring seems to be here. Some people in our area have already cut their lawns, we haven't!

Apparently Erwin, after reading last week's Spring Bay News, spent both last Saturday and Sunday afternoons sitting on his front deck, but did not have any thoughts that entertained him!

Get well wishes to Anne Paisley, Dawn Young and Harold Kirk; we trust they will have speedy recoveries.

Spring Bay euchre is at the Spring Bay Community Centre Friday nights at 7:30 pm, all skill levels are welcome. Our admission price is $2 per person, which includes playing cards and a light lunch following.

Coffee without caffeine, beer with without alcohol, milk without fat, bread without gluten! What's next? Bridal suites with bunk beds! (Can't wait to hear Erwin's comments on this).

Get well wishes to those both in hospital and recuperating at home.

Preliminary construction work on Highway 540 is well underway, however, traffic flow management by flag people or automatic traffic lights, in our experience, is keeping delays to a minimum.

We were recently advised to check, continually, the power usage shown on our hydro bills against those shown on our smart (?) meter. Ours were in error (in Hydro One favour) by over 50 percent.

If you have any news, call Dorothy at 705-282-2992.

There are lots of energetic, community involved events going on at MSS right now.

On May 6 the senior band and vocal group headed for Toronto on Band Trip. The group of 40 students practiced their vocal pieces and slept on the six-hour bus ride. Once they arrived in the city the group went to Queen's Park for their performance. The band played several songs, including Rule the World and Back to The '50s. Vocal group performed a Queen Medley and 'Keep Holding On' before heading to view the musical Kinky Boots. Many students said that it was their favourite part of the trip. Saturday morning, all the students got ready to hit the Yorkdale Mall, and they shopped for almost four hours. After shopping, the group travelled to the Art Gallery of home. Donnshai '50s for band and 'Keep next year's trip because this year was such a great experience.'

The track and field team travelled to pre-NSSSA on May 11 at Elliot Lake Sec-

Sunday morning the group visited Ripley's Aquarium before leaving the city and heading to Sudbury for dinner at the Swiss Chalet on the wav Bruleigh, a clarinet player in the senior band and member of vocal group, said, "Our performances went really well. My favourite pieces were 'I'm a Believer' and Back to the Holdin' On.' I can't wait for

I am not happy with this cool weather because it is curtailing my happy time planting the garden. Soil is still too cold and the lettuce plants and Kale plants that I did plant are just sitting in protest wanting to be wrapped up in a warm blanket. It all works out because I ended up having time to go pick some fiddleheads and make a soup that warms that body!

Fiddlehead and Leek Soup

I used wild leeks that are abundant in our forest and instead of green onions I dug up some green garlic from my garden. Green garlic is garlic that has gone to seed from last summer, has self seeded itself, and is growing like crazy all over my garden, perfect to use like green

After picking the fiddleheads the most time consuming job is to wash them well, to remove the brown scales.

- 2 cups fiddleheads
- 1/2 cup celery, chopped
- 1 cup sliced fresh mushrooms
- 2 large potatoes peeled and diced
- 1 cup sliced leeks (white portion only) if you are using wild leeks use the whole plant
- 1 cup sliced green onions or green garlic
- 2 cloves garlic chopped if you are not using green garlic
 - 1/4 butter or coconut oil or sunflower seed oil 1/2 tsp salt
 - 1/8 tsp cayenne pepper (optional)
- 1 cup vegetable broth
- 2 cups cream (heavy or half and half) or canned coconut milk
- 1. Melt the butter in a large pot over medium heat and add the mushrooms, leeks, celery, and garlic. Cook until the mushrooms are tender, about 5 minutes.
- 2. Add the potatoes and the vegetable stock, cover and simmer about 20 minutes until the vegetables are tender. Add the fiddleheads and simmer until they are tender about another 10 minutes. Cool slightly.
- 3. Puree in a blender or use an immersion blender (one of my favourite kitchen tools)
- 4. Add enough cream to desired consistency. Heat just until hot and season with salt, pepper and cayenne pep-
 - 5. Serve garnished with croutons or fresh chives.

the team, and they have been training since mid-April. There are several events including the 100m, the 400m, the 3,000m, high jump, shot put, running long jump, and standing long jump. The team is heading back to Elliot Lake on May 19 for NSSSA. Qualifiers from NSSSA will travel to North Bay for NOSSA on May 25.

Also on May 25 is Career Day. In March, a survey was conducted with 32 possible future careers and the students chose their top eight. On Career day, students will attend six 35minute sessions. In each session they will hear from guest speakers about the career and be able to ask questions. This is a great opportunity for students to consider future career pursuits. Half of the professionals coming in to speak to students are MSS Alumni, including a lawyer, a musician, and an agricultural worker.

The big competition for 2016-17 Co-Prime Ministers is on. Kayla Greenman, Jackie Cooper, and Bryce Mastelko have been campaigning for the position of Prime Minister. On Wednesday Jackie held a massive game of Bump in the gym at lunch, while on Friday Kayla held a Minute to Win It competition in the front foyer while she gave out cookies and painted faces. Bryce held a watermelon eating contest in the cafeteria on Friday. The winner was Bailey Chateauvert who received a stuffed stingray as his prize. On Monday, Bryce, Kayla and Jackie presented their campaigns to the students and staff of MSS, after which voting took place. Stay tuned for the results.

