Two now face attempted murder charges in brutal Wiky beating

WIKWEMKOONG—The four accused in a vicious assault that sent a 39-year-old Wikwemkoong man to the intensive care unit at Health Sciences North earlier this month are facing new more serious charges following their Friday, May 26 court appearance.

The Wikwemikong Tribal Police, with assistance from the North East Region Ontario Provincial Police (OPP) Crime Unit and under the direction of Detective Staff Sergeant Gerald Scherer of the OPP Criminal Investigation Branch (CIB), is continuing the investigation related to the brutal attack that occurred on May 9 at approximately 12:32 am in the area of Mshaaboos Lane in Wikwemkoong.

The four suspects, who fled the scene but were arrested a short time later by the United Chiefs and Councils of Manitoulin (UCCM) Anishnaabe Police, reappeared in the Ontario Court of Justice in Gore Bay on May 26 where their initial charges were amended as follows:

Angela Filazzola, a 23-year-old female from Scarborough, has been charged with possession for the purposes of trafficking, trafficking in a controlled substance and conspiracy to traffic a controlled substance. Ms. Filazzola has been released from custody.

Taun Dixon-Johnson, a 26-year-old male from Toronto, has been charged with attempted murder, assault with a weapon, aggravated assault, possession for the purposes of trafficking, trafficking in a controlled substance, conspiracy to traffic a controlled substance, proceeds of crime (under $5,000) and possession of cocaine.

Shamar Shaw, a 23-year-old male from Pickering, has been charged with attempted murder, assault with a weapon, aggravated assault, possession for the purposes of trafficking, trafficking in a controlled substance, conspiracy to traffic a controlled substance, fail to comply with a probation order (four counts)

Wikwemkoong Grandmothers take stand Community meeting sees positive ideas flow

by Alicia McCutcheon

WIKWEMKOONG—Over 40 Wikwemkoong community members gathered in the band council chambers Monday night to discuss next steps in the community and future recommendations for chief, council and police following an attack on a community member, that was later determined to be drug-related, and a five-person drug bust last week by the Wikwemikong Tribal Police.

The event was spearheaded by Marian Peltier, former lead Grandmother in the 2012 Grandmothers protest movement that came about following a number of drug-related violent events that occurred in Wikwemkoong, often involving individuals from off-Island.

Ms. Peltier said there was a good mix of people, including governance, youth and elders at the public meeting.

Representatives from the Wikwemikong Tribal Police and Ontario Provincial Police (OPP) were also in attendance to answer any questions and to discuss

Mystery human skull found at Mindemoya 800-900 years old, forensic report says

by Michael Erskine

MINDEMOYA—Ever since a moss-encrusted human skull rolled down a hill and through forest debris lining a Mindemoya path to land wedged against a tree in front of shocked Mindemoya nature photographer Jamie Pyette, members of the community have been wondering about the history of the human remains.

This week the skull revealed a few of its secrets, although many more will likely remain hidden for eternity.

“We finally received a report back from the forensic facility in the US where the samples had been sent for analysis,” noted Island Coroner Dr. Shelagh McRea of Gore Bay when contacted by The Expositor. “It was centuries old, centuries,” she noted.

In fact, the person whose remains were discovered last May is thought to have walked the earth some 800 to 900 years ago. “It is similar to the remains found in Providence Bay a few years ago,” she said. That age dates the skull to long before first contact between First Nations and Europeans took place.

The skull most likely belonged to an adult male and to add to the mystery, it is believed the skull’s original resting place was not where it was eventually discovered. The plant life on the skull, and the fact of its sheer survival through nearly the near-millennium since the death of its owner, mitigate against the remains having been exposed to the elements for a significant period of time.

“In this climate, over that length of time, it would have deteriorated a long time ago,” surmised the coroner.

Now that the remains have been

Cup, Saucer Trails remain open with new access point, parking area

Early summer target for new trail head

by Robin Burrige

MANITOULIN—The Northeast Town has announced it will be partnering with the Escarpment Biosphere Conservancy (EBC) to reopen the Cup and Saucer Trails by summer through the creation of a new access point and parking lot.

“We have been working with the EBC since access to the trail was closed on Friday, May 19,” said Northeast Town Mayor Al MacNevin, following a special meeting of council last week to discuss the trail access closure. “We needed to find a way to create a parking lot and access.”

“We will be creating access to the EBC portion of the Cup and Saucer Trails off of Highway 540, just past Bidwell Road, at the boundary between the Northeast Town and Billings,” continued Mayor MacNevin. “The EBC has

The Burns Wharf Theatre Players present The Sorcerer starting this week. ## Burns Wharf Theatre Players present The Sorcerer, opening this week

Newest Gilbert and Sullivan production for the Assiginack theatre troupe

by Robin Burrige

MANITOWANING—The Burns Wharf Theatre Players (BWTP) will open the curtain on their newest Gilbert and Sullivan production, The Sorcerer, starting tonight (Wednesday, May 31). The operetta will continue until June 16 at the Deba-jehmujig Creation Centre in Manitowaning.

“The company has been performing Gilbert and Sullivan musicals for a long time now, and this naturally seemed like a good fit,” said Stage Director Peter Baumgarten. “We hadn’t done it (The Sorcerer) yet and I really liked the premise. We looked at it a few years back, but we decided that this was the year.”

With rehearsals starting the first week of January, the cast and crew have been incredibly hard at work, rehearsing weekly and, last month, ramping it up to nightly.

“We aren’t able to be in our true home (The Burns Wharf Theatre) so we rely on Debaj being able to house us and, with Canada 150, this was the only time frame,” shared Mr. Baumgarten. “Community theatre goes beyond what people see on the stage. In addition to the hours of time rehearsing there are the sets, costumes and all of the other elements that the cast and their spouses put into bringing a production together.”

The Sorcerer was Gilbert and Sullivan’s first two-act operetta. Produced in 1877, it laid the foundation of comic satire that would continue in productions such as HMS Pinafore, The Mikado, Pirates of Pen- zance and many others.

“The villagers of Assiginack are preparing to celebrate the betrothal of Alexis Pointdextre (played by BWTP veteran Patrick Therrien) and the blue-blooded Aline Sangazure (Rachel Gulyas),” explains the plot description in the playbill. “Love is in the air and a celebratory mood surrounds the village, with the exception of Constance Partlet (Sandi Kuntsi), a young lady of lower class who pines for the much older town vicar, Dr. Daly (Alex Baran). Despite Mrs. Partlet’s best attempts at matchmaking, the middle-aged Dr. Daly seems unable to conceive that a young girl like Constance would be interested in him.”

“It soon becomes clear that Alexis’ widower father Sir Marmaduke (Ray Scott) and Aline’s widowed mother Lady Sangazure (Debbie Robinson) are also concealing long-held feelings for one another,” the playbill continues. “Alexis is so enamoured with the concept of ‘pure love’ that he reveals a plan to Aline that everyone should be able to love regardless of class or social position. He requests the services of the village sorcerer, J.W. Wells (Peter Baumgarten) to aid in this regard. Aline has misgivings about hiring a real sorcerer. Nevertheless, Alexis instructs Wells to prepare a batch of philtre (love potion), sufficient to affect the entire village.”

“Wells mixes the potion, assisted by sprites, in an incantation and adds it to the teapot that will be part of the celebratory feast,” the playbill adds. “All of

AIDS pioneer Peter Ford’s contributions to be recognized

by Michael Erskine

MINDEMOYA—In a June 24 ceremony in Ottawa, Governor General David Johnston will pin the Meritorious Service Cross on Spring Bay resident Peter Ford in recognition of his pioneering work with HIV-AIDS.

According to the federal government’s honours and awards website, Meritorious Service Decorations (Civil Division) recognize remarkable contributions in many different fields of endeavour, from advocacy initiatives and health care services, to research and humanitarian efforts. Past recipients have tackled poverty in their community, improved education opportunities for children in Canada and abroad, or raised awareness of important causes and issues.

The Meritorious Service Cross (MSC)—the Civil Division Cross—“recognizes a deed or an activity that has been performed in an outstandingly professional manner, or with uncommonly high standards; the activity is often innovative, sets an example for others to follow, improves the quality of life of a community and brings considerable benefit or honour to Canada.”

“I am not quite sure what it is all about,” admitted a slightly bemused Dr. Ford. “They didn’t say.”

Dr. Ford’s pioneering work with prisoners infected with HIV-AIDS certainly fits that bill, and although the award description does not cite such as being a criterion, there was more than a little bravery involved, certainly in his earliest work with those infected with the virus.

Today, HIV-AIDS is still a feared scourge, but in the 1980s when he first began his work it was not fear that permeated the field—it was sheer terror.

“There wasn’t a lot known about it at the time,” admitted Dr. Ford. “In fact, a lot of the earliest things we had to deal with was dampening down the anxiety among the patients in prison.”

Dr. Ford noted that when AIDS first appeared on the scene, there was a tremendous amount of mystery surrounding the disease and the fear of the unknown, how and why it was transmitted were among the foremost of those concerns.

Dr. Ford described his involvement as a pioneer in the field as coming about almost by accident.

“When AIDS appeared, no one had a good test,” he said. The best indication was the lymphocyte ratio. Dr. Ford’s immunology lab at the Kingston Hospital was moved to the forefront.

The field was both complex and challenging, and it was all too clear that those challenges were going to grow dramatically as time went on. “I realized quite early that I would have to get on top of it,” he said. “I told them I would only do it if I got to meet the patient.”

Soon he found himself in a cul-

Aundeck Omni Kaning chief charged following OPP investigation into allegations

AUNDECK OMNI KANING—The chief of Aundeck Omni Kaning (AOK) has been charged with breach of trust following an OPP investigation in response to an October 2016 formal request made by the United Chiefs and Councils of Manitoulin (UCCM) Anishnaabe Police.

As a result of the request, the Sudbury/Manitoulin OPP Crime Unit under the direction of Detective Staff Sergeant Matt Watson of the OPP Criminal Investigation Branch (CIB) conducted an investigation.

As a result of that investigation, Patsy Corbiere, age 60, of Aundeck Omni Kaning First Nation, has been arrested and charged with criminal breach of trust, contrary to section 122 of the Criminal Code of Canada (CC); criminal harassment, contrary to section 264(2)(d) CC; and Intimidation of justice system participant, contrary to section 423.1(1)(b) CC.

Chief Corbiere was released from custody and is scheduled to appear at the Ontario Court of Justice in Gore Bay on July 25.

Lawyers for Chief Corbiere issued a statement on her behalf. “Chief Patsy Corbiere denies the allegations and maintains her innocence. The matter is currently before the court and Chief Corbiere looks forward to vigorously defending herself.”

None of the charges have been proven in court.

The timing of the UCCM request for an OPP investigation coincides with a protest held by AOK First Nation community members last fall in which a number of allegations against the chief were made. That protest was reported in The Expositor at the time. None of the allegations made have been proven in court.

Andrew Scheer elected new Conservative Party leader

TORONTO—Chalk one up for the agricultural sector, as Saskatchewan MP Andrew Scheer inched up the ladder through 13 successive ballots to upset frontrunner Maxime Bernier on the final ballot to secure the leadership of the Conservative Party of Canada (CPC), squeaking in by less than one percent of the vote. For Mr. Bernier and his staunch stance against supply management, the chickens had finally come home to roost.

Mr. Scheer may be a bit of a stranger to those who do not follow federal politics closely, but as the youngest MP to ever serve as the parliamentary house speaker he is hardly a stranger to those

Special meeting of Tehkummah council ends precipitously

by Michael Erskine

TEHKUMMAH—A small group of local taxpayers voiced their dismay when a special council meeting called by Reeve Eric Russell abruptly ended on a motion by Councillor Paul Bowerman. As most members of the council quickly vacated the building, Councillor Laurie Leeson remained behind for a discussion with a couple of audience members that quickly escalated in volume on all sides.

