Wikwemkoong breaks ground for new Victims of Violence shelter

New home will shelter both men, women and children

by Robin Burridge
WIKWEMKOONG—The Naandwechige-Gamig Wikwemikong Health Centre has received $2.3 million from the federal government to build an 8,000 square foot shelter for victims of violence, which will be located on Genevieve Street in Wikwemkoong.

The 13 bedroom facility will accommodate 17 individuals, with the shelter accepting both men and women in crisis, as well as youth over the age of 16.

“The shelter will be a safe haven for those in need of emergency residential safety and protection due to violence and abuse as well as foster courage within individuals to re-connect to wellness,” Naandwechige-Gamig announced in a press release. “The facility will be accessible to all citizens living on Manitoulin

Island and abroad and will provide its programs and services based on Anishinaabe culture.”

“CMHC (Canadian Mortgage and Housing Corporation) and Indigenous Northern Ontario Affairs Canada had a call for expressions of interest for funding for shelters on reserves last year,” Wikwemikong Health Centre Director of Services Mary Jo Wabano explained to The Expositor. “We applied and got our notification that we had been success-

Court deadline looms over Robinson Huron annuities case

by Michael Erskine
ROBINSON-HURON—The last time the Robinson Huron Treaty annuities were given a raise Alexander McKenzie was the second prime minister of Canada and Alexander Graham Bell had just made the first sound transmission—that was 1875 and the rise was to the princely sum of $4. That $4 would be roughly $84.70 if adjusted for inflation in today's dollars.

The chiefs of the Robinson Huron Treaty have been trying to get the federal government to address the issue for ages through the Robinson Huron Treaty Annuities Claim. On September 25 the chiefs will begin their day in court, seeking to force the federal ASSIGINACK—If you spend any time at all talking to Manitowaning's John Caselton you pick up pretty quickly that he is the very definition of a renaissance man—contractor, musician, entrepreneur and meticulous researcher—and when it comes to aquaculture, a man with his eyes set on a very practical (and profitable) endgame.

Mr. Caselton became interested in aquaculture several years ago and he quickly noticed in his research that local cage aquacul-

Hwy 540 entrance to Cup and Saucer trail deemed safe for traffic despite citizen concerns

Study recommends expanded parking

by Robin Burridge
NORTHEAST TOWN—A report on the new Highway 540 Cup and Saucer Trail entrance, commissioned by the Northeast Town and prepared by Tranplan Associates, has been completed and approved by council.

While the traffic brief found that there were no issues with the new entrance, it did recommend that the 32 capacity parking lot be expanded to allow for 50 vehicles, including spaces for RVs/trailers. The news of the need to expand the parking lot will come to no surprise to Manitoulin residents who drove past the Highway 540 trail entrance this summer.

A video posted on Facebook in July by an Islander showing cars, trucks and RVs lining both sides of the highway by the trail entrance for what seems like endless kilometers garnered a lot of attention and comments, with many noting the danger the traffic posed and the need for an expanded parking lot.

“Based on the Ministry of Transportation (MTO) data, the site visit and traffic count was scheduled for a Sunday, mid-day,” states the report. “The peak hour for Highway 540 and the site was recorded between 1:30 pm and 2:30 pm (21 vehicles entered and five exited) while 100 vehicles passed westbound and 200 vehicles passed eastbound along Highway 540. These volumes fall well below warranting a left turn storage lane or a right turn taper on Highway 540.”

“The existing temporary parking lot has an approximate capacity of 32 vehicles,” the report continues. “On the Sunday of the survey, the lot appeared to be at capacity between 2 pm and 2:30 pm. It is recommended that the permanent parking lot have capacity for at least 50 vehicles including spaces for at least 3-5 larger RVs/trailers.”

The study also found that, “based on the low level of traffic on Highway 540, the modest volumes the Cup and Saucer parking lot is expected to generate and the available sightlines, it is our opinion that the temporary site is not creating any traffic problems and

Sheguiandah fiber artist's works go globetrotting

by Robin Burridge
SHEGUIANDAH—The beautiful work of fiber artist Judy Martin, who resides in Sheguiandah, is being shared with the world through three global exhibitions that will see her pieces travel to Japan, Europe and across North America.

“Mended World was selected to be part of a special exhibition, ‘Masterworks: Abstract and Geometric,’ in the International Quilt Festival in Houston, Texas that takes place in early November,” Ms. Martin explained to The Expositor. “The quilts in this exhibition are by the 29 featured artists in a book that was published in 2016, ‘Art Quilts International: Abstract and Geometric,’ by Martha Sielman. These engaging works of art represent a range of styles across the abstract art spectrum. Participating artists come from Australia, Canada, Europe, Japan and across the US.”

Mended World was completed in 2012. It measures 94 inches by 94 inches and is made from re-purposed damask tablecloths and new silk. It is machine and hand pieced, and hand quilted. Many hands worked on this quilt during the project that took place in the Little Current United Church between 2009 and 2013.

Investigation into death of Jim Still ongoing, police say

WIKWEMKOONG—No new information has been released following the autopsy of 85-year-old Jim Still of Little Current, who passed away in Little Current hospital on August 30 due to complications from an incident on Friday, August 25 at the Wikwemikong Nursing Home, where Mr. Still was a resident. “The investigation is still active and ongoing,” Wikwemikong Tribal Police Chief Gary Reid told The Expositor Monday morning, informing this newspaper that he could not yet comment on the outcome of the autopsy held at the Ontario

Forensic Pathology Service in Sudbury. The Wikwemikong Tribal Police are continuing the investigation with the assistance of the Ontario Provincial Police (OPP) Crime Unit from Sudbury and Forensic Identification Services under the direction of OPP Criminal Investigation Branch

Detective Inspector Mark Zulinski. Anyone with information regarding the incident should contact the OPP at 1-888-310-1122, the Wikwemikong Tribal Police at 705-859-3141 or by calling Crime Stoppers at 1-800-222-8477. Tipsters may be eligible to receive a cash reward of up to $2,000.

Linda Debassige returned as M’Chigeeng chief

by Michael Erskine
M’CHIGEENG—Incumbent Ogimaa Linda Debassige was returned as chief of the M’Chigeeng First Nation in last week’s band council elections by a substantial margin. Ogimaa Debassige garnered 325 votes to challenger Adam Debassige’s 141 votes. The 10 elected candidates were Albert

Linda Debassige

Beaudin with 317 votes; incumbent Ray Corbiere with 291 votes; Dennis Corbiere with 236 votes; Grace Debassige with 233 votes; incumbent Henry Panamick Sr. with 226 votes; incumbent Howard Debassige with 225 votes; Jesse Beaudin with 213 votes; incumbent Thomas Hare with 206 votes; Daughness Migwans with 204 votes; and incumbent Forry Hare with 204 votes. Ms. Migwans is also a former band councillor returning to the table after taking a number of years off. The results posted here were “unofficial” as of press time as they must be acknowledged by the band administration to become official and the band offices were closed Monday.

Inaugural Manitoulin rock festival named

by Alicia McCutcheon
MANITOULIN—Following the announcement that a rock concert was inevitable next summer for the Flat Rock Entertainment Centre in Little Current—home of Manitoulin County Fest—and with a public call out to ‘name that concert,’ the entries flooded in to The Manitoulin Expositor office with one lucky winner chosen on Monday.

at The Expositor office for the winner of two tickets to the first ever Rockin’ the Rock music festival, with Karen McGraw being the lucky winner. The other nine people who also gave that submission will receive a 10 percent discount off their ticket price.

Many of the almost 100 entries were a variation of the words ‘rock’ and ‘Manitoulin’ and, thusly, it was decided to go with the popular entry of Rockin’ the Rock for the inaugural rock and roll festival, Craig Timmermans explained.

While the story breaking the news of Rockin’ the Rock originally gave a July date for the concert, the Timmermans are now looking to a new date, likely in August. Stay tuned for more details as they become available.

To make things fair for all those who chose the name, a draw was held Monday morning

As previously reported in The Expositor, Rockin’ the Rock will take place over two days, a Friday night Battle of the Bands with a Saturday night concert featuring, likely, two icons of Canadian classic rock.

“Thank you to everyone who wrote in with their submissions,” Mr. Timmermans said. “The support for this new concert series has been phenomenal,” he added, noting that he has already received plenty of interest from local groups wishing to participate in the Friday night Battle of the Bands.

Kevin Rose appointed president of the Economic Development Assoc. of Canada

by Michael Erskine
NIAGARA FALLS—Manitoulin’s Kevin Rose has been appointed president of the Economic Developers Association of Canada (EDAC), Canada’s national organization of economic developers. Mr. Rose, the owner-operator of Little Current’s Harbour Vue Marina, is a longtime Island economic development professional and a passionate spokesperson for the field. He was the first Indigenous person to serve as vice-president of the EDAC and will now be the first First Nations person to head that organization.

Kevin Rose

“I have been involved in the EDAC for about seven years,” noted Mr. Rose, who first became involved with the organization while working for Waubetek Business Development Corporation in economic development.

“I started the certification process with 35 other people,” he recalled. “I am not sure how many followed along behind me, but I went through the entire set of courses to get my designation.”

The EDAC is Canada’s national not-for-profit networking association for professional economic developers in the federal, provincial, municipal and private sectors. The association offers its members professional development, networking opportunities and a comprehensive offering of resources, both on and offline.

“There is a lot of value added for economic development professionals in membership in the EDAC,” he said, citing membership development as the prime motivator of the organization.

Mr. Rose said he is particularly excited to be leading the organization at this time in its development. “We have been moving in a national route,” he said. “We have an MOU (memorandum of understanding) with the States and are working on one with Economic Opportunities Australia. We are now looking at the European Union.” MOUs express a convergence of will between the parties, indicating an intended common line of action.

The work ahead will involve

Sheguiandah to celebrate Canada at annual Fall Fair

by Robin Burrige
SHEGUIANDAH—The Centennial Museum of Sheguiandah is hosting its annual Fall Fair themed ‘Canada Celebrates’ this Saturday, September 16.

“There will be a large display of exhibits ranging from flowers, baking, crafts, photographs, vegetables and more,” said museum manager and town events coordinator Lisa Hallaert. “There will be youth and high school divisions, in addition to regular divisions. Exhibit entries must be dropped off by Friday (September 15) by 4:30 pm.”

“This year we have prize money for the exhibit winners,” added Ms. Hallaert. “This money is all donations from local residents along with the township and Little Current Lions Club.”

George Williamson will be providing entertainment throughout the fair Saturday and a special guest from Toronto, Lawrence Pinkney, will be giving a speech about his research on the Steele Briggs Seed Company that led him to Sheguiandah, specifically the Trotter Store.

There will be weaving and pottery making demonstrations, as well as several vendors on hand.

For lunch there will be barbecued hamburgers and hot dogs available.

“Fair goers can try a few cranks on the ice cream maker and get a taste,” Ms. Hallaert said. “The antique tractors will also be on site again this year. This is the 7th Annual Sheguiandah Fall Fair and it just keeps getting bigger and better each year. Fall is such a pretty time of year so why not celebrate it at the Centennial Museum with all of the pretty colours. I would like to thank the members of the Manitoulin Genealogy Club for all their hard work. Hope to see you at the fair!”

The annual Sheguiandah Fall Fair is on this Saturday, September 16 from 10 am to 4 pm at the Centennial Museum of Sheguiandah.

Hydro One outage scheduled for Sept. 30

MANITOULIN—Hydro One has announced a scheduled power interruption for Saturday, September 30 affecting 4,778 customers on Manitoulin.

The following areas will be affected by the power outage: Allan East, M’Chigeeng, Carnarvon, Burpee and Mills, Gordon, Allan West, Billings, Central Manitoulin, Gore Bay, Dawson, Bidwell North, Robinson, Howland, Sheshegwaning, Barrie Island, Sandfield, South Bidwell, Cockburn Island and Zhiibaahaasing.

Hydro One is installing electricity lines in preparation for the new M’Chigeeng distribution station.

The outage will take place from 9 am to 3 pm on Saturday, September 30.

Old Mill Post Office Museum upgrades unveiled this Friday

On Friday, September 15 at 4 pm, municipal, federal and provincial representatives will be in Kagawong for a ribbon cutting ceremony to mark the restoration and upgrades to the Old Mill Heritage Centre’s Post Office Museum. “This newly restored building will greatly enhance tourism to the community,” said Old Mill Heritage Centre Curator Rick Nelson. “Included as part of the dignitaries will be representatives of the Ontario Trillium Foundation and FEDNOR who jointly invested to the project. Billings Township Mayor Austin Hunt will also be in attendance along members of Billings Museum Board. The Old Mill Heritage Centre is currently exhibiting a Pearson Exhibit featuring artifacts from the personal office of former Algoma East MP Lester B. (Mike) Pearson, Canada’s 14th prime minister and the nation’s only Nobel Peace Prize winner.