On Thursday. SHARE/Go Green and Three Fires Confederacy travelled to Sudbury for the 15th annual Roots and Shoots conference in Sudbury. The group participated in tree planting and traditional and scientific workshops. During the tree planting MSS planted over 200 trees, exceeding the expectations of the conference. Victoria Mac-Donald said, "We planted the most trees by far and we still finished early." SHARE/Go Green is holding an E-Waste drive on Saturday, June 11. This is a good way to dispose of old cell-phones, batteries, and electronics without harming the environment. The drive will be held from 9 am to 3 pm. Drop-offs can also be arranged from June 13-16 from 3 to 5 pm. SHARE also spearheaded the MSS fundraiser for Fort McMurray The students and staff of MSS donated $548 for Canadian Red Cross to help the evacuees. The government of Canada will double the amount we fundraised. This means that over $1.000 dollars will be going to Fort McMurray.

MSS is proud to be helping people in need, participating in an election, and helping the environment. 'Til next time, stay golden, Mustangs.

Providence Bay News and Notes

Technology has reached Providence Bay! They've begun some landscaping work at the site for the new Bell Tower. It won't be long now and we'll be just as "connected" as the rest of the world. We'll have to wait and see if this is a time for rejoicing or a time to grieve. We shall have to see.

The fundraiser that was held to help raise funds for Dawn Young for her medical expenses that will be incurred as she awaits a double organ transplant was held on May 12, 2016. The event was hosted by Gayle Payette who organized numerous other volunteers to help make the night be the success that it was. The money that was raised is greatly appreciated but it is a mere drop in the bucket for what the family needs. There is still a Go Fund Me page that you can easily donate to online with a credit card. Just look up Double Transplant for Dawn Young on www.gofundme.com. You can also send directly to her mother Pat Young at 8658 Hwy 542 Spring Bay, On P0P 2B0

The work that was done to the kitchen in the Providence Bay Community Centennial Hall looks fantastic. The kitchen looks smooth, sleek and updated. Kudos go out to all of the volunteers that helped out on this much needed renovation.

Work has begun to put the government docks in at the marina. There will be a new harbour master this year.

Welcome back to many community members. A few that we've noticed are Betty and Eddy Simpson, Marlene and Bill Jewell, Pat and Don Burke. Don is feeling much better and is back to playing golf. If there is anyone that we failed to mention, please let us know so that we can add it to our column. It's so exciting to see the village coming back to life after winter.

The annual beach cleanup that was hosted by the Providence Bay Community Centre Board was really well attended. There were many people out lending a hand to rake and gather up garbage. Tractors were provided by Lyle Dewar and Darren Dewar to help remove all the debris once it was raked up. A barbecue was held for everyone who helped. What a great showing of community sup-

Although many people have been submitting letters and comments to the paper for full cleanup of the beach, the recent beach cleanup was an annual event and not the anticipated removal of all of the grasses and brush that have grown up on our beach. There has been a lot of talk around town and just about anyone that you talk to has their own opinion. It's hard to know what's fact or fiction or mere speculation. Apparently, a submission has been made by the township to the appropriate ministries and we are anticipating a response sometime in June of this year. We have to remember that this is a long process when dealing with government ministries and we have to ensure that all the applications and paperwork are completed correctly. If you have any concerns about the Providence Bay Beach please contact the municipality and/or your local council member.

The work on the village square is resuming. A big thanks goes out to the township for delivering the soil to begin shaping the landscaping. A work bee is in the planning stages and we hope to see all our generous and hardworking volunteers out again this year.

Shirley Cranston was happy to have daughter Cathy Chant and granddaughter Amanda visiting recently and catching up with the Island Cranston Clan.

Mona Bryan recently celebrated a birthday and we are surprised that her sister didn't pay her back after disclosing her age a couple of weeks back. Happy belated birthday to Mona. She also wants to wish her husband Glen a happy 33rd anniversary on May 21. Their very happy to be able to celebrating at their favorite place: their Providence Bay cottage. She says she loves him more than there are grains of sand on the Providence Bay Beach. A Happy Anniversary to both of you.

The long weekend is coming up next weekend and we'll have many seasonal residents and visitors back. Make sure to be safe on our roads as there will be lots of extra

The Providence Bay Dump will now be operating under their extended summer hours. They will be open both Saturday and Sunday from 2 until 6 pm.

Happy Birthday wishes go out to Jamie McDermid who celebrates on May 31.

The Lions Club is looking for new members to volunteer. If you are interested contact a Lions Club member.

If you have anything that you would like to contribute to the Providence Bay News and Notes, please give us a call. We have such a wonderful and bustling little village that it's nice if everyone can hear what is going on. You can contact Cheryl at 705-377-7511 or by email at prov_chick@hotmail.com It makes the column much more interesting when we have input from other community members. All submissions must be made by Sunday at 3 pm for inclusion in the following Wednesday paper.

Laurence is in to visit and bearing gifts, gumdrop cake and tarts!

Should be yummy! (She took my news on.) A nice day, I hear the Orioles are here has anyone seen a hummingbird yet? I'm hooked up to I.V. this morning, Jennifer is my nurse

Got more lovely cards and gifts in the mail, there is no end to the kindness and thoughtfulness of folk. Derek Russell sent me his newest book on Michael's Bay. How thoughtful, Eric brought it in, through the raindrops. Very welcome

Two weeks ago I did send a column in but it never got printed, so I hope I didn't miss mentioning something pertinent!