“No, I don’t think so at this time,” said Reeve Russell when asked if he had a comment on the meeting.

In making his motion to adjourn Councillor Bowerman rose from his seat to read from a written statement. He indicated that he was upset at having been called and asked if he had voted twice on a poll to select candidates for a position with the municipality. “I am sick and tired of this stuff,” he declared. “Something has to be done about the goings on in Tehkummah Township.” His motion to adjourn was seconded by Councillor Ron Heirons.

The meeting had begun, as is the usual custom at Tehkummah council, with a prayer delivered by the reeve, but had not proceeded to motions to open the meeting or approve the agenda when Councillor Bowerman rose and was recognized with his motion.

There was no vote on the motion, as the bulk of the councillors and the reeve vacated their seats and quorum was dissolved. The town clerk, Karen Gerrard, confirmed that the town’s procedural policy “follows legislation of Ontario.”

Ms. Gerrard noted that, “According to the AMCTO (Association of Municipal Managers, Clerks and Treasurers of Ontario) course I took, legislative parliamentary procedures state that a motion to adjourn does not need a second, as per Mason’s manual. It was most surprising to me to learn that, and I have not forgotten it.”

Councillor Bowerman was challenged by those in attendance in the audience as to why he had adjourned the meeting, to which a visibly distressed Councillor Bowerman noted he was too upset to discuss the matter at that moment.

He left the council chambers with cries of “this is not fair to us” ringing in his ears. The swift conclusion to the meeting left some in the room questioning the procedure and the ensuing discussion between Councillor Leeson and the audience became quite heated.

Later outside the building, Councillor Bowerman spoke with The Expositor about the issue.

That night’s meeting had been called in order to add another candi-

A debt of gratitude is owed to Cup and Saucer owners

The vital role the Cup and Saucer trail plays in Manitoulin's tourism industry was clearly reflected in the shock and dismay expressed by many when the trail was temporarily closed last week. Comments in the Twittersphere and on Facebook flamed furiously as commentators weighed in with self-proclaimed authority on the causes for the closure. As is all too usual the case with a social media furor, most of those pitches did not cross the plate and some (although assuredly not all) were most definitely foul.

Manitoulin Island owes a huge debt of gratitude to the private property owners who have opened their property up for the public's enjoyment—particularly Casson Eadie and his late father Don Eadie, who despite years of not unreasonable concerns over liability and public safety, provided the entrance and parking lot at the head of the trail. But gratitude is no less due to Randy Noble and Meredith Chandler, upon whose property the "saucer" in Cup and Saucer lies, along with the very popular lookout. These private land owners have gone above and beyond in their commitment to public service and simply cannot be thanked enough for their generosity.

Thankfully, a significant number of those weighing in on the issue online did point out the generosity of the private property owners.

There is a lamentable tendency for people to weigh in on subjects online with little or no direct knowledge of the subject, depending largely on what they believe should be the case and often seeking villains where a close examination of the facts prove that none are to be found.

In the newspaper industry, we spend a tremendous amount of time and resources verifying "facts" that we have been told, chasing rumours and determining the truth behind a story. This takes a great deal more effort than a click and a prayer, and, more often than not we discover the undisputed "fact" with which we have been supplied has no actual basis in reality. We soldier on.

A little history on the current case. The entrance to the Cup and Saucer has long been problematic, running as it does in close proximity to an operating aggregate pit. The entrance has been moved at least once in the recent past, and both the Northeast Town and the property owners have recognized that it was only a matter of time before the current entrance would need to be moved. Mr. Eadie has, in the past, offered his own equipment and materials to relocate the entrance to another property, one that would not likely need to be moved again. At that time the current solution was not possible.

Entitlement tends to be a term lately reserved for those in public service who believe they deserve the perks that accrue to their position. For some few members of the public, thankfully not all, that term can also be applied when it comes to public use of their property.

When private property owners provide access to trails, whether they be for hiking or snowmobile trails, they are doing a public service that they are not obligated to provide. In the case of the aggregate owners, they pay taxes, they provide the province with royalties in return for their extraction of the material that is then used to build the roads upon which we travel and the very buildings that shelter us from the elements. They should not be vilified or challenged when, in the course of their own private needs, circumstances change and they can no longer provide their gifts to us. Instead, we should all be standing eagerly in line to shake their hands with a true and heartfelt thank you for their years of service to the community. The gravel pit operators are local businesspeople, who deserve no less, and a lot more, from each of us.

Central Manitoulin time capsule from 1992 to be opened

Former students of Mr. Olacke's 1991/92 class and their families invited to attend

To the Expositor:

In June of 1992, Mr. Olacke's Grade 6 (1991/92) class at Central Manitoulin Public School put together an above ground time capsule which was to be opened in 2017 to help celebrate Canada's 150th birthday. The opening will take place on Saturday, July 1 from 2 to 4 pm at Central Manitoulin Public School. The box contains items from 1992. It is hoped that many of the students from this class and their families will attend. Everyone is welcome including our principal Fern Patterson, teachers and support staff. Happy Birthday Canada!

Sheguiandah cemetery upkeep is disgraceful

Someone on NEMI council should look into this and show some respect

To the Expositor:

On May 20 I went to the cemetery in Sheguiandah to plant flowers. I have been disappointed with the grass and the trimming for a few years. I talked to Dave Williamson last summer. The grass should have been cut two weeks ago.

Lots of people visit the cemetery on the 24th of May long weekend. Somebody on NEMI council should look into this and show some respect.

What's zooming in Tehkummah Township?

Writer has concerns about numerous issues at the municipality

To the Expositor:

Who's zoomin' who?
I am writing this letter to clarify what has been said to, and what isn't being told to the ratepayers of Tehkummah Township.

Reeve Eric Russell is on record as saying the town books are flush and we paid cash for the plow truck and the municipal truck.

The plow truck was purchased via a loan.

The municipal truck was purchased via a loan.

The marina does not have 100,000 dollars invested in it. Reeve Russell stated there are new docks. Is there another marina besides South Baymouth? There are no new docks. These docks are poor at best and year after year, there are less docks put in the water. There are countless floats and docks abandoned in the back of the marina.

The books of the marina, which is public knowledge, appear to have "discrepancies" with them.

The process for the marina attendants was flawed at best. The interviews for the positions were to be performed on Tuesday, May 23 starting at 6 pm. The reeve saw fit to cancel the interviews at 3-ish that afternoon.

Why? What is on his agenda? Was this done to "sour" the original applicants?

There are countless things with the reeve and some of the council that will come to light, I am sure. I personally signed the letter requesting that the Ministry of Municipal Affairs steps in and does an audit on the books. A full forensic accounting of the books must be done.

Just don't pee on me and tell me it's raining.

A former editor praises an Expositor editorial

Recalls a sad tale of the Canadian reality from 20 years ago—too little has changed

To the Expositor:

Well done!
Your editorial on cultural appropriation ('Canada's challenges need to be brought into the light,' May 24, Page 4) was the most honest and intelligent essays on the topic I've read to date and believe you me I've had my share these past few weeks.

I also happened to disinter a feature story I edited when I was at the Financial Post magazine, let's go with 20 years ago.

We dispatched a non-Native writer named Pierre Pelletier to pass as an urban Native and travel around Western Canada for a few weeks. He straightened his curly hair, darkened his skin a bit, bought an old jean jacket and hit the streets. He was quite courageous to step that far out of his comfort zone and he did a terrific job on the story and I'm still proud of it

One of the saddest yet most telling moments was when he found himself in Regina at one point, he phoned a local hotel and asked if there were rooms available; the clerk said there were plenty. Then he arrived, in person, the clerk told him they were full up.

The story was called "Red Like Me."

Would I have the courage to pull off a story like that again? Probably not. That kind of thing falls into the "crazy dumb courageous things only young people are foolish enough to do; as in, fight in wars, get married and, well, like that.

On the other hand, I'm happy we did it.

Plus, I'm proud to have worked at The Manitoulin Expositor which has been telling indigenous stories to non-indigenous populations and vice versa for more than a century. Keep up the great work.

Cliff and Nelda Orford

"I am the last of the Orford boys of my generation walking on Manitoulin," Cliff shares, "most of my siblings and close extended family have passed on." Cliff and Nelda welcomed the writer to their fine home on Union Road. It was a bright sunny day and the living room featured numerous plants, one with bright red leaves, glowing in the sunlight. "I built this house for our family 35 years ago," Cliff offers by way of introduction.

This Manitouliner has spent decades, cutting timber, building homes and learning skills that a man of the land needs to prosper. Nelda has always been by his side, starting her working life as a young teacher at country schools in Mills and Honora, later as a weather station employee, driving the school bus with her husband, and of course, raising their family of four.

Cliff's maternal grandparents George and Sarah Badgerow farmed near Gore Bay, where the hydro transfer station is today. They struggled with scant topsoil and lots of rocks, familiar to farmers on the Island. Their daughter Viola Rebeca married Ed Orford and became Cliff's parents. "I was born on September 22, 1927 in Saskatchewan, where my parents had moved to in 1921. A lot of dust and grasshoppers hampered their dreams of becoming productive wheat farmers. The family moved back to the Island in 1928 bringing four children with them. Eventually, there would be seven children: Lloyd, Delbert, Austin, Cliff, Les, Edna and Reona.

In the years before the snow plow cleaned the roads, mail was carried by horse and sleigh from Gore Bay to Massey, across the ice. "One day we found out that my grandmother was very sick. Dad stayed home to look after the farm and mother took four of us on the mail sleigh across the ice to Gordon Township on March 28, 1928. Sandy McDermid drove that Purvis team. I was only six-months-old. I was told that the ice remained strong and we made it safely both ways."

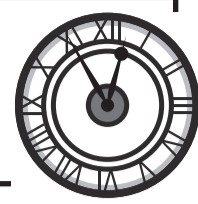

Ed and Viola's 100-acre farm, with the old log house and big barn, was located near the Mills cemetery on Union Road. Brother Delbert later inherited the farm because eldest son Lloyd had been killed in the war, one month after D-Day. He and his troops had been cornered in a small village in France. Air support was called in but, sadly, the report indicated that the Allied air force mistook them for the enemy and 88 of them were killed by friendly fire. It was a sad day in July of 1944. Delbert had also been in Germany three days after the war ended. He had come close to downing a plane prior to the end of the war by shooting off the cable between two enemy planes. "We found out later that Mills had sent the greatest number of soldiers to the war effort and yet it seems Lloyd was the only death in this township."

Cliff started school at age six in Mills Township, along with 37 other kids scattered among nine grades. "It was a daily four-mile hike to and from school, with my tin lunch can swinging by my side. I can honestly say that during all my time there, I was only driven in a vehicle four times. There were three of us in Grade 1 and we gained one more student a year later. "I remember one poor fellow who was teased a lot because he couldn't spell at all. If the teacher asked him to write words down, they would all be wrong." One wonders if he might have had dyslexia before instructional staff became aware of this disability, about 40 years later.

Cliff recalls the squirrel that had been annoying the kids playing baseball at recess. It would constantly get in their way. Perhaps it was instinctive when the unfortunate squirrel picked a bad time to come out of the wood pile. Cliff was up at bat and he swung at the rodent instead. "All the kids had been challenging each other to get the squirrel, but I got him. My victory was short-lived, though, because I also got the strap." After Grade 9, in 1943, school was over for 16-year-old Cliff.