Ont. seeks commentary on new curriculum, report cards

by Michael Erskine
TORONTO—Ontario Premier Kathleen Wynne and her education minister Mitzi Hunter visited Toronto’s Lawrence Park Collegiate Institute on September 6 to announce the opening of public consultations on the province’s proposed new curriculum and to provide details on the new report cards, both of which will be introduced into schools for the 2018-19 academic year.

“I have always believed that our work to build a fairer, more innovative Ontario starts in our publicly funded education system,” said Premier Wynne in a release following the announcement. “We have great schools, but we always need to look for ways to make our children’s schools even better. We need to give kids the variety of skills they’ll need in a fast-changing world. This curriculum refresh will build on all the progress we’ve made and ensure we’re giving students the skills, supports and opportunities to make their mark in their careers, their communities and the world.”

“In order for Ontario to continue to support student well-being and promote equity in our publicly funded education system, we must be positioned to meet the growing and ever-changing needs of all students today and in the future,” said Ontario Minister of Education Mitzi Hunter. “We will work with all of our partners to ensure students have access to the most current and up-to-date curriculum possible, from Kindergarten to Grade 12.” The proposed changes to the curriculum have met with positive responses from parent and science groups, as well as business leaders from across the province, but Rainbow District School Board Trustee Larry Killens is skeptical of the changes and their timing.

“I read very quickly the news release from Ms. Wynne,” said Mr. Killens. “There are no solid details that I can see, however I will say as the trustee from the Manitoulin Island (and not speaking for the board), based on my experience for 20-plus years, I can see the Rainbow District School Board and I would go out on a limb and say other public school boards in Ontario have not been kept in the loop as well at all—unless the directors of education are keeping a secret. I suggest that highly unlikely and fatal to the level of trust if true.”

Mr. Killens challenged the premier’s record on education. “How many times has Ms. Wynne and her ministers, improved, refreshed, redesigned and promised better?” he asked. “We in Rainbow Country, in most if not all EQAO scores, are lower than the provincial average.”

He went on to note that “constant news articles of accommodation reviews mandating school closures happen too frequently. We now have basically a moratorium on accommodation reviews provincially,” he

Agricultural fairs a wonderful celebration of rural heritage

The bustling crowds wandering through the exhibits at the Manitowaning Fall Fair this past weekend brings to mind the important role that such fairs play in celebrating our rural and agricultural heritage.

For 141 years the volunteers of the Manitowaning Agricultural Society have dedicated countless hours to organizing each year's edition of the venerable fair, cataloguing and judging entries of jams, jellies, pies, breads, fruits, vegetables, knitting, crafts and a host of other items that fill the exhibit halls. They are one example (we avoid the word 'just,' out of deference to the effort involved) of the many groups across Manitoulin. The Providence Bay Fair may be the largest, but from the Central Manitoulin Public School Fall Fair (the only remaining entry in its class in the province) is a treat for all involved, the Sheguiandah Fall Fair is a resurgence of the genre in the Northeast Town and the Wiikwemkoong Fall Fair helps celebrate that community's long and storied agricultural heritage.

Fall fairs, agricultural fairs if you will, permit a slight expansion in semantics, bring an opportunity for young green thumbs to shine along with great auntie Thelma's apple pie or her arch rival's pickled beets. Encouraging youth to take an interest in the rural arts is the surest way to maintain the nuances of our history and culture into the 21st century. They are skills worth nurturing for their own sake, but they also provide a valuable opportunity to engender pride in who we are and where our families come from.

It was a mere couple of generations ago that most families lived in rural communities and the occupation of farmer was among the most common to be found on census taken throughout the nation. Understanding the lives of those who came before can begin with following great Auntie Thelma's heritage recipe to produce an award winning apple pie (that's if, of course, she spilled the beans on her secrets to her family before heading on to that great bakery in the sky).

In this hurly burly world where everybody's gaze seems to be intently focussed on the screen in their hands there is great value to be found in rolling up your sleeves and engaging with a rolling pin—or maybe pickling spices if you are a progeny of Auntie Thelma's arch rival.

Sadly, too many communities have let these wonderful connections to the past slip through their fingers and fade from memory. Thankfully, and thanks to so many dedicated volunteers, the community fall fair remains a vibrant and popular experience here on Manitoulin.

We encourage everyone to take the opportunity to step out and take part in the fall fairs happening near you this autumn or the harvesting workshops provided by the likes of Debajehmujig or the folks at the Manitoulin Community Fresh Food Initiative and Kenjgewin Teg. It is an experience well worth the time and effort—make sure you take the kids, grandkids or niece/nephew with you when you go.

Bring a pickle or a pie.

2017 taxes another burden for farmers

A lot of very unhappy farmers out there right now

To the Expositor:

The full impact of the latest property assessments delivered by MPAC (Municipal Property Assessment Corporation) and the final date of September 29, 2017 for taxes due in the municipality of NEMI (Town of Northeastern Manitoulin and the Islands), property owners of agricultural lands will bear the majority of tax increases over all classes of property such as residential, recreational, commercial and industrial. The farmers are already faced with high operating costs for fuel, seed, fertilizer, machinery and repairs, etc. and now add property taxes.

I own a small farm property of 170 acres and I have a 30 percent increase in my farm property assessment resulting in a 37 percent increase in my taxes from 2016. This tax increase is for the farmland and farm buildings, excluding the residence. I might be able to recoup some of this tax increase from a neighbouring farmer who rents my farm, but if I do I expect he will be a very unhappy farmer.

A sad farewell to a wonderful human being

Jim Still is recalled by a friend and colleague

To the Expositor:

It is profound sadness that I learned of the untimely death of Jim Still.

I had the pleasure of knowing Jim for over 50 years having played senior hockey with him back in the late '50s and early '60s. We also played ball together in those days.

Jim served his country admirably with Pete Loosemore in the Korean conflict and also served many folks working on the ambulance as a dedicated attendant.

Jim was an extremely well thought of man, greatly respected by all who knew him. He was always smiling, respectful and always had time for a chat.

With his passing we all have lost a great man and friend.

The cause of death at this time appears to be undetermined, however should it be established as other than natural causes, it is my hope that justice shall prevail, swiftly and severely to the full extent of the law.

Rest in peace my old friend; you will be greatly missed by all.

Concerns over the portrayal of Meldrum Bay to tourists

Meldrum Bay today is looking better than it has in years

To the Expositor:

Let me start by saying that although I'm not an Islander or landowner, I've been coming to Manitoulin for almost 30 years and there is nowhere else my wife and I would rather spend our holidays. We count the days until our next visit and have introduced a number of other families to the Island over the years, several of whom have made return trips themselves. It's a special, magical place for all kinds of reasons. So although I've held back my thoughts for years, feeling perhaps that I might be out of line to publicly voice my views about a place that was not my home, I can't hold back any longer—why can't the stakeholders of the Mississagi Lighthouse property get their act together?

No doubt the puzzle of who controls what aspect of the lighthouse is a confusing one: the federal government, Dawson and Robinson townships, the Manitoulin Tourism Association, Lafarge and what I assume to be a private landowner, with respect to the access road, all appear to have a stake in things. But from an outsider's perspective, it's hard to get a sense of who controls what and nobody I've ever spoken to has been able to provide a confident answer. Regardless of the intertwined relationships, I've always been bewildered as to why the simple upkeep and maintenance of this jewel appears to be beyond the ability (or caring) of those who have the power to do so.

On our recent holiday, my wife and I were thrilled to see the long overdue, excellent restoration work done to the lighthouse. For at least the last three summers, the tattered, leaky tarp covering the roof was a truly depressing sight to see upon pulling up to the campground. I'd hoped that the ancient septic bed may have received some of the same type of attention and been pumped and tuned up.

Sadly, this was not the case, and as usual, at least two flushes were required to clear any kind of volume, leaving you anxiously wondering if the next flush would send the whole mess spilling over the rim of the bowl. As with our last visit, two of the four showers were permanently out of order and for about a day, the water system completely broke down, a situation the campground manager Maddy Wagar and her assistant Hope rectified as soon as they could, not an easy task at such a remote site and even more difficult when plumbing is not something you are expert in.

I don't think it's a stretch to say basic strategic thinking would suggest that if you'd like to draw tourists to the far West End of the Island, having something for them to see and do once there would be the way to go about it. Sadly, having the official 2017 Manitoulin Visitors Guide tell daytrippers that there is a restaurant at the lighthouse (prepared food has not been available there for three years now) and having MTA staff (reported in the "Friends and Neighbors section of the Recorder on August 18) telling Welcome Centre visitors that "there's nothing to see in Meldrum Bay, don't bother going there" certainly won't help. I didn't know whether to laugh or cry when I read that.

Meldrum Bay today is looking better than it has in years—the store has reopened with enthusiastic new owners, the inn continues on as a reliable destination for those seeking quality food and accommodation, a new cell tower has brought reliable wireless communication and new diesel, gas and marine pumping facilities are slated to be installed at the marina this fall. It's time the lighthouse received a bit more love from those with the ability to make things happen. And I think the word "bit" is important, as I believe meaningful improvements could be done for much, much less than the $400,000 dollars MTA Operations Manager Shelba Millette has said is the total of the unfunded wish list her organization has compiled.

Is a grassroots, community effort, involving all stakeholders who care about the property, an option? Chipping in time and resources? Often much can be accomplished, usually faster and sometimes better, by motivated individuals rather than by lumbering, bloated bureaucratic government channels. At the very least, the before mentioned plumbing issues need to be addressed immediately. As Ms. Millette herself has said, "Where there's a will, there's a way."

Maddy Wagar has done much with very little this summer and we, along with other Mississagi Lighthouse lovers, owe her our thanks. We hope to see her, or whoever ends up operating the site next year, receiving more support to make this historic and natural treasure shine. They and the many people who make the trip out to visit the lighthouse deserve better and so do the people of Manitoulin Island. Respectfully,

Tom and Beth Legere

Thursday, September 14 marks the 135th Anniversary of the loss of the Asia

by Fred Holmes

One marine disaster led to another as first the Manitoulin caught fire on May 17, 1882 and was beached to reduce damage but with a loss of about 25 lives. Her successor on the route was the Asia which foundered in the almost hurricane of Thursday September 14, 1882, with a loss of over one hundred souls but miraculously, there were two survivors.

Melanchthon Simpson of St. Catharines built the 136-foot Asia in 1873 and she ran Windsor—Sarnia—Duluth for the North-West Transportation Co. of Sarnia. She was chartered by the Great Northern Transit Company to replace the Manitoulin on the Collingwood - Meaford - Owen Sound - Presqu'ile - French River - Sault Ste. Marie route that included intermediary ports.

Her final trip saw her depart Collingwood on September 13 at 5 pm and she departed from Owen Sound just after midnight on the 14th. Both Christie Morrison and Douglas Tinkiss boarded at Owen Sound. Christie was en route to the Sault to visit a sister and missed the Northern Belle's departure. Douglas and his Uncle James Hermon were heading back to Manitowaning on Manitoulin Island. The Steamboat Inspection Boards Chairman Report for 1882 described the wind that the Asia encountered late that morning as almost that of a hurricane for a short time and over a limited area.

To that date, the loss of the Asia represented the eighth greatest lost loss of human life on the Great Lakes and the largest loss on Georgian Bay. With no passenger manifest, the number actually lost remains unknown but various newspapers eventually put the number at 122 on a vessel souvenir photograph was taken in Dixon's Toronto photography and showed her dressed in black, holding a rope with a painted background of a seashore scene. Christie had long dark hair that hung almost to her elbows and the photograph angle emphasized that.

After her marriage on October 26, 1892 at the age of 29 to Albert Fleming, they resided on a farm at Kilsyth, southwest of Owen Sound. Their only child, a son, Clifford, was born in 1899. Christie passed away on August 18, 1937, aged 73 from coronary thrombosis and was buried in Owen Sound's Greenwood Cemetery on August 21. The family plot includes her husband, son Clifford and Clifford's wife. Christie and Albert had two grandchildren.