Hello Ivan Harwood. How are you keeping?

Laurence popped in for a visit, and Pat Falter, bearing gifts (a plant) on her way to her summer spot in Prov. Jean Case came in bringing my supper, so nice. She was traveling with Judy. An update: We got word that Derek had a heart attack, a morning

I visited Susan and Simon in the evening, had a cup of tea with her. Wednesday A.M. hooked up to IV again, hopefully this stuff gets me going. Maybe it's just that I'm "OLD" that things aren't working right? Impossible?

Joan was in for a visit; Jennifer unhooked me so I was free again. I hear the hummingbirds are here today. Tara and Skylar are cleaning the pond today. They found a couple small fish.

Wednesday evening we went to the Pot Luck Style Supper in Manitowaning. I'm sure they were disappointed at the turn out. An absolutely delicious meal of great variety.

On our way home, Gib and Florence stopped at Cal's for a visit, then they gave me a ride home from there. This has been a week of contrasts; Derek had two stints put in on Wednesday evening in Hospital. Vancouver Susan with her phone and iPad (I think) showed me pictures and contacted Derek Maybe I should have got a bit of education in the social media stuff? Thank goodness that worry is past us right now.

Derek and Jodi phoned, so good to hear their voices, Thursday evening at 11. He thinks he'll get out of hospital tomorrow. I cried after I hung the phone up!

Well isn't my little toad at my feet tonight, I wonder where he spends the winter? Don't I have the strangest house? Household? Attitude? Weird?

Wednesday cribbage, seven tables. High hand, 24, Marg Case and Bob Smith (2); 1st, Bert and Jay, 945; 2nd, Keith and Barb, 929; 3rd, Mary and Jean, 923; low, Hugh and Lyla, 852; door, Bert, Gib and Lois.

Euchre; men's high, Andy Bowerman, 95; lone hands, Andy, 4; low, Hugh Corbett, 48; ladies' high, Sheila; ladies' lone hands, Marg Case, 3; ladies' low, Marilyn Vanhorn, 50; door, Marilyn Vanhorne.

Nice to hear Del and Marilyn are back again! Amazing colour at the bird feeder this Saturday morning, cardinal, rose breasted grosbeak, indigo bunting, goldfinch, red-wingged blackbird, doves, purple finch, and many small birds. God has quite the world for us to enjoy.

Though I did not enjoy my night coming and going, you'd wonder how a body could hold so much fluid? Lucky I could RUN! I've had Daystars Reflection on TV; the music is comforting, even if I don't read the nice scripture

Susan took me for blood work on Thursday. We picked up Mum, and went to Garden Shed for our breakfast. Talked to Dick Bowerman at Mindemoya, and he said Eunice pinched her finger, three stitches worth!

I have this glorious window full of germaniums. I've been wondering why I haven't always kept them. It's been years. But this cold snowy day, aren't the hummingbirds trying to get to them from outside. They don't know they don't taste good?

Well I've had a few interesting (one way of putting it) days since my chemo on Friday. Sherry took me up for a required needle on Saturday after I spent until almost 11 on IV and meds to try to help me. I have a different reaction every time, but I'm half way? Been busy today, visitors and phone calls.

Kim phoned this morning from the snow in Clarksburg, from 93 degrees weather on Saturday in the Florida Keys, a holiday with friends on a tug boat?

Now what a heavy frost this Monday morning!

Clone of lowbush blueberry shrub growing among the quartzite deposits at the top of the Lewis Twin Peaks hiking trail.

Lowbush blueberries on Manitoulin Island

by Joe D. Shorthouse. Professor Emeritus

MANITOULIN--Manitoulin Island is home to about 100 species of shrubs with several such as currants, gooseberry, chokecherry, hawthorn, raspberry and cranberry popular sources of food from the first peoples to inhabit the Island over 10,000 years ago to the people who live here today.

One shrub many Islanders may not be familiar with is lowbush blueberry. Known to be abundant in the La-Cloche Mountains north of Manitoulin and in Killarney Provincial Park, they are uncommon on Manitoulin Island. This is because blueberries love acidic soils and most of the soils on the Island, thanks to all the limestone, are alkaline.

However, scattered patches of blueberry shrubs are found in sandy, non-alkaline soils along the southwestern shores of the Island and at the edges of bogs. They also occur on some of the quartzite outcroppings and a good place to see them is on the Lewis Twin Peaks Hiking Trail in Sheguiandah.

This trail is accessible from the west side of Highway 6 across from the motel. Climb to the top of the peaks, which provide spectacular views of Bass Lake and the North Channel, and you will find patches of lowbush blueberry in depressions among the quartzite rock. Needles shed by conifers found on the outcrop accumulate in the depressions among the rock and cause the thin soils to become acidic.

There are two species of blue to black berry about stems. Besides roots, they blueberry shrubs on Manitoulin Island. The species found near Sheguiandah is commonly known as sweet lowbush blueberry with the scientific name Vaccinium angustifolium. The stems and leaves of this species are smooth and the berries are sweet and delicious.

The other species, commonly known as the velvet-leaf blueberry with the scientific name Vaccinium myrtilloides, has hairy stems and leaves that are downy on both surfaces. Berries of this species are edible, but sour. Both species are found in widely distributed patches along the southwest shore.