"I associate those war years with ration books. You were restricted to limits in the amount of sugar, butter and other items so the soldiers would have enough to eat." Nevertheless, there was always lots of stuff to spend the money on such as his first motorcycle when he was 18, in 1945. "I loved the freedom of riding that bike." It was five years later before he began to think about more formal acquisitions. "I was 23 before I got my first suit."

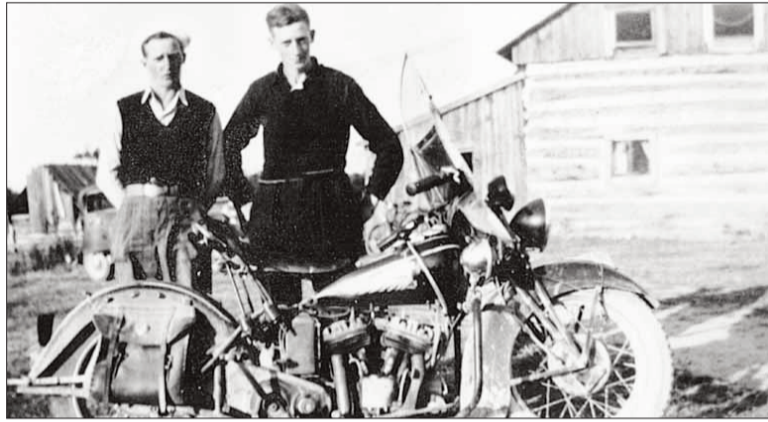

"That first winter, after finishing school, I cut pulpwood six days a week with Jim Baker at Hawken's Mill (at Swift Current, between Birch Island and Little Current) for $45 a month. The wood would be piled near the shore where a freighter would come to pick it up. In the summer, Cliff drove a steam-driven carriage to pile cut wood that had been collected in booms and pulled by tugs from local bays and islands, like Wardrobe Island.

"We had a jack-ladder set up to take the wood from the water right up to the second floor of the sawmill. The saw itself took up most of the first floor. The jack-ladder was a continuous moving 'chain and trough' apparatus that pulled the wood right up to the away at 16 from heart problems; and Myrna, who was also just a child when she died of kidney problems." Nelda was the eldest.

"My grandfather, John Shaule, had a mysterious end. He got up one day in Cloudslee and hitched his horses to his sleigh and left over the ice for St. Joseph's Island. He was to pick up a load of hay there. We never saw him or his team of horses again. No sign that he had fallen into the lake ever emerged. Years later, our son Gordon ran into someone who remembered the story of my grandfather but he had no new information. After that my grandmother Elizabeth (nee Adams) lived alone but ran their farm with the help of her four adult sons and two daughters.

A shed with two doors was built and attached to the house for storage. A big yellow dog was purchased to protect grandmother. One day, the dog tangled up with a saw where it would be cut into boards. The boards came back out on the jack-ladder to be piled in the yard. Subsequently the wood was planed and then shipped out by rail. Cliff worked here for about 12 summers.

Nelda was born on March 17, 1933 to William (Bill) and Ethel Victoria Shaule (nee Clark). Her dad was renting a farm in Cloudslee, seven miles northeast of Bruce Mines. The family ran the local post office. Bill and Ethel soon bought their own farm in the same area. "We did mixed farming, growing small crops and raising chickens," Nelda muses. "I remember being surprised that it took the hen three weeks of sitting on the eggs to hatch the small chicks."

"I had three brothers and two sisters. Dale, who worked in the steel mills in Sault Ste. Marie; Darrell, who became a United Church minister in Lucan, just outside of London; Dwight, who died as a baby of nine months of pneumonia; Gail, who passed porcupine and predictably suffered a mouthful of quills. "That day my uncle Sandy went to visit grandmother and found her in despair. 'Please help me get these quills out of Chum'," she pleaded. "Sure, there's nothing to it. You hold the dog and I will pull them out." It seems that holding the dog was the hard part.

They decided to call him into the shed and then close the door on his neck to trap him in place. This did not work the first two times because the dog must have realized that this was not working well for him. Finally, they did slam the door on his neck and the quills were pulled out, but at an additional cost. Poor Chum was moving less and less. "It seems that we held him so tight that he collapsed from lack of oxygen when we finally released him. We were aghast! At first, Chum just lay there and we feared he had expired. However, he eventually recovered and lived a good long life."

"I never learned how to milk a cow but I did do a lot of work on the farm, as we all did. I was often asked to stay in the house with my younger siblings while mum and dad milked the cows and fed the calves." Nelda liked school, especially spelling. She stayed to finish Grade 12 and then went right into teaching. "Circumstances made me a teacher," she attests. "They needed teachers when I finished school and they didn't ask for a certificate, so I became a teacher."

"My teaching style was a bit different from another teacher who wanted to have absolute power over the kids. I felt there should be some give and take on both sides," she shares. "I tried to teach them by getting their attention in a positive way, so they would want to learn. Discipline can be applied in different ways too; it doesn't always have to be the strap. Families often doled out the physical discipline so I could use alternate forms. I found I didn't have many problems with the kids even though some of them were close to me in age."

Cliff and Nelda met in 1951 when Nelda was teaching at Mills school. Cliff was one of the gang that included Nelda from time to time. Nelda also taught Cliff's sister, Reona, in Grade 6 so she ran into Cliff regularly and in due course they found they enjoyed each other's company. "We attended lots of functions but didn't go to dances because Cliff didn't like to dance, but we did spend a lot of our time together."

Cliff was into his six-year stint at KVP (Kalamazoo Vegetable Paper) in Espanola, the business now owned by Domtar. "One day Cliff came from 'KVP land' for a visit and saw me knitting a pair of socks. He was intrigued, 'why don't you make me a pair of work socks?' so I did." This little personal request seemed very fitting for a young man who wanted a more permanent relationship.

Nelda started to teach at Honora, moving into the main house at Silver Birches Resort. "I had left Mills because they got a teacher with a certificate," she explained, "I didn't have one of those." Nelda taught 13 kids, 12 boys and one girl. "One of the students, Doug Hore, would become a well-known musician on Manitoulin and has been a barber in Little Current, in the same location, for 55 years. Nelda continued to see Cliff and they soon set a date.

They were married on August 22, 1952 by Reverend Kail in Gore Bay. The small wedding was followed by a honeymoon in Niagara Falls to where they travelled in Cliff's beloved 1950 Pontiac.

In 1960, Cliff was working for Gerald Runnalls. "We worked all over the island, including Carter Bay, Michael's Bay and Providence Bay where there was another sawmill. The booms brought the logs in and they were trucked to the saw mill.

The couple had four children, Laurie, Cheryl, Gordon and Donna. "Laurie loved horses so we bought her a steed from Sandfield for $20 down. This deposit would hold the horse for three days until we made sure that Laurie was happy with the purchase," Cliff adds. "Sunny the horse, would shake your hand but you had to warn people first so they wouldn't be knocked down by his enthusiastic greeting."

Laurie rode him everywhere without a saddle, taking great care when they approached the edge of the lake. Sunny would slowly slide down and bury himself in the water, taking her with him. She had to jump off quickly, or give him a pop bottle. Sunny could take the top off the bottle with his teeth and then he would hold the can up and drain it. "If you were unfortunate enough not to have the foresight to bring the pop, you had to really holler at him to get him back out of the water." The family also had a dog that slept on the bed with Gord and a cat named Sam."

"We travelled a bit too, taking three of the kids out west to Alaska and Dawson City where we looked for gold in 'claim 35.' We saw Vancouver. On another trip, we went back to Saskatchewan to show the kids where I was born," Cliff adds. "When I was younger, Austin and I and two friends had returned to that province, near the Blackfoot Reserve, at harvest time. The work was hard and long, but we had fun too. We saw billygoats and elk for the first time."

After the pulpwood years, Cliff started working with Charlie Middaugh, building cottages, houses and a lot of chimneys for about eight dollars a day. "Blocks

Canadian Human Rights Tribunal rules Jordan's Principle applies to all First Nations children

OTTAWA—On Friday, May 26, the Canadian Human Rights Tribunal (CHRT) has again ruled that Canada has yet to comply with previous orders to implement Jordan's Principle, which is a child-first principle that every First Nation child should have access to the same government services as all Canadian children. The Tribunal has clarified that if a province provides a health or social service, the federal government should fund the service immediately, and that the federal government should consider providing other services to advance First Nation's children's equality.

In addition, the CHRT has ruled that Jordan's Principle applies to all children on and off-reserve; it is not limited to children with disabilities; and it is not limited to health services, but also includes dental and mental health, physiotherapy, special education, speech therapy, and so on.

To date, despite the Tribunal's rulings, the Government of Canada has been applying Jordan's Principle only to children with disabilities living on reserve. "Canada has also failed to live up to its own motion in the House of Commons from 2016 to immediately inject an additional $155 million into the child welfare system," a press release from the Assembly of First Nations states. To date, it is estimated that only an additional $67 million has been allocated nationally.

"Jordan's Principle was passed unanimously by the House of Commons back in 2007 to ensure that First Nation children were not to be denied or delayed health and social services," said Deputy Grand Chief Denise Stonefish, chair of the Chiefs Committee on Social Services. "Last November, I was in attendance when the House of Commons again unanimously passed an NDP motion to immediately provide the additional $155 million. This has yet to happen."

"In this day and age of Reconciliation, Canada must comply with all CHRT rulings. I want to remind Canada that the Truth and Reconciliation Commission's Calls to Action are strongly focused on equality in child health and welfare," added Regional Chief Isadore Day. "Our children must no longer be left behind, must no longer suffer needlessly due to bureaucratic denial and delays. Now is the time to allow our children and their families the basic human right to health and welfare enjoyed by all Canadians."

Mindemoya hospital has its first divert patient situation

by Alicia McCutcheon
MINDEMOYA—On Friday, May 19, the Manitoulin Health Centre's (MHC) Mindemoya site had its first ever 'divert' situation, meaning that the hospital had so many critical patients at one time that all other patients coming into the Mindemoya Hospital had to be diverted to the Little Current site.

"Occasionally we run into these situations because of the acuity of the patients involved," said Derek Graham, MHC CEO. "In review and in retrospect, it was the right thing to do."

Mr. Graham explained that when there are several patients requiring one-on-one care it doesn't take long before the medical team is "overwhelmed."

"It was a proactive decision," he added.

The Manitoulin-Sudbury

District Services Board (DSB) told its board at the May 25 meeting that a note of thanks had been passed on to them regarding the hard work and partnership between the MHC and the DSB paramedics during that situation.

Mr. Graham said this recent divert points out the need for a two-site facility on Manitoulin. Having two hospitals is also helpful when the beds are full at one site, but a bed is free at the other hospital.

Mr. Graham said he did not believe this to be the start of a trend, but also noted that the "acuity of what we see coming to us isn't lessening. Volumes and acuity are staying steady." The CEO added that he believed that the timing of the Mindemoya Hospital event, the Friday of a long weekend, also came into play.

proceeds of crime (under $5,000) and possession of cocaine.

Billie-Jean Mills, a 22-year-old female from Sudbury, has been charged with possession for the purposes of trafficking, trafficking in a controlled substance, conspiracy to traffic a controlled substance and fail to comply with a probation order (three counts).

The new drug-related charges follow police activities many passersby witnessed two weeks ago when the OPP and Wikwemikong Tribal Police combed the ditches of Highway 6 between Sheguiandah and Little Current, where the accused were eventually apprehended.

Mr. Dixon-Johnson, Mr. Shaw and Ms. Mills have been remanded into custody. All four are scheduled to reappear in court in the coming days.

The investigation is continuing and any person with information about this incident is asked to immediately contact the Ontario Provincial Police at 1-888-310-1122, the Wikwemikong Tribal Police Service at (705) 859-3141 or their nearest police authority.