Douglas Albert Tinkis was born October 13, 1865 in Prescott. At the time Douglas and his Uncle stepped onto the Asia in Owen Sound, Douglas was working for his father, Jehiel, in Manitowaning as a merchant. In 1887 Douglas moved to Little Current where he established the Mansion House hotel with his brother. This hotel still stands today, renamed the Anchor Inn Hotel. Douglas never married.

In 1900, Douglas had an attack of rheumatism that made him bed ridden for some weeks. A repeat attack in 1901 caused him to go to Toronto's Walker House for treatment but he got worse and his mother Angeline was called for. Shortly after her arrival, he was admitted to Grace Hospital where he passed away from a cerebral hemorrhage on October 4, aged 36. He was buried in Holy Trinity Cemetery, Howland Township, just outside of Little Current.

This author suggests the tombstones of Christie Morrison Fleming and Douglas Albert Tinkis need a small plaque affixed that says this is one of the two survivors of the loss of the Asia.

We know where the survivors now rest, but where does the Asia rest? Byng Inlet commercial fishermen have complained about catching their nets on unknown underwater objects. Could one of these be the Asia? Some believe it is and in 70 feet of water. Canadian Hydrographic Chart 2244, Alexander Passage to Beaverstone Bay notes water depths of up to 229 feet. Given a lifeboat drifting southeasterly towards sight of the Byng Inlet light before a more southerly drift to Pointe au Baril, the Asia likely lies within this Chart, hidden for 135 years.

The survivors, 19-year-old Christie Ann Morrison and 16 year old Douglas Albert Tinkis, appeared to have survived because they took positions in the lifeboat at opposite ends and as the lifeboat flipped they were able to hold on with each rotation unlike the others with them, who were tossed out again and again.

The story of the loss of the Asia is well known, but little was said about the survivors once Captain P.A. Scott R.N., Chairman of the Board of Examiners of Masters & Mates, completed the Federal investigation. The hearing was held September 26-October 4, 1882 and concluded that as far as could be ascertained, the vessel was not in good ballast trim. A coroner's inquiry on September 20 was more damning, blaming various people including Captain Savage, the latter for heading out from Presqu'ile with a quickly dropping barometer.

Christie Ann Morrison was born on March 17, 1863 to a farming couple and lived in the Blind Line area near Bognor, southeast of Owen Sound. After the Asia incident, where she was deemed in the press to be a heroine, there was a report in the December 1, 1882 Paisley Advocate that she was to visit Bruce County to sell her photograph. ### Technology offers opportunities for criminals to dip into your pocket

I would rather do the footwork to do research or just use the telephone

To the Expositor:

Technology today is great for criminals to use for stealing money. I bet some of those criminals are just getting rich because of this. They are rarely caught for stealing money because of hacking that can be done any where in the world. As for the government, it's not working for them too well from what I have heard on the news. I'm glad I do not use this technology. I would rather do the footwork if I want to do research or just use the telephone. It's time consuming this way but it's worth it. I get to talk to people in person or even sometimes we end up sharing some things that have nothing to do with my research. I usually feel pretty good after my phone call. Today's technology is just texting and to me that's pretty boring just reading words. Might as well just go read a newspaper or something else, maybe a book.

How are we to achieve reconciliation if we bypass inconvenient truth

A move by any other name may be forced

To the Expositor:

I always read with interest and enjoyment Isobel Henry's articles. 'Visiting Manitoulin' in the Expositor's August 23 edition did not disappoint, but moreover, caused me to think about Truth and Reconciliation.

In her article, Ms. Henry quotes a passage from Shelley Pearen's book, 'Exploring Manitoulin,' as follows: "By 1870 most of the original residents (ie.,13 Native families) "moved 7 miles west to the new Sucker Creek reserve" (now Aundeck Omni Kaning First Nation)." To be clear, I am not taking issue with either Ms. Henry or Ms. Pearen, but I am raising this question for all of us. If we are to successfully travel the challenges that face us in moving from Truth to Reconciliation, how can we tell uncomfortable truths?

As Alan Corbiere suggested in his excellent lecture given in Kagawong this summer, we cannot conveniently bypass uncomfortable truths to land in reconciliation.

In this regard, "moved" to AOK is an interesting choice of verb that could perhaps be better replaced with "encouraged to move," or "were moved," or "pushed to move" or even "forced to move."

How are we to achieve reconciliation? What is the truth we need to talk about to get us there? How do we talk about uncomfortable truths?

Northeast Town Council Notes

AOK roadwork

Town CAO Dave Williamson talked to council about a request from Pioneer Construction to do night work on a portion of Highway 540 by Aundeck Omni Kaning.

"The homeowners were notified by letter and I spoke to all but one personally to let them know our intentions and our reasoning," stated a letter from Pioneer Construction to the Northeast Town council. "All homeowners that I spoke to were in favour of the 24 hour operation."

Mr. Williamson explained that Pioneer Construction wants to work 24 hours a day on the project to finish it more quickly, which is why the homeowners affected were in favour of the proposal.

He added that council needed to comment as to whether they were okay with the proposal.

Council carried a motion stating that they had no concern with Pioneer Construction working 24 hours a day on the road project on Highway 540.

Automotive Materials Stewardship

Council reviewed a letter from Automotive Material Stewardship (AMS) about the start of the operation of an industry stewardship plan for the management of used oil filters, used oil containers, used antifreeze and its containers.

Mr. Williamson explained that Stewardship Ontario will no longer have any payment obligations to municipalities for the management of automotive materials and that it will now fall to AMS so the municipality needs to enter into an agreement with AMS in order to benefit.

Council carried a motion for the town to enter into an agreement with AMS.

Zoning amendment

Council reviewed a zoning bylaw amendment for 15 Worthington Street. The owner, Bryan Parkinson, wanted to change the use of his property from 75 percent residential to 100 percent residential.

Council carried a motion to amend the bylaw to allow Mr. Parkinson to make the entire building residential, noting that more seniors housing was needed in the community.

Terry Fox Run

Martha McClew, provincial director for the Terry Fox Foundation, sent a letter to council requesting that the town grant Terry Fox Run organizers permission to use town areas (Low Island Park) and to solicit donations from local merchants.

The Northeast Town council carried a motion granting Terry Fox organizers to use municipal lands for the run.

Harbour View Road parking

Anita Hull, a resident of Harbour View Road, wrote council regarding parking along the road during Manitoulin Country Fest.

"As a summer resident of Harbour View Road, I have just one concern regarding Country Fest," said Ms.

Hull. "There were many vehicles parked on Harbour View Road, making it into a one lane road. This is concerning if EMS, the fire department or police have to access any homes or cottages in that area."

Mr. Williamson said he had spoken with the organizers of Manitoulin Country Fest about solutions and that they were looking into options.

Council directed staff to continue to work with the organizers to rectify the problem.

New library board member

Council carried a motion to appoint Paula Hooper to the Little Current Library Board. In a letter to council, Ms. Hooper explained that she and her husband purchased a home and retired to Little Current in January 2016. She described herself as "an avid reader and life long learner who believes that public libraries play an essential role, particularly in smaller communities."

Financial reports

Town Treasurer Sheryl Wilkin reviewed the financial reports with council. For accounts receivable taxes, Ms. Wilkin reported that there were $349,401.30 in payments in August. She noted that the next tax installment is due September 29.

For accounts receivable water/sewer, Ms. Wilkin reported that there were $33,760.15 made in payments last month. She noted that there were 28 accounts over the $400 limit at the time of the report, six due to penalty applied for August; in five cases arrangements had been made; and 17 account holders would be receiving disconnection letters.

Ms. Wilkin said that staff had been calling the account holders and working with them to arrange payments and that she hoped the efforts would reduce the amount of disconnection letters that would need to be mailed out.

Law and Order

Manitoulin OPP Labour Day Weekend wrap-up

During the Labour Day long weekend, Ontario Provincial Police (OPP) officers throughout the province focused on highway enforcement. The four causal factors for injury and/or death on OPP patrolled roadways are speeding, distracted driving, aggressive driving and the failure to wear and properly wear a seatbelt.

Manitoulin OPP laid the following charges over the Labour Day Weekend: 56 speeding charges; two seatbelt charges; two distracted driving charges; four Off Road Vehicle Act Offences; and nine other Highway Traffic Act charges.

Additionally, the Manitoulin OPP proactively responded to 15 hours of Reduce Impaired Driving Everywhere (RIDE) Programs.

Former Island runner and Panther smashes course record!

Congratulations to Evan Bayer who during his time on Manitoulin was a dominant multi-sport athlete. He was an OFSAA runner and shut-out phenomena in the Nickel District League. Since moving to Calgary, Evan has become a nationally ranked cyclist as well as excelling now as an ultra-marathoner. This past weekend, Evan obliterated the course record at the National Championships 50K trail, crushing the course record by 30 some minutes at the Lost Soul Ultra. Way to go Evan!

Calling all hockey heroes

There are many heroes involved in Manitoulin Minor Hockey. The unsung people who sit on the MMHA executive, the managers, coaches, trainers and especially referee assignors are all worth their weight in gold. However, where would we be if we didn't have the on-ice officials to allow that puck to be dropped for every game? Each of Manitoulin's six, minor hockey association can use referees and linespeople. Young and old alike are most welcome.

A shout out to another former MMHA ref who has turned his experience here to give him a second career: Kenny Smith was a tireless official who skated mainly out of Little Current but is now reffing NOJHL games and works the lines at OHL games. Way to go, Ken. Please contact your local hockey executives to join this invaluable part of the game.

AAA Islanders rub up against future World Juniors?

Island hockey products Sam Assinewai, Carson Shawana and Liam Bridgeman and their AAA Nickel City Sons Minor Bantam squad travelled to Toronto on the weekend to play in the Toronto Redwing Earlybird Tournament. Hopes were high after the team captured the title two weeks ago in the Coffey Cup, but in this tourney the Sons were up against some of the best teams in the province. A tough draw saw them start against the Toronto Junior Canadiens, the No. 1 ranked provincially and the eventual tournament champs, then take on the No. 3 Toronto Titans, the 13th ranked Eastern Ontario Wild and No. 27 Waterloo Wolves. Managing a draw against the Titans, and a close but unlucky showing against the Wolves, the team had a taste of playing against opponents who play 12 months of the year. Ending with an, 0-3-1 record, the group, comprised of members of the Sudbury Wolves, NC Sons and Liam, from the Panthers, saw their team play and their cohesiveness really came together as the weekend progressed. Keep your heads up boys, great teams are forged in fire.

Terry Fox Run needs you!

Come on out to walk, wheel, ride or run on Sunday September 17 to participate in this year's Terry Fox Run at Low Island in Little Current. The official run start time is 1 pm, and registration tables will be open as of 12 noon. Pledge forms are available in many locations around the Island, or you can register, donate and invite supporters on-line at www.terryfox.org. Remember, don't be afraid to go out knocking on doors like in the old days! Everyone has great neighbours willing to help and even if you pledge just $1, you're a part of this important quest.

As in years' past, we have certificates, ribbons, and tattoos for all participants. We will also have a bake sale table, and Terry Fox T-shirts available at the run for just $20. Please participate on the 17th, or sponsor a family member, friend or neighbour. If you can't make it out that day, hop on line and you can donate directly to the Little Current Run Site. If anyone has questions, or if you are interested in entering a Team (workplace, family, or in tribute to a cancer survivor), please contact Joanna Rosenbaum at (705) 377-6244 or joanna.r@manitoulin-physiso.ca, or contact the Terry Fox Foundation directly though www.terryfox.org or 1(888) 836-9786.

High school volunteers take note: earn some hours on run day and leading up to the event. If anyone would like to contribute something delicious, (especially with chocolate!) to the bake sale, please contact Joanna at the number above.

Terry was famously quoted with, "I've said to people before that I'm going to do my very best to make it, I'm not going to give up. But I might not make it... if I don't, the Marathon of Hope better continue." So, let's come together and continue Terry's incredible legacy, every little bit helps.

Panther Points

Great news! The novice Panthers will be moving forward with a team for this season and practices have begun.

The Atom Panthers have had three exhibition games and have competed well in each. After losing 5-4 to the Atom Minor AA Sudbury Wolves in a close 5-4 battle last Monday, they rebounded nicely with strong 6-2 and 6-5 wins over a tough Copper Cliff Major Atom A team this past Sunday. The Atom Panthers will be heading South to Richmond Hill this coming weekend for an Atom Major A tournament.

The Pee wee Panthers are hitting the ice hard with Coach Hughson getting the team game ready.

The Bantam Panther team is shaping up nicely under Coach Campbell. He will be testing the team this Saturday in Copper Cliff in an exhibition game.