A third species, the northern highbush blueberry, Vaccinium corymbosum, is only found wild in southwestern Ontario. This 1-3 m tall shrub has been transplanted to farms where it is grown in orchards like apples. Berries from this plant are the ones we see in our grocery stores, and for sale as potted plants in some nurseries, but the berries are not as sweet as those of the lowbush blueberry.

Both species found on Manitoulin are low spreading, perennial shrubs averaging about 30 cm high. They have narrow leaves that are glossy blue-green in the summer then turn reddish purple in the fall.

Flowers are bell-shaped, white to pale pink and appear in crowded clusters in the early spring at the tips of branches. Flowers are about 5 mm long and hang downwards. The fruit is a dark the size of a pea.

Both species have a dense network of intertwined

The Buck Stops Here: Manitoulin Island gardeners share their deer deterrent tips

by Isobel Harry

MANITOULIN--Everyone with vegetable and flower gardens on Manitoulin has deer stories. The vanishing tops of tomato plants, the delicately-chomped cabbages, the tulips eaten wholesale, the beets ripped out and savoured as gourmet tidbits by these insatiable marauding herbivores. Entire gardens disappearing overnight, the horror so shocking it's been known to reduce normally placid adults to blubbering heaps right there amidst the devastated greenery for which they just yesterday had such high hopes. Visions of pickles, relishes, jams and stored produce for winter, even of just a nice flower bed for summer, poof! Gone like last night's vivid dream you can't remember in the morning.

But necessity truly is the mother of invention on the Island and has been for generations, so it's no surprise to find that everyone with a garden has devised their own folk remedies for the plentiful deer as a matter of survival. "Either you eat or the deer eat," says Barry Williamson of D.A. Williamson Hardware in Mindemoya. It's a choice all home gardeners must make at this time of year and the Expositor aims to help you decide with a cornucopia of tested tricks offered by Island gardening veterans.

Some people, though, take a Zen-like approach, defined somewhere as "a state of coolness only attained through a totally laid-back type of attitude; used to describe someone/something that has reached an uber state of coolness and inner peace." This tireless investigative reporter found only one such person in the entire survey, as far as peacefully co-existing with deer is concerned, and that is Pat Hall, the Expositor's prolific correspondent in Tehkummah.

"I have no problem with deer," laughs Ms Hall, leading one to wonder if Tehkummah's reputation as a hunting mecca has perhaps been a tad exaggerated. But no, Ms Hall continues: "I have always shared with everyone. The deer come, they eat what they want. I also planted red currants for the birds." This method, admittedly not for everyone, works well for Pat Hall's 'live and let live' philosophy of life. "Just plant more!" she chuckles.

Meanwhile, over in Manitowaning, Morden Leeson tried something equally unorthodox on his and wife Bertha's farm. "We used to have the garden closer to the bush. We'd tie the dog up near there, but there were too many coyotes around. I tried flags, scarecrows, but the deer would get used to them in a couple of days." The couple found that their former "good living" as farmers became too difficult when the prices of fuel, fertilizer and other farm staples "went up so high," so they retired from farming but still garden. Morden Leeson's secret strategy in the 'deer wars'? "Moved the crops over by the highway," he explains. "No deer sets foot in them."

What works for one will not necessarily work for another, of course, so if mastering a Buddha-like serenity or replanting the family provision grounds close to a highway is not in the cards, read on for some ever-so-slightly more down-to-earth tips!

At Ice Lake Garden, "eco-friends" Linda and Chuc Willson have tried "everything," with much success, in their fertile market garden. Says Linda, "Electric fencing is a surefire way to manage deer, but our dog is also good--the secret is that dogs must be outside all night long when the deer invade." She emphasizes that, "it's best to keep varying your methods as deer become acclimatized pretty quickly to our tricks."

Finding a good guide for the garden is easy

by Michael Erskine

KAGAWONG--It's springtime on Manitoulin and gardeners' minds turn to dirt, well, soil to be more precise. Soil is the backbone, veins and organs of a good garden and finding good advice on building a great garden is but a few short steps a page or two away.

Billings homesteader Ed Burt has been tending the soil in his Manitoulin garden for most of his eighty-some years, following in the footsteps laid down by his grandparents before him and to the delight of those who have had the pleasure of sampling the produce that soil has engendered, he has shared the magic behind his green thumb in a new book, 'My Journey in the Garden: Ed Burt's Way of Growing Food.'

Odawa elder Eddie King once said that magic has lost much of its mystery with the dawn of the technological age. In days past, it was the magic of observation, wisdom garnered through the passage of years that the elders used to tell them when to plant, when to travel to the streams to catch the fish making their way up the rapids, when the giant migrating herds would arrive bringing with them both the sustenance and tools needed for survival in a land still wild and savage. That, he said, was real magic, not the thunderbolts and fireballs of the likes of a Gandalf or a Harry

Within the pages of Mr. Burt's book lies the practical wisdom garnered over several lifetimes of observation that is the true foundation of a productive garden. Like many a good magician, Mr. Burt is a consummate storyteller, transferring the knowledge and wisdom he not only harvested in his own right, but much that he learned at the knee of his grandfather before him.

Now Mr. Burt would be the first to tell you that to encourage the spirits of the soil needed for the magic to take hold, you really need to start in the fall, and it is not an undertaking for the short of patience. Building a proper foundation of soil can take years. In his delightful book. Mr. Burt notes how he laid the foundation of his own garden. Measuring the site, covering it with a foot-deep layer of hay and mulch in order to help kill the twitch grass and compost the roots beneath the soil. The frost of fall may be a gardener's nightmare, but the deep frost and cold of winter is actually the 'magic' needed to create an ally, helping to separate soil particles.