Should you wish to remain anonymous, you may call Crime Stoppers at 1-800-222-8477 (TIPS) or submit information online at www.tipssubmit.com where you may be eligible to receive a cash reward of up to $2,000.

On Tuesday, May 23, shortly before midnight, a Controlled Drug and Substances Act warrant was executed on two residences in the community of Wiikwemkoong. Four men and two women were arrested at the scene.

A search of the residence located a quantity of cocaine and Canadian currency. The street value of the items seized is valued at $15,000.

Manitoulin Sporting Life

NOSSA

Two Manitoulin secondary track teams attended the annual NOSSA track and field meet. Held this year at the Laurentian track in Sudbury both Wikwemikong High School and Manitoulin Secondary athletes competed against the best in all of northern Ontario.

Starting with Wikwemikong High here are their participants: Novaleigh Peltier, Ian Dokum, Symone Peltier, Ferris Eshkawokan and Donald Maiangowai. The Mustangs' squad featured: Mackenzie Cortes, Marjorie Scott, Mya Otosquaiob, Austin Purvis, Beth Wiwchar, Marshall Maciuk, Alex Smith, and medalists Matt Redmond - 3rd in Javelin (just 46 cm from 1st), James Scott - 1st in 1500m, (ahead by 7 seconds). Congratulations to all competitors!

Fastball fun!

Get those ball gloves out ladies and gentlemen who are proponents of competitive fastball, the Manitoulin Fastball League will soon be starting up. Last year was a banner season for the league as it boasted an amazing nine teams in all. The two-time consecutive champion A-OK Raiders (Aundeck Omni Kaning). I'm sure they and the other dugouts will be ready for the challenge!

Rookie rocks!

Congrats to Kennedy Lanktree of Providence Bay, past Mindemoya Thunder and Manitoulin Mustang on her successful rookie season with the Laurentian Lady Voyageurs. Kennedy, at 5 foot 5 inches is a seriously tough competitive player with a scoring touch. In her first season she managed more than half a point a game with a team that struggled. She also contributed to the entire game as she is a 200-foot player. We are looking forward to her sophomore year where she will surely shine.

Mother and daughter compete trail race

When asked of their experience, Mom Heather Eismont and daughter Haylee Cress said, "It was amazing! The trail was beautiful and so challenging with so many hills and so much mud, it was crazy!" The long-time running partners competed in the 25km version at the Sulpha Springs Trail event.

Despite being pleased with their accomplishment the pair were in awe of the ultra-marathoners who completed the 200 mile variety! They started Thursday at noon and the cut off was Sunday at noon. The first place winner came in Saturday at noon. 28 entered this distance and 9 finished. Kudos to Heather and Haylee!

Travelling track club

Kudos to those athletes who travelled to Cambridge this past weekend to compete in an elite track and field event. The Brent McFarlane classic named after a former track and field athlete and coach is a well-known southern Ontario meet for mostly club teams. Congratulations to the following for putting in training and travelling energy to compete: Julian Wemigwans, Natalie Pitawanakwat, Victoria Trudeau, Sierra Pangowish and Francesca Pheasant. Victoria and Julian ran in the 400m Sprint, while Natalie, Sierra and Francesca ran the grueling 1500m race.

Greg knows soccer, too!

It's difficult to keep the name of Gregory Trudeau-Paquet out of the paper as he continues to perform at a high level in his multi-sport career. He just keeps on winning! Last week he led his St. Charles College Cardinals to the SDSS high school soccer championship and of course potted an important goal to win the Sudbury city championship.

Post-season, season

A pair of Manitoulin hockey twins shone at another Elite tournament this past weekend. Carson Shawana and Sam Assinewai (no they're not really twins but when it comes to hockey they are always together) earned a silver medal in Toronto in the Warrior Elite Series 2017. Once again they suited up for the Newport Elites, a summer hockey collection of top-notch skaters who were born in 2004. They had a great tourney winning games by scores of 8 to 1, 7 to 1, 5 to 2, 5 to 1 but in a closed championship game they dropped a 6-2 for challenge to the Pro Hockey Hofford team. The silver medal reward was a great consolation though as the skill level of these teams is very high. Great job guys!

Up and coming ball player

Hats off to Lyle Baibomcowai as he continues to play high-level fast-ball though still a relative youngster. This past weekend he was a huge contributor for his Oshweken Redmen in a top-notch tournament in Niagara Falls. Lyle launched a pair of home runs as the Redmen defeated a hometown Niagara Falls side by a 9-2 count. Keep up the hard work, Lyle!

Our condolences

Wikwemkoong has sadly lost yet another great sportsman. The Island lost 48-year-old Alfie MacLeod to one of the worst of diseases, cancer. Alfie an original member of the Manitoulin Panthers midget team was a great defenseman and a pleasure to have in the dressing room. His humor and constant smile was always a welcome sight. His many friends comment on how much fun it was to be around him. He could light up a room with his presence. As a defenseman he was top notch: big, strong and tenacious. I knew Alfie from his school days and he was in virtually every sport going and was a wonderful positive spirit in the school. There was seldom a dull moment for those around him. He had some tough times when his mother Yvonne passed away young but with the help of brother Parker, family and friends he rose above his difficulties. You will be missed, Alfie, by many friends.

A good sport is good for sports

Wiikwemkoong youths invited as runners with Team Ontario

by Robin Burrige

WIKWEMKOONG—Members of an after-school elite running group from Wikwemkoong have been invited to join Team Ontario and compete at the North American Indigenous Games 2017 in Toronto July 16-23.

"I started the after-school running club several years ago for youth who wanted to focus on running more seriously," said Coach Robin Cooper, a teacher at Pontiac School in Wikwemkoong. "I've been coaching some of the runners since they were in Grade 5 and now they are in Grades 7 and 8."

All four members of the club were invited to join Team Ontario including Grade 7 Pontiac students Julian Wemigwans and Victoria Trudeau and Grade 8 students Sierra Pangowish and Francesca Pheasant.

Ms. Cooper said it is a testament to their hard work that they have been invited to join Team Ontario.

"Running is such an individual sport—no one else can do it for you and it takes a lot of dedication," said Ms. Cooper. "There are a lot of rewards for hard work and I hope that they learn that if you work and train hard, your dreams will come to fruition. Making Team Ontario is just one of the rewards they can achieve if they continue to be dedicated."

Francesca, Victoria and Ciara are also members of the Newmarket Huskies of Mississauga and train remotely with Ms. Cooper.

"We run every day of the week but Wednesday when we do time trials at recess," said Francesca of the club's running schedule. "I love running because it takes my mind off of everything else—it helps me clear my mind and relax."

As The Expositor previously reported, Marcia Trudeau of Wikwemkoong is the CEO of the 2017 NAIG. She left her position as the strategic investment officer with the United Chiefs and Councils of Mnidoo Mnising that she held since 2013 to accept the role.

The Toronto 2017 NAIG will feature 14 categories of sport, hosted in world-class venues utilizing the footprint of the Toronto 2015 Pan Am Games. The games will bring together 5,000 competitors and 2,000 volunteers.

The Buddhist monk formerly known as Noah Greenspoon visits MSS

by Michael Erskine

M'CHIGEENG—So how does a young boy from Ice Lake grow up to travel to distant Asian countries steeped in eastern mysticism and eventually come to embrace Buddhism? That was a question that easily came to mind as Yuttadhammo Bhikkhu, the man formerly known as Noah Greenspoon, came to deliver a talk to the students of Manitoulin Secondary School (MSS) on the topic of 'mindfulness' as a path to personal wellbeing, but it would have to wait until later.

The monk was delivering the keynote address at the Tuesday, May 16 Wellness Day celebrations at the high school. It was to be a day filled with a wide range of teachings that included 'Eagle Feather Teachings,' 'Intro to Meditation,' 'Mindfulness Apps,' 'Physical Mindfulness,' 'Prayer and Mindfulness,' 'Therapeutic Writing,' 'Traditional Indigenous Teachings,' 'Walking in Balance,' 'Mindful Gardening,' 'Indigenous Games' and 'Indigenous Crafts.' Students could either sign up online for the sessions that appealed to them or write their names on a large set of paper sheets set up in the foyer of the school.

Yuttadhammo's mission (Bhikkhu is an honorific meaning a Theravada Buddhist monk) in addressing the students at MSS was "not to convert you," as he explained to them at the beginning of his talk, but to offer up some simple tools of meditation with a focus on mindfulness that might help them deal with the challenges of youth and life.

This talk would be a bit of a challenge, admitted Yuttadhammo. "I have been teaching for some time, but this is the first time to non-Buddhist kids," he said. "I do a lot of online teaching, a lot of videos and have met a diverse number of people." He also works on peace studies with McMaster University. # Fifth annual Rezfest celebrates visual and musical art

by Robin Burrige

WIKWEMKOONG—The Wikwemkoong Thunderdome was busting with creative energy last Friday night for the fifth annual Rezfest, which incorporated a visual art element this year.

"It was our most successful event," said Wikwemikong High School music business teacher Jason Thibault, who organized the event with students from his class. "We had over 350 people come through the doors throughout the night."

He said that new to the concert was an art show from Grade 11 and 12 Wikwemikong High School students.

This year's performers included one of the students from this year's music business class, Jacob Henry, in addition to past program students Malcolm Stellar, H-Manit and Ille$. Other acts on the bill were Rural Roots, NS3, Leslie Neshikwe and Elijah and the Backburners.

"It was a good night," said Mr. Thibault of Rezfest. "Everyone seemed to enjoy the sets—we had a wide variety of genres. The audience really likes the mix of genres and the artists like the professional set up we offer."

Mr. Thibault said the night was made possible thanks to the work of 32 students from the high school from the photogradhism and lessons in the various aspects of his faith are very accessible. He has posted some 1,500-odd videos on YouTube. A search on the site for either Noah Greenspoon or Yuttadhammo Bhikkhu will bring up a host of examples. His video 'Ask a Monk: How I Became a Buddhist Monk' had 241,689 views as of Monday evening.

Despite his usual student cadre, Yuttadhammo is hardly a stranger to the halls of MSS, having been a student there in the mid-1990s, graduating in 1997. "It has been a 20-year journey back to this school," he said. The techniques he was sharing were a gift that he hoped "you can use in your life when things get difficult."

Yuttadhammo referenced memes in his talk, connecting that as a mutual reference point. He noted that life is often difficult and fraught with challenges that can beset our sense of inner peace. The mind, he noted, is a very elastic and malleable organ and it is very possible to change.

He noted that we are largely defined by the people we hang out with. "You pick up their habits," he noted.

Habits are simply that and so much of what besets us in life are simply habits. "There is nothing magical about it," he said. "Worrying about things is a habit, anxiety is just a habit." Yuttadhammo is familiar with these habits and their destructive power.

"I was an insomniac when I was in Grade 13 (OAC)," he said, "that was back when there was a Grade 13." He would rise at 3 am and stress himself as he worried to the morning light.

"I would like to share an example of cultivating a habit," he said, asking the students to put down their cell phones, close their eyes and think about a themselves. "Make a wish," he said. "May I be happy. Just say that. Think about the people around you. May they be free from suffering, find peace, be well." This is simply about finding a state of mind that is peaceful, harmonious, happy.

"This is mediation," he said. "May they be happy, may all of us be happy. Expand it out. To all of M'Chigeeng, all of their spirits, may they all be well. Everyone on Manitoulin, may they all be healthy, may they all be well."

Yuttadhammo explained that the students had just experienced the basic tenets of mindfulness meditation. The phrases he had the students repeating in their minds, Yuttadhammo noted, are a mantra. A mantra is essentially a repeated phrase that helps focus the mind.

There are so many things that assail our lives, he noted, and most of them are things that we cannot change, such as physical pain. All one can control is "how we react."