A great new tradition introduced this year was the Manitoulin Panthers 'Jersey Day'! They had rosters announced, jerseys distributed and some wise words by guest Reggie Leach.

Former Panther Greyson Case, now in his second year as a member of the Nickel City Jr Sons and now on their Minor Atom AA team, will be bringing home gold after his team beat the Vaughan Rangers 3-1 in the championship at the Vaughan Rangers AA Early Bird Tournament this past weekend. Congratulations, Grey!

Another former Panther fared well in another early bird tournament. Billy Biederman, now a member of the AAA Major Pee wee Sudbury Wolves club, had a fantastic showing at the Ottawa Senators AAA Shootout this past weekend with 2 goals and 3 assists in 4 games.

Killarney Mountain Lodge Fall Classic on September 24

KILLARNEY—A stunning scenic course newly sanctioned as a Class A road race by Athletics Ontario, the Killarney Mountain Lodge Fall Classic boasts both road and trail runs. Three races will get underway on the morning of Sunday, September 24 with a 5km, 10km, and 21.1 Half Marathon attracting a cross section of runners. Each race features plenty of road running with some gravel trails, and a course that's relatively flat with plenty of wildlife and magnificent fall colours on view.

Last year's winner of the Half Marathon, James Morgan, says he'll be back to defend his title. "It's such a treat to come to this part of the country for the beautiful scenery and wilderness, not to mention that running in the fall is a lot of fun." He adds, "I'm returning not only to keep the tradition alive and try and set another personal best time, but also because I love running and I love this event." Morgan ran the Half Marathon in 1 hour and 48 minutes and his goal is to beat that, "I hope I've trained enough to set another personal best. I plan to give it my best shot."

Organizers are also setting the table to ensure runners have the ideal diet both before and after the race. Athletes can look forward to carb loading the night before, when Killarney Mountain Lodge hosts a pasta buffet feast. General Manager Kelly McAree says it's also becoming a bit of a tradition, "We're excited to get the runners ready for race day by providing them with a pasta dinner ahead of the run, and once again our chef has planned a fish fry post-race to help them build back much needed protein after crossing the finish line. We're also hearing the Fall Classic is an event runners are flagging for their race calendars."

Information about the course routes will be posted on the Killarney Mountain Lodge Facebook page in advance. Registration is available via <https://www.events.runningroom.com/site/?raceId=14708>. The event is timed and bib numbers will be provided. The entry fee is $25, with proceeds going to The Children's Wish Foundation. Last year over $1,100 dollars was raised. The winner of the Half Marathon receives a sunset cruise on "Stormy Night" from Killarney Mountain Lodge.

The Half Marathon departs 8 am, the 10km run departs at 8:30 am while the 5km run departs at 9 am.

Ontario releases safe and sensible framework to manage federal legalization of cannabis

ONTARIO—In response to the federal government's plan to legalize cannabis by July 2018, Ontario is committing to a safe and sensible framework to govern the lawful use and retail of recreational cannabis as a carefully controlled substance within the province.

Yasir Naqvi, Attorney General, Charles Sousa, Minister of Finance and Eric Hoskins, Minister of Health and Long-Term Care, announced Friday that legislation will be introduced later this fall, following the conclusion of province-wide consultations. Ontario's approach to the legalization of cannabis will be informed by the province's experience in managing tobacco and alcohol as well as practical lessons of other jurisdictions that have recently legalized cannabis, a press release from the government explains.

Key elements include: The proposed minimum age to use, purchase and possess recreational cannabis in Ontario will be 19. The use of recreational cannabis will be prohibited in public places and workplaces; The LCBO will oversee the legal retail of cannabis in Ontario through new stand-alone cannabis stores and an online order service. This approach will ensure that there will be only one legal retail distributor for cannabis in Ontario and alcohol and cannabis are not sold alongside each other; Approximately 150 stand-alone stores will be opened by 2020, including 80 by July 1, 2019, servicing all regions of the province. Online distribution will be available across the province from July 2018 onward; Illicit cannabis dispensaries are not and will not be legal retailers. The province will pursue a coordinated and proactive enforcement strategy, working with municipalities, local police services, the OPP and the federal government to help shut down these illegal operations; and Ontario will prohibit individuals under the age of 19 from possessing or consuming recreational cannabis, which will allow police to confiscate small amounts of cannabis from young people. The province's approach to protecting youth will focus on prevention, diversion, and harm reduction without unnecessarily bringing them into contact with the justice system.

The province will support young people and vulnerable populations through the development of an integrated prevention and harm reduction approach that would promote awareness of cannabis-related health harms and help people make informed decisions about use. The approach will also include education, health and social service providers that work with, and educate, youth and young adults.

Decisions with respect to pricing and taxation will be made after further details are provided by the federal government. Final decisions will be informed by focusing on the objectives of discouraging consumption and eliminating the illegal market. In the lead up to federal legalization, to help ensure public awareness of this transition and the new measures that will take effect, the government will also undertake a public information campaign in coordination with the federal government.

Ontario intends to consult closely with municipalities, Indigenous communities, and stakeholders to determine additional details about the retail and distribution system.

Assiginack's Angry Antlers Vineyard eyes expansion

by Giselle Aiabens

MANITOWANING—A friend once told Rick Krasowski that it was impossible to grow grapes for wine-making on Manitoulin Island; he saw this as a challenge that he could not refuse and, along with his wife Justice Louise Serré and her parents, bought some land on Manitoulin and started a vineyard. Today that vineyard, located in the High Falls area of Highway 6, is known as the Angry Antlers Vineyard.

Rick Krasowski of Angry Antlers Vineyard speaks to a full house at the September meeting of the Assiginack Horticultural Society.

Last Wednesday the hobby winemaker was a guest speaker at the Assiginack Horticultural Society's monthly meeting. The Grade 7/8 Assiginack Public School teacher and grape grower was invited to share his knowledge of grape growing as well as the story of how he and his family got into the vineyard business.

In his presentation, Mr. Krasowski spoke of the research and preparation that went into starting a vineyard, including research into the effects of local temperatures and weather conditions on grapes as well as possible diseases. Research included watching the weather over a five-year span in order to get a good sense of what types of grapes would be best suited to the area. After this initial research, the family began experimenting with different grapes, including six whites and six reds. Four of the varieties grew well and some of the most successful results came from two reds, a Frontenac as well as a Sabrevois from the Minnesota area, which Mr. Krasowski explains ripens quicker and is characterized as being "extremely hardy and very sweet (grapes), which make an excellent wine."

The vineyard, which is in its tenth year, got its name from the phenomena of deer getting their antlers stuck in the wire fencing surrounding the grapes, which the deer would then rip out in an effort to get to the clover that was planted to help increase nitrogen levels. There are eight kilometres, or 5,000 vines over 48 rows and, according to Mr. Krasowski, can reasonably be expected to produce 12-20 tonnes of grapes, or in more relatable terms, 1,500 or more cases of wine. The vineyard, however, is not yet at the point where it's able to produce this much wine on its own but Mr. Krasowski expects that in the next phase they will acquire the equipment necessary for a small-scale winery so that they may produce wine that can be sold on premise. In the meantime, the owners are exploring the possibility of greenhouse grown grapes, growing a variety of fruit trees which they're keen to blend with their grapes to make new and interesting wines as well as experimentation with grafting in order to make new varieties of grapes.

It's a good thing Mr. Krasowski enjoys a challenge as there have been a number along the way and surely there will be more to come on his journey to being a wine producer, which he's clearly excited and passionate about. He's proud of the fact that the vineyard is a family-oriented organic vineyard and he's pleased to now be a full-time member of the community who calls Assiginack Township home.

The Assiginack Horticultural Society, which hosted the presentation, meets monthly on the first Wednesday of the month at Knox United Church in Manitowaning. The society is open to anyone interested in horticulture and welcomes new members to join them at any of their meetings. They are responsible for the flower gardens at the museum as well as the community flower barrels.

There were just over 20 Horticultural Society members at the presentation, many of whom mused that they weren't necessarily interested in growing their own wine grapes but had a fond appreciation for the end result!

that making this into a permanent entrance does not require a full traffic impact study."

In the spring of this year the Northeast Town, in partnership with the Escarpment Biosphere Conservancy (EBC), received a temporary permit for the new entrance off of Highway 540, conditional on the results of a traffic study.

Town CAO Dave Williamson reviewed the traffic brief with council at last week's meeting.

Mr. Williamson suggested that the town, with the EBC, expands the parking lots to accommodate 70 cars. He added that the municipality is currently seeking funding from FedNor and that the EBC has been seeking donations.

"I understand that lots of people are using it now, but there has been a lot of attention around it," said Councillor Laurie Cook. "In the future do you think that a 70 car parking lot will be needed?"

"It would be too bad if we expanded it to a 50 car parking lot and then we still had to make it bigger down the road," said Councillor Bill Koehler. "I would rather see it too big than cars flowing over onto the highway."

"This is the Island's prime attraction," added Councillor Dawn Orr. "We need to expand the parking lot to accommodate the busy time."

Councillor Cook asked if town staff could look into a parking ticket machine to help recoup the expense of expanding the parking lot.

Councillor Koehler suggested that the topic be brought up at the next Manitoulin Municipal Association (MMA) meeting as the Cup and Saucer benefits other municipalities on Manitoulin.

The Northeast Town council carried a motion to approve the report and that it be forwarded to the MTO. They also carried a motion to work with the EBC to expand the parking lot.

government to live up to what they allege are the government's obligations in the Ontario Superior Court. The court case opens in Thunder Bay, moving on to Sault Ste. Marie and is scheduled to be on Manitoulin Island October 23.

In an open letter to Prime Minister Justin Trudeau and Indigenous Affairs Minister Carolyn Bennett the chiefs take the government to task over the doublespeak disconnect between the feds feel good pronouncements and action on the ground.

"We are writing to express, in good faith but in no uncertain terms, our profound disappointment regarding the clear and complete disconnect between your government's enlightened words and hopeful statements and the actions of your government in dealing with our claim," write the chiefs on August 22, replying to a letter from the minister. "Your letter says: 'the Government of Canada places a high priority on renewing a nation-to-nation relationship with Indigenous peoples. We are committed to developing a partnership based on recognition of rights, respect and cooperation.' Yet, by its actions, your government is doing the exact opposite."

The chiefs challenge both the language and the tone of the government's representatives in the negotiations, as well as the substance of their position on the negotiations.

"Unfortunately, not only have your officials rejected our overtures at reconciliation, your lawyers are advancing arguments and evidence in the litigation that can only be described as outdated, obsolete, ethnocentric, adversarial and inflammatory," write the chiefs. "Needless to say, they reflect attitudes that are contrary to the Truth and Reconciliation Commission Report and the UN Declaration on the Rights of Indigenous Peoples."

"There seems to be a real disconnect between the legal people at the treasury office and the other departments of the government," suggested Wiikwemkoong Ojibwa Duke Peltier, one of the signatories of the letters.

According to the Anishinaabek claim, "the 'Ojibwe' agreed to share their lands and resources with the newcomers—approximately 35,700 square miles of territory. The treaty territory covers the lands north of Lake Huron from Penetanguishene to beyond Sault Ste. Marie, up to the height of land. The Robinson Superior Treaty, signed on September 7, 1850, covers lands north of Lake Superior, from North of Sault Ste. Marie to Thunder Bay. The Robinson Treaty territories have yielded vast amounts of revenues from forestry, mining and other resource development activities over the years, yet the annuities remain at a mere $4 per year."

Despite the obvious frustration evident in the chiefs' communications, they end their latest letter to the prime minister with an olive branch. "We can only hope that your words and Canada's announcement of its Principles Respecting the Government of Canada's Relationship with Indigenous Peoples and the need for a new litigation strategy will combine to cause Canada to negotiate, rather than to litigate, a resolution of our treaty annuities claim. Only in this way can reconciliation truly be reached."

...new Victims of Violence shelter

ful last January. We had identified a gap in service and a need to further assist families dealing with violence."

Wiikwemkoong community members, Island health care professionals and area dignitaries gathered last Wednesday in Wiikwemkoong to celebrate the official groundbreaking for a Wiikwemkoong shelter for victims of violence.

The ceremony began with an opening prayer from 12-year-old Brooklyn Pheasant, followed by an honour song by Roland Jacko and Stephen Peltier. Elder Robert Pheasant performed a blessing of the grounds and ancestors and led a pipe ceremony.

"This shelter has been a vision for this community for a long time," said Wiikwemkoong Chief Duke Peltier. "This project is truly a community effort."