> Tilling in the spring may give you a decent crop, but the soil will not hold the moisture. That tilling will prove to be counterproductive in the end—and when you are growing a garden to produce your own food, productivity is what survival is all about.

> Ed Burt's gardening odyssey took about five years just to reach the golden fleece of productive soil, but in the decades since he has never watered his garden, the same garden that produces enough food through the summer and fall to sustain his family through the winter, into the next spring planting and be-

Mr. Burt's book can be found at The Expositor bookstore and at the Island Jar in Little Current and is a great place to start your own odyssey of gardening adventure, a mystical tome that will help you tint your own thumbs to the deepest shade of green.

Contractors install solar panels recently on Anne Leith's Robinson Street home in Little Current.

Solar power options prove easier than thought

by Michael Erskine

LITTLE CURRENT--The energy crisis of the 1970s made a lasting impression on Anne Leith of Little Current, so much so that she has always had a dream of creating a place for herself independent of "the grid." While total independence from the provincial energy system is still a fair way off, that day will soon be getting closer, thanks to a set of solar power collectors that now grace her roof.

"At least part of the time," she laughs. While Ms. Leith envisions always keeping her energy options open, she does not intend to sever the cord completely, even after she can afford the batteries and inverters necessary to uncouple completely.

"Right now I feed into the grid," she said. "The amount of power produced by panels will certainly provide all of my needs, in the summertime at least, and build up some reserve for the wintertime as well."

Ms. Leith described the process of getting what is called a microfit solar installation fairly simple, once she had made the right connections. Unfortunately, the popularity of going solar on Manitoulin Island made getting a local contractor on board difficult, she recalled. But after a couple of years of false starts, she eventually connected with a Northern Ontario business that suited her needs.

"It was really a turnkey operation for me," she said. After contacting the company, and getting the okay from Hydro One, it was simply a matter of signing the cheque and the solar company tool care of all of the rest.

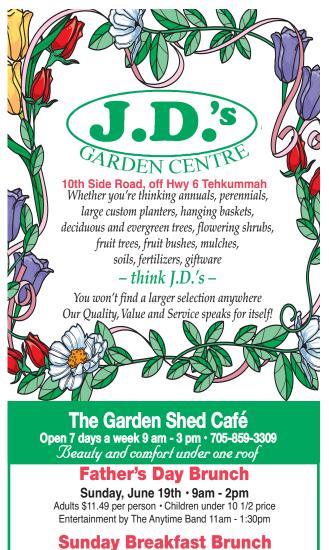

"They came and checked over the roof to make sure it could hold the panels safely," she said. Ms. Leith had already had to make some roof repairs last December, when winter's brawny winds had stripped part of it off.

Aside from a little hammering and banging over a couple off days, with workmen scampering about the roof, she hardly noticed the work.

"Once Hydro One had approved, it went very quickly," she said. "Now we are just waiting for Hydro to sign off and we will be connected," said Ms. Leith.

Blaine Armstrong is please to show off a nice speckled trout he enticed in to striking using his fly fishing techniques.

Manitoulin Island offers great fly fishing in clear, secluded waters

by Robin Burridge
MANITOULIN-Blaine
Armstrong has been fly fishing for over 40 years.
He was originally drawn to the sport by its elegance.

"I saw a picture of a fly reel and the butt section of a fly rod on the cover of a Sport Afield magazine and it just looked so elegant that I wanted to own one and then when you have an outfit, using it is just a natural next step," explained Mr. Armstrong, an Island attorney based out of Little Current.

Mr. Armstrong has been fishing across the world, but says he is lucky to live in Northern Ontario where there are lots of great locations in his own backyard.

"When you consider that you can leave work and be fishing within a half hour in crystal clear water with no one in sight up or down the river, well it doesn't get better than Manitoulin," he said. "Naturally, there are many more places that I would like to fly fish than I have tried, but I have had great experiences in Northern Ontario—north of Massey, along the north shore of Lake Superior, in the mighty Nipigon River and in Patagonia, Argentina."

"I have to say fish may not be the first thing I look for in a place to cast a fly," Mr. Armstrong explained of selecting a fishing location. "If you really want to catch fish quickly and consistently, then the various possibilities that can be presented by spin tackle will likely put more fish in the pan on any given day. So I look for a measure of seclusion, water with a pretty sound and enough clear area around that I can manage a reasonably trouble-free back-cast."

Mr. Armstrong shared that matching the right location and right time is the most time consuming element of the fly fishing learning curve.

"Many of Manitoulin's lakes will produce rising fish when the larger May fly varieties are hatching," he revealed. "'Shad flies' will bring sizable and willing fish to the surface, but it takes a lot of waiting and watching to get to the timing right to be present when the hatch is in progress. With wet flies and a sinking line, fishing for species that might be thought of as available only for spin tackle anglers can produce great results. Lake trout are not typically thought of as fly fishing quarry, but just this time of year, a wet fly presentation close to shore on Lake Manitou can work wonders."