"With mindfulness, you are not judging anything," he said.

Dealing with pain can be highly effective through meditation, counterintuitively by focussing on the pain. "Pain, pain, pain," repeats Yuttadhammo. "It is yelling at you. Why does it work? You are reminding yourself, it is just pain. It's pain, but yeah, so what?" Instead of running from it, embracing the pain takes away its power over your mind and body.

Yuttadhammo gave an example of a woman he met on a plane who was terrified of flying. He induced her to repeat in her mind, "afraid, afraid, afraid." When the plane had landed she confided in him that this was the first time she had experienced a landing without being paralyzed with fear.

There were a number of examples, including dealing with stage four cancer and its associated pain. Meditation had helped people through the experience without resorting to pills. "It didn't take away the cancer," he cautioned. "This is just a skill, something you can learn to help you deal with the trials and tribulations of life and get through it."

phy, art, construction and music business class.

"They all worked together to make the night a success," said Mr. Thibault.

Kendra Wassengeso, a student in the music business program, said that she grew up with a love of music and signed up for the program to learn more about the music industry.

"The program has also inspired me to start singing," shared Kendra.

The music business course was launched five years ago at Wikwemikong High School and focuses on teaching students how to compose and write music, record, advertise and market themselves as an artist.

...OPP commits to new regional detachment

OPP's delivery of policing services, and will enhance community safety in areas across the province," stated Marie-France Lalonde, Minister of Community Safety and Correctional Services (MCSCS). "We all benefit from efficient, effective, and modern policing services."

"I was advised on Friday of the location," said Manitoulin Staff Sergeant Kevin Webb, who noted that he couldn't speculate on the size of the new building. "There will be some space in the building for partners. We don't know who yet, but the building will be community friendly and we will have some office space available in addition to elements like a boardroom."

"It will be a modernized building to ensure the best facility possible to serve Manitoulin and Espanola," he added.

Northeast Town Mayor Al MacNevin noted that he was also pleased that the location of the new detachment would be in Little Current.

"The new detachment will mean new jobs and services here in Little Current," said Mayor MacNevin. "It is nice that it will stay here (the current detachment is located in Little Current). I am pleased that the town has invested in the subdivision property—it is good to see that the investment has paid off."

Cary Mignault, a media representative with Infrastructure Ontario (IO), explained that IO has issued a Request for Qualifications (RFQ) for the project (to build all nine detachments). Once the RFQ closes they will select a short-list of bidders. From there IO will issue a Request for Proposals (RFP). Once the RFPs are developed and submitted, a builder will be identified. Mr. Mignault said that IO expects the project will break ground in late 2018.

Funding for the new detachment will come as part of phase two of the OPP modernization project. The other eight communities to receive new detachments are: Moosonee, Orillia, Fort Frances, Marathon, Hawkesbury, Port Credit, Huron County and West Parry Sound.

had trails there for some time, but they are not well marked."

Mayor MacNevin said the 'hitch' in this plan was approval from the Ministry of Transportation (MTO).

"You can't open up a new access point on a provincial highway without an entrance permit from the MTO," the mayor explained. "Usually you have to do a traffic study prior to getting the permit, but we have been lobbying the MTO to give us temporary approval due to the importance of the trails to both the community and tourism. The MTO has agreed to give us temporary approval, and we will do the traffic study down the line."

Mayor MacNevin said that work will begin on the new trail access and parking lot as soon as later this week.

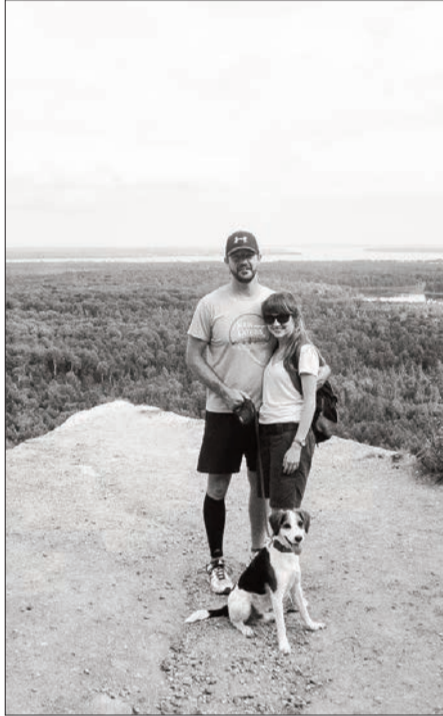

"We have received the temporary permit from the MTO and are just waiting on the MTO to approve a culvert, which we expect in the next couple of days," said Mayor MacNevin on Monday. "We hope to have the trail open by the summer."

Mayor MacNevin said that the Northeast Town will be helping to cover initial costs with the new trail access and parking lot, but that the EBC will also be launching a fundraising campaign. "I have also been in initial conversations with neighbouring municipalities and will be hoping for financial support from them as well," he said. "Every community knows the benefits of the Cup and Saucer to Manitoulin."

The Expositor also spoke with Roy Jeffery, a director with the EBC who oversees the EBC trails on Manitoulin.

"We have seen the reaction online since the trail closed and know that the community and visitors alike see the Cup and Saucer as a valued and appreciated historic landmark," said Mr. Jeffery. "We are hoping that people will be able to help with the new trail through either physical or financial support."

Mr. Jeffery said that the EBC owns 300 acres of land at the Cup and Saucer including most of the cup and a large portion of the saucer, including the majority of the adventure trails.

"We have a trail marked, but feel that it is important to recognize the land as traditional Mnidoo Mnising lands and will be working with First Nation partners to ensure the trail is developed in the proper, respectful way," said Mr. Jeffery. Mr. Jeffery said that the EBC will be seeking the services of Wikwemikong Trail Development Services who specialize in sustainable trail building and have developed trails such as the Bebamikawe Memorial Trail in Wikwemikong and the Georgian Bay Coast Trail-Point Grondine in Killarney.

"The EBC has over 14,000 acres along the escarpment and our mission is to ensure that there are publicly available, sustainable trails for families to enjoy," said Mr. Jeffery.

A large portion of the Cup and Saucer Trails are insured by the Manitoulin Tourism Association, but the new trails and parking lot will soon be insured by the EBC.

He also noted that some of the trail that abuts the EBC property are owned by Randy Noble and Meredith Chandler.

The Northeast Town announced late last week that Mr. Noble and Ms. Chandler have agreed to permit the public the continued use of their property for the Cup and Saucer Trails.

"As part of the previous partnership with the Manitoulin Tourist Association and Don Eadie Construction Ltd, they have permitted the use of their land since the inception of the Cup and Saucer Trails," stated a press release from the Northeast Town. "Their property encompasses major elements of the trail including the saucer and the primary lookout for the Cup and Saucer on EBC trails, and even offering a reduced rate for the construction of a new parking lot but the suggestion was not well received. Mr. Eadie said he was turned away by Mr. Barnett and told that he did not want that many people (the estimated 10,000 hikers that come to the Cup and Saucer each year) on EBC property.

"It is important for the community to understand that without Randy and Meredith, and previously the Eadie family, there would be no Cup and Saucer," said Mayor MacNevin. "They have consistently provided the use of their land without compensation and often without even the basic recognition by the public that were on their property. We have to stop taking contributions by our neighbours for granted. I welcome this opportunity to thank them for their ongoing support and their willingness to continue to partner with the municipality. This was one of the final and most important pieces of the puzzle in ensuring that the essence of the Cup and Saucer remains the same. The ongoing contribution from Randy Noble and Meredith Chandler is greatly appreciated and we look forward to working with them for years to come."

"This property is obviously very special to us and we will continue to ask people to be respectful of it," said Ms. Chandler. "It may appear free to those using it, but we do continue to pay the taxes on it and only ask that the municipality provide liability insurance in exchange for its use."

As The Expositor previously reported, the property of the existing Cup and Saucer parking lot, trail access point and a portion of the trail is owned by Casson Eadie, proprietor of Don Eadie Construction, who closed the trail access on the Friday of the May long weekend.

Mr. Eadie noted to The Expositor that it was this exact scenario, utilizing the EBC property for new trails, that he had suggested to the Northeast Town and Manitoulin Tourism Association over five years ago.

At the time, he explained, his company, Don Eadie Construction, was applying for a new gravel pit licence and the then-Ministry of Natural Resources was uncomfortable granting the licence as it was so close to a walking trail. Mr. Eadie said he approached Bob Barnett of the EBC at the time about creating an alternate route for the Cup and Saucer on EBC trails, and even offering a reduced rate for the construction of a new parking lot but the suggestion was not well received. Mr. Eadie said he was turned away by Mr. Barnett and told that he did not want that many people (the estimated 10,000 hikers that come to the Cup and Saucer each year) on EBC property.

"I never said the trail would be closed forever," Mr. Eadie said of his decision to close the trail before the May long weekend. "Someone will be taking cedar from the trail, but it won't affect the trail."

"It's just amazing how the town is going to spend all this money, but they wouldn't give me a cent for help with the trail," he added. "I never said it was closed forever," he reiterated. "I didn't want to do that. I just need to make some money."

"Mr. Eadie, and his father before him, generously allowed people to use their land for many years," said Mayor MacNevin.

"Council commends staff on their hard work, especially our CAO Dave Williamson who worked with Mr. Jeffery on developing this partnership and plan," the mayor said.

"The Cup and Saucer is a valued asset to Manitoulin and we are glad that a solution has been found," concluded Mayor MacNevin.

who do.

"It was certainly an interesting race," noted former Algoma-Manitoulin-Kapuskasing CPC candidate Andre Robichaud. "With 14 candidates it went right down to the end."

Mr. Robichaud said that he is confident in the new leader and his prospects going forward. "Andrew is going to do an excellent job," he said. "He speaks with intelligence, his policies are sound and he is a personable guy. Not too many people know him yet, but I think he will grow on people."

"Andrew Scheer represents a new chapter in the Conservative movement in Canada," said Island Conservative Mark Volpini. "At 38-years-old, he is a young, genuine, dynamic and an ambitious leader. He strikes the right balance between values and experience. Mr. Scheer's personality and leadership style will allow him to continue uniting the Conservative Party of Canada, much like interim leader Rona Ambrose did for 18 months."

In his victory speech, the new leader promised to stay the course and to keep the party true to its roots and work for average Canadian families and not Ottawa insiders. He said Canada can't afford four more years of Justin Trudeau and that the fight to return to power in 2019 starts now. "There is renewed hope for Canada, starting today," said Mr. Scheer. "The pain and hardship the Trudeau Liberals are causing Canadians is just temporary."

Mr. Robichaud was in full agreement with the new leader. "When I spoke to him early on he asked me what we need to do to win in 2019," said Mr. Robichaud. "I told him we just need to do a better job on explaining to people on why keeping taxes low is good for Canadian families. We should not change ourselves into a new version of Liberals."

Mr. Robichaud, who is the candidate director on the local riding association said that it was too early to say if he planned to carry the party's banner in the next election. "It wouldn't be fair to myself or the party," he said. "We need the best person to ensure that we have a Conservative member in Ottawa. If that person is me, so be it."

Mr. Scheer's webpage thanks his supporters, but as befits the winner of a national party's leadership contest, the policies and biographical information that propelled him to victory were no longer available. However, it is clear that while he is on the social conservative side of the party, Mr. Scheer intends to follow a moderate path in the days forward leading to the leadership and has eschewed the opening up of the debates on same sex marriage and abortion. He has championed scrapping the carbon tax and taking a tougher stance on crime.

Mr. Scheer and his wife Jill have five children: Thomas, Grace, Madeline, Henry and Mary.

ture and world quite alien to his own experiences up until that time. Prisons and their residents are noted for being a challenging environment in which to navigate at the best of times.