Chief Peltier recognized the work and support Ms. Wabano and her staff, the Anishnabek Nation for lobbying on behalf of the community for the funding for the new shelter and Chief Isadore Day and the Chiefs of Ontario.

Ms. Wabano thanked everyone in attendance, stating, "without each and every one of you this wouldn't be happening."

"This is the first day, moving forward in a good way with support around us," said Ms. Wabano. "When people come knocking at the door (of the shelter) we will be able to welcome them and help children and families—give them a safe place and support them."

"I'm happy that I get to see that hard work come to fruition today," said Adrienne Peltier, social services director with the Union of Ontario Indians (UOI). "I'm pleased and honoured to be here."

"I'm happy to see that Wiikwemkoong got the funding and support for this new building," said Laureen Linklater-Pizzale, family well-being coordinator with the Anishnabek

Nation. "When a family is in crisis, they will now have a safe space."

Noojmowin Teg Health Centre Executive Director Pam Williamson spoke of the importance of culture for treatment and healing.

"I appreciate the advocacy from the First Nation leaders with the provincial government for this project and others," said Ms. Williamson. "There is a lot of opportunity right now and we need to capitalize on it."

Ms. Williamson noted that Noojmowin Teg is advocating for funding for forensic testing for victims of sexual assault and violence. "Right now victims have to travel to Sudbury for testing, but we would offer that locally," she said.

A letter was read from Algoma-Manitoulin MPP Michael Mantha who sent his regrets on not being able to attend the ceremony.

"Today on this very special occasion we join together in celebrating this groundbreaking, which marks the beginning of construction of the shelter for Victims of Violence," wrote Mr. Mantha. "Once constructed, this new shelter will stand as a beacon to this community, serving as a safe haven for those who seek emergency assistance, safety and protection when facing violence and abuse at the hands of another."

"Over the course of many years, I have seen violence in our community," said Elder Phyllis Williams. "I would do all that I could to help. This shelter will be a safe haven for those who wish to utilize it. We need to make a change in our lives for ourselves and those who are yet to be born."

The ceremony concluded with an honour song by Brandy Peltier and a ceremonial breaking of the ground, followed by a reception at the Wiikwemkoong Arena.

Work on the facility will begin shortly, with the project to be completed and accepting clients by the fall of 2018.

Assignack Council Notes

Burns Wharf reconsideration

Councillor Brenda Reid requested that council reconsider Resolution #211-15-17, being a resolution to submit a financial grant application to FedNor on behalf of the Burns Wharf Theatre Players (BWTP).

"After reading the applications, I saw inaccuracies so I ask that it be reconsidered," Councillor Reid said of the FedNor application.

Councillor Hugh Moggy said he understood that the application was currently being redone by the BWTP as a three-season facility, rather than four seasons as previously stated.

The resolution was repealed until the new application is reviewed.

A Deer Show well done

Councillor Leslie Fields commented on the success of the Manitoulin Deer Show held the last Sunday in August, noting the many new things on offer and the highly popular kids' wilderness challenge.

Mayor Paul Moffatt noted that the Deer Show was busier than ever.

"And it stayed full the whole time," Deer Show committee member Ron Cooper said.

Council thanked the Deer Show committee of Ron Cooper, Steve Wood, Lee Hayden and Mike Sprack for a job well done.

Fall Fair

Councillor Hugh Moggy reminded council of the 141st annual Manitowaning Fall Fair (held last weekend in Assignack). He spoke of the Agricultural Society's appreciativeness for the public works crew. Roads superintendent Ron Cooper also thanked the society for being so well organized and nice to work with.

Road resurfacing

The roads resurfacing crew will be tackling Assignack roads this week.

Accounts for payment

Council approved the following accounts for payment: general, $319,563.98; and payroll, $50,232.67.

Engineers invited

Council has invited Dan Moody, project manager from Tulloch Engineering, to review the public works garage/fire hall expansion project and Chris Cornell of EXP Services to further explain the Henley Boats building expansion review.

BMO lease renewal

Council passed Bylaw 17-

21 to renew its lease agreement with Bank of Montreal, ending October 31, 2020.

...seeks commentary on new curriculum, report cards

said. "If I recall, I have a CBC clip where I presented a motion to do just that (write the government to encourage a moratorium), our board chair stated, and I quote, 'This will not happen; not in my lifetime.'"

As for the new report cards, "been there, done that, several times," said Mr. Killens. "Parent involvement? Been there, not done that. I have as a trustee asked to be at parent/teacher interview nights to share with parents, and thus be accountable and obtain first hand concerns from parents about their student's education and I have been refused access to the school."

As for the new curriculum—"been there, constantly doing that and yet we still announce how we are failing our kids," he said. He pointed to mental health issues, which he characterized as "a hot button topic of huge proportions" as an example. "The Rainbow Board has made an effort with the limited resources they have, by hiring social workers and mental health workers," he said. "I think five in each area. How does that small number serve 13,000 students?" he asked.

But other voices are lauding the steps forward. "Students need a curriculum that focuses on building skills like problem solving and creative, critical thinking," said Bonnie Schmidt, president of Let's Talk Science and chair of the Canadian Leadership Taskforce on Education and Skills' Information and Communications Technology Council (ICTC). "We are pleased that the government is taking a proactive step by providing resources that will help students develop these essential skills and the characteristics needed to thrive in an increasingly interconnected world."

"People for Education is pleased that the Ministry of Education is moving toward a focus on the student competencies that are essential for success in school and life," confirmed Annie Kidder, executive director of People for Education. "Our work with Ontario educators, scholars and policy-makers over the past four years has shown how critical these areas are for student learning and success—from Kindergarten right through to Grade 12, post-secondary education and employment. Embedding these transferable skills in the curriculum and updating the way we report to parents represent an exciting opportunity for Ontario to take a leading role in the global movement toward broader goals for education and broader measures of success in our schools."

Business has also reacted well to the new approach to learning outlined in the announcement. "IBM Canada supports Ontario's work toward adding these transferable skill sets to the Kindergarten to Grade 12 curriculum," noted IBM Canada President Dino Trevisani. "As a leader in cloud and cognitive technologies, we aim to employ young people with these skills, paired with modern Science, Technology, Engineering, Arts and Math (STEAM) capabilities, to help us reshape this industry and create a better, brighter future for generations to come."

According to the announcement, Ontario's updated school curriculum "will be developed through the public consultations with the goal of improving student achievement in core skills such as math and increasing emphasis on transferable life skills that can help students of all ages meet the changing demands of today and tomorrow. Communication, problem-solving, critical thinking, creativity and global citizenship are skills that will help Ontario students thrive as they grow up in a changing, interconnected world. Beginning next school year, new report cards will better track a young person's development of these essential and transferable life skills."

By consulting with students, parents, teachers and other partners, the province hopes to help students take full advantage of their education experience, notes the announcement. The plan is to accomplish that goal with a new curriculum that "better engages every aspect of a young person's interests and potential." The new curriculum also aims to "place an increased emphasis on equity and well-being, including the effects that physical activity, bullying and mental health can have on student success in and out of the classroom; update provincial assessment and reporting practices, including EQAO, to make sure they are culturally relevant, measure a wider range of learning and better reflect student well-being and equity; and enhance parents' access to information about how their children are doing in school."

RDSB Director of Education Norm Blaseg said that the RDSB has "nothing to share. The ministry has not shared any details with boards." Boards of Education, it appears, were caught off-guard by the announcement. Mr. Blaseg said that he remains hopeful that "the ministry will head the advice of boards before they make any dramatic changes."

Mr. Killens has a theory: "An election is around the corner and any promise, any predictions, any new ideas," he said, prompt him to ask "Why now? Why not two and three years ago? I would encourage specifically those two persons, the premier and the minister to fix and put in place what you have now."

The public consultation on student assessment will be conducted by the premier and the minister of education's six education advisors led by Dr. Carol Campbell. Those advisors include two new advisors Dr. Carl James, Jean Augustine chair in Education, Community and Diaspora, Faculty of Education at York University; Kahontakwas Diane Longboat, senior project manager guiding directions implementation at the Centre for Addiction and Mental Health, as well as a ceremonial leader, educator, teacher of Indigenous spiritual ways and healer; and four current advisors who have been reappointed for an 18-month term. Those four are Dr. Campbell, associate professor of Leadership and Educational Change at the Ontario Institute for Studies in Education at the University of Toronto (OISE), Dr. Jean Clinton, clinical professor in the Department of Psychiatry and Behavioural Neurosciences at McMaster University; Dr. Michael Fullan, professor emeritus and former dean of the OISE at the University of Toronto; and Dr. Andy Hargreaves, the Thomas More Brennan Chair in the Lynch School of Education at Boston College.

building a consensus on a consistent approach to the field on an international level. "There are unique needs in different areas," noted Mr. Rose. "The eventual goal is to see a professional designation like you have for chartered accountants."

As for the economic development field as a career path, Mr. Rose said that it is immensely rewarding on many different levels and the demand in the field is strong. "I think it is an exceptional career path," he said. "Every good sized municipality has an economic development officer."

Mr. Rose notes that there is not a great understanding of the field amongst youth, something he would like to see change in the near term. "We need to get more youth involved," he said. "There is so much that is interesting in the field. It involves strategic thinking and planning, you have to have a good understanding of taxes and be able to look ahead to chart a course for your organization that will improve the economic opportunities in your community."

The EDAC assists economic development professionals through course offerings, networking, certification and scholarships.

On a personal level Mr.

Rose admits the past year has been somewhat challenging, what with being the relatively new owner of one of Georgian Bay's premier marina operations and family obligations, he has a lot of balls in the air to keep an eye on. "It's been a lot of work, but that is something I thrive on," he laughed.

Stop wasting over 1 billion dollars yearly on public funding of separate schools. Support one public non-denominational two-language school system.

Separate schools receive most of their funding from general provincial revenues, not from residential property taxes, but separate schools can legally discriminate against non-Catholic teachers and other staff.

Reduce required busing and save money and student time on buses: community schools for communities. Ontario could stop funding separate schools, as Quebec did in 1997, but the Ontario government refuses.

...Manitowaning's John Caselton builds aquaculture research facility

 ture operations seemed to always be looking for quality fingerlings with which to stock their cages.

Setting out to discover everything he could about the industry Mr. Caselton quickly discovered a lot of people in the industry keep their own research close to the chest. "It's a very competitive industry," he noted. But he soon also discovered that fish farming is definitely an industry with a bright future.

"We import a huge amount of the fish we eat," he noted, which might come as quite a surprise when one considers the significant part of the Canadian economy that fishing and aquaculture plays. In 2015, the aquaculture industry generated over $1 billion in GDP, generating close to $3 billion in total economic activity and approximately 72,000 Canadians make their living directly from fishing and fishing-related activities.

Ergonomically fish makes huge sense as the feed conversion rates are exceedingly positive. Fish tend to have a feed conversion rate (FCR) ranging from almost one-to-one to one-and-a-half-to-one.

Chicken is at least 1.8 to one while pigs are 2.63 to one and lamb is a whopping 6.30 to one and cattle just slightly less at 6 to one. That means that for every six pounds of food consumed by a cattle beast it gains one pound. One to one is pretty attractive on a relative scale.

Mr. Caselton took The Expositor on a tour of his operation recently. He noted that contamination is one of the most dangerous issues faced by aquaculture operations. One of the first things that strikes an observer upon entering the Caselton Aquaculture tankhouse is that it is spotlessly clean. "Biohazards are something you are always on the alert for," he said.

The other major concern for aquaculture operations is escapees. Being located in a closed system on land rather than an open-water cage culture that issue is clearly not an issue—fish don't tend to walk away.

There are two large stainless steel tanks in the tankhouse. Mr. Caselton lifts the lid on the first to reveal a swirling school of fish. "These are wild trout," he explains. "That is why they are different sizes." Unlike the fish that are generally used in rainbow trout or other aquaculture operations, wild trout don't tend to grow at a uniform rate. But these trout serve another, might one even suggest sinister, purpose—they serve as the canaries in the fish pond.

"These are Ganaraska rainbow, they are very, very sensitive and tremendously difficult to raise," said Mr. Caselton, who purchased the stock from the Ministry of Natural Resources and Forestry (MNR). The Ganaraska River is near Port Hope.

The sensitivity of these particular wild trout makes them just about perfect for

Mr. Caselton's testing purposes. In another tank a school of brook trout swim languorously around. He is hoping to utilize these particular fish as breeding stock.