"Any time a season is open and water is not frozen will work for fly fishing," continued Mr. Armstrong. "Last fall I was using a fly rod to good effect and the biggest limiting factor was ice clogging up my line guides. Traditionally, the aquatic insect hatches of the spring and early summer are thought of as the fly fisherman's call to action. Find a pattern that looks like the insect on the water and something should ...continued on page 10

Two cedar pole teepees built by artist Jules Blais in Gordon Township act as fencing for his raised garden beds inside. The deer, numerous in the area, encounter four foot high chicken wire up to where the poles narrow toward the top, and, says Mr Blais, "they can't get in."

"Deer will eat So, in their quest to quell the deer damage, the Willsons rotate these old-timey techniques: "Spread human and dog hairs around the perimeter (keeps rodents, rabbits and raccoons at bay as well); hang noisemakers on poles around the garden--plastic bags, aluminum pie plates or wind chimes that are decorated with coloured glass; human male urine is quite an effective deterrent, but it's very important only to spray on the outside perimeter" not on the produce! The secret to their success: "Chuc makes I've found that there is no magic deterrent." Instead, she swears by her "inexpensive seven-foot tall simple black netting fence," too high for deer to jump.

As far as stink goes, Shelley Croft, who owns H&M Mini Mart and lives in "downtown, downtown Gore Bay, where all the deer are," has cornered the market. Using her "mom's recipe," she whips up a concoction that smells, well, disgusting. In a bucket are combined blood meal (nauseating), ammonia (acrid, foul) and if memory serves, vinegar. You see, at our house in Gordon Township last summer, we tried it. Sponges are cut into about 3" square cubes, stuck on the ends of garden stakes and pushed into the ground at about two foot intervals. Between those were added more stakes holding aluminum pie plates on twine. It worked like a charm all season, but sponges had to be dipped in solution every two days and pie plates untangled from each other. It helped that the garden is a couple of hundred yards away from the house. Heaven only knows what the neighbours thought--they are kind people--but we knew just what the deer were thinking as we harvested the least ravaged crops in years.

For those with a taste for the exotic, look no further than Hore's Fishery on Campbell Bay near Evansville. The Hores run the business together: Murray out on the Fishy Cradle from Cook's Dock every day for whitefish, herring and trout, and Melody expertly managing orders on the phone and computer and fileting fish. Melody has a garden out back, still too early for planting, but ready for the season; there are no knick-knacks around it or fences or wires, but what there is twenty feet away is a chicken coop. For Mr. Armstrong, the most important element of fly fishing isn't necessarily the fish, but being in nature and getting away from life's stresses.

'prestigious' species caught since," he said. "But I have to confess, I love brook trout. If streams are the silver necklaces lying across the bosom of the earth, As for that 'bonus' of brook trout are the jewels in the necklace."

> "I don't want to sound too arty, but fly fishing is so low tech and in harmony with wind, water and surroundings, that its just good for the soul," he concluded.

And peacocks, insists the warm, vivacious mother of eight, are the key to keeping the garden deer-free. Despite actually feeding visiting deer by leaving fruit and vegetable scraps nearby, the deer never go near the garden. Today, there is one peahen in the pen, the male having died recently and the new male due to arrive in a couple of weeks. "I think it's the scent," explains Ms. Hore. "Their feces smell like horse manure. They can make their waste smell differently to ward off prey." But that's not all. "They make four different sounds: a kid crying for help, a cat meowing, a horn honking and a donkey." If that isn't enough to scare off the deer, the fanning of the male's vast iridescent tail also seems to startle them. An important side benefit has been that having peacocks has also eradicated the problem with raccoons that killed eight out of nine chickens and three roosters. Since Melody was given a pair of peacocks three years ago by a friend who suggested them as a solution, the garden and the chicken/peacock coop have been pest-free havens for flora and fauna.

Let's not forget those with an artistic bent: there is no reason to abandon your art while outwitting your furry forest friends in the highstakes food game. Take Métis artist Jules Blais who lives in the bush off Highway 542 near Tobacco Lake. He came here from Chelmsford 20 years ago and quickly realized he couldn't grow anything with all the deer roaming the property. He'd spent some time in Prince George, B.C., and had been "very impressed" with the carvers he met, so he put that inspiration to work in creating his Island garden.

As you drive into the clearing in the dense woods, two massively tall teepee structures rise to meet your widening eyes; the cedar poles seem to ascend at least 20 feet. The poles are uncovered except for four foot high chicken wire all around the bottom; sculpted poles, painted carvings of fish, feathers and a dreamcatcher adorn the structures. Inside the teepees are raised beds for "pumpkins, potatoes, corn, sunflowers and other flowers," says Mr. Blais. There's an old painted iron bedstead framing one plot and bentwood branches over others for plastic-sheeting mini greenhouses: naturally curvy logs outline the beds. "The deer still come around," Jules Blais smiles, "but they can't get in."

This pretty much sums up the objective here, doesn't it. With the exception of Pat Hall, who is spiritually at one with those who would munch her beet tops and berries, most Island gardeners seek inventive ways to ensure their home grown efforts will not be in vain. All, regardless of methods employed, seek the bliss that the garden brings. We're not sure how much peacocks cost, but perhaps a friend will give you a couple and you will know what to do.

Home projects perfect for spring

MANITOULIN--The juvenating spirit of spring makes this beloved season an ideal time for homeowners to take stock of their homes and properties and address any issues that arose during the winter. While some homes make it through winter unscathed, the harsh weather of the year's coldest season can add several tasks to homeowners' springtime to-do lists.

While some projects are best left to the professionals, others can be tackled even by those homeowners with little or no DIY experience. The following are a handful of projects tailor-made for spring.