Dr. Ford retired in 2015 at the age of 75. He admits with a laugh that he might well have retired sooner if he had been able to find a replacement sooner. "Nobody else wanted to do it," he said. "It was generally not a good environment."

What sustained the passion that kept his shoulder to the grindstone in such a challenging field for so long? "It was interesting," he said. "There were aspects to the work that were quite rewarding."

Dr. Ford's wife Sally was also involved in the early work in setting up the clinic and working with the AIDS patients, but she was later offered another position that fit with her own interests and career goals.

This is not Dr. Ford's first award recognizing his work in the field. In 2012 the Canadian Association for HIV Research (CAHR) presented him with its Red Ribbon Award. That award is "presented by CAHR to an individual who has given outstanding service to the cause of research in a way that has increased our understanding of the treatment and prevention of HIV/AIDS, while enhancing the quality of life of those living with this disease." Or, as the CAHR website notes "in the words of Dr. Ken Rosenthal, who instituted the award in 2001 during his term as president of CAHR, the award recognizes someone who has gone 'above and beyond the call of duty'."

The citation goes on to point out that "no one can accuse Dr. Peter Ford of mincing his words. More than 20 years of working with HIV-positive inmates in Ontario's federal prisons has made him outspoken about the need for Canada's correctional system to attend more to the rate of HIV infection in prisons and the risky behaviour that leads to that infection."

"Large chunks of the system don't want to pay attention to the problem," Dr. Ford said in response to the Red Ribbon Award. "But once you start seeing prisoners, you realize there is a problem with risk behaviour and the volume of people with HIV."

Perhaps most telling about the quality of Dr. Ford's dedication to his work can be found in his expressed surprise at receiving the Red Ribbon. "No one pays much attention to what goes on in prisons and the people who work with them," he said. Despite being well aware of that fact from his life's work, Dr. Ford continued to work with that population long after he retired from his other commitments.

the Crimestoppers anonymous tip line. Ms. Peltier noted that there is much stigma in her community about going to the police with information involving crime. The OPP officer was there to explain that people can indeed call the 1-800 line and leave their tips to police anonymously. Wiikwemkoong-based security company CanCom Security also gave a presentation about their services.

"Then the band membership started talking about what they would like to see happen," Ms. Peltier said. "It was a good discussion."

Some of the ideas brought forward at the meeting included a need for shelters; a place for men, women and children to go in crisis.

Others spoke of their hope to start teaching children the dangers of drugs and alcohol at a young age and teaching it right through the school system as part of the health curriculum.

The need for more mental health and addictions programming was also cited as a need in the community, as was the need for a 24/7 crisis centre. "Right now, if something happens on the weekend, where do they go?" Ms. Peltier asked.

Ms. Peltier said that the lasting effect of residential schools and its role in the cycle of addiction was also discussed at length in the almost five-hour meeting.

"I brought up how we were raised before," the Grandmother said. "In my day, there wasn't any drugs, just alcohol. Now it's drugs, and prescription drugs. People are selling their pills."

Ms. Peltier said the father of the 39-year-old victim of the vicious attack from earlier this month was also in attendance and spoke to his son's story.

"The topic of a neighbourhood watch was discussed," Ms. Peltier added, noting that the police and property management explained that they would be working closely together in the coming weeks. Property management also told the meeting that it would be reviewing its own policies.

"I'm really happy with the meeting," the Grandmother said. "I do believe our leaders and the police will do a good job at looking at the issues the community members brought up."

"People have to understand that it won't just happen overnight," she added. "There's processes that have to be followed and money has to be found to increase those services."

Ms. Peltier said she is pleased to have got the ball rolling once again, helping to spark a discussion in her community, but she says it's time for her to step down.

"Someone else might carry it on," she said. "There's young grandmothers out there that can start doing things for their community."

"I just wish people would do the same things in the other communities," Ms. Peltier added, pointing to Little Current and the swing bridge that sees the many of the drugs carried on to Manitoulin.

An administration report to council indicates the issue was not being taken lightly.

"In response to requests received from council with regards to releasing the names of candidates that have been shortlisted along with the tally sheet: I cannot overemphasize the importance of the requirements of confidentiality which apply to the township council and its members and staff," reads the report, "particularly with respect to personal information relating to members of staff, applicants for public appointments and other individuals who may be impacted by actions of the municipality or its council members."

The report went on to cite the requirements "inherent in the role of the head and all other members of council; the requirements and offence provisions of the Municipal Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy Act; principles of municipal and member liability with respect to unlawful acts and offences; and the responsibilities of councillors, including, specifically the head of council, under statutory and common law."

According to the report, "on Wednesday, May 17, the reeve was provided with a confidential list of candidates to be interviewed that contained the candidate number, candidate name, and the number of votes which resulted in producing five candidates for interview." Under the procedure used, the candidates with three or more votes were shortlisted. There were six members of the interviewing committee, all five members of council and the clerk.

On the afternoon of Wednesday, May 17, the reeve stated that the numbers did not add up with regards to the candidates short listed. The reeve then informed staff that he had contacted Councillors Laird Lee and Leeson and "found out how they voted on the candidates." When asked how he figured that out, the reeve apparently informed them that there were too many votes on a few candidates and that the clerk-treasurer must have voted and he believed that is not allowed.

According to the town's hiring policy, however, the clerk-treasurer is in fact part of the interview committee, and as the supervisor of the municipal position for which recruitment is taking place, is involved in the short listing of candidates.

On Friday, May 19, Reeve Russell attended the clerk-treasurer office on two separate occasions, once by himself and then again with Councillor Leeson. During the second meeting, the clerk presented Reeve Russell with a copy of the email he had submitted with his choices. According to the report to council, Reeve Russell stated that he had made a mistake in sending his selections. His submission was altered by deleting candidate five and replacing it with candidate six.

The clerk-treasurer then advised the reeve that she would look into what could be done with the amendment "as per the policies in place."

"Although the reeve may have made an honest mistake," notes the report, "the situation is that since there were days since the submission of candidate selection and since there was a phone poll amongst most council members, that there was opportunity for the influencing of a decision of a council member."

The matter is complicated by the municipal hiring bylaw which states: "No elected official, appointed officer or employee of the Township of Tehkummah, shall attempt to directly influence the hiring of any applicant."

The Tuesday night special meeting of council was to determine the question: Should candidate number six be added to the short list of candidates to be interviewed?

On Tuesday, May 23, the clerk-treasurer provided the following recommendation to council: "While this concern is being addressed, interviews of the five short-listed candidates should be held as scheduled and those interviewed should be ranked with the top selection being asked to start employment as soon as possible. This would enable the marina operations to get underway until such time as a second candidate is selected." But at 3 pm that afternoon, the reeve gave the direction to cancel the interviews scheduled for that evening. The reason stated was that Councillor Lee could not attend. Interviews have not been rescheduled.

3 Cows and a Cone opens new fish and chip truck

by Robin Burridge
LITTLE CURRENT—3 Cows and a Cone by the Little Current swing bridge has expanded to include a new fish and chip truck, 3 Cows Fries, offering a variety of unique, specialty poutines.

“We have wanted to expand our business for some time,” explained 3 Cows Fries owner Phil Blake. “We looked at a few other options, but with limited kitchen space it would have put a burden on staff so the trailer seemed like the best option.”

The new food truck will be offering two types of fish and chips, local whitefish purchased on Manitoulin and basa, which is a mild white-fleshed fish.

“A lot of my nieces and nephews down south were telling me that I needed to offer specialty poutine—they said that’s the ‘in’ thing right now,” explained Mr. Blake of the food truck menu. “I checked what the competition was doing and tried to offer something different. We also did some sampling in-store to see what customers liked.”

The end result includes a variety of unique off-shoots of the famous Canadian dish including: traditional (fresh cut fries, cheese curds and gravy); pulled pork; beans and weenies; bacon; traditional veggie; super veggie; nacho; and meatball. You can also have your dish topped with your choice of gravy—beef and chicken, made in house, or a vegetarian poutine sauce.

“Staff are also keeping a book of customer suggestions and if we have enough demand we will add more types of poutine to the menu,” Mr. Blake added.

In addition to the traditional poutine (shown in picture) there are eight other variations of the Canadian dish available.

The new food truck opened the May long weekend and has been going well said Mr. Blake.

“When the health inspector came through he commented that it was the cleanest food truck he had ever seen,” said Mr. Blake. “It really goes to the hard work of the staff who spent 25 man hours cleaning it when we first got it.”

In the development of the restaurant extension, Mr. Blake tried to utilize local talent whenever possible with the picnic tables purchased from Dig and Doug in Kagawong, the construction of the deck by Evan Roy, electrical by Doug Hall and the parking lot made by Mike Varey Construction.

The 3 Cows and a Cone fish, chips and pouterie is open in June from 11 am to 8 pm from Sundays to Thursday and Fridays and Saturdays from 11 am to 9 pm. Starting July 1, it will be open seven days a week until 10 am. “To satisfy those late night cravings,” said Mr. Blake.

The cast give a final wave to the small but enthusiastic crowd at the dress rehearsal on Sunday, May 28.

...The Sorcerer opening this week

the villagers, save Alexis, Aline and Wells, drink it and, after experiencing some hallucinations, they fall unconscious and upon waking..." That's all the information you're going to get in this story. For the big reveal, you'll have to get ticks and go to the show.

"We have an incredible mix of veteran BWTP and a number of new actors on board this year," said Mr. Baumgarten. "We have a big range—with our youngest cast members in elementary school to retirees and every age in between. No one in our group had formal theatre training prior to joining the BWTP but we have all learned along the way together. I can't stress enough the professionalism of everyone in the group. They all take their roles seriously and want to put on the best show possible."

In addition to Mr. Baumgarten as stage director, Mr. Scott and Marilyn Wohlberg are the music directors.

The cast performed the official dress rehearsal Sunday night to over 30 family and friends.

"Many of the people commented that it was our best dress rehearsal yet," said Mr. Baumgarten. "We are very pleased with the production and are excited for opening night."

The Expositor caught some of the rehearsal on Sunday and was also impressed, noting the high caliber of talent from the singing, acting, sets, lighting and costumes—it is truly the must see production of the spring!

The Sorcerer runs

Mrs. Partlet, played by Allison MacNeil, tries to convince the local vicar, Dr. Daly, played by Alex Baran that he should consider getting married to her daughter Constance who is madly in love with the vicar.

The love potion backfires when people start falling in love with the wrong person, including Lady Sangazure (Debbie Robinson) who cannot resist Mr. Wells.

tonight (May 31) to Sunday, June 3 at 7:30 pm at the Debajehmujig Creation Centre in Manitowaning. As well, there are performances on June 7, 9, 10 and June 14, 15 and 16 at 7:30 pm. There will also be matinee performances at 2 pm on June 4 and June 11.

Tickets are $20 and can be reserved by contacting Marilyn or Elwood Wohlberg at 705-859-3808.

...Now and Then: Cliff and Nelda Orford

...continued from page 5 and bricks went into the chimneys," he adds. "We also tore down some buildings in Gore Bay and got paid $100 a day for that work. We built this house in 1979 with the help of our kids." Cliff felt strongly about fair play in the construction industry on Manitoulin. He stood up for a few carpenters who worked more slowly but did good work. He didn't think it was fair to let them go, just because they took a little more time.

"Both Nelda and I also drove a 60-passenger school bus for 20 years until we sold the bus in 1989. The first bus cost us $6,800 and the second one was a pricier $32,500. I got a certificate for all those years of service. After that, I did carpentry work up until last year when walking became more of a challenge for me. Meanwhile, Nelda had spent many years at the weather station in Gore Bay."