Outside of the tank house, many meters away, are three outdoor ponds with a total of about 10 million gallons of water between them that Mr. Caselton has built under the close eye of the MNRF. The first feeds into his warned that you could not drill for water," he said. "For about a hundred years the family who farmed here had to truck in their water. I didn't want to do that. Now I draw my drinking water from these ponds, treat it with filters and ultraviolet systems and it is great water." Mr. Caselton certainly looks healthy enough. "It hasn't done me any harm," he laughs.

Mr. Caselton warns that the fish will probably be

Probably for good reason, they are among the most popular of eating fish. "They actually have thicker fillets than walleye," he said.

Casting a small handful of slow sinking feed pellets out in the water, we are soon rewarded with the sight of some respectable-sized bass. "Those are the little ones, they tend to be a little more hungry," he said.

"There are six and seven pounders that come up in the morning. They don't move very fast."

Mr. Caselton might be mistaken for a paranoid militiaman, given the number of closed circuit television cameras that festoon his property, including the tanks, bottoms of the fish ponds and trails around the property. "No," he laughs. "I just like to stay on top of things." Best not to try and slip in to cast a line or two when you don't think he is watching. He always is.

The aquaculturist pulls a cell phone from his pocket and taps a few codes in. Soon we are watching the fish in the tankhouse making their rounds of the tank, a tap or two more, and the fish in the ponds fill the screen, another tap, the tankhouse, at the voluminous rate of about .5 litres a minute (that's to feed a 4,000-litre tank system).

The water in each of the tanks swirls at a very carefully set rate. "Too slow and the fish become aggressive, too fast and they become too lean," he explains. "It's called the teacup effect." The effect is produced through the agency of a radial flow system.

Water from the tanks flow gently into a series of tanks designed by Mr. Caselton to hold KL media, a biofilter material that looks much like a wagonwheel pasta, tanks to remove solids from the water (fish poop and leftover feed) and tanks to deoxygenate the water and remove carbon dioxide.

On a nearby table sits a series of chemical bottles, most of which would be familiar to any serious home aquarium enthusiast. Mr. Caselton regularly tests for ammonia, nitrates, nitrites, dissolved oxygen, water temperature and pH.

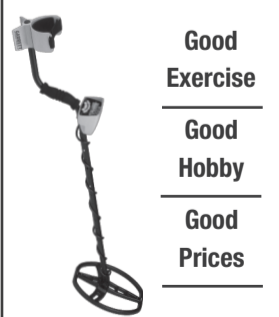

Travelling out to the back 40, we stop at the two furthest ponds that stretch out to a treeline several hundred metres away.

"When I first moved here to the farm I was reluctant to put in an appearance, but in the ponds live literally thousands of smallmouth bass. "When I come out here early in the morning to feed them they are used to me and come pretty quickly," he said. It is late afternoon. "With the two of us here they may not come. They are very, very cautious."

Island youth discovers passion for teaching during trip to Cambodia

by Robin Burrige
CAMBODIA—Hanna Hutchinson of Sandfield has recently returned from a life-changing volunteer trip to Cambodia.

The Expositor caught up with the 18-year-old in between classes at her first week at the University of Ottawa where she is studying biology.

"I knew I wanted to volunteer this past summer and I thought it would be a good experience to do it abroad," Hanna explained. "I started looking online and found STAR Kampuchea, a Cambodian non-profit and NPO (non-partisan organization); they connect individuals volunteers with organizations, schools etc. I wanted to teach, so they connected me with a school."

Hanna left for Cambodia on July 1, settling in in the capital city of Phnom Penh for her four-week stay.

"I lived in the STAR Kampuchea house along with 40 other volunteers and taught at a school privately funded by Austrians called CBF (Children for Better Future)," she said. "I was assigned a life skills class for 13- to 17-year-olds. They were mostly fluent in English so I primarily taught them science."

"It was amazing connecting with the students," shared Hanna. "My one class was only eight students so I got to really know them. Most of them were living alone or without family as they attended school

Hanna Hutchinson at Angkor Wat, the biggest and most famous temple in Cambodia, built around 120 BC.

When Hanna wasn't teaching, she spent the weekends getting to know the other volunteers in the STAR house and sightseeing.

"The other volunteers were from all over the world," she said. "It was incredible and I made a lot of new friends that I'm staying in touch with."

Prior to her experience in Cambodia, Hanna was certain she wanted to become a doctor, but now she is reconsidering her future.

"Cambodia made me realize that maybe I want to be a science teacher instead," said Hanna. "It opened my eyes to a whole world of opportunity."

Although Hanna's busy course load will keep her occupied this fall, she is hoping to start a fundraising campaign for Children for Better Future.

"They are in need of more resources and I want to do all that I can to help," said Hanna. "I will be setting up something soon, but if people want to contact me for more information I can be reached through Facebook or email at hzhutchinson@gmail.com."

Please check www.ontariocourts.ca/ocj/jpaac/advertisements for an updated listing of advertised vacancies.

At the request of the Attorney General and in accordance with the Justices of the Peace Act, the Justices of the Peace Appointments Advisory Committee invites applications for vacant Justice of the Peace positions in the Province of Ontario.

A Justice of the Peace is an independent judicial officer who presides in court over various proceedings under federal and provincial statutes. Applicants must meet minimum qualifications as set out in the Justices of the Peace Act.

The Justices of the Peace Appointments Advisory Committee reviews and evaluates applications and classifies candidates as "Not Qualified", "Qualified" or "Highly Qualified". Classifications are reported to the Attorney General, who recommends candidates for Order-in-Council appointments to the Ontario Court of Justice.

In addition to reflecting the diversity of Ontario's population, applicants should also display the fundamental skills and abilities, personal characteristics and community awareness attributes set out in the Committee's General Selection Criteria.

Bilingual positions require a high degree of proficiency in English as well as a superior level of oral and written proficiency in French. As First Nations people comprise a large percentage of the population in the areas being serviced by the court in Timmins*, we especially encourage people of Indigenous heritage and people with an in-depth understanding of Indigenous communities and the issues affecting those communities to apply for this vacancy.

For detailed information about the vacancies noted above, minimum qualifications and the General Selection Criteria, the required application form, and the Committee's process, please visit the website of the Justices of the Peace Appointments Advisory Committee at www.ontariocourts.ca/ocj/jpaac.

Applications for current vacancies must be submitted on the current prescribed application form and received by 4:30 p.m. on Wednesday, October 11, 2017. Applications received after this date WILL NOT be considered.

PLEASE NOTE: Future vacancies and deadlines for applications will be posted on the Committee's website as they occur. Interested individuals can receive e-mail notification of vacancies by registering at www.ontariocourts.ca/ocj/jpaac/advertisements/registration.

...Manitowaning's John Caselton builds aquaculture research facility

feeder stations pop into view, again and we witness the sunlight dappling the clearing by Mr. Caselton's tree stand.

Almost entirely self taught, Mr. Caselton has become one of the most knowledgeable piscine scholars in the North. "It's a matter of focus," he explains.

His MNRF licence lists every single fish species that can be raised in Ontario. Mr. Caselton has networked with bass operations in New York that export tens of thousands of bass into the province, but his gaze is fixed much closer to home. "It's a matter of numbers," he explained. "Do I want to raise bass and ship them hundreds of kilometers south, or raise rainbow fingerlings that local operators tell me they will take as many as I can produce."

It's a balancing act indeed—bass at six dollars a pound on the hoof or fingerlings at a dollar an inch.

There are thousands of smallmouth bass being reared at the Caselton Aquaculture site.

"I plan to make money at this," smiles Mr. Caselton. "A lot of money."

Judging by his intense passion and the seriousness with which he conducts his research it is easy to believe he is right.

A long set of floater tanks lie at the entrance to the parking lot. They are scavenged from a local aquaculture operation, but Mr. Caselton sees energy savings. "Energy and feed are the two expenses," he notes. The floater tanks will be used to create a spillway that will make working with the fish a lot less energy intensive. As for the tankhouse, "these tanks will all be coming out next year," he said, now that he has the science for various species worked out its time to ramp up to a more commercially viable operation. "There will be much larger ones going in."

At the edges of his ponds lie swathes of bulrushes, a natural filtration system, and the ponds' overflow drifts into a hayfield. It's an environmentally sound operation, and small wonder, as Mr. Caselton had to have an environmental impact assessment conducted before he could proceed with square one.

As for those bass? "I am thinking I might be going ice fishing for a hundred thousand pounds of bass," he grins. Now that will be something to see.

...works go globetrotting

piece of mine has been accepted. I was floored to win two awards for surface design for my piece 'Soft Summer Gone.' The exhibition opened in May in Athens, Ohio and came down early September. It's next location is the Foundry Art Centre in St. Charles, Montana. It will tour until 2021."

This summer Ms. Martin has been busy creating seven new pieces for a solo exhibition in Toronto in October at the David Kaye Gallery.

"The Cloud in Me' is all brand new work," said Ms. Martin. "It is about connecting to the inner world—the feeling you get when you are outside and the immensity you feel as you look out over the horizon. It also explores the idea of healing. Most of the pieces began with being wrecked and healed—exploring reparation—taking care of your self, your body, your spirit and the viewer."

"The Cloud in Me' runs at the David Kaye Gallery from Monday, October 2 to Sunday, October 29. The opening is being held on Saturday, October 7 at 2 pm.

"I am very pleased to be having this exhibit in Toronto," Ms. Martin commented. "It is my first solo exhibition in Toronto in a commercial space. I'm a little un-nerved about it all and have been working very hard at the new hand stitched pieces, none of them are small."

Ms. Martin said she is thrilled that her work has been selected for these global exhibitions and for the opportunity for her own exhibition in Toronto.

"I've been working hard for a long time and it is nice to get this recognition," she shared. "And I'm able to stay here, home, and still able to reach people with my work. It's amazing."

Death Notices

HELEN KATHERINE (NEE ZACHARIAS) ORR

December 4, 1926 - August 3, 2017.

Born in Herbert, Saskatchewan and daughter to Katherine Friesen and Martin Zacharias.

A musician and an analyst and activist of all things political, Mom lived a full and vigorous 90 years. A career including Red Cross educator, public school teacher, music teacher, a lover of the arts, a mother and a wife.

Predeceased by her husband of 62 years John Alvin Orr, her daughter-in-law Adriana Orr (James Orr), her son Thomas Orr (Mary Keates), sisters Margaret, Judy, Esther and Norma and brothers Len, Herb and John, Mom had a keen awareness and stamina necessary to live and die well. Mom had a sharp mind and honed a deep understanding of human behaviour and relationships. She knew the power of engagement. She understood the impact one person has in the casting of their vote.

Mom was curious and adventuresome. She saw possibilities and created fresh realities. She was independent and a master of adaption.

Continuing some of mom's traditions and honouring her innovative flare in both thought and design are her remaining children; John Orr (Linda), Mary Orr (Michael O'Rourke), Patricia Orr (Ray Allan) and James Orr and seven grandchildren (Emily, Sarah, Michael, Vanessa, Euan, Andrew, Berton) and many great-grandchildren along with sister Anne and brother Raymond (Deidre), and extended family and friends.

Honour our mother by daring to vote in the next election and in loving the art form - listen to music, dance, imagine through theatre, tune into opera or ballet, open to visual art, celebrate your voice, and inspire the person next to you to bring their forgotten instrument back to life.

In lieu of flowers it was our mother's wish that monetary donations be made to: Christ Church Cathedral School (Victoria, British Columbia): Chorister Stream.

A service will be held at Christ Church Cathedral, Victoria, British Columbia on November 4, 2017 at 2:30 pm.

Celebration of Life

NEIL (SID) WRIGHT

Remember Sid. Edna would like to invite Sid Wright's family and friends to gather at the Barrie Island Community Hall on Saturday, September 16, 2017 between 2 pm and 4 pm to celebrate the life of Neil Arthur (Sid) following a family ceremony at Mills Cemetery.