Inspect the gutters

Gutters tend to bear the brunt of harsh winter weather, and come spring gutters are in need of inspection if not repair. Winter winds. snow and heavy rainfall can compromise the effectiveness of gutters, which can easily accumulate debris and detach from homes during winter storms. In addition, gutters sometimes develop leaks over the winter months. As a result. homeowners should conduct a careful inspection of their gutters come the spring, being sure to look for leaks while clearing the gutters of debris and reattaching gutters that might have become detached from the home on windy winter days and nights. When reattaching loose gutters, make sure the downspouts are draining away from the foundation, as gutters that are not draining properly can cause damage to that foundation and possibly lead to flooding.

Take stock of roof shingles

Much like its gutters and downspouts, a home's roof can suffer significant damage over the course of a typical winter. Shingles may be lost to harsh winter winds and storms, so homeowners should examine the roof to determine if any shingles were lost (lost shingles might even be lying around the property) or suffered damage that's considerable enough to require replacement. Summer can be especially brutal on shingles, especially those that suffered significant damage during the winter. If left unchecked or unaddressed, problems with damaged shingles can quickly escalate into larger issues when spring rains and summer sun inevitably arrive, so homeowners should prioritize fixing or replacing damaged shingles as quickly as possible.

Check for freeze damage

Frozen temperatures can be hard on humans and homes alike, but unlike humans who can stay inside when temperatures dip below freezing, homes are forced to withstand the elements throughout the winter. External hose faucets are often susceptible to freeze damage. To inspect such faucets, turn the water on and then place a thumb or finger over the opening of the faucet. If your thumb or finger can completely stop the flow of water, the pipe where the water is coming from is likely damaged and will need to be replaced.

Examine the lawn for low

Once a lawn has thawed out, homeowners can patrol their properties looking for low spots in the yard or even low spots within spitting distance of the home's foundation. Such spots increase the likelihood of flooding. Flooding near a home's foundation increases the risk of potentially costly damage, while low spots on the lawn that go ignored can make great breeding grounds for insects, including mosquitoes, when the weather warms up. When low spots are detected, fill them in with compacted soil. Compacted soil can prevent spring rains from flooding a yard or damaging a home's foundation.

Assessing potential property damage is a rite of passage for homeowners in the spring. Though some damage is significant, oftentimes even novice DIYers can work their homes and properties back into shape in time to enjoy spring and summer.

Inspect your gutters each spring. Winter storms can compromise the effectiveness of the gutters.

Lowbush blueberries on Manitoulin Island.

I monitored the Twin Peaks blueberry patch over the summer of 2015 and got a first-hand look at how well they are adapted to life here.

First of all, blueberry shrubs reproduce both sexually and vegetatively. Sexual reproduction occurs when seeds at the base of developing flowers are pollinated by insects such as bees and flies.

Insects are tricked by the shrub into carrying pollen from flower to flower by providing them with a meal of nectar. Insects have difficulty hanging onto the upside down flowers and as they struggle to feed on the nectar, they continue to beat their wings. This causes pollen to fall out of the flowers onto the backs of the insects. Called 'buzz pollination,' the insects then carry the sticky pollen to the female parts of flowers of other plants.

The appearance of a fruit surrounding the developing seeds is another way this shrub cleverly tricks animals into aiding their dispersal to new sites. Mature fruit attracts animals such as bears, deer, foxes, skunks, squirrels, mice, and numerous species of birds. The seeds pass through the digestive system unharmed and are excreted in the animals' droppings.

Seeds fortunate enough to find themselves deposited in an acidic site are at first surrounded by a supply of fertilizer and if the conditions are right, the seed will start a new shrub in the spring.

With vegetative reproduction, the mother plant that appears from a seed sends out rhizomes and new plantlets develop at various distances along its length. These plantlets at first glance look like individual plants, but are all attached to the mother plant. In other words, the entire blueberry patch can be one plant with all the plantlets genetically identical.

Over the years, all of the stems of a mother plant and its rhizomes form a large patch that botanists call a clone. Clonal blueberries are well-adapted to northern habitats such as forest understory, patchy environments, and nutrient-limited conditions where they can use reserves stored in the roots and rhizomes to tide them over difficult periods.

Clonal growth illustrates just how clever shrubs such as blueberry have become. Somehow, the mother plant directs rhizomes towards sources of moisture or nutrients and since all parts of the clone are interconnected, plantlets that find moisture or nutrients in one spot, send them to parts of the clone that are deficient. Similarly, new rows of plantlets sent out to sunny spots photosynthesize more than plantlets sent to shady spots with moisture, and share the food products they make.

Another major attribute of blueberry shrubs is that they are long-lived. That is, given the right conditions, they theoretically can live forever. It is amazing to think that the blueberry shrubs we see at Sheguiandah could be several hundred years old!

2015 appeared to be a strange year for lowbush blueberries at the Sheguiandah site. Berries were developing normally and then come July, there was a period of below average precipitation.

The thin layer of soil quickly dehydrated and the shrubs reacted by dropping their fruit. This happened to all the plants at the site as if a message sent out by the most stressed plantlets warned the rest of a pending drought.

The same happened to the leaves that became so dry and shrivelled they crunched beneath your feet. The leaves fell off in early August and the shrubs remained leafless until late September when it rained. Amazingly, the shrubs produced new leaves and in some areas, new flowers appeared along with some berries.