Cliff's brothers Austin and Les both died of cancer, Austin at middle age and Les when he was older. Edna lives in Kelowna, BC and Reona in Mississauga Beach near Owen Sound. "We have 10 grandchildren and 12 great-grandchildren. Gord's son Mathew, an air-traffic controller, will be going to Toronto for extra training in radar operations. His daughter April teaches in Gore Bay and daughter Ashley lives in Sudbury."

"Donna's son Curtis is a dispatcher at Manitoulin Transport. He looks after the 'ice wagons' that go north over frozen lakes in far Northern Canada every winter. Her other son Kenton worked for INCO, fixing mine breaks. Laurie's son Ryan has a drilling outfit for oil wells and he does welding too. His daughter Leslie does catering and other son Colin owns 16 tractor trailers and works in the fracking business all over the Arctic and in the south. Cheryl has two boys; Kyle, a welder in Hamilton and Kristofer, a carpenter in Toronto.

"The most important event in my life was finding Nelda, getting married and having our four children," Cliff holds. "They all turned out well with no bad habits. Our youngest is 57 now but we see them all, including the grandchildren and great-grandchildren, from time to time."

"If we could go back in time, I don't believe there is much we would change. We did what we had to do to survive. You ask what I fear most. There is not much that I am afraid of," he adds, "except snakes." We do have a skunk who must be respected. He has made his home in our eight-foot square shed. As long as he behaves himself he can stay. If he fires his weapon, he will go. I will get out my 12-gauge shotgun."

"I am happiest when I am welcoming a new person to our family; a new person that has all 10 fingers and toes and is healthy," Nelda muses.

An anniversary celebration in the 1980s.

Flowers surround Nelda at the front of the house.

"All 36 of our extended family members are happy and healthy. This August we will have been married for 65 years."

"Manitoulin has been good to us," Cliff attests. "This is a friendly place to live when you compare it to big cities. They are more dangerous with all that traffic. People on the Island are great. We had but two dollars to our name when we married and if it hadn't been for Bill Middaugh getting a store credit for us, we would have been very hungry. Charlie Middaugh, my boss, also managed to fire me three times when he was annoyed," Cliff offers, smiling, "but I just kept on working and he was happy with that. He had a good heart." "If you are sick here, people really come through and help you out too. That was very true in the early years but it is true today also. There is a lady that lives near here and she gets help from her neighbours, including us. It is so much nicer to know that support is here if you need it. That's what makes this place special. We are very happy here on Manitoulin."

A banner year for the Manitoulin Trade Fair

by Robin Burrige

LITTLE CURRENT—It was a banner year for the 13th biennial Manitoulin Trade Fair, showcasing Manitoulin and area businesses.

“It went extremely well,” said Mike Addison, LAMBAC general manager. “Friday night was up from previous years, Saturday was a little lower probably due to the nice weather and Sunday was up as well over previous years. So, overall we are anticipating that it is close to the last Trade Fair, but we don’t have the final numbers in yet.”

Mr. Addison noted that the response from the vendors was very good this year. “The response from the vendors is always a good indicator of how the event went,” said Mr. Addison. “Many vendors noted that their business was as good as or better than previous fairs.”

The award for the Best of Fair booth went to Island Adventure Outfitters. First place in the large booth division went to Manitoulin Streams and the Little Current Fish and Game Club, while the Great Spirit Circle Trail took home second place. First place for best small booth went to One Kwe and second place to the Island Box.

The Manitoulin Trade Fair kicked off Friday night with a procession of dignitaries led by the Manitoulin Sea Cadets, followed by an opening prayer from Roberta Oshkabewisens.

Northeast Town Mayor Al MacNevin gave welcoming remarks. “We appreciate all the hard work of LAMBAC organizing this event,” said Mayor MacNevin. “It appears that it is going to be another great year. Enjoy the weekend.”

Mr. Addison spoke about how the goal of the Trade Fair is to support local businesses in their service area.

“When you support local business you support the local economy,” he said. “I have the pleasure to report we are sold out of vendor spaces this year.”

He recognized all the work LAMBAC staff and volunteers had put into organizing the event, especially this year’s fair coordinator Diane Newlands.

Ms. Newlands thanked the sponsors of this year’s Trade Fair and the late Frank Reynolds who organized the first Manitoulin Trade Fair 28 years ago.

Algoma-Manitoulin-Kapuskasing MP Carol Hughes thanked LAMBAC and everyone involved for organizing the event. She was joined by Algoma-Manitoulin MPP Michael Mantha who also extended his congratulations to organizers and participants in making the event a success.

Greetings were also brought by FedNor and Waubetek representatives.

Jean's Walk: An Historical Walking Tour of Mindemoya

by Jan McQuay
 MINDEMOYA—"Where did the early settlers in the Mindemoya area go to obtain necessities such as flour, sugar, clothing and implements?" On Wednesday May 17, with rain-clouds hovering in the west, Pat Costigan began an historical tour of King St. east of the main corner, engaging her audience with this question, like the experienced teacher she is. Pat Costigan, nee Williamson, retired teacher and dedicated volunteer with the Central Manitoulin Historical Society, didn't grow up on Manitoulin, but she has delved into the history of her Mindemoya relatives and the growth of their community. She painted a lively picture of life in the community for the dozen or so people who joined the walking tour despite the uncertain weather. So...did the early settlers

The United Church on the north side of Hwy 542 was built in 1918, which is remarkable because World War I was still raging. In 1925, the Methodists, Congregationalists and Presbyterians merged and the church became the United Church of Canada.

buy their goods in Sandfield? Manitowaning? Michael's Bay? No, for the most part they went nine miles to Providence Bay, by horse and buggy. Settlements normally grew around natural har-bours and along rivers, but in 1899 William McKenzie took a chance and built a general store at the junction of Hwy 542 and 551. A year later he sold it to Francis Wagg, and his son A.J. Wagg built a creamery kitty-corner from the store. With these two enterprises, Mindemoya thrived, and the location proved even more sound as automobiles replaced other forms of travel. Wagg's general store still stands, now expanded, as the well-known Manitoulin business...continued on page 4A

EDITOR'S NOTE: In her column Beyond Rx, Andrea Wong, a 4th year Doctor of Pharmacy (PharmD) candidate from the University of Waterloo, and a very new member to the Manitoulin community, will be exploring topics on health and wellness, medical advances, and everything in between in the pages of this newspaper.

Keeping the fun in the sun
 by Andrea Wong
 Since the May long weekend is now behind us, the weather is starting to warm up. Summer activities are starting up at full force and everyone's out soaking up the nice sun after a long winter. Everyone knows that sunscreen is important. By why exactly? The main purpose of sunscreen is to protect us from ultraviolet radiation from the sun's rays which can cause sunburns, premature skin aging and skin cancers. There are two main of rays known as UVA and UVB. When selecting a sunscreen, the sun protection factor (SPF) determines only the strength of protection against UVB rays. In order to protect against both rays, it is important to read the label to ensure it says "broad spectrum" coverage to include UVA coverage. As a general rule of thumb, as the SPF increases, the amount of protection you get also increases. Anything above an SPF 30 will give you a decent amount of coverage. The best thing to do is to make putting on sunscreen a habit. Not only is it important to put it on before enjoying a nice day at the beach, there can be strong UV rays during the winter and on cloudy days. Although everyone should be using sunscreen, it is especially important for people on certain medications like antibiotics that can cause more sun sensitivity and in children or the elderly due to thin skin. However, only 25 to 50 percent of people use the proper amount of sunscreen. To properly apply sunscreen, the general rule of thumb is to apply 1 Tbsp to the face and neck area, 2 Tbsp to the front torso and back, 1 Tbsp for each arm, and 2 Tbsp for each leg. Try to apply is 15 to 30 minutes before your activity and reapply at least every two hours. Even with perfect application, sunscreen alone will not give you enough protection. It is still important to cover up and find shade whenever possible. Reducing your sun exposure will decrease your risk of skin cancers by 40 percent! I had recently gone on a boat trip. With the cold air coming off the water, my face was frozen and I hadn't realized how much sun my face was really getting even after having put sunscreen on that morning. Needless to say, I woke up the morning after with a bright red sunburnt nose. To all my readers, I would recommend you practice good sun safety in order avoid looking like Rudolph, like me.

ness, Jake's Home Centre.

In the early days, due to a shortage of housing for the employees at the store and creamery, Francis Wagg and his son "A.J." also moved houses to Mindemoya from as far away as Honora Bay. The house next to Wagg's store, and a house further along the street that is now Rainbow Tax and Accounting, are among the buildings that were moved from Honora Bay. That must have been a huge undertaking for the time.

Pat Costigan led her troupe of eager listeners along the street, explaining the background of each building. The Cooper/Williamson/McCutcheon/Wilson Corner Store has been a gas station since the 1930s. Wagg's Boarding House is now the private home of the family who own Jake's. The Oliver Bond house now belongs to Community Living Manitoulin, and Oliver's plumbing business, started in the 1930s just a few doors down, is still a plumbing business after all these years. Just past that, a restaurant has served hungry customers since the 1920's. It started as Andy Williamson's The Village Grill, and his daughter Sadie Williamson continued to run it until 1958. It burned down shortly after she sold it, but the new owners rebuilt. The current owners, adopting a rooster decorative theme, call the restaurant The Roosterant, an imaginative play on words.

Along the street the group continued, past the Andrew and Charlotte (Becks) Williamson house, the church, the Rolston/Wagg/Williamson house and more.

At the former Minde-moya Consolidated/Continuation School, finished in 1922, Ms. Costigan explained why the rather imposing school was a real boon to the community. For the first time, young people in the area were able to obtain a secondary school education without moving away. Between 1922 and 1969 most of the children of Central Manitoulin went to this solid brick school, and many still hold a strong sentiment for their old alma mater.

At the next stop, the clouds in the west became more threatening and Ms.

Costigan quickly explained that the uniquely designed War Memorial Community Centre was an ambitious project in the early 1950s. To help pay for it the local women formed the Everywoman's Club, putting on fundraising dances, euchre parties, and suppers, whatever they could to raise the money for the new building. Efforts such as these illustrate the strong sense of community in Mindemoya.

Luck had been with the walking tour for about an hour, but darker clouds sent the group hurrying back to Mindemoya's new Welcome Centre, losing no time to avoid getting soaked by the coming rain. So ended the 2017 Jean's Walk, with delicious homemade cakes, tea and coffee.

"Your Guide to Jean's Walk: An Historical Walking Tour Part II" researched by Pat Costigan and produced by Norma Hughson, is 60 pages sprinkled with photos both new and old. It will be available for sale at the Pioneer Museum in Mindemoya in July and August.

The distribution rates for the former customers of these distributors will remain frozen at current levels until December 31, 2020. As part of this application, on January 1, 2021, and January 1, 2022, the distribution rates for these customers will also be increasing.

If the application is approved, a typical former residential customer of these three distributors, using 750 kWh per month, would see increases as set out in the table below:

Former Utility	2021	Increase	2022
Norfolk Power	$3.18 per month		$1.09 per month
Haldimand County Hydro	$4.52 per month		$1.09 per month
Woodstock Hydro	$1.08 per month		$0.84 per month

Other former customers of these distributors, including businesses, may be affected as well.

Hydro One Networks Inc. has also applied for new service charges and for adjustments to many of its specific service charges, including increases to charges for the collection of accounts, for disconnection, reconnection and removal of load control devices and for access to Hydro One Networks Inc. power poles. You are encouraged to review the application carefully to determine whether you may be affected by these changes.

The Ontario government has introduced the Fair Hydro Act, 2017 that, if passed, would implement electricity rate reductions starting in the summer of 2017. The amounts set out above are provided before the application of any credits that would be implemented under the Fair Hydro Act, 2017.