Memorial donations are gratefully appreciated and can be made at the admitting office to the auxiliaries of the Manitoulin Health Centre and the Renovation Fund in both Mindemoya and Little Current and the Gore Bay Manitoulin Lodge Auxiliary Incorporated, 3 Main Street, Gore Bay, Ontario, P0P 1H0 and the Manitoulin Centennial Manor Auxiliary, Postal Bag 460, 10 Robinson Street, Little Current, Ontario, P0P 1K0. #### WILLIAM (BILL) ALDRICH RAMSAY

February 13, 1932 - September 2, 2017

William (Bill) Aldrich Ramsay passed away peacefully in Toronto on Saturday, September 2, 2017 in his 85th year. Loving husband of 57 years of Barbara (nee Morgan). Beloved father of Heather (Greg) of Manitoulin Island and Elaine (Tom) of Toronto. Proud grandfather of Michael, Matthew, Madeleine and Lauren. Survived by his brother Peter (Anne) and nieces Cris (Richard) and Jen (Bryan). Predeceased by his parents Archie and Margaret (Aldrich) Ramsay. Bill was educated at Ryerson University where he graduated with a Printing and Management Diploma in 1952. He was a long-time employee of both Howarth and Smith Ltd. and Sears Canada. Bill was an avid historian and a long-time member of the North Toronto Historical Society. Bill always kept everyone laughing with his sharp wit and clever one-liners. His friendly smile and wave from the front porch will be remembered by all his neighbours. He loved spending summers on Manitoulin Island, with his family nearby, floating around the bay in his rubber dingy. If desired, donations in memory of Bill can be made to the Alzheimer's Society of Canada. Online condolences may be made at www.trullfuneralsyong.com.

MARION KATHELINE DEBASSIGE

In loving memory of Marion Katheline Debassige who passed away at McLaren Greater Lansing, Michigan on Thursday, September 7, 2017 at the age of 75. Born to Josette (nee Toulouse) and Lazare Debassige in Excelsior on December 19, 1941. Beloved wife of Douglas Debassige. Loving mother of Will, Ronald and Kelly. Loving sister of Mike Debassige (Winnie "Pam" predeceased) of M'Chigeeng, Margaret Manitowabi (predeceased), Julie Debassige of Toronto, Lewis Debassige of M'Chigeeng and Christine and Robert McGregor of Toronto. Also survived by sister-in-law Bessie Debassige (Peter predeceased) and brother-in-law Bill Simmers (Martha predeceased). Will always be remembered by many nieces, nephews and friends. Friends and relatives called at Saswaahns Spiritual Centre, 44 Tikmeg Road, M'Chigeeng after 3 pm on Monday, September 11, 2017. Funeral Mass was held at 11:30 am on Wednesday, September 13, 2017 at Immaculate Conception Church. Interment in M'Chigeeng Cemetery. Arrangements entrusted to Island Funeral Home, Little Current.

Debaj featured in TVO documentary highlighting unique communities

by Michael Erskine
 TORONTO—There are a lot of things that make Manitoulin Island stand out as a unique and diverse community, but when a natural oral history project documentary team cast about the Island for something that really highlights Manitoulin, they didn't have to look very far past Manitowaning and the jewel that is the Debajehmujig Storytellers.

The Tale of a Town documentary on Debajehmujig Storytellers features illustrations of Debaj's cast and crew, like Audrey Wemigwans, seen above.

The Tale of a Town documentary producers had approached TVO with a concept to bring some of the stories they had been recording about Ontario communities onto the small screen and what developed was a 10-part short video series that visited big cities and small towns across Ontario to uncover what makes each of those places unique. The documentaries “step inside iconic community landmarks and meet the people who breathe life into local culture.”

From Corsini's in Hamilton to the historic Regent Theatre in Picton, TVO viewers were offered the opportunity to discover the stories that make those main streets and communities special. The documentaries blend “playful animation with real voices and archival images to tell local tales.”

Main Street Ontario filmmaker Charles Kechabaw related how the project's mobile recording studio travelled across Ontario documenting those stories. After interviewing Manitoulin Publishing's Rick McCutcheon in 2012, Mr. Kechabaw and his team struck gold when Mr. McCutcheon described Debajehmujig and its own creation story as a potential subject. The rest is, well, oral history.

The series was well-situated on the TVO schedule, opening up for The Agenda. “It was a great lead-in for us,” said Mr. Kechabaw.

As to the subject matter, Mr. Kechabaw was effusive in his description of the Debaj crew. “Ron (Berti), Joe (Osawabine), Bruce (Noakwegijig) were wonderful people to speak with,” he said. “We were so lucky to be able to put together this story and highlight this organization.”

The documentary project was more than just a job for the production team whose passion for their work was clearly evident as the conversation unfolded. “We want to inspire people to head back to downtown and remember why main street matters, how supporting small business can make a big difference in a community and what local pride really means to Canadians,” said Mr. Kechabaw.

He explained the motivation that drives that passion. “The Tale of a Town is a vehicle for public engagement and audience development, connecting people with their past through our innovative approach to the gathering and retelling of stories that has received critical acclaim for its high artistic merit and social relevance.”

“Across Canada, countless main streets, along with the stories they hold, are in the midst of disappearance as old gives way to new, local gives way to global, diversity gives way to uniformity and life gives way to death,” he said. “It is our hope that The Tale of a Town will save these ‘almost lost stories’ that reveal our past and inspire a bright future for our main streets in Canada.” The Tale of a Town—Canada is created and produced by FIXT POINT, a not-for-profit theatre and media company based in Toronto with a mandate to “inspire audiences to imagine change.”

FIXT POINT in turn is led by the husband and wife duo of Mr. Ketchabaw (managing director) and Lisa Marie DiLiberto (artistic director).

The video segment featuring Debaj can be viewed at tvo.org/video/programs/main-street-ontario/manitoulin-island.

But Mr. Ketchabaw suggests that folks go even further. “People should go and engage with Debajehmu-jig,” he said. “Go to their Creation Centre and check out what they are doing there.”

As for The Tale of the Town project and its investigation of the stories behind Ontario's vast and diverse communities, the project continues on.

“Our storygathering work will continue into 2017 and beyond with The Living Archive, a future-facing project that builds upon The Tale of a Town while expanding its scope,” said Mr. Ketchabaw. “The Living Archive is a multi-platform project designed specifically to mark Canada's 150th anniversary that will travel Highway 11, Canada's longest road, actively engaging with thousands of Canadians and celebrating our diversity. As we define what “community” means to us in 2017 and articulate our visions for the future for our communities, this participatory initiative will strive to give voice to how, together, we can create a more inclusive Canada in the future.”

The 141st Manitowaning Fall Fair drew a great crop of participants and onlookers

photos by Michael Erskine

This year's theme is displayed in carved wood glory. Winner of the dinner cruise for two on the Chi-Cheemaun was Margit Alberti and the winner of the 50/50 draw was Joan Beard of Tehkummah.

Horses love a parade.

You can't get much more Manitoulin than this.

It was a purrfectly fine afternoon for some pet petting.

The 4H Club members were out in force on Saturday, washing their calf-charges in readiness for judging.

Who you calling antique? A feisty Horticultural Society member Hugh Moggy admitted he was happy to sit the parade out in style after spending the day before getting the arena ready. Those concrete floors can be murder.

Whacky vegetable critters were on display in the exhibit hall.

Teamster Greg Pyette won the heavy horse pull competition. His team below can be seen pulling hard for the win.

The 4H Club float was rocking it Canada 150 style during the parade.

Assignack firefighter Cole Bowerman offers up a hot dog while waiting for the parade.

Three generations of horse pull champions. Katie Pyette Cyr and her daughter Timber are joined by dad Greg Pyette to accept Katie's light horse pull win.

The trio of Eugene Manitowabi, Robbie Shawana and Maurice Labelle entertained an appreciative crowd on Saturday afternoon.

After a summer full of recreation, road trips and relaxation, the Manitoulin Mustangs are back at school. MSS is welcoming more than one new teacher to the school this year: Ms. Becks and Ms. Cheng.

With the start of school come extracurricular opportunities. The girls' basketball, boys' volleyball, x-country and golf teams have already started tryouts for the upcoming season. The Rainbow Rights Gay-Straight Alliance had their first meeting on Friday, September 9 to start planning their year.

SHARE/Go Green is planning a trip to WE Day Toronto on September 28. The group will leave MSS on September 27 and drive down to Toronto. WE Day is a full day of speakers and performers, focused on empowering and inspiring youth. Participating schools and groups earn tickets by helping in their local or global communities. In the past year, SHARE has raised $6,500 towards the five pillars of community development in Kenya, collected over 2000 batteries to divert waste and raise money for UNICEF, collected hundreds of canned goods for the Manitoulin Food bank, organized Valentines for the whole student body, spearheaded the $500 donation to Oxfam for Famine Relief, coordinated the Sacred Circle program, and Give Where We Live workshop, contributed $1,000 to the Manitoulin Family Resources, along with many other successful events. The SHARE group travelling to WE Day this year is hosting a fundraiser bake sale on Friday, September 15.

On September 21, Kenjegin Teg Educational Institute is hosting the annual Fall Harvest. This event will be held at the M'Chigeeng powwow grounds. The Fall Harvest gives attendees the opportunity to gain cultural knowledge about fall harvesting activities through traditional learning, a cooperative learning space, and the use of traditional healing tactics. Many MSS students and teachers will participate in this event.

On September 14, staff and students will participate in Stand Up Against Bullying Day. The halls of MSS will be full of pink in support of victims of bullying. Stand Up Against Bullying Day began in Nova Scotia where secondary school students Travis Price and David Shepherd arranged for dozens of their classmates to wear pink shirts in support of another student who had been bullied for wearing pink. The province of Nova Scotia declared subsequently declared the second Thursday at the start of every school year to be Stand Up Against Bullying Day.

The Students' Council is accepting applications for grade reps until Thursday, September 14. The grade reps help Students' Council make the year memorable and help out around the school.

With this busy start to the school year the Manitoulin Mustangs are set up for success in studies, sports and other school groups. 'Til next time, stay golden, Mustangs.

OSCIA Soil Champion Nominations

OSCIA is heading into its fifth year with the Soil Champion Award and we are hoping for another good response from the membership to maintain the great profile this award deserves. The deadline for submitting nominations for the 2018 Soil Champion has been extended to November 1, 2017. That should be sufficient time for you to consider someone in your area. To be eligible for the Soil Champion Award, an individual must be a resident of Ontario and/or have contributed to soil management in a way that improves soil health, and supports sustainable crop production and is environmentally friendly. Practices that may be considered include: Minimal use of tillage – primary tillage is not eligible; Protect and enhance organic matter, soil biota and soil aggregation; Efficient and careful use of nutrients; Effective surface water management; Windbreaks and land retirement; the advancement of science and advocacy for soil care. Do you know a farmer, researcher or extension professional that would be a strong candidate? We urge you to consider making a nomination. An individual may nominate him/herself or be nominated by a third party. If you are nominating someone else, please ensure he/she is informed of your intention and is a willing participant. Details and the nomination form can be found on the OSCIA website www.ontariosoilcrop.org

Jean's Walk Part II

When the Mindemoya War Memorial Community Centre opened in 1952, the inspector announced, "There is nothing like it in the province!" On Sunday, August 27, this unique building was featured in a historical walk of the east portion of King St. led by volunteer guide Pat Costigan (third from the right) for the Central Manitoulin Historical Society. The walk was entitled 'Jean's Walk: An Historical Walking Tour Part II.' The community centre's unique design was the creation of John Kelly, an architect who was also a summer resident on Manitoulin. Among its features is a roof extending 18 feet over the back wall, for the comfort of spectators watching baseball games from the bleachers behind the building. The 24 people on the tour would agree that Ms. Costigan brings history to life. But for people who missed the tours this year, or who are just curious about Mindemoya's beginnings, Ms. Costigan and Norma Hughson, also a volunteer, prepared two booklets for the Central Manitoulin Historical Society describing the buildings on both Jean's Walk Part I and Part II.

Batman's Cottages and Campground owners Andre (far left) and Lisa Deschamps present Batman's founder Ralph Batman with a street sign in honour of the couple renaming the campground's main street 'Ralph Batman Blvd.'

Batman's Cottages and Campground founder honoured with street naming

by Robin Burrige

SHEGUIANDAH—Batman's Cottages and Campgrounds in Sheguiandah has paid homage to the campground's founder Ralph Batman, renaming the park's Main Street 'Ralph Batman Blvd.'

"Ralph Batman started Batman's," explained Lisa Deschamps, who purchased Batman's 10 years ago with her husband Andre. "He created this whole park and we thought it was fitting to honour him—without Ralph this wouldn't have existed."

Mr. Deschamps explained that Mr. Batman started the campground back in 1967, designing it with larger, more private sites than other parks.