The observations made in 2015 illustrate how intimately attuned blueberry shrubs are to conditions in their habitats. When soil moisture drops below a critical level, they abort the developing berries and leaves thereby shutting off their photosynthesizing factories. Nutrients and water stored in the roots and rhizomes are ready for use when more ideal conditions appear.

If moisture levels return early enough in the fall, they move water back into the stems and sprout new leaves such that the shrubs can again produce their own food and contribute to the overall resources of the clone.

Cluster of blueberry flowers

The thin deposits of soil at the Lewis Trail site likely means that they regularly dry out and reproduction by berries is precarious. As a result, the patches here are First Nations people and European settlers maintaining productive patches by burning in 3-4 year cycles. They are not planted on farms but instead are managed in native existing stands in cleared coniferous forests. Since the harvested crop comes from fields composed of managed, native plants, these berries are supposed to be the only ones marketed as 'wild' blueberries.

Lowbush blueberries have been harvested in the Maritimes for centuries, with

How to improve your home's curb appeal

MANITOULIN-Men and women who have tried to sell a home are likely familiar with the phrase "curb appeal." Curb appeal is similar to getting ready for a big date, only you're not dressing yourself up to make a strong first impression. Instead, improving curb appeal involves dressing your home up in the hopes it makes a strong first impression on prospective buyers, many of whom will have a strong opinion about the property before they even get out of their cars to have a look around.

A home with strong curb appeal can entice buyers who are likely to believe that a home with a well-maintained exterior is likely to have an equally impressive interior. Homeowners who want the process of selling their home to go smoothly can improve the property's curb appeal in a number of ways, many of which don't necessitate a substantial home improvement budget.

• Clean up. The most effective way to improve curb appeal is to clean up the property. Many homeowners are savvy enough to remove toys and other items from the yard before showing a home, but cleaning up goes beyond removing clutter from the property. Make sure all hedges are trimmed and remove weeds, sticks and other debris from any flower beds. Lay mulch in the flower beds and garden, as mulch prevents weed growth while helping the soil retain moisture, resulting in more attractive gardens to catch a buyer's eye.

· Get an "edge" on other sellers. Edging is another easy and effective way to improve curb appeal. Edge driveways, sidewalks and other walkways around the property, removing or trimming anything that is hanging over the driveway or walkways. If the boundary between your driveway and lawn is not distinct, consider installing edging materials such as stone or bricks. The edging can be level with the driveway or elevated, but keep in mind that elevated driveway edging can protect the lawn, preventing kids from riding their bicycles onto the lawn or cars from driving onto it. Adding edging is not a very difficult doit-yourself project.

• Take to the trees. Many homeowners grow accustomed to overgrown trees around their property and may not notice that low-hanging, unsightly branches are hiding the home from view. Buyers want to see the house, so take to the trees and trim any branches that hang too low or obscure your home.

• Clean the gutters. Leaves and sticks hanging from the gutters are a red flag to buyers, who tend to associate clogged gutters with roof damage. Clean the gutters thoroughly before putting your home up for sale and keep them clean throughout the selling process. If your property includes lots of trees, install guards to keep twigs and leaves out of the gutters.

• Make the home accessible through the front door. Many homeowners enter their home through a side door or through their garage. If you fall into this category, keep in mind that prospective buyers will be entering through the front door, so make this area accessible. Clear any clutter, such as overgrown hedges, away from the front door, and consider upgrading the door handle to a more modern feature. In addition, make sure the lock on the front door doesn't stick, forcing the realtor and buyers to immediately struggle before entering the home. You want buyers and their real estate agents to get in and out of the home as smoothly as possible.

• Make sure all plants, including flowers, are living. Dehydrated or dead plants and flowers are eyesores, and they will give buyers the impression that you didn't pay much attention to your property. Make sure all plants are alive and thriving and replace those that aren't. You can replant new flowers or plants or just use potted plants instead. When purchasing new plants, choose low-maintenance varieties that appeal to buyers who

...continued from page 7 home life, the touch was quick and painless. "They only had to come inside to hook up to the electrical panel," she said, "and that only took one day."

Ms. Leith, who is retired, said that she was very happy with the progress so far. "Oh yes, they have been great," she said of the installation company. Ms. Leith has had a good range of occupations during her life, having worked as a bank clerk and in a dog wash company in Toronto, but she did not want to be bothered with the paper trail and the hassle of dealing with the bureaucracy needed to construct dream into reality. She isn't really certain how much power the panels actually produce "it might be one Kw or 10 Kw, I really don't know," she laughed.

But with the planet's future looking shakier by the day, with climate change and wild weather patterns filling the nightly news daily, she is happy with finding this route to do her part.

Ms. Leith doesn't really consider herself that heavily into the "green" mindset. "I recycle, of course, and I was composting for a while, but I don't really garden, so that wasn't all that useful," she said.

The biggest challenge for her in going fully off the grid, aside from the money needed for the batteries and other infrastructure is getting the space cleared in her garage to store it all. "I just get some things cleared out and more seems to appear to fill the space," she laughed.

She noted that getting the approval to go ahead from Hydro One was relatively easy. Although some areas have seen projects held up because of a lack of capacity in the local grid to take the added production, Little Current seems to be fine. "I guess it probably is because of the wind farms and the connections they made for them," she surmised.

In any event, Ms. Leith will soon join the ranks of those who produce almost as much green energy as they use, and that, she admits, feels pretty good.