THE ONTARIO ENERGY BOARD IS HOLDING COMMUNITY MEETINGS

The Ontario Energy Board (OEB) will be hosting several regional community meetings. Please check the Ontario Energy Board website at www.oeb.ca under the EB-2017-0049 case number for specific details of the meetings in your area. The community meetings are designed to allow customers to:

THE ONTARIO ENERGY BOARD IS HOLDING A PUBLIC HEARING

The OEB will hold a public hearing to consider the application filed by Hydro One. During the hearing, we will question Hydro One on its case for the rate increases. We will also hear questions and arguments from individual customers and from groups that represent Hydro One's customers. At the end of this hearing, the OEB will decide what, if any, rate increase will be allowed.

Hydro One has applied for approval of rates for 5 years. You may not get notice of future rate changes during this 5 year period.

The OEB is an independent and impartial public agency. We make decisions that serve the public interest. Our goal is to promote a financially viable and efficient energy sector that provides you with reliable energy services at a reasonable cost.

- You can file a letter with your comments, which will be considered during the hearing.
- You can become an active participant (called an intervenor). Apply by June 14, 2017 or the hearing will go ahead without you and you will not receive any further notice of the proceeding.
- At the end of the process, you can review the OEB's decision and its reasons on our website.

LEARN MORE

These proposed charges relate to Hydro One's distribution services. They make up part of the Delivery line - one of the five line items on your bill. Our file number for this case is EB-2017-0049. To learn more about this hearing, find instructions on how to file letters or become an intervenor, or to access any document related to this case, please select the file number EB-2017-0049 from the list on the OEB website: www.oeb.ca/notice. # Providence Bay News and Notes

Gary and Doug McFarlane were home for a visit from Sault Ste Marie on the long weekend. They were joined by Gary's brother Reg from Tobermory. They had many visitors drop by while they were here. Gary and family are missed by many.

The Lake Huron Fish and Chips opened their doors on the long weekend as did the Schoolhouse Restaurant. It's sure nice having some options for eating out on the weekends. Once summer begins in earnest, they'll be open six and seven days a week again.

Dorret Brown of Toronto has been a visitor with Miguel and Laura Kernohan (nee Oakes).

The municipality of Central Manitoulin began beach and boardwalk maintenance last week. The activities that they are undertaking this year are removal of some shrubs, including the roots, along the water's edge on the east side of the Mindemoya River for the length of the boardwalk, clearing a path from the boardwalk staircases to the water and removal of some vegetation on the east side of the Mindemoya River. These actions will enhance the area for enjoyment by visitors while enhancing the habitat for species at risk. They will be conducting specific activities each year to enhance the beach. They received a 25-year permit from the Ministry of Natural Resources and Forestry to conduct specific activities and is not intended for members of the general public. If you have any questions about this, please contact the township office directly.

We now have stop lights in Providence Bay! At the time of news submission, they're still not operational but things are really moving along and there's lots of activity at the bridge.

The Mutchmor Gallery and Lofts has received a new paintjob on the north side of the building this time. So something new for everyone to come out and see. We hope to find out more about the mural for next weeks news.

Everyone seems to be taking such pride in the looks of their yards and lawns. Our little village is looking so pretty. The flowering trees are all in bloom and everything looks so fresh and revitalized. The community gardens are being done including the welcome to Providence Bay signs, the cemetery and down at the Interpretive Centre.

The village square is also looking beautiful. We're so proud of our community and all of our residents. Keep up all the wonderful work and thank you to all for helping.

Happy Birthday wishes go out to Jamie McDermid who is celebrating on May 31. Be sure to give him good wishes when you see him out and about.

Mark your calendar for the monthly Curling Club Breakfast. It's always held the first Thursday of the month, this month falling on June 1. This hearty buffet breakfast raises money to help offset the cost of the curling clubs operations. Come on out and enjoy breakfast between 7 to 9:30 am and help support this great organization.

Happy Birthday wishes go out to Marley Neill who celebrates June 3. She's returned from her trip out to visit her Mom Anna. While there, they visited the West Edmonton Mall, Banff, Lake Louise, the Kananskis Country National Park and Crazy Creek Waterfall.

The family of the late Lisa and Gerry Langridge are holding a service for interment of their ashes in the Providence Bay cemetery on Saturday, June 3 at 12:30 pm. There will be a light lunch and refreshments along with a sharing of memories at the curling club following the service.

The Community of Christ Church is holding their old-fashioned picnic on Saturday, June 3 beginning at 1 pm with races and games planned to start the afternoon off. They will have a barbecue at 4 pm. Please join them for lots of fun. They ask that you bring your own lawn chair and potluck salad or dessert.

Keep your eyes out for cyclists with the Manitoulin Passage Ride. One of their scenic routes will take them right past the beach and through our little village. Make sure to give them lots of room when you see them on the highways. Share the road.

Mark your calendars for the annual Bluegrass in the Country festival being held June 8-11 at the Providence Bay Fairgrounds. All proceeds go towards Manitoulin Special Olympics.

If you would like to make a submission to the Providence Bay News and Notes, please ensure that you do so by each Sunday at 3 pm. This will be for the column published the following Wednesday. You can email prov_chick@hotmail.com or you can call Cheryl at 705-377-7511. We appreciate any and all information received. There is so much going on in our village that we'd love to let everyone know.

Nature Walk

There's something about nature
That can patch up your soul,
Heal all your transgressions
Make you feel whole.
The world and its problems
Can bring you to ground,
But blue sky and fresh air
Will make you feel sound.
There's always a problem
That we have to face,
A love gone away
Or a touch of disgrace.
But walk in the woodland,
Watch bird on the wing.
Can shrink all the problems
And make your heart sing.
To think about others
And show that you care
Will make you forget
All the burdens you bear.
So walk in the sunshine.
I'm sure you'll feel fine.
Take what your God offers
Comfort, Love, Peace of mind.
-Pat Hall, 2017

Ron and Juanita Gilchrist had lunch with Ron and Justeen Anstice on Sunday. They were here to attend the memorial for Ted Bowerman.

Tyra Young celebrated her 19th birthday a couple of weeks ago.

A good crowd for Bingo. Some of the residents. Always good to have them back with us.

Well, a couple of games. After the games, with Mum. She says, "I'm the BEST" today, at least!

We had eight tables for cribbage and, as always, a delicious lunch. Two 24 hands today, Noreen and Lina; first, Dorothy A. and Jessie, 963; second, Betty Jean and Bill, 957; third, Bert and Jay, 939; low, Hugh and Lyla, 751; door, Dorothy C., Dorothy A., and Hugh C.

Sorry to hear of the death of Joe O'Brien. Thinking of you all.

The regular euchre on Thursday eve: ladies' high, 65, Pauline won on a cut with Sheila; ladies' lone, 2, Sheila won on a cut with Pat N. and Pauline; low, Laurene, 44; men's high, Dorothy C., 65; men's lone, Andy, 2; low, Margaret, 49; door, Margaret McC.

This week re-reading our Island's own authors Murdock's "Master of Deception," and Marian's "Once Upon an Island." I liked the life and history in the last, the real life setting. I did have the second book too but loaned it out, But!! Laura Scott gave me a couple of tulips they are actually Canada 150. I have some that are creamy yellow, supposedly the red and white, 150s, not. You just don't know what you're buying in the bulb! I guess I'm behind time in the thank you, Sissy, I just found a gift in my pocket!

Marissa is back at Island Fish and Chips, smiling. Cal and I had lunch there Saturday. We chatted with Ken Elford and his son Greg who was here from Toronto to see his Dad.

We drove around the harbour where a goose family was holding up traffic. I counted 20 youngsters, two families and one Daddy, it seemed? The blended families occur everywhere! How wonderful nature is! Big plopping splashes as the young ones had to jump in from a bit of a height. What a long line, as the babies swam single file behind the adults. Beautiful sunny day too! Fills your heart with sunshine.

Wendy had relatives from Germany here and was taking them for a hike on the Bowerman trail.

Hello, Randolph and Kay. Thinking of you, Elaine Denovan.

We can do no great things, only smaller things with great love! Mother Theresa

We had in our midst today a group of wonderful musicians with most generous hearts.

We also had some wonderful cooks who put up the most delicious desserts for our guests and our entertainers at the hall.

The Manitouliners claimed it was a good practice session for them as it was the first time they had all been together since their winter sabbaticals. Thank you to Lyle, Gordy, Norm, Harold, Peter, George and Lori. A special thanks to June McDougall for her reading "The Deck of Cards." The door prize winner was Reta Vanhorn, a beautiful planter/flowers. I'm still singing.

Later in the evening I sat with Joan and Bordie at Carol's and Earl's, then went and let Mum beat me at cards!

On the Wings of Eagles was our sermon today. So interesting. Silver Wings (Dwight's song) is the name of our family group to be represented in the Relay for Life.

There's a wonderful collection of cousins expected to join together for the cause.

The elderberries are loaded with blooms this year, lots of fruit, perhaps. The pear tree at the rock cut is doing its thing. It looked dead after the porcupine did his thing last year, beautiful.

Singing I'll Be with You in Apple Blossom Time! Now! Hey, some mornings in life we get a kick-start. But, things turned out OK. To all you ailing folk, get well soon! I was talking to Pauline last evening; she sounds fine.

The MSS Mustangs are now in their last month of school but there is still lots happening at the school.

The MSS track and field team travelled to Laurentian University for NOSSA on Wednesday, May 24 to Thursday May 25. The team had to compete in wet and rainy conditions, but coach Mr. Balfe said, "The team performed exceptionally well, especially with the poor conditions." The Mustangs who competed at NOSSA were James Scott, Marjorie Scott, Marshall Maciuk, Mackenzie Cortes, Yohana Ogbamichael, Douglas Robinson, Austin Purvis, Elizabeth Wood, Nicole Boyle, Alex Smith, Gabby Corbiere, Matt Redmond, and Beth Wiwchar. They competed in the various track and field events. Marjorie Scott placed in the top 10 for midget girls' triple jump, Matt Redmond placed in the top 10 for intermediate boys' discus throw and shotput, and James Scott placed 1st in both of his 800m and 1500m races. MSS wishes James luck as he moves on to OFSAA in Belleville on June 1-3.

SHARE/Go Green hosted a Me to We workshop, Give Where We Live, on May 25. Two facilitators visited MSS for a two-hour after school program. Denver Leeson, Josh Noble and I spent two hours learning about how to get more students involved in extracurriculars and clubs at MSS. The group was supported by Ms. Bauer, Ms. Wilson, Ms. Jones and had many great ideas for the future.

Relay for Life is on June 2, and the committee is busy pulling the final parts of the event together. Relay for Life will include a Survivor's Feast, Survivor's lap, the Luminary Ceremony, all-night music, a tent decorating contest, the all-night walking relay, games, movies, and many more fun activities. SHARE will be running canteen from 5 pm to 5 am selling snacks with all proceeds going to charity. In order to participate, members had to raise $100 to put towards their team. Each team then had to raise a minimum of $1,000 in pledges. The goal of the event is to raise $30,000 for the Canadian Cancer Society. All the proceeds from the event will be going towards finding a cure for cancer.

The Prom Committee is selling tickets for the year-end dance, planned for Thursday, June 8 from 9 pm to 12 am. The dance will start at the end of the graduation ceremony, so that the graduates of 2017 can dance with their friends and celebrate their success. The theme of prom this year is "Black and Gold," giving the dance a sophisticate angle. Tickets are $10 a person or $15 a couple.

The MSS Mustangs are getting ready to end the year, but they aren't slowing down for anything. 'Til next time, stay golden, Mustangs.