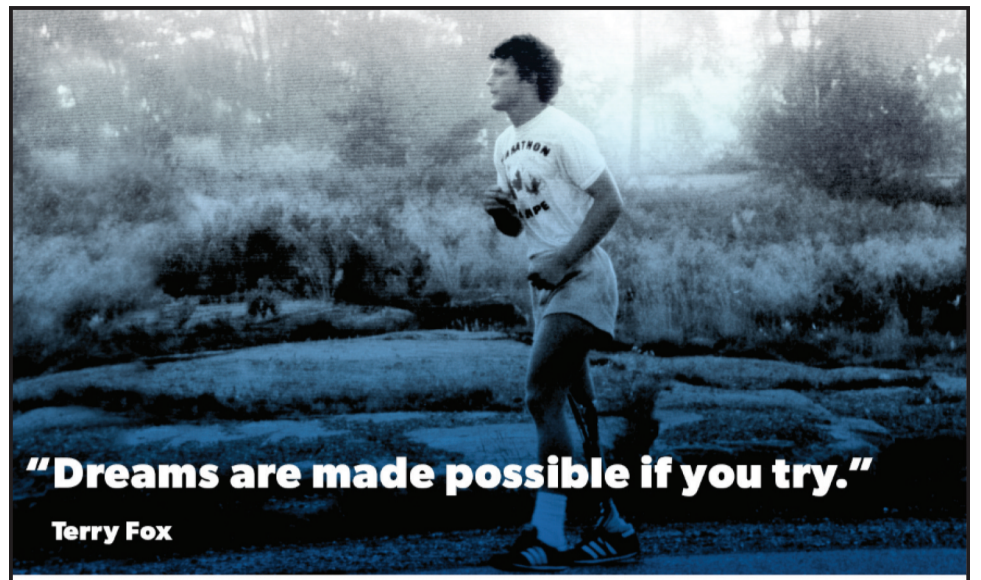

"We are also celebrating our 10th year this year too, so we wanted to do something special to honour the park's founder," said Mr. Deschamps.

A special dinner was held to mark the street renaming at the park, but Mr. Batman was under the weather and unable to attend so the Deschamps presented the street sign to Mr. Batman last week.

"I was very surprised," Mr. Batman told The Expositor after he learned of the street renaming. "It was very nice of them to do that."

"I built the campground 50 years ago," continued Mr. Batman. "I thought it would be neat and a good business idea. I ran the park with my family. I built it so guests would have privacy and it was quite popular. We had a lot of interesting people come to stay over the years."

Tehkummah Talk and Times

What could be a better passtime than cloud watching or sky watching? Billowing grey, pillowing white and cream with pink and blue accents. I stopped at the little swimming beach at South Baymouth and got double with the gorgeous reflection. South Baymouth had its streets rolled up at 7 anyway. Can't believe the season is gone, when I can't recall it ever getting here, though we did watch the late ferry much this year. Last night saw the last late one, a bit more traffic than usual going back.

Cal and I helped celebrate Tara and Ray's 13th wedding anniversary. Marg prepared the dinner, and mid-cooking had to take it to Sherry's to cook when hydro interrupted our power service. That darn thunder storm. Just Sherry, Dave and Skylar too, roast turkey dinner, sure was good!

Marg is gone home to Elliot Lake today (Tuesday) and Mum has beat me 4 games, skunked me by 1 point, and I won one today!

Mum's lemon pie, well it looked like it, when I was playing cards with her. I brought it to her attention. Well, it was in a glass pie plate, it was a corncob with crumpled serviettes on top that sure looked like meringue and good enough to eat. (She asked if I wanted some!)

Tuesday morning got a phone call from Irwin and Orpha Duxbury who are celebrating their 70th wedding anniversary on the 11th. They have already had a party at the Legion in Espanola. This is a tea at their residence. Congratulations, folks. Irwin and his boys actually built half?? of Tehkummah.

This week is Jacob's birthday and Tory's.

Cribbage Wednesday afternoon: high hand, Cal and Dorothy C, 24; first, Ted and Ruth McD, 953; second, Barb L and Heather, 947; third, Ruth and Bill McG, 936; low, Marg and Buck, 848; door, Barb, Dorothy A, Lina. Lori and Rick received their 968 card framed, from quite some time ago, the perfect game score. Thank you for the lunch goodies, all.

After a nap, I took in the Sandfield Euchre: ladies high, Marion H, 77; lone hands, Melissa, 3; low, Florence; men's high, Raymond, 76; lone hands, Dave M, 3; low, Sandra; draw, Shirley Nelder. Good lunch, Melissa and Sheila?

Mum looks all-beautiful tonight. She got her hair done today, and tomorrow, Friday, she's off to Sudbury with Susan for a needle in the eye again.

Cal stopped by for lunch, good timing, since I don't usually eat on schedule?

Bid euchre results, 6 tables: high score, Glen Knechtal, 260; tied, Dave Nelder and Pat Ball, 238; fourth, Janet Knechtal, 209; low, Joshua, he won a planter, as well; door prize, Glenn; Bev and Richard on K.P. duty, good lunch. Jeff and Brooke were in to visit Mum on Monday, heading home again. Brooke spent the week with Grammy (Susan), took in some riding, too, at Honora Bay.

Cal and his brother Lyle went to Sudbury Friday, doctor appointment for Cal.

I took in the market. Do I seem special to you? I was gifted a lovely pair of earrings, thanks so much, and later in the day at South Baymouth a magnetic bracelet. Thank you very much. This evening as Cal and I drove home from Mindemoya we saw the mist, amazing egg shaped moon, black clouds with orange streaks through them. We do live in a breathtaking world! By the way, Gib and Cal won most of the cribbage games, just not our night. Today, chatting with Vivian Pennie in town (Manitowaning); she's always got a smile. Hello George! She said they had Ren's daughter Lisa and hubby visit them after how so many years?

The water in the bay is black looking, could be clouds reflected. The hummingbirds have cleared out. Hope those storms and winds haven't been too much for them. A little flycatcher outside my bedroom window was unrolling lilac leaves and finding delicious snacks I'm sure. How interesting to watch it.

He brought me home by the scenic route, though in the dark moon and shadows a deer like a statue (thank goodness) and in the middle of the road, small raccoon. It hurried!

I had the most amazing day, and besides that this day was the most summery (we might get it yet). Cal and I drove down and had a visit with Sherry after supper. Earlier after church, I took in the "Heritage Day" at the Little Schoolhouse Museum. Going through some of the binders/photos on display. Sat in the sun and had a good burger and all the extras provided by SBDC. Sat on the bench and watched the ferry sail out on very smooth waters with lots of diamonds dancing. All summer I have been wanting to walk the boardwalk, and out to Bernard's little gazebo and the little bridge and lookout near the lighthouse, perfect day for it. I/we noted the exceptionally clear bottom in the harbour. Shouldn't there be some plant life/growth? Saw two small fish, one about 2 1/2" long and one smaller. Shouldn't there be lots of small stuff/frogs? Did see a mink and a crane/heron, first heron I've seen this year. They are scarce anymore. This small boat was docking; they had been to Tobermory. Found out it was Skylar's teacher Rebecca Batman and her one year old Elly, I think? Did I remember? And Brian Mc or O'Neil? Seemed to be quite a trip, but they couldn't have had a more perfect day for it. It is always good to visit, did lots today.

Saturday I took in the Mindemoya market in the morning. Lori was the entertainer of the day. It is a large market, lots of vendors, crafty folk, and creative. Nice to visit too. Came home with goodies from niece Mary McGauley and Jan McQuay's new calendar. I had my favourite chicken burger at the Chill and Grill, a pretty new waitress there. I was going to go to Manitowaning's Fair, but visited at Mum's with her and Pauline, and time ran out. I can't keep up anymore.

Providence Bay News and Notes

The Lake Huron Fish and Chips have closed their doors for the season. The community will sure miss the convenience of having a local restaurant for those days when you just don't feel like cooking. We look forward to their fare next summer.

The Manitoulin Ride Motorcycle Rally has completed all bookkeeping related to their annual fundraiser held the third weekend of July every year. This year they were able to donate $4,000 to the Alzheimer's Society which has committed to have all monies raised stay on Manitoulin Island. They presented a cheque to the Alzheimer's Society repre-

The last 5 years I have had a barter system in place with my brother-in-law Ron. Ron will grow me tomato plants, all heirloom, and give me directions on how each will grow, taste and colour. I in return will bake him my sourdough, whole grain, seedy bread that you can use as a weapon (that's how heavy it is). We are both grinning when we make the exchange.

Every year when I plant the tomatoes I say to myself, "remember—stake them and prune them." With good intentions I do so at the start of the summer, then as the rest of the gardening season is upon me the tomato plants are left to fend for themselves. The last 2 weeks I have been checking and noticed I have some huge pink ones and an over abundance of cherry tomatoes that are bursting with flavour. Now I need to cook with them!!!!

Tomato Salad with Feta, Olives and Mint

This salad is so easy and tasty and you get to use the cherry and large tomatoes. Do use the Kalamata olives—not the ones in the can that are thinly sliced, I can't remember what kind they are but to me they ruin pizzas and Greek salads. You can substitute the feta with goat or fresh mozzarella cheese.

6 ounces feta cheese
1/4 cup chopped fresh mint
4 large ripe tomatoes, cut into 1/4-inch slices
Sea salt
1/2 pound cucumber, peeled, seeded, and cut into small dice
1/2 pound bite-size tomatoes (cherry, pear, grape) in assorted colors, halved
1/2 cup Kalamata olives (about 15), pitted and halved
1/4 olive oil
1/2 tsp grated lemon zest
4 teaspoons fresh lemon juice
Freshly ground black pepper

1. Crumble the feta into a small bowl, add the chopped mint and toss; set aside

2. Season the tomato slices with salt and then arrange them, overlapping slightly, on a serving platter. Sprinkle the cucumber over the tomato slices. Season the cherry tomatoes with salt and scatter them over the cucumber. Sprinkle the olives on top.

3. In a small bowl, whisk together the olive oil, lemon zest, and lemon juice. Season to taste with salt and pepper. Drizzle the vinaigrette over the salad.

4. To serve, scatter the feta over the salad, garnish with mint sprigs, and serve immediately.

Potato, Tomato, and Sausage Panfry

This is a very simple dish. Choose a good sausage with lots of flavour. Don't have sausage use boneless chicken breasts or thighs. Use a deep skillet or it will overflow onto your stove top.

2 large potatoes, sliced
1 tbsp sunflower seed oil
4 large sausages
1 red onion, cut into 8
1 Tbsp tomato paste
2/3 cup red wine
2/3 cup plum tomatoes
2 large tomatoes, cut into 8
1 cup broccoli flowerets
4 Tbsp chopped fresh basil
Salt and pepper
Thinly sliced fresh basil for garnish

1. Cook the sliced potatoes in a saucepan of boiling water for 7 minutes. Drain thoroughly and set aside.

2. Heat oil in a large skillet and add the sausages and cook for 5 minutes. Turn the sausages so they are brown on all sides.

3. Add the onion pieces to the pan and cook for 5 minutes stirring frequently.

4. Stir in the tomato paste, red wine, and the plum tomatoes and mix together. Add the tomato wedges, broccoli flowerets, and chopped basil to the panfry and mix carefully.

5. Add the parboiled potato slices to the pan. Cook the mixture for about 10 minutes making sure the sausages are completely cooked through. Season to taste with salt and pepper.

6. Garnish the panfry with fresh basil and serve hot.

sentatives at a meeting held on September 6, 2017. They are looking for anyone interested in volunteering on the planning committee for next year's run which will be held July 13 and 14. Meetings are held at 7 pm on the first Wednesday of each month at the Mindemoya Community Centre. Gary and Doug McFarlane were home for a visit from Sault Ste. Marie on the weekend. It's sure nice to see them home.

Happy belated Anniversary wishes go out to Trevor and Ingrid Blay who celebrated 10 years together on September 8.

The Community of Christ Church held their Manitoulin Journey of Faith celebratory weekend with teachings, singalongs, history, speakers and worship services held. What a great weekend for it.

We continue to send out well wishes to Pat Young on her continued improvements and pray for a full recovery for her. We're thinking about you, Pat.

Happy Birthday wishes go out to Jackie Patterson who celebrates on September 14.

It's that time of year again. We won the annual Manitoulin Expositor Harvest Glory Days contest last year so we really need to step up our game this year if we hope to win this year's competition. It's time to decorate your home, yard, street and community. Let's show how much community spirit we have going on.

If there is anything that you would like to contribute to The Providence Bay News and Notes, we'd love to hear from you. Please let us know of any upcoming birthdays, anniversaries, or events. You can email prov_chick@hotmail.com or call Cheryl at 705-862-1613. All submissions are required by 3 pm on the Sunday before each Wednesday publication of the paper. Have a great week everyone.
